NAZIS PROTEST 'FLAG INSULT'

VETERANS OF '61 CHEERY LOT ON EVE OF MEETING

Vanguard of G. A. R. Averages 91.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Some of the most whimsical, cheerful, vivid and philosophical old gentlemen in the United States came trooping into Michigan's great furniture city today for the 69th national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic which begins tomorrow and will last until Thursday afternoon.

They numbered about a hundred and are the vanguard of veterans who will be arriving hour by hour on Sunday and Monday.

The veterans' vanguard came from as far west as Idaho and as far east as Virginia.

The Virginia comrade is an ex-slave. He is now in his 90s and his name is Grandy. He says he feels as fine as his name.

Average Age Is 91.

Nobody in the vanguard is younger than 86. Their average age is 91 and the marvel of them is that they are tirelessly cheerful about themselves and their future. They talk about their aches and ailments but they don't surrender to them. They talk about death with equanimity and with laughter and when I asked a group of them this evening what they thought of the proposed unfurling of the confederate flag at the big rally on Gettysburg battlefield in 1938 their spokesman—Comrade John S. Thorn from Boise City, Idaho, who fought with the 47th Illinois regiment, Company H, replied:

"Son, I'm 87 and most of these old fellows around me are worse off than that. They're 90 and more. So we should worry a lot what is going to happen at Gettysburg three years from now. Somebody else may be doing the worrying for all of us by 1938."

Death! Death! Death!

Yes, the G. A. R. is a fast dying organization but any youngling who thinks of the comrades now in Grand Rapids as moribund ought to be ashamed of himself.

They won't pamper themselves and they hate to be pampered. Everybody responsible for their comfort is praying for warm weather because the old fellows won't bring overcoats.

Half Plan to March.

Fully half the octogenarians and nonagenarians now here say they will march in the great parade next Wednesday morning. But the length of the march has been arranged with an eye to their comfort rather than their pride. It will be only eight blocks long and downhill all the way. Monroe street is the route.

Judge Advocate James W. Willett of Tama, Ia., who will be 90 next March and who is the only sailor ever to have been national commander of the G. A. R., blew up this afternoon.

"Now, judge," said Chester Shafer of the encampment press staf, "let me drag you over to a photographer because all the newspapers want your picture."

"Drag me," barked the judge—who looks for all the world like Admiral Farragut when the truculent warrior said, "Damn the torpedoes!" in Mobile bay—"drag me! What do you mean—drag me? I don't have to be dragged. But I will 'go' with you."

Quizzed on Confederate Flag.

When the air cleared I asked, "What is your feeling, judge, about the display of the confederate flag at Gettysburg?"

"Now about that," he replied, "I made that kind of a gesture of reconciliation and reunion to the confederate veterans when I was national commander more than a dozen years ago and they told the Union boys, whose commander I then was, to go to hell. They said it in good, honest English.

"And since certain veterans of the confederacy now say they won't take part in the Gettysburg reunion unless

ITALY SET FOR NEW 'INCIDENT,' GENEVA HEARS

Rumor Says Border Clash Due Soon.

Italy Recalls Consuls

ROME—Pope Pius pleads that Italy's "needs" in Ethiopia be satisfied "with justice and peace" in an address to war veterans. Page 7.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 7.—This week-end may prove the most critical period of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, THE TRIBUNE was reliably informed tonight.

There is serious apprehension in some quarters here that Premier Mussolini may strike at once—meaning today, tomorrow, or early next week.

If he does not strike now, it is believed there is reason to hope he will eventually come to an agreement with the league of nations council for settlement of the dispute—provided Emperor Haile Selassie can be persuaded to accept the league proposals.

Rumor of Impending Clash.

THE TRIBUNE is informed that the intelligence service of one of the powers interested in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict has reason to suspect that a serious border incident between Ethiopian tribesmen and Italian troops may occur on the Eritrean front in the next few days.

In fact, the same source, with somewhat less certainty, heard today had been set as the "zero hour" for the offensive of the Italian expeditionary force against the Ethiopian hordes.

This does not mean necessarily that hostilities will actually commence. There is no way of knowing but that Mussolini may have been already bribed or bluffed into countermanding his orders. In any event, the moment is considered here as crucial and if it passes without any overt act on the part of Italy, league circles think the danger of immediate aggression will be past and Mussolini will at least hold his fire until the league of nations assembly disbands around the end of the month, thus giving the league machinery ample time to function.

"Incident" Easy to Arrange.

Needless to say, if the border incident which is feared actually does occur, it has been carefully planned for some time. In a semi-civilized country like Ethiopia, with the frontier ill-defined, it is never difficult to arrange such incidents when desired.

If hostilities do break out in the near future, it does not mean that Mussolini is planning to defy the league or England, though he would obviously be taking a big gamble. The gamble may not be quite so reckless as it seems at first glance.

As yet no formal accusation of aggression has been made against the Italians. The league has never directly ordered them to halt military preparations in Africa, and, despite all Mussolini's bluster, the Italian delegation here is conforming to the letter of the league covenant, if not its spirit.

Aggression Hard to Prove.

If hostilities break out while the council is in session, the league would have no jurisdical grounds for taking sanctions [penalties] against Italy unless it can be established at once that she was guilty of unprovoked aggression. That is always a very difficult thing to establish, especially if the border incident presented as aggression by the other side is used as a pretext for military reprisals.

The league procedure in this case would take place under the cumbersome article 15, which allowed the Japanese time to gobble up Manchuria while the league was debating what to do about it.

In this case the general hostility of league members to Italy and the arrogant behavior of the Italian delegation here probably would insure a more expeditious handling, but with little undercover support from the French, the proceedings could be dragged out long enough to enable the Italians to gain that initial victory which Mussolini considers essential to his prestige.

Once that is achieved, the advance of the Italian army could be halted

Good Practice for Grid Fans; Study Amharic

LONDON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—How is your amharic [pronounced ahm-hair-ick]?

With names and places in Ethiopia becoming more important daily, language experts at the Ethiopian legation today gave American reporters a short course in how to handle tongue twisters for the benefit of readers at home.

It was chiefly revealed as a matter of confidence in one's own ability, plus the faculty of developing sharp hissing sounds such as are familiar to collegians accustomed to giving the skyrocket yell.

In some cases, furthermore, it appeared to be only the spelling that frightened. To pronounce Ualual, the frontier oasis, for example, it is only necessary to look one's casualest and repeat, "well, well," without fear or hesitation.

How to Pronounce Addis Ababa.

The Ethiopian capital becomes Ahdees [accent second syllable] Ah-bahbah [accent first syllable]. The first part is pronounced leisurely, the second as though you were going some place in a hurry.

The emperor's name, to be pronounced correctly, must be High-leh Sil-loss-see [accent first syllables, respectively].

The hissing sounds characteristic of amharic are at their best in such names as Lake Tsana, which begins like a sharp, explosive hiss and merges quickly into a concluding Sah-nah [accent first syllable].

To pronounce Jigjigga it is only necessary to attain the proper mental balance and say Gee-gee-gah [accent second syllable].

Here Are Some Others.

Other cities and provinces which are already prominent in Tigre province [pronounced Tig-ray, accent on the first] are:

Daggah Bur, pronounced Deer-gah Burr.

Magdala, pronounced Mack-dollah.

Wollo province, pronounced Well-low, accent first.

TWELVE YEAR LIGHT IS EXTINGUISHED AS SON RETURNS HOME

Landisburg, Pa., Sept. 7.—[U. P.]—The small light that flickered for 12 years in the window of the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Weller, symbol of a mother's hope that her missing son would return, was extinguished tonight.

The darkened window signified that the son, Amos, who vanished in 1923, had been found.

Mrs. Weller had never relinquished hope that her son would return. Each night at dusk, she placed the light in the window. Many a night she awoke, thinking she heard unusual noises about the house, and called through an open window:

"Is that you, Amos?"

But the reply she hoped to hear never came.

Yesterday, a Red Cross nurse brought word to the home that the son had been located at Portland, Ore., a victim of amnesia. His mind as to events prior to 1923 was a blank. A checkup showed the man had served in the marine corps and it was through government fingerprints and photographs that his identity was established.

But the mother was not here to receive the glad news. She died about six years ago. Her husband, however, had kept up the practice of a light at the window.

ROBBERY GIVES ADDED THRILL TO WEDDING PARTY

Two uninvited guests who attended the wedding party of Mr. and Mrs. David A. Kennedy in the Auditorium hotel gave the 150 who had been regularly invited quite a thrill early today.

One of the 150, Nicholas Willer of 3637 North Irving avenue, was set upon by two men who had mingled in the celebration when he went into a washroom on the mezzanine floor. They beat and otherwise mistreated him and robbed him of $53.

When the pair left the washroom Willer followed them. The regular guests were just leaving the dining room that was the scene of the party and Willer's shouts attracted their attention. A dozen men leaped on the two robbers and after slugging them thoroughly held them for the police.

At the Central station the robbers said they are Frank Budasi, 23 years old, and his stepbrother, P. D. Delmar, 23 years old, both of 1927 Emerson street.

Mr. Kennedy and his bride, the former Miss Josephine Haase, were married yesterday morning in Our Lady of Sorrows church. The party began last night and edged over into the morning hours.

Conservative or a Radical? Here's a Test

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A measuring rod you can apply to yourself to learn whether you are at heart a radical or a conservative, Red or reactionary, was described to the American Psychological association here today by Dr. Theodore F. Lentz of Washington university, St. Louis.

It comprises several hundred selected and "weighted" questions.

You May Be Radical.

"Yes" to such as these shows your tendency is radical.

1—Alimony for divorced husbands is as logical as alimony for divorced wives.

2—The world needs a new religion.

3—It was within the power of the diplomats of 1900 to 1912 to prevent the world war.

4—Something more effective than our present brooms and mops and vacuum cleaners should be devised to clean our homes.

5—One-fifth of the public school budget could well be spent in educating parents to educate their children.

How to Pick a Conservative.

Conservative, if you answer yes to these:

1—It is bad for a married man to take another man's wife to the movies.

2—Billy Sunday has done much to make religion a vital force in our lives.

3—Not all international disputes should be settled by arbitration.

4—Women in general are not as intelligent as men.

580 Students Tested.

The testing method was tried on 580 college students. With full statistical analysis, the experimenter found that it shows radicalism and conservatism are matters of degree rather than kind.

Also that it is very difficult to devise a measurement which does not unduly influence the findings in these human problems.

The four day meeting of the psychologists closed at noon today.

An idea of the currents of war and anti-war and radicalism running on college campuses was given by E. Lowell Kelly of the Connecticut State college.

The effects of an anti-war meeting on the campus, he said, extended widely beyond those who attended. The meeting caused the participants to become slightly more anti-war than before.

Meeting Widely Discussed.

But those who did not attend the meeting afterward were somewhat less against war. The meeting, he explained, received much discussion about the campus.

These findings were based only on students whose opinions it was possible to measure carefully three times; first before the anti-war meeting, second, at the time of the meeting, and third, some time afterward. The split showed in the third measurement.

All these students were opposed to war on general principles, and the measurements showed either mildness or violence of this opposition.

Between the sexes Dr. Kelly found no essential difference on the war issue. On other subjects, the men were somewhat more opposed than the women to both Socialism and communism.

Asks Police to Get a Cab; He Then Robs Driver

Dixon, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—A well dressed man appealed to police here early this morning to find a taxicab to take him to the Dixon State hospital two miles north of here. Obliging officers located Jack Wilson, manager of a local cab line and escorted the stranger into the cab. As Wilson drove by the city limits, his "fare" produced a revolver and robbed the cab driver of $6.

NEW YORK JUDGE AROUSES WRATH IN BREMEN CASE

Charge of "Piracy" Upsets Berlin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Germany today protested formally to the United States because a New York municipal judge yesterday likened the Nazi swastika to "the black flag of piracy," and called the Hitler régime "a revolt against civilization."

AMBASSADOR LUTHER.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

Acting under orders rushed from Berlin, Ambassador Hans Luther called personally on Secretary of State Cordell Hull and protested orally against the remarks made yesterday by Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky. Brodsky dismissed charges against five of six persons arrested for ripping the Nazi flag from the liner Bremen and tossing it into New York harbor on July 26.

Seek Official Account.

Secretary Hull informed Ambassador Luther that the federal government was requesting Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York to transmit an official account of the Brodsky remarks. Conforming to the diplomatic custom of recognizing only official reports, Hull simply promised Luther "to ascertain the true facts through the government of the state of New York," according to one attaché.

Magistrate Brodsky's characterization of the Nazi state as "an atavistic throwback to pre-medieval, if not barbaric, social and political conditions" touched off an immediate explosion in Berlin and in German official circles here.

Critics of the magistrate, said they did not mind dismissal of the defendants as much as they do his justification, in a written opinion, of their action, on the ground that the display of the flag carried, in their minds, "the same sinister implications of a pirate ship, sailing defiantly into the harbor of a nation, one of whose ships it had just scuttled, with the black flag of piracy proudly flying aloft."

Object to "Challenge" Implication.

They object particularly to the following language of the magistrate:

"In a large sense, indeed, it might seem as though whatever disturbances attended the sailing of the Bremen were provoked by this flaunting of an emblem to those who regarded it as a defiant challenge to society."

Upon orders received here early this morning from the ministry of propaganda in Berlin, Ambassador Luther junked plans for a vacation at a seashore resort, assembled his advisers at the embassy for a conference and requested an audience with Secretary Hull.

Arriving at the state department shortly after noon, Ambassador Luther was kept waiting in the diplomatic reception room for several minutes and then ushered into the office of Secretary Hull, where he delivered an oral protest against language used by a municipal judge over whom the federal government has no control.

Unable to punish Magistrate Brodsky, even if he wished to do so, Secretary Hull could only intimate to the judge through Gov. Lehman that an apology would be in order. This is the most that the state department can do to mollify Germany, observers believe.

Incident Draws Objection.

Today's protest was the second Germany has made as a result of the "insult" to the Nazi emblem in New York on July 26. The Nazis protested immediately after the incident occurred and were told by Acting Secretary William Phillips that, although he was sorry the flag had not been treated with respect the officials of the North German Lloyd Lines had ignored a warning from New York police that displaying of the flag might cause trouble.

Magistrate Brodsky took this same view yesterday when he dismissed charges of unlawful assemblage brought against five alleged communists arrested for the Bremen riot. A sixth man, accused of striking a New

German Adherents Indignant.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—News that the German government was protesting to the state department at Washington against the anti-Nazi strictures voiced by Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky in his dismissal of the Bremen riot charges were received with satisfaction in pro-Hitler German circles here today. The magistrate's remarks among which was the designation of the liner Bremen as "a pirate ship" caused great indignation among adherents of the German government.

GERMAN PRESS BITTER

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—"Storm of Indignation Throughout Germany Over Insult to Swastika—Shameless Sentence in New York—Judge Brodsky Besmirches Swastika Flag—New York Judge Challenges Germany—Outrageous Insult to German Flag—Honor of America in Jeopardy."

These were among the headlines with which the German press is stirring the anger of the people over the New York court's acquittal of the men who tore the swastika flag from the liner Bremen on July 26.

Papers Report Protest.

The German protest to Washington was reported in later afternoon papers while tomorrow's papers unanimously declare that the "New York sentence reflects on the whole American nation whose honor is at stake."

"It is hard," says the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, "to speak of the matter in words fit to be read by decent people. The American government should have no illusions about the indigation raging in Germany. The German government has protested and the German people expect immediate satisfaction. The country in which the judge may refer to the German flag as a pirate flag must realize this endangers international relations but that also there is something decidedly wrong with its own internal affairs."

Fear for Relations.

"What would the American people and government say if a German judge referred to the Stars and Stripes as a flag of gangsters," queried the Lokal Anzeiger. Other newspapers asserted that Brodsky is "pouring oil on the bolshevik fire flaming in America."

The National Zeitung warns that unless Washington takes prompt action, "the friendly relations of the United States and Germany will suffer a regrettable setback. The New York sentence, even if Washington rescinds it, reflects sadly on the American people."

"The dirt of the American judge does not even reach the sole of our shoes," writes the Boersen Zeitung. Judge Brodsky was described by the entire German press either as a hyphenated American, an eastern immigrant or "a Jew who is a tool of dark Jewish bolshevik powers."

4 NEW YORKERS DEMAND POLAND END WAR ON JEWS

LONDON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Four New Yorkers took the lead today in demanding that the Polish government call off what they termed the anti-Semitic drive it now is tolerating.

The Americans participated in the first world conference of 19 federations of communities of Polish Jews outside Poland, which met to devise methods to "ease the social, economic, and political plight" of their 3,500,000 brethren in Poland.

A resolution urging extension to all countries of a boycott on German goods was also introduced by the American delegation, which is composed of Benjamin Winter, Samuel G. Domash, Abraham H. Kandel, and Z. Tygel. They are officers of the Federation of Polish Jews of America.

CZECH TROOPS RUSH TO BORDER IN POLISH CLASH

Minority Group Raids Schoolhouses.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Czech-Polish jealousy simmered today as troops stood guard against a fresh outbreak in the vicinity of the Polish city of Cieszyn.

Presence of the troops was made necessary when Polish nationalists, who form a preponderance of the population in certain sections, drove through a number of communities on a mission of wreckage.

The marauders broke windows and furniture and paid special attention to the demolition of school houses. Police arrested 12 men as ringleaders in the attack, but said many more unknown to them participated in the raid.

Demand Protection.

After the incident a Czech deputation came to Prague to demand protection from the Poles. At their request, 800 foot soldiers, composing the Eighth regiment of the army, were sent to the southwestern city and quartered in vacant factories.

Artillery was sent to Mistek and Friedek, nearby, with orders to proceed as circumstances dictated in preventing further disturbances. Altogether, more than 1,000 soldiers patroled the Czech-Polish border in this section.

Resist Language Drive.

Resistance of Polish residents to efforts to impose the Czech language upon them was one of the principal causes of the flareup.

Meetings scheduled for tomorrow by the Sudeten German party were banned by Czech government officials on account of other troubles with minority groups over languages. Still other meetings announced for today and tomorrow near Pilsen were canceled.

A "demonstration of faith" was decided upon by the "Society of Germany" to arrange "speech boundaries" in western sections of Czechoslovakia, where there are many German speaking residents.

HITLER'S ARMY WINS PRAISE OF FOREIGN EXPERTS

Strength Is Revealed in Vast War Games.

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Reichswehr [regular army] officers expressed satisfaction with and foreign military observers voiced admiration tonight of Germany's large scale maneuvers involving an estimated 200,000 soldiers in ten corps areas.

One foreign observer, who has witnessed similar "games" in many parts of the world, said the exercises disclosed steady progress in the Reichswehr's chief problem, the training of officers, but also showed that Nazidom is not ready for war.

"The maneuvers demonstrated the training of young soldiers has been astoundingly good," he said. "It is almost a miracle.

Officers Are Developed.

"Under the Versailles treaty Germany was allowed 4,000 officers, but for an army of 500,000, a total of 25,000 officers are required. Developing them is the army's main task—more important than heavy artillery, airplanes, or munitions. I was struck by evidences that Germany is going ahead, calmly, methodically, and unfeverishly, building an army for the future."

Army leaders from Adolf Hitler to lieutenants showed they were pleased with the demonstrations, which were concerned with technical questions like meeting attacks, protection of marching columns, crossing rivers, night operations, and defense against tanks and armored cars.

Der Fuehrer was represented as elated at the showing of the recruits. The morale of the young troops was called splendid; their physique excellent, and their intelligence and enthusiasm were rated high.

Kaiser's Army Superior.

Imformed observers said, however, the new army still has a long way to go to equal the old Reichswehr. Officers are being developed from Reichswehr noncommissioned officers and reserve lieutenants from the age of 40 to 45 and the cadet school is expanding.

The observer dispelled the idea the German army is merely a machine.

"There is a sense of responsibility in all ranks because of the training that under changing conditions a soldier must act according to the spirit, not always necessarily the letter, of his superior's order," he said. "This is a thinking organization. Initiative goes amazingly far down the line."

Among the equipment used in the maneuvers are 10-centimeter and 15-centimeter guns, tanks, armored cars, motorcycle corps, and other motorized units, on which the greatest stress is placed, because Germany seeks a mobile army.

Fifteen thousand troops paraded in the maneuvers near Muenster today. Hitler reviewed the mock war of the Sixth army corps.

HITLER FINISHES NAZIFICATION OF GERMAN STAGE

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Dissolution of four theatrical organizations and formation of a substitute "Professional Stage league" to complete Nazification of the German stage was announced effective today. The joint action was taken by Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels, minister of propaganda; Alfred Frauenfeld, leader of the Reich Theater chamber, and Hans Hinkel, new Nazi dictator of non-Aryan art.

The organizations dissolved were the Association of German Stage Workers, the German Stage society, the German Chorus Singers' league, and the Dance league. The action was announced as a "great unification of all cultural groups on the German stage," necessitated by the interests of the Nazi movement. Hinkel said that only true Nazis could belong to the new organization.

The Stage Workers' association was founded in 1871 by the famous non-Aryan actor, Ludwig Barnay.

Girl Secretary at German Consulate Seized in Austria

KLAGENFURT, Austria, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A girl secretary of the German consulate here was arrested today charged with transmitting plans of the Austrian Nazi movement to Germany with the consulate's diplomatic mail.

NEW CATHOLIC BISHOP ENTHRONED IN BERLIN; NAZIS BOYCOTT RITE

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Nazi officials—state and national—were absent today when Count Conrad von Preysing-Lichtenegg-Moos was enthroned as Roman Catholic bishop of Berlin.

Hans Kerrl, deputy in charge of religious affairs, declined to attend a dinner in the bishop's honor at the Episcopal residence. A spokesman for the bishop said the reason was that "a pastoral letter was read from the pulpit last Sunday."

Vicar-General Steinmann in the sermon praised the strong faith of the Berlin congregation and said: "We are and remain Catholics, but just as we are unshakeable in faith, so are we loyal to our beloved fatherland."

FRANCE'S ARMY ON WHEELS IS FOUND COSTLY

RETHEL, France, Sept. 7.—(AP)—France's modernized army on wheels was found swift and strong but costly today by Col. Jean Fabry, minister of war, in maneuvers over old battlefields.

"The result was very satisfactory," said the minister, "but the increase in modern equipment makes the organization of national defense more delicate each day. Motorized groups would be great consumers of arms and munitions. Replenishment of their supplies imposes a complex problem on the battlefield and a most arduous problem of manufacture and upkeep for the country under arms."

These problems, Col. Fabry said, would be handled by the newly created arms manufacturing supervisory board.

President Albert Lebrun, motoring over the old battlefields, watched the mock infantry attack along the Aisne river by soldiers in gas masks as the first of the autumn maneuvers ended.

TWO PLANES IN FLYING CIRCUS COLLIDE; 3 KILLED

LONDON, Sept. 7.—A formation flight of five planes belonging to Sir Alan Cobham's flying circus ended in tragedy at Blackpool today when two of the machines collided in midair. One, piloted by Capt. Stewart, formerly of the Canadian air force, broke in two and crashed to earth. The pilot and two girl passengers, believed to have been sisters, were killed.

Thousands on holiday excursions witnessed the collision.

It is believed that an "air lift" was responsible for the crash.

About the same time 20 of the fastest planes in Britain engaged in the annual king's cup air race. Tommy Rose, flying the Viscountess Wakefield's Falcon plane, won the coveted trophy with an average speed of 175 miles an hour over a 356 mile course. The Mew Gull monoplane of the duke of Kent, fourth son of King George, piloted by Capt. E. W. Percival, finished sixth.

OFFICIALS SEEK ALIBI IN DEATHS IN VETS' CAMPS

Finger Print Experts Take Records to Florida.

BY SPEARMAN LEWIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—A continued flood of departmental officials is arriving hourly from Washington to stem if possible the rising tide of indignation centering on the colossal blunder that caused the death of approximately 300 indigent veterans exiled on hurricane reefs. The latest arrivals were three fingerprint experts with 24,000 card records, the first time they have ever been permitted to leave capitol files.

The 817 veterans who have been assembled along the lower Florida keys to reconstruct the 100 miles of highway that connected Miami with the southernmost tip of the United States were sent there to forestall the embarrassment of another bonus march on Washington, as well as to supply to Florida the man power to dress up the motor approach to an administration social rehabilitation project.

Scandal May Follow.

The heat is on and a national scandal that might well imperil the New Deal's next political campaign must be smothered. The administration seems willing to forego for the time being any serious effort to fix responsibility for the delayed evacuation train.

But that this dike against public censure is beginning to crumble in spots was indicated today when Col. George E. Ijams of the veterans' administration, Washington, and designated officially as President Roosevelt's personal representative in the keys tragedy, interrupted a conference to say:

"I was sent here to bury the dead and serve the living. But I find an increasing public tendency to pin the responsibility for the delayed relief train on the veterans' administration. We merely rounded the men up in Washington and turned them over to the FERA and WPA, Florida divisions. Any responsibility is theirs and I shall look into that phase of the catastrophe when I have completed my original assignment."

Silent on Train Delay.

The state headquarters of both FERA and WPA are in Jacksonville. The Miami branches are being consolidated by the previously announced retirement of Col. William Green and the routine taking over of the job by O. A. Sandquist. Neither is issuing explanations of what happened between the time nervous veteran subordinates at the exposed hurricane reefs began to negotiate on Sunday afternoon for a relief train and 4:30 Monday afternoon when the train finally left Miami to arrive at the height of the tropical storm.

A man named Cutler is recorded as having made the first inquiry of the Florida East Coast railway on Sunday concerning possible evacuation trains. But the name Cutler does not appear on any available list of living or dead. A possible confusion in names may be indicated by the death listing of one "Coulter," a Western Union operator, killed at Indian Key.

Defense Taking Form.

The administration's defense for its failure to evacuate the veterans already is taking definite form. It runs like this: Most of the men were sent south in winter months when Florida was preferable to the snow-bound north; they were housed in cantonments along the Keys in shelters as staunch as the average home in the fishing camps along the highways where the men worked; more civilians were killed in the storm area than veterans—which alibi overlooks the fact, however, that the veterans registered approximately 35 per cent death casualties while the native proportion was approximately 10 per cent.

The defense may even seek to indict the entire Florida East Coast natives as being more or less indifferent to hurricane warnings, citing the kicking upstairs of the veteran weather forecaster Gray who was transferred from Miami to Puerto Rico because he cried "wolf" every time a palm rustled in the hurricane months of last summer.

Wants Weather Bureau Change.

That the weather bureau will be the goat was indicated this afternoon just before Gov. David Sholtz left for Tallahassee. He stated at a formal press conference:

"At the first opportunity I shall recommend to Washington the discontinuance of the recently reorganized method of gathering storm data at Jacksonville, 400 miles north and merely using the Miami office as a loud speaker for hurricane bulletins. I shall insist that Miami be given a primary weather bureau with adequate personnel and equipment."

And then in answer to my direct question the governor added: "In my personal preliminary investigations on the scene I have failed to find any evidence of criminal negligence in the failure to evacuate the veterans."

Meanwhile to the list of great American disasters' records are added the deaths of approximately 300 semi-incapacitated war veterans trapped on narrow sand keys with a hurricane swept open ocean on one side and mosquito marshes on the other—with their relief train in the ditch.

CHILD, 2, KILLED IN FALL.

Catherine Riceubito, 2½ years old, was fatally injured yesterday in a fall from a second story window of her home at 3248 South Michigan avenue. She died in Michael Reese hospital.

DIXIE PASSENGERS AND CREW ARRIVE IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Two trains bearing 166 passengers from the Morgan liner Dixie, wrecked off the Florida coast, and 69 members of her crew, arrived at the Pennsylvania station today and were met by a crowd of more than 500 relatives and friends. Some of the passengers sobbed hysterically on seeing their relatives at home.

Immediately after their arrival the passengers went to the Hotel Pennsylvania for breakfast, arranged for by the Morgan line. Arrangements also were made to provide out of town passengers rooms at the hotel at the steamship line's expense.

S. I. Cooper, manager of the line, said today that the company had spent $50,000 to date in caring for the passengers of the wrecked Dixie, and that $5,000 of this sum had been spent for clothing.

There were more stories of the nights and days of terror experienced by the passengers when the Dixie, bound from New Orleans to New York, was grounded on the jagged rocks of French reef, south of Miami, last Monday night during a hurricane.

RICHMOND GAS CUT OFF AFTER FLOOD DAMAGE

Richmond, Va., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Richmond's gas was cut off tonight as a precautionary measure after flood waters from the James river had put the boilers of the plant out of commission and surrounded a reserve tank containing about a 24 hour supply.

Highway authorities announced that trunk highways to Washington and Tidewater, Va., would remain open, despite reports that water had washed out the approaches to one side of a double bridge on route 1 to Washington.

Flood Waters Recede.

Federalsburg, Md., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Slowly receding flood waters today gave harassed Federalsburg residents time to turn their thoughts towards rehabilitation.

It will be two or three days before residents of low-lying areas, including the business section, can return to their homes. Late today water there was seven feet deep, a drop of three feet from the high mark.

Victims congregated at the high school building where the Red Cross and volunteer workers aided in caring for more than 100 persons. Others of the 1,000 or more driven from their homes are being cared for in private residences.

C. R. WALGREEN'S DAUGHTER MAY ENTER U. OF C.

Mrs. Ruth Walgreen Dart, 7120 Coles avenue, daughter of Charles R. Walgreen, head of the drug store chain, has applied for admission to the University of Chicago, it was learned yesterday. Mrs. Dart, who is 25 years old, the wife of Justin Dart and the mother of a small son, said she recently filed an application with the university so that she could attend classes this fall if she decided to do so.

Last spring Mr. Walgreen precipitated an investigation by a state legislative committee into alleged red influences at the university when he withdrew his niece, Miss Lucille Norton, from classes there on the allegation that she was being exposed to subversive influences.

Mrs. Dart was said to have indicated an interest in social science in her application. This could include courses in which Miss Norton was enrolled.

TWO EX-CONVICTS AND PAL CONFESS FORTY ROBBERIES

Three men, two of them ex-convicts paroled from Pontiac reformatory, were arrested yesterday by detectives from the state parole office and confessed, a little later, that they had committed more than 40 robberies in the last few months.

The ex-convicts are Eugene Duggan, 28 years old, 632 Madison street, and Lloyd Casselman, 26 years old, 1737 Washington boulevard. The third man is Lester Planting, 23 years old.

Sergts, Robert Welling and Arthur Murphy, the detectives, approached Duggan and Planting at Central and Barry avenues. They tried to flee. Duggan was caught, but Planting, after throwing away a pistol, escaped.

On information furnished by Duggan, the detectives went to 632 Madison street and seized the other two.

ADMITS BEATING STEPDAUGHTER TO DEATH IN RAGE

Stamford, Conn., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Charged with having murdered her 9 year old stepdaughter, Marilyn, Mrs. Ada Schueler, 25, wife of Oscar J. Schueler, vice president of Schueler Brothers, Inc., soft drink manufacturers, is held tonight without bail pending arraignment.

The arrest of Mrs. Schueler, a former trained nurse, followed the death yesterday of her stepdaughter, caused by a ruptured liver and hemorrhages of her lungs, liver and intestines. Mrs. Schueler at first asserted that the child received the injuries in the throes of an epileptic fit.

Today, according to Prosecutor E. Gaynor Brennan, she admitted having beaten the child and confessed the story about the fit was false.

SMOKE SMUDGES MARK VETERANS' FUNERAL PYRES

Bodies Cremated in Keys to Check Disease.

[Copyright: 1935: By the Associated Press.]

Miami, Fla., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Danger of pestilence in Florida's tragedy-stricken coral keys was lessened tonight as flames flickered and smoke rolled skyward from scattered funeral pyres of storm dead.

As quickly as Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish clergymen could recite their church's farewell to the dead workers applied the torch to the gasoline drenched badly decomposed victims of Monday's hurricane.

Sherif D. C. Coleman, heading 500 workers in the storm area, estimated 150 bodies were affected by the cremation order, issued over the wish of President Roosevelt when health officers saw disease imminent.

Tabulation of Dead.

Veterans in the three key camps, 716.
Unidentified dead or missing, 281.
In hospitals, 138.
Identified dead, 46.
Rescued uninjured or slightly hurt, 244.
No record, 7.
Civilians—Missing and unaccounted for, 90.
Dead identified, 8.
Dead unidentified, 21.
Injured, 286.

The first mass burning—36 bodies—was at Snake Creek, within a few hundred feet of the jumbled wreckage of Camp No. 3.

Each contained in hastily put together pine boxes, the bodies were stacked high, layers of driftwood separating the boxes.

Guardsmen Fire Salute.

National Guardsmen fired three rounds over the mound. Clergymen said the last rites.

A pole, a bundle of flaming cotton waste affixed to its end, was run into the gasoline saturated driftwood at the base of the pyre. Flames shot high into the air.

The workers, carrying their cans of gasoline, trudged southward into the desolate area toward the next place where bodies had been collected.

Final plans were whipped into shape for tomorrow's memorial services here for the veteran dead.

The services will begin at 7 p. m. in Miami's palm-set Bayfront park amphitheater, where a little more than two years ago an assassin fired five shot at Mr. Roosevelt, then President-elect.

Every officer of the nation's armed services who is here and can be spared from emergency duty in the keys will be present.

"Not Looking for Goat."

There was comment today from officials conducting two of the three separate investigations to determine whether 716 war veterans were allowed to remain in three Matecumbe camps through negligence.

Gov. Dave Sholtz, who investation is being directed by State's Attorney G. V. Worley of Miami, said: 'I'm not looking for a goat."

He was sure that if negligence entered into the disaster, "it certainly was not criminal, and I am sure no one could be blamed."

Aubrey Williams, assistant to Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator, commented that as far as his investigation had progressed, "I find no basis for disciplinary action against any one."

John L. Teets, field representative of the American Red Cross, said many thousands of dollars for storm rehabilitation work is needed by that organization and must be raised by public subscription.

PLEDGES TROOP USE TO HALT SHIPMENT OF IMMATURE FRUIT

Miami, Fla., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A blunt threat to use National Guardsmen in preventing shipment of immature citrus fruits from Florida "if the commissioner of agriculture does not see fit to enforce the inspection law" was made here today by Gov. Dave Sholtz.

It followed reports that considerable fruit was blown from trees when this week's tropical hurricane swept up the west coast.

Reiterating his previous statement that shipment of green or unfit fruit would not be allowed, Sholtz said:

"The commissioner of agriculture has ample authority to prevent such shipment. If he does not do so, I shall. If it becomes necessary, I'll call out the National Guard."

Sholtz said he had notified common carriers that state law prohibits them accepting citrus shipments which do not contain inspection approval.

BOY 'KIDNAPED' IN AUTO THEFT IS FOUND SAFE

Edward Myscofski, 7 years old, 4714 South Harding avenue, was returned to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Myscofski, by the police yesterday after he had been missing in the family's stolen automobile all night. The boy slept through the incident.

Edward was asleep in the rear seat of the car when his father parked the car at 35th street and Archer avenue Friday night to wait for Mrs. Myscofski, who was in a nearby theater. The father stepped into a tavern and when he came out the car and the child were gone.

A woman found Edward sitting up "waiting for my father" in the stolen car at 2139 South California avenue at 8 a. m. yesterday. Myscofski had spent the night touring the south side with a Brighton Park police squad in search of his son. It was believed the thieves were unaware of the boy's presence when they stole the auto.

70 NEW PROJECTS ASK $11,256,989 IN FEDERAL CASH

Seek $6,494,817 for City—Rest Downstate.

Seventy additional work projects calling for the expenditure of $11,256,989 in federal easy money were approved yesterday by Robert J. Dunham, state administrator for the Works Progress administration, and were forwarded to Washington for the President's approval.

Of the total, which is expected to give employment to 12,000 persons, nine Chicago projects contemplate the expenditure of $6,494,817. While officials of the WPA were working overtime in order to forward all applications to Washington before the Sept. 12 deadline, the Public Works administration [PWA] announced that with the approval of applications for $380,136 its work is completed temporarily.

Six More Park Requests.

Projects approved yesterday in the race between WPA and PWA to obtain federal funds brought the Illinois total for WPA to $227,284,233 and for PWA to $166,322,309. The WPA applications contemplate the expenditure of an additional $50,282,114 by the Illinois governmental units sponsoring the various projects.

Six of the requests made yesterday for WPA funds were from the Chicago park district and totaled $6,386,504. The park projects include:

Rehabilitating heating, drainage, water, and sidewalk systems in 117 small parks and recreational centers, $1,239,170; park district contribution, $448,990; 1,272 to be employed.

Lincoln park, general improvements, $3,632,974, with $904,468 from sponsor, 3,404 to be employed.

Extensive Parks Program.

The Lincoln park project will include the installation of street lights, erection of beach houses, paving, landscaping, bridle paths, pedestrian subways, promenades, sprinkler and water systems.

Bicycle paths are to be installed in Riis, Burnham, Calumet, Garfield, Humboldt, Jackson, Lincoln, Marquette, McKinley, and Washington parks.

The remaining Chicago projects approved include renovation of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium and Juvenile Detention home and street mapping under the city department of streets.

Of the total requested by PWA yesterday $895,242 represents the request of Galesburg for funds for the erection of a new school.

POLICE TO TEST AUTOS ON JOLIET ROAD TOMORROW

State highway police tomorrow will make brake tests at Joliet road and Lawndale avenue in Lyons township. Under the direction of Sergt. Charles Zak, commander of the Blue Island station, the highway police on Friday tested brakes on 4,000 cars passing the intersection of Roosevelt road and streets in Broadview. Tomorrow's tests, Sergt Zak said, will be directed particularly at trucks using Joliet road.

HANGS SELF IN ATTIC.

Mrs. Agnes Rozek, 39 years old, hanged herself from a rafter in the attic of her home at 2900 West 25th place yesterday. The body was found by her husband, Frank, who told police that Mrs. Rozek had been in ill health.

REYNOLDS MAKES DEFENSE OF HIGH RELIEF SPENDING

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary of the Illinois emergency relief commission, broke a long silence yesterday, and defended IERC expenditures. Based on reports from the federal relief offices in Washington, his statement showed that Illinois, although having the third largest population, ranked fifth among the states in total relief expenditures during the second quarter of 1935.

The statement was seen as an answer to criticisms from both outside and within the commission. At a commission meeting last week John C. Martin, chairman, and State Treasurer John Stelle urged action by the commission to reduce relief costs.

| State. | Pop. | % of pop. on relief. | Total relief exp. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pennsylvania | 9,631,350 | 20 | 59,458,251 |
| Illinois ..... | 7,630,654 | 15 | 29,546,565 |
| Ohio ........ | 6,646,697 | 18 | 28,326,442 |

CICERO CITIZENS DISAGREE OVER A TAX INCREASE

Protest Petition Gets a Ride in Garbage Cart.

A committee of five Cicero citizens, who oppose floating a $935,000 bond issue to refund seven months' back pay to Cicero town employés, visited the town hall yesterday with a 9,000 name petition. On the steps of the hall stood a delegation of the town's unpaid employés.

Fifteen minutes later, state, county and city police were on their way to the scene. The woman leader of the citizens' delegation was on the ground where she had been shoved and the petition was in a garbage truck, on its way to oblivion.

Demand Admission to Hall.

The taxpayers' petition, representing the Czechoslovakian Taxpayers' Organization of Cicero, demanded that the bond issue, approved by the town council on Aug. 8, be submitted to the vote of the people. It was carried by Mrs. Esther Beran-Stevens, 2731 South 59th avenue, head of the committee.

At the hall steps, Mrs. Beran-Stevens demanded admission. Nothing was said, but John Stransky, 4908 West 30th place, one of the employés, grabbed the petition and shoved Mrs. Beran-Stevens to the ground. The employés passed the petition among themselves like a football in an all-star back field, and the four men on the taxpayers' committee attempted to intercept it. A free-for-all ensued.

Fate of the Petition.

A nimble footed city employé carried the petition to a city garbage truck and drove down 26th street with it, tossing sheets of names on all sides. Somewhere a policeman hearing the turmoil fired a shot into the air and Joseph G. Cerny, president of the town council, rushed to his telephone and called the state and county highway police.

When these policemen arrived the field was clear. Mrs. Beran-Stevens was found to be shaken badly but uninjured. Stransky was locked in jail, and the police are seeking other employés involved in the excitement. Only 15 of the petition's 429 pages were recovered.

Cerny issued a statement declaring that the people should have the right to vote on the bond issue and that he would see that they get it. Meanwhile the taxpayers' committee will have to hurry to restore the petition. The deadline for filing it is 5 p. m. tomorrow.

200 BURLESQUE ARTISTS AGREE TO END STRIKE

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Two hundred "strippers," comedians and chorus girls of New York's City's burlesque shows who walked out last Thursday for more money and less hours, settled their differences tonight with theater managers and rang down the curtain on Manhattan's first burlesque strike.

Following the negotiations between the Eastern Burlesque Managers association and the Burlesque Artists association, it was announced that all theaters would open Sunday with performers promised a raise from $21 to $22.50 weekly.

Road show performers were promised raises from $23.50 to $25 a week.

POLICE ACT TO RID CITY STREETS OF CAR 'WATCHERS'

Will Assign Extra Men If Necessary.

Capt. David Flynn, head of the police trafic division, declared yesterday that the "watch your car, mister?" racket will be ended in the loop area even though he has to assign extra policemen to night duty in order to control the situation.

This announcement followed the release in court of six "watchers" arrested Friday night after Police Commissioner Allman, in a general order, had demanded that the city's streets be kept clear of these petty racketeers.

Six Promise to Quit.

The six "watchers" arrested and released are Luther Durham, 305 South Clark street; his brother, Philip, of the same address; Edward Baines, 1615 South Wabash avenue; Frank T. Leslie, 426 South Clark street; Edward Brooks, colored, 2053 South State street, and Charles Adams, 411 South State street.

The prisoners were arraigned before Judge Eugene Holland in the South State street court and warned to cease their racket. They were released when they promised to quit. Policemen Thomas Naughton and Robert Norton, who made the arrests Friday night, informed the court that motorists frequently complained of being insulted when they refused to tip the "watchers."

Ex-Convict Gets 4 Years.

One "watcher," Tony Costello, an ex-convict, was sentenced to one year in the Bridewell on each of four counts by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Automobile court Friday after he had been arrested trying to start a parked car. In addition to speciying that the sentences should run consecutively, making a total term of four years, the court assessed fines of $200 on each of four complaints, charging car tampering.

Advance Hour for Display of Buckingham Fountain

The major night displays of Buckingham memorial fountain in Grant park, which during the summer have taken place between 9 and 9:30 p. m., will be held from 8 to 8:30 every evening from Sept. 10 to 30, William I. Bell, acting chief engineer of the Chicago park district, announced yesterday. No change will be made in the afternoon displays, held every day from 3 to 5. The fountain will be shut down for the winter on Sept. 30.

PARK EMPLOYE KILLED; STEPS IN AUTO'S PATH

One Dies of Injuries in Crash That Hurt 10.

William Birmingham, 60 years old, 4358 North Irving avenue, an employé in Riverview park, was killed yesterday when he stepped from a safety island into the path of an automobile after getting off a street car at Western and Montrose avenues. Carl Anderson, 21 years old, 229 North Central Park avenue, driver of the automobile, told police the accident was unavoidable.

Howard Ambrose, 22 years old, Sea Breeze, N. Y., was killed and nine others, including four women, were hurt early yesterday when the two automobiles in which they were riding sideswiped each other and overturned in a ditch at Cicero avenue and 92d street. The injured were taken to the Little Company of Mary hospital in Evergreen Park, where Ambrose died.

Driver in Second Machine Injured.

The three most seriously injured are Bruce Miller, 16 years old, and Charles Wells, 18, both of Sea Breeze, riding in the car driven by Ambrose, and Stanley Joniecka, 25, 4551 South Spaulding avenue, driver of the second machine. Also riding in the Ambrose machine and incurring minor injuries were Miss Evelyn Forest, 23, 10146 Normal avenue; Ruth Forest, 19 years old, her sister, and Raymond Burkel, 16 years old, Sea Breeze.

Riding in the car driven by Joniecka were Anthony Josek, 21 years old, 4508 Justine street; Miss Edith Robinson, 20, 3531 West 62d street, and Miss Betty Gregow, 18 years old, 5559 South Washtenaw avenue. Miss Robinson incurred a broken leg and the other two suffered cuts and bruises.

Injuries Fatal to Woman, 91.

Mrs. Louise Blitz, 91 years old, 310 South Spaulding avenue, a former circus and vaudeville performer known to many in that profession as "Aunt Louise," died during the day in the county hospital of injuries received Sept. 1 when she was struck by an automobile. The accident occurred in front of 34 South Kedzie avenue. The driver, Joseph Benson, 22 years old, 1330 South Troy street, was not held by the police.

The deaths of Mrs. Blitz, Birmingham, and Ambrose, and three others yesterday increased the 1935 automobile toll for Cook county to 640. Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 497 persons had been killed in automobile accidents within the Chicago city limits and 11,401 injured.

The other victims:

Joseph Detlos, 23 years old, 3638 Cornelia street. Died in the Belmont hospital of injuries received Friday when his automobile was struck and overturned by another car at Austin and Montrose avenues. The driver of the second car, Ben Stone, 4138 Odell avenue, was held by Shakespeare police.

Unidentified Man, about 35 years old. Killed early today at Warren and Damen avenues by an automobile whose driver turned off the lights of his car and sped away after the accident.

Charles Welz, 47 years old, 2346 Florence street, Blue Island. Fatally injured when he was struck at Florence street and Western avenue in the suburb by an automobile driven by Richard Freeman, 12758 Greenwood avenue, Blue Island. Died as he was being taken to a hospital.

William H. Julian, 47 years old, 5461 Cornell avenue, was killed when the automobile in which he was riding alone was struck by the Abraham Lincoln train of the Alton line on the Evergreen crossing near Wilmington, 20 miles south of Joliet. Julian was a representative of the Bakers' Consulting bureau of South Bend, Ind.

Wilber A. Post, 45 years old, 3629 Sunnyside avenue, Brookfield, a salesman for the World Book company, was killed near Marietta, Okla., when his automobile crashed into a truck. His identity was learned through insurance papers in his pocket, and his family notified. The body is being shipped to Chicago for burial.

Lester Tiffany, former sherif of Lake county, who was injured when his automobile crashed into a truck near his farm three miles east of Antioch on Thursday, was taken from his home to the Alice Home hospital in Lake Forest yesterday in a serious condition. Dr. Theodore S. Proxmire, attending Tiffany, said the former sherif had incurred a broken rib and a dislocated vertebra.

Walter Skubish, 20 years old, 1316 East 93d street, was sentenced to thirty days in the Bridewell when he was arraigned during the day before Judge Eugene Holland in South State Street court on a charge of reckless driving. He took the jail sentence in preference to a $100 fine. Skubish was arrested after he fled from the scene of an accident in which he struck another car.

GIRL PLUNGES 17 STORIES TO DEATH IN LOOP

Unrequited Love Blamed at Inquest.

A coroner's jury last evening returned a verdict stating that Miss Afton C. Ramsey, 25 years old, 6456 Greenview avenue, who plunged to her death from a 17th floor window of the One North La Salle building yesterday morning, had committed suicide because of unrequited love.

The principal witness at the inquest was John T. Janszen, 1332 Albion avenue, the man on whom Miss Ramsey had centered her affections. Janszen is assistant manager of the Chicago office of the Union Central Life Insurance company and was formerly connected with Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, which employed the girl as a stenographer.

His testimony was requested after a sister of Miss Ramsey related that Afton had been miserable ever since Janszen informed her, two months ago, that he was going to marry Miss Dorothy Schaefer, 4300 Lake Shore drive, a student of drama at the University of Chicago and a former Northwestern university student.

Denies Courting Stenographer.

Janszen said there had never been any affair between him and the stenographer, and had given her no reason to believe he loved her.

"I was out with her only twice," he testified; "once when we were returning from a picnic and again when I took her home from a theater."

Miss Ramsey, he said, wrote him a letter after he had told her of his plans for marriage. He did not produce the letter, but told its substance to Deputy Coroner S. J. Oliverio, as follows:

"I realize I should not have made advances to you. I am sorry that I bothered you, and I won't any more. Forget about it and I, too, will try to forget."

Tells of Last Meeting.

The last time he saw her, Janszen related, was when he went into the Mutual office on Friday, to attend to a business matter. Miss Ramsey nodded, he said, but did not speak to him.

Employés of the Mutual Life said that Miss Ramsey was last seen alive standing near a window on the La Salle street side of the building. No one, they declared, saw her leap. Her body struck the sidewalk near the La Salle street entrance, narrowly missing several pedestrians.

Janszen is the son of H. A. Janszen, an optometrist.

ITALY SET FOR NEW 'INCIDENT,' GENEVA HEARS

Border Clash Reported Scheduled Soon.

and Mussolini could graciously accept in revamped form the proposals made to him at the British-French-Italian conference in Paris recently, which assured him a mandate in everything but name over Ethiopia.

There is little doubt that Premier Laval of France would support Mussolini in this line, although it is not sure the British would stand for it, to say nothing of the little powers.

If anything does break out over the week-end, an important factor in developments here would be the absence of Premier Laval. Somewhat to the general surprise, the French statesman left shortly after noon for Paris to take a little rest over the week-end. He is not expected back before Tuesday or Wednesday, though another meeting of the five-power committee appointed yesterday to seek a solution of the problem will be held Monday and the league assembly also opens on that day.

Appeal for Delay in War.

Theoretically Laval's absence should help the Italians if they start anything now because it would be difficult for the council to take any action without Laval. But it might work the other way if the British react strongly and the Italians have to deal with them without a mediator. At any rate, it would be very convenient for Laval personally.

Outside of this unconfirmed threat of impending hostilities, everything was quiet in Geneva today. The committee of five held a secret meeting this morning at which it was decided to send formal letters to both Italy and Ethiopia urging them not to do anything to aggravate the situation.

If the dangerous cape of the next few days is rounded safely, it is believed here that the committee will finally produce a revamped version of the Paris proposals, which the Italians are believed likely to accept this time, counting on the refusal of Emperor Haile Selassie to accept them. If that happens, the Italians think they will have a free hand and will be able to go ahead with the conquest of Ethiopia with no fear of sanctions.

Libya Menaced, Rome Claims.

ROME, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The authoritative Giornale d'Italia said tonight groups of armed Senussites [a North African Moslem sect] are concentrating on the border of Libya, an Italian possession, with "mysterious support."

In an article directed against British influence in Egypt, the Giornale demanded to know who is furnishing the Senussites with arms and favoring their "aggressive" designs.

The newspaper said the Senussites were hired fighting tribes who fled across the border into Egypt following the domination of Libya by Italian troops. It also recalled that Premier Mussolini received Marshal Italo Balbo, governor of Libya, this week and promised to send him troops from the mainland.

The newspaper demanded to know what measures were being taken by authorities in Egypt to keep that country neutral in event of an Italo-Ethiopian war and to prevent Egypt from being drawn into it through Senussite aggressions.

RUSSIA HELPS ITALY IN WAR PREPARATIONS AND REAPS BIG PROFIT

[Copyright: 1935: By the New York Times.]

PIRAEUS, Greece, Sept. 7.—While officially condemning Italy's Ethiopian campaign as an imperialist attempt to subdue a free people, the soviet union is furthering the Fascist aims and profiting from them by exporting supplies to the Italian camps in Africa.

For several months Greek freighters have been taking cargoes from soviet Black sea ports to the Italian ports of Masaua and Mogadishu, in Africa. Most of the freighters carry cargoes of wheat from Sebastopol and coal tar from Nicolaiev for new roads destined to cross the Ethiopian frontiers. Coal also is shipped from Marianapolis, Theodosia and Nicolaiev and oil from Batum. Most of the fuel goes to Italy.

The soviet insists upon cash payments before the Greek freighters begin loading. The war business with Italy is more profitable to the soviet than the trade with other Mediterranean countries, which demand reciprocal export balances.

Until July Piraeus and the harbors of the Cyclades were choked with rusting freighters. Now more than forty are in Italy's service.

FEARS AFRICAN REVOLT IF ITALY LOSES IN A WAR

Rhodesian Official in City on U. S. Tour.

Fear of a general uprising of Africa's natives in the event that Italy should suffer defeat in an Ethiopian war was expressed yesterday by A. R. Thomson, president of the Rhodesian Chamber of Mines and member of the South Rhodesia legislative assembly. With J. W. Downie, former high commissioner and thrice a cabinet member of South Rhodesia, Mr. Thomson arrived in Chicago during the day from the west coast on a tour through the United States.

"Of course it is our hope that there will be no conflict between Ethiopia and Italy," Mr. Thomson said. "But if there is, we of Africa can only hope that Mussolini is not badly defeated.

"In these times of rapid communication, the native population, educated during the last quarter of a century of white rule, will learn quickly of the course of war. In Africa it is black against white—and a crushing defeat of whites at any point may be the signal for a general uprising."

Mr. Thomson said that in Rhodesia, 53,000 whites govern a population of 1,250,000 blacks.

New forms of government, which are to become effective in Rhodesia in 1937, will give the natives a greater share in the political and economic life of the British colony and represent a marked step forward in colonial policies, Mr. Thomson said. Under the new laws, he said, separate areas will be set aside for whites and blacks and the exploitation of the native by Europeans will be ended.

Accompanying the Rhodesian officials are their wives and children. They are staying at the Drake hotel. The party will leave tonight for Washington, D. C.

ATTORNEYS PICK M'CRACKEN TO RID BAR OF SHYSTERS

Robert T. McCracken of Philadelphia has been named head of the American Bar association's new committee to rid the profession of shysters, it was announced yesterday from the Chicago office of the association at 1140 North Dearborn street.

The committee is to be called the Committee on Professional Ethics and Grievances, and Mr. McCracken's appointment came as a result of similar work he has performed for the Philadelphia Bar association.

In the announcement of the appointment, William L. Ransom of New York, president of the American Bar association, explained that formation of the committee is the forerunner of a vigorous effort to assist state and city bar associations in "ridding the profession of the relatively small fringe of members whose misconduct brings discredit upon the whole profession."

Mr. McCracken is a member of the law firm of Montgomery & McCracken, of which Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts was a member before his elevation to the United States Supreme court.

ALL CONSULATES IN ETHIOPIA SHUT AS 'PRECAUTION'

Action Seen as Indication of Ultimate War.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Italy called all its consuls in Ethiopia to Addis Ababa today in a precautionary move and one which many regarded as an indication of ultimate war.

Luigi Vincin-Gigliucci, the Italian minister, in giving the order, explained that the great distances and lack of communications made it desirable to remove the consuls from possible danger zones, adding it would take some of them several weeks to reach the capital by horseback.

[A government spokesman in Rome said Vincin-Gigliucci acted on his own initiative in view of the unsettled conditions and not under orders of the foreign office.]

The recall, it was believed certain, would not only disturb Ethiopians but also foreigners in the interior. The Italian minister told the Ethiopian foreign minister he believed his action would prevent a recurrence of alleged incidents involving mistreatment of consuls.

Protectorate Idea Rejected.

A French suggestion of the possibility of an Italian protectorate over Ethiopia, similar to Britain's position in Iraq, was summarily rejected by Ethiopian unofficial sources today as beyond all discussion.

Most Ethiopians also indignantly rejected a proposal attributed to Premier Laval of France to place Ethiopia under a police force, similar to the former one in the Saar.

The Italian legation shipped a large quantity of property, including furniture, paintings, china and silver plate, to Italy today. Some of the foreign legations are rapidly building bombproof shelters, protective trenches and emergency pits.

The 129 newly arrived bearded and turbaned Indian Sikhs, here to guard the British legation, camped in the wooded compound of the legation tonight. Recovering from their first chilling in the rain drenched mountain capital, the Sikhs began digging trenches, mounting machine guns and cleaning their rifles. In order to avoid possible incidents with natives, the Indians will be kept strictly within the compound.

Builds Miniature War City.

The German minister has constructed a miniature war time city within his legation's spacious grounds. There are a hospital, underground shelters, blockhouses and emergency food supplies for a possible siege.

The first shipment of Japanese medical supplies purchased for Emperor Haile Selassie's army arrived and will be followed by other shipments.

It was reported that 26,000 Moslem Guragie tribesmen offered their services to the emperor as a volunteer cavalry corps. The emperor is a Christian.

French Troops Off to Africa.

BREST, France, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A detachment of the Second Colonial infantry left tonight en route to Djibouti, French Somaliland, to reinforce the garrison there.

British Cabinet Minister Gives Mussolini a Warning

DUNFERMLINE, Scotland, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Sir Thomas Inskip, British attorney general, in a speech today said: "The nation is behind the government and the Italian dictator would do well, perhaps, to apprise himself of that fact." He warned against single handed British action, asserting if sanctions [penalties] against Italy are to succeed they must be universal.

BURNED BY GASOLINE.

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. John Arney, Daviess county, are in a hopsital recovering from burns received in their home when flaming gasoline was flung over the latter's clothing when their son struck a match to investigate a clogged feed line of a gasoline motor.

SIAM COMPELS BOY KING TO PAY SUBJECTS A VISIT

PARIS, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Siamese legation today announced that country's boy king, Ananda, would leave Switzerland for Siam in November "to show himself to his people."

The announcement showed the government intended to have the boy return in spite of opposition by his mother, Princess Mahidol. It was made after the arrival of Minister Phra Riem by way of Lausanne, where he presented Ananda with a decoration of the most illustrious house of Chakri, highest Siamese order.

The legation said Ananda would return to Switzerland after a short visit. The coronation ceremony, it was announced, has been postponed until the king is 20. Princess Mahidol recently said there was time for her son to return to his troublous kingdom after he had finished his schooling.

Hunt Sniper After Three Are Wounded in N. Y.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—A sniper, firing a rifle or revolver, spread terror on Lexington avenue today. Three persons were wounded by his shots, none seriously. Detectives searched the apartment houses on the block room by room in a vain hunt for the gunman.

POPE PIUS SEES HOPE FOR PEACE IN AFRICAN ROW

War Veterans Addressed by Pontiff.

ROME, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Pope Pius expressed the desire today that Italy's "needs" in Ethiopia "shall be satisfied" but urged that it be done with "justice and with peace." Celebrating the first mass in St. Paul's Basilica by a pope in 175 years, the pontiff struck an optimistic note.

"From our latest information, we seem to see forming on the horizon a rainbow of peace casting its rays across the world," he said.

Pope Pius came here from his summer retreat at Castel Gandolfo to celebrate a mass for an international convention of 15,000 world war veterans.

Urges Peace with Justice.

"We desire that with peace the aspirations of this good people, all their needs shall be satisfied, recognized and assured," he said, referring to Italy, "but with justice and with peace, with justice because against justice there is only sin and sin makes the people miserable."

His statement on the possibility of peace follows:

"It is with considerable joy that, if we have understood from our latest information, we seem to see on the horizon a rainbow of peace which seems to diffuse its rays over the world.

"This is peace made of justice, charity, honor, dignity and respect for all rights.

"It is peace which announces happiness for everybody. Peace is the primary condition for all prosperity, and, therefore, we shall always pray for peace.

A Prayer for Peace.

"All the world sighs for peace, all the world desires peace and for us, the vicar of Christ, for us the common father of all souls, it is our task to procure peace by all means.

"To maintain it is a particular duty, an essential duty."

In conclusion, he asserted: "It is with this marvelous vision in mind that we bless you."

A delegation of American Legionnaires was among those who heard the pontiff. War veterans from throughout the world opened a three-day conclave today.

Every nation which participated in the hostilities of 20 years ago was represented among the 12,000 delegates from foreign lands. During the time the veterans are in the city, a guard of honor of 12 former soldiers will be mounted nightly at the tomb of the unknown soldier. Premier Mussolini and King Victor Emmanuel will receive the veterans in separate audiences tomorrow.

Col. Lindbergh Located at Morrow Summer Home

North Haven, Me., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was at the summer home here of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, mother of Mrs. Lindbergh, today. He arrived yesterday, presumably with Mrs. Lindbergh, after a flight through the west. The usual reticence of the family to discuss the colonel's affairs prevailed, and his arrival was not learned until today.

PRINCESS SCOFFS AT STORY VATICAN VOIDED ALFONSO'S MARRIAGE

ROME, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Infanta de Bourbon y Dampierre, wife of Don Jaime of Bourbon, second son of former King Alfonso of Spain, tonight said that members of the immediate royal family knew nothing of reports of papal dissolution of the marriage of former King Alfonso and the former Queen Victoria.

[The London newspaper Sunday Referee said it had learned on "high authority" the marriage had been annuled by the tribunal of rota without publicity.]

The princess, a French-American girl of noble birth, was married to Don Jaime in sumptuous ceremonies here last spring. Speaking by telephone from the hotel suite which houses the former king's chancellery, she said, "If the marriage has been annuled by his holiness, we at least know nothing of it."

The princess arrived here yesterday with her husband. They are the only members of the Spanish royal family at present in Rome. Meanwhile prelates at the Vatican said they had heard nothing of the reported nullification decree.

SPRECKELS JR., MISS DE BEVOISE MARRY IN EAST

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A society romance that began a month ago on the French Riviera was culminated here with the marriage of Adolph B. Spreckles Jr., 23, of San Francisco, and Gloria M. DeBevoise, 18, of New York and Paris.

Spreckles, heir to the sugar fortune his father amassed, and the comely young daughter of Mrs. William Howe DeBevoise of New York, obtained a marriage license here yesterday and were wed at Brown Memorial church.

Spreckles was divorced at Reno last May by his first wife, Mrs. Louise Clarke De Ruyter Spreckles. They had been married nearly three years and had one child.

PROF. R. S. PLATT TO FLY AGAIN IN LATIN-AMERICA

Prof. Robert S. Platt, University of Chicago geographer, will depart tomorrow for his sixth survey of Latin American countries. Accompanied by his wife Prof. Platt will make a "traverse record" of airplane flights over northern South America.

The flight will start Thursday from Miami for British Guiana. It will continue along the east coast of Brazil and then by boat up the Amazon river.

The Andes will be surveyed from the plane, and the trip will conclude with studies of Peru, Ecuador, and Panama.

ALASKA PIONEER VALLEY PRODUCES A RICH HARVEST

Seen as Proving Fertility of Land.

PALMER, Alaska, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The pioneers of 1935—Matanuskas colonists from the United States—took new hope today as old settlers of the valley reaped a rich harvest.

The colonists saw in such harvests as that of E. W. Watson proof of the valley's fertility. Watson, who has farmed the valley for ten years, produced an excellent stand of victory oats and Canadian field peas. The oats have reached a height of 4½ feet. The peas are 6 feet tall and abundantly podded.

Other farmers have good stands of Swedish select oats and Siberian wheat, a hard milling wheat which makes a good grade of flour.

Mill to Be Erected.

Don L. Irwin, head of the farming division of the government colony, announced a mill would be erected as soon as the acreage warants it.

Harry Sears, farm foreman, already has put up 125 tons of wild hay for the colony stock and has 200 acres of oat and pea hay to cut.

Roofs have been completed on forty-four dwellings, eighty-five houses are under construction, and forty cabins are yet to be started. Twenty-eight families out of 170 in the colony are living in cabins.

The power plant, warehouse, and trading post have been painted and all that remains is the installation of wiring and plumbing. Work has been started on the hospital.

Numerous wells are being drilled. Forty-two already are furnishing water.

Children Going to School.

Children are going to Wasilla and Matanuska for their school work. Three temporary schools will be built soon, one at Butte camp and others at camp 5 and camp 6.

Some children, too young to travel to the nearby schools, are being taught at home by visiting teachers.

Entrance of the Matanuska colony children into nearby schools has created crowded conditions. Many pupils cannot attend classes until additional desks arrive.

TWO ILLINOIS FLYERS TAKE RACE HONORS IN BUFFALO MEET

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Art Chester, Chicago speed demon, and Roger Don Rae, all-around airman from Lemont, Ill., cornered all of the honors today in the opening of the third annual Buffalo air races.

Chester finished first in both speed events on the day's program, winning the $500 Buffalo Trap and Field club 20 mile event and the $800 Lawrence D. Bell 40 mile race. Don Rae was the winner in the $150 parachute jumping contest.

Chester's speed in the field club event was 206.232 miles an hour, but his mark in the second race was considerably slower, 186.504.

Priest Arrested in Canada After Automobile Kills Boy

SIMCOE, Ont., Sept. 7.—(AP)—An accident which ended in the death of William Ian Richardson, 9, and placed the Reverend Father Philip J. Cook, Howell, Mich., under arrest was under police scrutiny today. The boy was walking along the highway near his home when an automobile driven by Father Cook struck him, inflicting injuries from which he died two hours later. Father Cook was charged with reckless driving by trafic officer A. E. Martin and later released on $1,000 bond.

Calls Special Session of Louisiana Legislature.

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long pursued his fight against the Roosevelt administration tonight by requesting his responsive Louisiana legislature to enact legislation aimed at curtailing the federal government's activities in this state.

Included among 31 Long indorsed bills introduced in the house of representatives was one providing a mandatory jail sentence for any representative of the federal government found guilty in state courts of conducting federal work in Louisiana violative of the national constitution.

Guard Slaps Long Foe.

Simultaneously, Senator Long announced he would file suit in the United States Supreme court to establish the right of Louisiana to prevent operation of federal bureaus within the state if such operation violated the federal constitution.

As the legislature's special session—the seventh to carry out Long's wishes in the last 13 months—got under way, it was enlivened by the slapping of T. O. Harris, of Shreveport, La., elderly former state auditor and an anti-Long political worker, by one of Long's bodyguards.

Harris was put out of the house, taken to City court and charged with being drunk and disorderly, and using profane and obscene language. He was released on $15 bond.

Harris is publicity director for W. B. Hatcher, federal director of educational activity in Louisiana.

Long said his bill to curb federal construction or other activity in Louisiana if "illegal" would permit action in the state courts against government representatives who violated the state's rights under the tenth amendment to the national constitution.

Asked what would constitute a violation, he asserted:

"That would be for a lawyer to say."

In commenting upon a suit he said he would file in the United States Supreme court to "protect the state's rights," Long cited the directorship of federal educational activities in Louisiana as an illustration of what he said was usurpation of state authority.

Prison Turn Mandatory.

"That work ought to be under the state," he declared.

Long was reluctant to discuss either the act or the Supreme court suit in detail. He did say, however, that if the federal government "laid a concrete street and that violated the federal constitution" the act would apply.

The "state rights" bill would establish a mandatory prison term of from three months to a year for violation of the act and a fine of from $100 to $500.

FOUR WEDDINGS CLAIM INTEREST OF SOCIAL WORLD

Two Ceremonies in City, Two on North Shore.

BY JUDITH CASS.

Four weddings of interest were solemnized yesterday in Winnetka and Chicago. At 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon Miss Margaret Barclay DeLay, daughter of the Harold S. De Lays of Winnetka, became the bride of Pickens Johnson of Milwaukee, son of the Charles L. Johnsons of Evanston, in the chapel of Christ Church, Winnetka. The Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard read the service and a reception followed in the parish house.

The bride was lovely in a simple satin gown trimmed with rosepoint lace that belonged to her great-grandmother. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Virginia DeLay, who was her sister's maid of honor, wore turquoise blue lace and carried bronze chrysanthemums that harmonized with her brown velvet hat. The two flower girls, Barbara DeLay, niece of the bride, and Joan Cristal, niece of the bridegroom, were dressed alike in white with turquoise sashes and carried nosegays of sweetheart roses.

After a wedding trip to Asheville, N. C., and Charleston, S. C., Mr. Johnson and his bride will make their home in Milwaukee.

McEvoy-Cahill Wedding.

At 10 o'clock yesterday morning in Chicago, Miss Helen Marie McEvoy, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William P. McEvoy and granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sullivan, became the bride of William Edmond Cahill, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Cahill, in Our Lady of Mount Carmel church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, William P. McEvoy Jr., wore her mother's wedding gown of exquisite rosepoint lace and ivory satin. A renaissance cap of pearl beading held a tulle veil to her head, and she carried white orchids and lilies of the valley.

After a wedding breakfast and reception at the Blackstone hotel, Mr. Cahill and his bride left for Bermuda. They will reside at 6735 Oglesby avenue.

Kanaley-Nashser Ceremony.

In the presence of her family and close friends Miss Audrey Kanaley yesterday became the bride of Frank Nahser Jr. in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron V. Kanaley, on Ardsley road in Winnetka. Father Haarth of the Sacred Heart church in Hubbard Woods read the ceremony at 4 o'clock and a small reception followed at 4:30.

The bride wore an ivory lace gown, a rose point coronet trimmed with orange blossoms which fastened the double tulle veil to the cap, and a lei of gardenias around the neckline of the gown. She carried a prayerbook. Her attendants, Mrs. Frederick C. Miller of Milwaukee, her sister; and Miss Blanche Cooper, a cousin, wore royal blue bagheera shot with silver and carried shower bouquets of white gladioli.

Mr. Nahser and his bride will go to Bermuda on their wedding trip and will make their home at 400 Deming place.

Storms-Runyon Rites.

At 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Redeemer Miss Roberta Storms, daughter of Mrs. Tinsley Storms, became the bride of Maxwell Bland Runyon, son of the late Dr. and Mrs. William Darrow Runyon of Sioux City, Ia.

The Rev. Edward S. White read the ceremony, and a reception followed in Mrs. Storms' home at 5470 Cornell avenue.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of heavy ivory satin with a lace yoke and cap made of lace from her grandmother's gown. She carried an old fashioned bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Storms wore dark green velveteen and white orchids. Mr. Runyon and his bride are motoring to Mexico for their honeymoon. They will live in Berkeley, Cal.

15,000 EXHIBITS GREET VISITORS AT FLOWER SHOW

Vegetables and Fruit Add to Festival Interest.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Fifteen thousand individual exhibits of flowers are in competition for prizes in the first combination fall flower, vegetable, and fruit festival which opened at the International amphitheater of the Chicago stockyards at 42d and Halsted streets yesterday. More than 300 amateur gardeners have entered products in the show, which is sponsored by the Central States Dahlia society and the Men's Garden club of Chicago.

It is estimated that the opening day's attendance exceeded 7,500. Approximately 30,000 square feet of exhibit space in the white rimmed oval at the amphitheater is banked with flower blossoms grown by amateur back yard gardeners. Every flower is tagged with the name of the variety for the convenience of visiting flower lovers. Practically all of the flowers have been grown in Cook county and every kind of plant now in bloom is represented in the show.

Judges Begin Task.

Judges started their work of selecting the winners at noon yesterday. They continued their work until the doors were closed. All exhibits will remain on display until the close of the show at 10 o'clock tonight. Plans are being made for a large attendance today.

Judges completed a part of their work in the dahlia division of the show and were able to announce some of the awards.

P. H. Dempers of Lombard won first prize for having the largest single dahlia blossom in the show. It measured 12 inches in diameter. Mr. Dempers also had the largest dahlia blossoms in his exhibit of three flowers. He won eight blue ribbons.

Other Winners Listed.

SIX NORTH SHORE BUDS MAKE BOWS BEFORE SOCIETY

Reception and a Supper-Dance Mark Occasion.

Six daughters of north shore families took their places in the grownup world yesterday when they made their bows to society at afternoon receptions and a supper-dance.

Miss Mary Armstrong was presented by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace White Armstrong, at a tea in their Winnetka home. After the many guests had been received by the debutante and her parents in the living room, they wandered on to the terrace.

Miss Armstrong wore a dress of blue lame simply fashioned with a high neckline. Her flowers were purple orchids. Mrs. Armstrong's gown was of pansy colored satin and she also wore orchids.

Brother and Bride Attend.

The Armstrongs' son, Frank H. Armstrong II., and his bride, the former Barbara Bastien, came from Ann Arbor, Mich., for the party. They are leaving today for a two weeks' holiday in Bermuda before Mr. Armstrong enrolls at the University of Michigan to complete his law course.

Receiving with her parents, the Robert S. Lairds of Winnetka, and her house guest, Miss Mary Alsted of Appleton, Wis., Miss Mary Louise Laird made her debut at a tea-dance at the Indian Hill club. Miss Laird wore an old rose taffeta gown with quaint puffed sleeves in a drop shoulder effect, a tight bodice held in place with French blue velvet straps, and a bouffant skirt. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses and delphinium. Mrs. Laird wore an olive green afternoon dress with a brown felt hat. Her flowers were orchids.

Buchen Daughters Make Bow.

Standing in line with their parents, the Walther Buchens of Winnetka, the Misses Elizabeth and Esther Buchen greeted their guests in twin dresses of white and silver metal cloth. The gowns were made with off-the-shoulder necklines and full skirts. As a colorful contrast, they carried bouquets of autumn flowers. Following the tea, which was held at home, the Buchens gave a dinner for the debutantes and their escorts at the Knollwood club.

Miss Barbara Barnhart was presented to society at a tea given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene M. Barnhart, and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Emory Wilder, at the Wilder home in Evanston. Miss Barnhart wore a Renaissance blue metal cloth dress, made very simply with long sleeves, a low décolletage in front, and a short train. Her flowers were white orchids. Mrs. Barnhart wore a maize yellow chiffon dress draped with yellow and white narcissus in front, and carried white orchids.

Debut at Supper Dance.

As a climax to the debut teas, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Armstrong presented their daughter, Katherine, at a supper-dance at their Lake Bluff residence last night. Miss Armstrong wore an off-the-shoulder dress of green taffeta brocaded in silver and carried talisman roses. Her mother, who received with her, had on a gown of mauve silk shot with gold, and her flowers were yellow orchids.

Another party that entertained the debutantes and their escorts last night, although it was not a debut party, was the dinner-dance given by Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Welling at the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest for their daughter, Harriet. Miss Welling, who will be presented to society at a dance on Dec. 23, wore a silver and white lame gown.

MERCHANTS ASKED TO QUIT SELLING TAX TOKENS AT A PROFIT

Knowlton L. Ames Jr., director of the state department of finance, yesterday urged retail merchants of Illinois to discontinue selling the new 1½ mill sales tax tokens to the public at the rate of six for a cent. The practice, he said, is causing widespread protest.

The six for a cent rate gives the retailer 1 mill profit on each transaction, Mr. Ames said. "It is the desire of this department," he continued, "that transactions in tokens between retailers and consumers be conducted in such a way that no profit will accrue to any persons. We recommend that tokens be furnished only in lots of 20, which will equal the value of 3 cents."

General opposition to the sales tax tokens, which permit a tax on a 5 cent purchase, became organized in one quarter yesterday when representatives of the Women's Betterment association, with headquarters at 120 North Green street, announced a campaign to evoke protest against the system among city housewives. A statement issued by the association criticized Gov. Horner and the state Democratic administration for sponsoring the sales tax and the tokens.

Flyers Swerve to Save Children; 1 Killed, 1 Hurt

RENNES, France, Sept. 7.—[U. P.]—A plane engaged in a military cup race, swerving to avoid a group of children, crashed today, killing Capt. Petitot and gravely injuring Capt. Lambert.

U. S. DECIDES NOT TO WORRY ABOUT TOKENS FOR TAX

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Federal officials appeared resigned today to putting up with the so-called "bottle top" and other tokens some states are issuing for payment of sales taxes.

Failing in an effort to get congress to authorize coining of midget money for making fraction-of-a-cent change, Secretary Morgenthau indicated federal action to prevent states from making tokens looking like money was up to the justice department.

But the latter agency said today it was doing nothing and that it was up to the treasury.

Treasury officials explained that so long as the states confine their tokens to pieces which may not be mistaken for money—the original treasury objection—they did not intend to become involved in a legal controversy over federal authority to say what states could or could not do.

MUSEUMS FAVOR PLAN OF EVENING HOURS FOR PUBLIC

Art Institute Leads Way by Extending Service.

Chicago's public, especially that part of it which must work for a living, soon may have an opportunity to visit museums and additional libraries during evening after-work hours, it appeared yesterday after the attention of directors had been called to the need for such an extension of "open" hours in an editorial in THE TRIBUNE. Interviews with officials of the city's museum and institutes revealed general approval of the idea.

The editorial emphasized that while the Chicago public library is open until 10 p. m. on week days and the Newberry library is open until 9 p. m. and the Adler Planetarium is open two evenings a week, the Field museum, Art institute, and the Aquarium close at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and the doors of the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson It was emphasized that while open only until 6 o'clock.

This circumstance, it was pointed out, robs the adult public, especially workers, of an opportunity to visit the cultural centers, since "the evening hours and only the evening hours are convenient for the great number of men and women who are employed during the day.

Favored at Crerar.

Eugene M. Stevens, an officer of Crerar library, indorsed the plan to remain open evenings.

Charles H. Burkholder, secretary and business manager of the Art institute, declared he favors evening hours and forthwith announced that the institute library will remain open Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings from 6 o'clock until 9:30 o'clock during winter evenings.

"We would like to keep the Art institute open also," he said, "but it appears the public is not interested in art in the evening. They seem to favor libraries. The institute was open during the World's Fair, but the public did not show its appreciation by patronizing it."

Museum Costs Too High.

Stephen C. Simms, director of Field museum, said that because of the added expenses of lighting and heating and the fact that few visitors appeared during an experimental period it was found advisable to abandon the idea of evening hours in the second year of the World's Fair. "The administration of Field museum is eager to extend the institution's usefulness, but nevertheless must be governed by considerations of practicability," Mr. Simms said.

Walter H. Chute, director of Shedd aquarium, declared that the cost of operating water-penetrating lights is too great there. "We tried evening hours and the light bill was greater than the income," he said.

The Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park "will remain open any evening for organizations which can guarantee 200 or more visitors," O. T. Kruesser, director, said. "We hope to remain open one night a week in the near future and to increase this to additional nights if the patronage justifies it," the director added.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY HAS 33% INCREASE IN SEASON'S VISITORS

The museum of the Chicago Historical society in Lincoln park was visited during the summer months by 33 per cent more persons than entered during the summer of 1934, according to H. L. Shattuck, director of the museum.

During June, July, and August, he said yesterday, some 29,806 adults and children were visitors. To a large extent, Mr. Shattuck attributes this increase to A Century of Progress, which made Chicagoans more conscious of the city's history and relics.

Reports from four other museums indicated that 912,706 persons have taken advantage of these offerings during the summer. These institutions are the Field Museum of Natural History, the Art institute, the Shedd aquarium, and the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park.

While the first three of these had lesser attendance than during 1934, it was pointed out that World's Fair visitors made up much of last year's crowd, while this year there was an increase in local attendance.

Musician Prefers Autos So His Wife Gets Divorce

Alus Armer, a musician formerly with Paul Whiteman, loved fine motor cars more than he loved her, his wife, Mrs. Sylvia Armer, 32 years old, a singer, at the Club Alabam, charged yesterday as she won a divorce by default before Circuit Judge Walter J. La Buy. Mrs. Armer testified that from their marriage in 1927 in New York, until they separated on July 5, 1935, Armer purchased 13 automobiles, but thought little about her support.

PARADE TO OPEN NORTH SIDE WEEK OF HOMECOMING

The north side homecoming festival is to open tomorrow night with a parade and wind up next Sunday with go-to-church day. Merchants and residents are putting up elaborate decorations for the district's first civic enterprise of the sort in several years.

Tomorrow's parade will move in Belmont avenue from Wilton avenue to Racine avenue, thence north to Addison street, where it is to turn about and retrace its route.

Tuesday will be industrial exhibits day with displays in all stores of the neighborhood. On Wednesday there is to be street dancing at Belmont and Wilton, and at Aldine avenue and Clark street. Thursday will be "guessing day" at the stores. Friday will be junior Olympic day with games and contests for children, and at night boxing and wrestling exhibitions. Saturday is to be dollar sales day.

CHARITY GROUPS UNITE FOR TAG DAY TOMORROW

Settle Differences to Aid 51 City Institutions.

"Have a heart for charity's sake," the annual appeal to citizens of Chicago which last year pushed the Chicago Federated Charities and the Chicago Associated Charities into bitter warfare will draw them together tomorrow in a united tag day.

The effect of this union, the result of aldermanic arbitration, will be seen from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. tomorrow when 5,000 women representing the two associations patrol the streets of Chicago and the suburbs with baskets of heart-shaped tags.

In exchange for the tags they will receive dimes and dollars which will go to 51 charities ranging from orphanages to sanitariums affiliated in the two organizations. Sixteen are members of the Federated Charities, thirty-five of the Associated Charities.

Ignore Old Controversy.

The amity which Henry W. King, president of the federated group, and Mrs. Sarah Sherry, president of the associated group, have promised Ald. Walter Orlikoski [35th], chairman of the city council tag day committee, will be a pleasant—and, the presidents hope, a profitable—change from last year, when the federated group, then headed by Mrs. Frank M. Specht, refused to tag on the same day as the associated group because their charities were not endorsed by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The charities still are unendorsed, but both sides are ignoring that factor as the council tag day committee has investigated and approved of them all. Last year the federated charities, irate because it always has considered "have a heart" day as its personal property, held its own tag day, without a permit, four days in advance of the authorized date. Many of its workers were removed from the streets by police.

Think Only of Needy.

U. S. BOAT RACES TO SETH PARKER'S AID IN PACIFIC

Ship's Crew Fights to Keep Vessel Afloat.

HONOLULU, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The luckless schooner Seth Parker, once proud broadcast ship that became a fish carrier, labored through mid-Pacific waters today depending on a wornout set of pumps to keep her afloat while a coast guard patrol boat raced to her aid.

She was 600 miles southeast of Honolulu. Her crew of 15 was without food. Her pumps were in danger of failing any minute and she was reported taking water at the rate of five feet daily in calm weather and double that amount in choppy seas.

The patrol boat Tiger, which left here last night, reported she might be able to reach the stricken vessel by tomorrow night.

Tells of Ship's Plight.

Until a queer set of circumstances ended her career a few months ago as a ship of romance, the Seth Parker was the globe circling ship of Phillips Lord, radio entertainer.

A radio message to the coast guard from Frank Eckman, skipper of the Seth Parker, revealed details of her predicament late last night.

"Main pump now beyond repair," Eckman said. "As long as pumps work there is no alarm. However these may stop any minute. Electric power is in danger of being put out by bilge water, so if our radio should stop it would be due to this. Pumps may last into Honolulu. If so, O.K."

Faces Calm Weather.

Commander William Derby, commander of the coast guard cutter Itasca here, said the Seth Parker had no chance of finding heavy weather.

Several years ago Lord conceived the idea of buying the schooner, naming it after the character he portrayed, and sailing around the world, broadcasting as he went. The voyage started from Maine.

Ill fortune soon attended the trip, and the broadcasts were abandoned. Little was heard of the Seth Parker until last February, when she was damaged seriously by a typhoon near Samoa.

She sent out SOS calls and several ships responded, including the British warship Australia. The Seth Parker refused the aid of the warship, giving rise to reports the SOS call was a hoax. It was shown later, however, that the schooner was in distress when the call was wirelessed.

Storm Carries Away Mast.

In a disabled condition, the Seth Parker was towed to Samoa by a United States navy boat and the world cruise was abandoned. Another crew started to take her to Honolulu several weeks ago. A short distance from Tutuila a storm carried away the topmast, forcing a return to Samoa.

During her second attempt to reach Hnolulu, Capt. Eckman wirelessed last week his food supply was running low, and the coast guard planned to send supplies aboard the cutter Itasca, scheduled to sail from here on Wednesday.

Garage Helper Challenges Crop Reduction Program

A lone stalk of popcorn growing in front of the East End garage, 205 East Chicago avenue, has provided passersby all summer with a rural touch in metropolitan surroundings. In the midst of the city's steel and stone and the hubbub of a business street, the plant has flourished as naturally as if it had been in a farmer's field. It now is nearly six feet high and has one ear. The single seed was planted last spring by a washer at the garage who had been reading about the government's crop reducing program.

BREATHING SPELL PROMISE MAY BE 1936 BOOMERANG

Business Fears Renewed New Deal Attack.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—For the first time in the hectic week which he has passed since his retreat to the summer White House last Sunday President Roosevelt rested today. He transacted no official business of any kind, but spent most of the morning reading newspaper editorial reaction to his "business breathing spell" announcement yesterday.

The President's complacency concerning his overtures to industry, generally regarded among his advisers as a smart political move, was reported to have been somewhat disturbed when it was pointed out in several quarters that the phrase "breathing spell" may well prove a boomerang in the 1936 campaign.

The picture, certainly not intended to be offered by the President, was of industry, groggy under repeated punishment from the New Deal being given a short respite before the battering began again.

Farley Behind Letter.

However, the immediate bullish response of the stock market to the President's letter gratified the executive, it was said, and in general he was pleased with the response to his latest promise. Observers saw the hand of Postmaster General James A. Farley in the general tone of the letter. Mr. Farley last week, after his visit to the President here, admitted encountering some difficulties in obtaining contributions from business to the presidential campaign and is said to have urged upon his chief a more conciliatory attitude toward capital.

Observers, after careful study of the letter, saw that the President had, in effect, laid down the platform upon which he will appeal to the people next year for reëlection—with two notable exceptions. There was no reference in the letter to his attitude toward the constitution and he omitted to state his stand upon utilities and the power question. He probably will discuss the latter in his Boulder dam speech on his western trip late this month, it was said.

Court Rulings Awaited.

But all the implications to be drawn from the President's letter rest upon the supposition, which the President did not mention, that the Supreme court will uphold constitutionality of the major New Deal acts, it was pointed out. Rulings on the AAA, the Bankhead cotton act, the Guffy coal act, and other New Deal measures are expected before the 1936 congress adjourns, with the extreme probability that some at least will be ruled unconstitutional.

In his speech to his neighbors last week, the President hinted that he was in favor of "rewiring and repairing" the constitution. By means of a parable he compared the repairs now going on at the White House to the innovations and changes he deems necessary in the constitution if it hampers his program for "recovery and reform." It was believed possible that he would not become more definite until the first Supreme court decisions on New Deal measures are handed down.

Will Stand on Record.

Among promises seen in the letter were the following:

1. That the President will make no new recommendations of important economic or social character to the next session of the congress.

2. That he will make his program as it now stands the 1936 campaign issue, defying the Republican party to oppose his major objectives.

Late this afternoon the President attended with Mrs. Roosevelt a clam bake on the estate of Morgenthau, his neighbor.

REPUBLICANS INC. BACK KNOX FOR PRESIDENCY RACE

The Illinois unit of Young Republicans, Inc., a national organization, made public yesterday its indorsement of Frank Knox, Chicago newspaper publisher and editor, for the Republican nomination for the presidency of the United States.

"The Young Republicans," read the statement, "have faith in his idealism and integrity, his outspoken and sincere voice in national affairs, his individuality and his freedom from political entanglements."

The announcement was signed by R. N. Ingelson, president of the Young Republican organization of Illinois; County Commissioner W. N. Erickson, chairman of its executive committee; Frank Sims, president of Young Republicans Inc.; Allan Healy and Thomas J. Downs, vice presidents, and Deneen Watson, secretary.

HERITAGE OF NATION SQUANDERED, ASSERTS THEODORE ROOSEVELT

Portsmouth, N. H., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Col. Theodore Roosevelt told a young Republican rally here tonight the nation's heritage has been squandered by "opportunist politicians and crackpot professors."

As he swept to the conclusion of his address, Roosevelt shouted: "I believe in the constitution. I believe that congress should make the laws and impose the taxes, not the President.

"I believe in the Supreme court as it stands now, not in subordinating it to the executive and to congress. I believe in states' rights. I believe in personal liberty.

"I believe that the government of this country must not be alienated from the hands of the people. I believe in the American republic and will give to the uttermost to the end that it may not perish."

Former U. S. Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire asserted "the great majority of senators as well as the great majority of members of the house of representatives have been voting blindly for more than two years for measures which they have not read, the implication of which they do not know, and the consequences of which they totally disregard."

SUGGEST FORD AND DOUGLAS AS '36 G. O. P. TICKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—A Republican presidential ticket for 1936 headed by Henry Ford with Lewis W. Douglas, former budget director, for Vice President, has been suggested to the Republican national committee by a group of University of Pennsylvania professors, it was learned today.

Outlining what they believe is the best way to beat President Roosevelt, the professors declared that a Ford-Douglas ticket would reassure business, satisfy the Republicans who bolted Hoover in 1932, and win the support of Democrats alienated by New Deal radicalism.

Mr. Ford, although frequently mentioned for the presidency during preconvention manipulations, has stayed out of politics since he ran for the senate on a Republican ticket in 1918. Mr. Douglas frequently has reiterated his desire to stay out of the 1936 campaign.

Officials of the Republican national committee declined to make public the letter suggesting the Ford-Douglas ticket. They also withheld all comment.

M'NIDER TO TALK AT ANNUAL RALLY OF G. O. P. TODAY

Hanford MacNider, former national commander of the American Legion, will use the New Deal as his text in the principal speech to be made at the annual Republican rally at Riverview park this afternoon.

Unless the weather is rainy as it was on Labor day, the original date for the meeting, it is expected that a crowd of more than 100,000 will attend. The rally will be held in the picnic grove of the amusement park. Arthur F. Albert, chairman, said he was convinced that the delay had not been harmful and that the attendance will be better than it would have been on the holiday, when so many Chicagoans were out of town.

He announced that because there were reports that many had destroyed their Labor day tickets there will be representatives of the Republican organization to provide new tickets to all comers.

Gov. Davey Announces His Candidacy for Re-election

Kalida, O., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Gov. Martin L. Davey announced his candidacy for reëlection today amid the hog-calling and old fiddlers' contests of the annual Putnam county Pioneer association session. More than 5,000 persons heard him.

FIND GOVERNORS OF ILLINOIS GIVE UP LAW PRACTICE

Their Attitude Contrasted with Roosevelt's.

President Roosevelt's name continued to head the stationery of his law firm while he was governor of New York, but the living lawyer-governors of Illinois, it was learned yesterday, divorced themselves from private practice before or shortly after they went to the executive mansion at Springfield.

Three of the living former governors of this state were lawyers, as is the incumbent, Henry Horner. They are: Charles S. Deneen, Republican; Edward F. Dunne, Democrat, and Frank O. Lowden, Republican. Messrs. Horner, Deneen, Lowden, and Dunne said yesterday that they did not engage in practice while chief executives of Illinois.

"Roosevelt and O'Connor."

All through Mr. Roosevelt's stay at Albany, the name of "Roosevelt and O'Connor" remained on his firm's stationery. As governor Mr. Roosevelt took no outwardly active part in its affairs but the letterhead "stuck" even after he went to Washington as President. Such a letter bearing the date of May 15, 1933, was exhibited in Washington a few days ago.

Mr. Deneen said yesterday that he and his former law partner, Charles H. Hammill, dissolved their firm ten months after he became governor, or in October, 1905. "But before and after the dissolution," he added, "none of the firm did work for the state. I did not receive one cent from the practice of law while I was governor, nor did I during my two terms as state's attorney, from 1896 to 1904. The same, of course, was true when I was United States senator. It follows that my name did not appear upon the stationery of any firm while I was governor."

Dunne's Name Dropped.

Mr. Dunne was governor from 1912 to 1916, during the first Wilson administration. "Before I became governor," he said yesterday, "my firm was Dunne, Murphy & Dunne and consisted of myself, Daniel P. Murphy, and my son, Edward F. Dunne Jr. When I went to Springfield I retired from the firm and dropped my name from it. It continued as Murphy & Dunne, my son remaining with Mr. Murphy.

"I engaged in no law business and received no legal fees while governor," the 81 year old Mr. Dunne concluded.

Gov. Horner stepped into the executive mansion from the Cook county Probate bench, which he occupied for sixteen years before his election in November, 1932.

The governor said yesterday that he ceased all semblance of private practice when he mounted the Probate bench and has not since engaged in it. He has no office or firm connections now, he declared.

Mr. Lowden, in answer to a query, sent a telegram from his summer home at Alexandria Bay, N. Y., saying that he had not engaged in private practice of law while governor, and that his name did not appear on the stationery of any law firm while he was in office.

MICHIGAN DEMOCRATS TO SUPPORT COUZENS IF HE RUNS IN 1936

Lansing, Mich., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Democrats today settled into the task of reorganizing their party in Michigan for the 1936 campaign with a strong hint that they would accord their support to the nominally Republican United States Senator James Couzens should he stand for reëlection.

Couzens, recently seriously ill and now apparently convalescent after three operations, was sent a telegram by the Democratic state central committee, following a session here at which the "old guard" forces of Michigan democracy reassumed full control of the party machinery.

The committee turned over direction of its organization work to Donald W. Canfield as its new executive secretary. Canfield, a former secretary of the state organization and more recently its treasurer, will assume all the functions normally delegated to the chairman.

The chairman, Elmer B. O'Hara, Detroit, not only has incurred bitter enmity of such Democratic leaders as former Gov. William A. Comstock, National Committeeman Horatio S. Abbott, Ann Arbor, and W. Alfred Debo, former parole commissioner, but he has been shorn of his official powers through the machinations of the party leaders at a series of meetings since the biennial state convention at which O'Hara was elected.

O'Hara is under indictment for his part in conducting the "recount" fiasco of last December at which, a grand jury since has charged, ballot changing was indulged in by hand picked recount workers in an effort to defeat two Republican state candidates.

RELIGION AND THE CONSTITUTION.

In a talk to the Constitution Club of Wayne, in Du Page county, Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton, formerly chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, called attention to the meaning of the constitution for the churches. The freedom of religious belief which it guaranteed was unique in its day, and, although a liberalizing policy spread gradually to other parts of the civilized world, the present day condition of the churches in many great countries shows how freedom of conscience in religious faith has been impaired or destroyed by dictatorship.

Under our democratic constitution preserved as such no form of dictatorship is possible. That constitution must first be overridden or destroyed. Even under a constitutional monarchy liberties may be protected. It has been a historic inevitability that when religion and government have been joined either the state has dominated the church or the church has dominated the state. An all-powerful government means to be all-powerful and it seeks uniform compliance in all things.

For religious liberty it matters very little whether you have a church state or a state church. In the most liberal government of this sort nonconformity is put under many disabilities and in the least liberal it is suppressed. Absolutism seeks to make all men alike. It must do so because when it has expressed its will all must obey. There cannot be two opinions about anything. Religion being such a profound influence in life, directing so many of the acts of men, it is essential that dictatorship have control of the spiritual life.

The dictator may, as in Russia and wherever collectivism gets the upper hand, regard all religious belief as subversive and put it under the severest penalties, educating children away from it, closing the churches, and forbidding most of the ministrations of the clergy. The collectivists follow the Marxian doctrin that religion is an opium administered to the people by exploiters who are thereby able to keep them in economic serfdom. The Russians naturally followed the advice of Marx and proceeded to extirpate the church, destroying it physically as well as spiritually. Proletarian Mexico has been severely repressive of religious life, reducing the clergy to a fugitive condition and forbidding services and destroying sacraments. The Reds in Spain pursued the same course. Religion is sent back to the catacombs whenever collectivism gains the power to deal with faiths and creeds as it wishes to do.

Under a different type of dictatorship Germany is found offering another method of oppression. The Nazis endeavor to establish a strange and eccentric state religion, in its most extreme enthusiasms turning to paganism, and all the churches are put under compulsion to adopt and preach the Nazi creed. They resist and suffer. The clergymen are persecuted. Freedom of worship and liberty of conscience are impaired or destroyed. German churches are in the trenches defending rights which the imperial government had not taken away.

When the constitution prohibited the state establishment of religion and guaranteed religious freedom England had an established church and nonconformists had not escaped from many disabilities imposed upon them by governments which had tried to be dictatorial. America had been populated in part by people from all parts of Europe who had been unable to enjoy full civil, political, and economic freedom because of the creed they preferred and the churches to which their conscience led them. England was by far the most liberal of the large European countries, but its record had been one of savage repression of all but members of the dominant church. Religious intolerance in the days of Cromwell offset the revolutionary gains and Englishmen painfully struggled over a long course of years for what they might have had much earlier if they could have permitted religious freedom.

Americans may believe that their very nature would protect them from the loss of religious and other liberties, whether or not they were guaranteed by the supreme law. That is a complimentary thought and for many it is true, but Americans are not free from emotional fevers and they can act in prejudice and in passion. Any large body of citizens, any majority in any community, may in the heat of an intense conviction of right seek to impose its beliefs on the minorities. A religious conviction can be the most intense of all. It may seem a duty to compel conformity to the belief of the largest numbers. Freedom in religion is the exercised privilege of the freest people. As soon as they begin to lose liberty along any front they are preparing themselves for the loss of the right to order their own lives in all respects, including the right of worship, as they choose. The churches should be the stanchest defenders of the great charter of their free and independent existence.

A DIME A QUART.

The price of milk in Chicago has been reduced from 11 to 10 cents a quart, delivered to the householder. The price of milk on the farms has also been lowered. The fact that the new scale has been agreed upon between farmers and dairy companies without any resort to violence is an indication of a growing understanding of the economic principles which govern the business.

In the past too much effort has been devoted to raising the price of milk and keeping it up and too little effort has been exerted toward increasing the quantity sold. The mistake was a fundamental one. The farmers have not suffered so much from low prices as from insufficient markets. Jacking the price up, particularly in depression years, resulted in reduced sales. The consequence was an increase in the surplus, which had to be disposed of at a loss.

Higher prices imposed as a consequence of the drouth and the enforced reduction in corn acreage did the farmers no good. The attempts of AAA to control the market in the supposed interest of the farmers and at the expense of the consumers were a complete flop. The plentiful hay crops this year and the favorable outlook for corn have made possible a lowering of the price. More fluid milk should be consumed than before, particularly in view of the high prices of many other foodstuffs which the AAA has brought about. The competitive position of milk has been improved.

The outlook for the dairy farmers improves as the interference of the government in the milk market grows less. The next step in the restoration of the business should be concentration upon quality. Whatever is wrong with the dairy business can be righted if quality and price are made sufficiently attractive to increase the volume of sales.

THE SO-CALLED DOPE EVIL.

The United States finally discovered, at a cost in money and social damage which even now is not fully reckoned, the folly of attempting legislative redemption of drunkards at the expense of the sober. It is time that it gave consideration to the wisdom of the parallel attempt to redeem dope addicts at the expense of the suffering.

It is doubtful that the Harrison narcotics act has appreciably decreased the number of addicts. After a quarter of a century of enforcement its violators are the most numerous class of federal prisoners. After "curing" thousands of addicts, physicians and prison authorities find that thrift is the predominating motive in submitting to such treatment. The "cured" addict can get along on smaller doses.

Physicians can adduce considerable proof of the contention that drug addicts are born, not made. A survey of addicts in Chicago, made by Bingham Dai, a graduate student at the University of Chicago, showed that as respects nationality, adult age groups, and other social factors, addicts were a fairly representative cross-section of society. Other than in respect to their addiction they were not markedly criminal. Much more significant than these external characteristics was his conclusion, based on more than a thousand interviews, that the typical addict "has an infantile type of personality . . . tends to depend upon others . . . refuses to face his own problems."

The Harrison act has placed harsh restrictions on the legitimate use of one of the most beneficent classes of drugs known to medicine. It has failed to restrain use of such drugs by addicts, and at the same time, by making them contraband and therefore expensive, has made the addict a more dangerous member of society by increasing his temptation to the crime necessary to satisfy his wants.

Science promises to wipe out soon the last excuse for the present restrictive legislation. It has already produced a nonhabituating substitute for cocaine. Similar substitutes for morphine and other opium derivatives have been prepared and are being tested at present as to their habit-forming qualities. It will never be desirable that narcotics, even if nonhabituating, be sold as freely as aspirin or baking soda, but the present futile attempt to regulate their sale by criminal statutes is just as undesirable.

SANTA CLAUS IS NOT ENOUGH.

The indignation of some southern senators against the administration's new cotton scheme needs more explaining than it has had. The senators profess to be alarmed on behalf of the cotton farmers, but it is difficult to see how the farmers have been injured by the new arrangement. The plantation owners were on Santa Claus' preferred list before and they are still on it. The poor whites and poor Negroes were on the outside before and they still are on the outside.

The senators who should have howled but didn't are those who represent the taxpaying states like Illinois and New York. Their constituents were the victims of the old 12 cent loan arrangement and they are the victims of the new 10 cent loan and 2 cent subsidy. The losses under either scheme are coming out of the treasury. Under the old scheme the government lent the farmers more than their cotton was worth and thus found itself in possession, at a loss, of some 5 million bales of cotton which had been posted as collateral. Under the new scheme the government will lend less but will dip into the treasury to make an outright gift of the difference between the market price and 12 cents, whatever it may be. If spot cotton drops to 10 cents a pound the treasury will have to pay out 100 million dollars of money it hasn't got. Our grandchildren will have some of that debt to pay off.

The new scheme does hurt speculators who had put faith in the promises of the cotton senators that the 12 cent loan would be continued. The price of cotton in the futures markets has fallen since the announcement was made. The speculators on the long side have lost money.

Can it be that the cotton senators are really concerned not for the farmers but for the speculators? And if so, why? The senate investigates everything else. Why not take time out to investigate the curious behavior of its own members?

A REAL NEED.

The judge asked a Negro in court if he wanted a lawyer.

"No, suh. I don't want no lawyer, but I suttenly could use a couple of good witnesses."—Toronto Globe.

THE COST OF A YEAR AT COLLEGE

BY FRED H. TURNER.
Dean of Men, University of Illinois.

What is the cost of a year in a college or university? What is the cost of a house or the cost of an automobile?

You can answer the first question, just as you could answer the second. You can buy an automobile for $10 which may run for a time at least. You can buy a house for $100, but it won't be much of a house. You can pay for a year of college or university work by spending just about any amount you want to.

I know a boy who graduated in June, 1935, who finished as an honor student and who spent less than $500 in cash during the four years. I know another boy whose father advanced him over $2,000 last year and he finished the year with several debts in the college community.

Several of the insurance companies and the bureau of education of the department of the interior have compiled booklets of information about the costs of going to college, with specific figures for various institutions. A glance through these booklets will show that the prospective student can pay just about any amount, depending on where he goes.

If students and their parents will study the matter carefully they can determine to within a few dollars a year's cost in any college.

The items which make up a budget for a year are easy to list if you are familiar with college life and are very difficult to list if you are not.

Tuition makes up the first item. It may be called tuition, or an incidental fee, or a semester tax, or any one of a number of things, but it is the amount of money which the student must pay to the business office of the institution each semester or quarter during the year. It is usually called tuition and is paid two or three times during a college year, depending on whether the institution is on the semester or the quarter plan. In addition to the tuition there are certain fees and deposits which must be paid each semester or quarter, depending on the course the student is following. Almost all laboratory courses have a fee connected with them to pay for materials or breakage of equipment.

Most new students must pay an entrance fee the first time they register in a college or university and another fee at the time they graduate. Deposits are sometimes required for military equipment or for special equipment in any course. Locker fees are required for gymnasium work, and hospital or dispensary fees may be required or optional. A good many colleges and universities have an activity fee which is charged each semester. Under the general classification of tuition and fees would come all charges which are made against a student each semester or quarter of registration.

Tuition is not usually the largest expense. Board and room make up the largest item. If the student lives in a university dormitory there is a set amount which he pays for board and room for each semester or quarter. If he lives in a fraternity house or she lives in a sorority house there is a stated bill for each month which pays room and board, national dues, and usually the social assessments for the year, so that the one bill is a complete bill for the month. In the first year, if there is membership in a fraternity or sorority, there is the initiation fee to be paid, which varies with the different organizations. If the student lives in a private room or a private rooming house there is a monthly rental to be met. Board in private homes or boarding clubs is usually a set amount per week or month. If the student "eats around," at restaurants, tearooms, and so on, the board will run a little higher, but can be determined for a weekly or monthly average. Board and room make half or more than half of the total annual expense. Of course, if the student works for either board or room, as a number of students do, the amount in the total budget may be reduced accordingly.

Clothing is the next item, which may or may not be a considerable sum. It probably is the most elastic item to be considered in any college student's budget. Recent trends in clothing as worn by both college men and women have been such that the student who is clever can keep the figure for this item low and still be reasonably well dressed and in keeping with his fellow students.

Textbooks are a fixed cost, with new textbooks costing from $3 to $5 per course. If a student registers for a program of four courses he should figure on books costing him from $12 to $20 per semester. If he buys second hand books he can cut this figure in two.

Laundry, cleaning, and pressing make a sizable amount in the course of a year's time. Many students send their laundry home by mail to be done in the family washing and mailed back in a laundry bag at a cost of a few cents a week. If done near the campus, laundry will cost from $1 to $3 a week. Cleaning and pressing costs can be entered in the budget at about the same figure as that which the student is accustomed to paying at home. Repairs on clothing and shoes can be entered as a subitem.

A figure should be established in the college budget for doctor bills. It need not be a large figure if the student has always had good health, but some of the healthiest find that they have doctor bills to be met, and an item of $10 to $25 should be included for this possibility. An item for dentist bills should also be included unless the student plans to have all dental work done at home.

There may be an item for local transportation for cab and street car fare, depending on the residence of the student in relation to the college and the business section of the community where it is located. The student probably will want to purchase an "athletic book," which is a student coupon book of admissions to all athletic events and which costs from $6 to $10 per year. Many students like to subscribe to the college newspaper and purchase a copy of the college annual, the two costing from $6 to $10 per year. Many students attend church regularly and like to include an item in their budgets for church contributions. Recreation is an elastic figure, for movies, for bowling, or for any other form of recreation; it may range from nothing up to whatever amount the student feels should be included.

Finally a miscellaneous item should be included, at from 5 to 10 per cent of the total up to that point, to take care of unforeseen contingencies. Changes, of course, unexpected travel expense, gifts, additional book purchases, emergency expenses of a good many kinds, can arise, especially during the first and last years.

It is not a difficult matter to secure from any institution or college or university the information as to what these various items will cost on any particular campus. Made up in tabular form, it is an easy matter to determine what a year or what the four years will cost in any particular college or university.

It makes a good business proposition where the family can afford it to establish a reasonable budget figure, set the monthly allowance, and then let the student operate as any young business man or woman would, with a profit for himself if he operates under his budget or at a loss which he will have to meet if he expends more than his budget allows.

ACCIDENTS AND OUR MENTAL ATTITUDE.

MY, but we are funny! Yes, funny, strange, odd, peculiar, and all too often heedless. Many of us are indifferent to those about us. Perhaps we do not mean to be, but we are. If a neighbor's house is burglarized we hear about it and say, "Well, I'm glad it isn't our home." If fire burns a section of the city, it's bad, very bad—but "it didn't touch us." Events must come pretty close home; else we go our ways complacently, treading our singularly narrow paths. We fail utterly to recognize in oft repeated occurrences trends and tendencies that sooner or later will affect each of us.

It is only on this basis that we can explain the public apathy to motor car accident, and the failure of legislatures, courts, and officials to take such drastic action that the wholesale slaughter shall cease. Even with existing laws, injuries and deaths can be greatly reduced. Safety campaigns in industry are being waged with great effect, and their results on the whole are little short of remarkable. Nevertheless one side of accident prevention has been neglected, namely, the psychological reaction of the individual to the entire accident prevention program. Preaching may be overdone, for after a time one becomes calloused to frequent warnings and fails to develop a personal responsibility. He is inclined to take the attitude that no tragedy has ever come to him, therefore none will.

Accidents don't just happen. They are due for the most part to some one's neglect or fault. The man whose mental reactions are sluggish, who is unwilling to coöperate and disinclined to take suggestions, will be responsible for the greatest number of errors in his work, and ultimately the greatest number of accidents. The point is strongly stated by D. R. Grannis that, unless the mental attitude of a considerable number of workers in industry and drivers of commercial and private motor vehicles can be changed, no great reduction in accidents can be anticipated. Grannis urges a mental hygiene program that would include testing of mental speed and accuracy, quickness of perception, and ability to remember. Just as the industrial worker says, "It will never happen to me," so the motor car driver admits that he has unusual skill in managing his car and hence accidents cannot happen to him. In crossing a thoroughfare at 50 miles an hour his attitude is either, "I'll risk it," or "Let the other fellow look out for me."

Lack of alertness, of concentration, of satisfaction in one's work, and thoughts that go woolgathering are invitations to error. Sometimes a worker dislikes his job; chafes under rules he thinks unjust; feels that he is underpaid. Or he may be unhappy at home; rebellious against badly cooked meals or a slovenly and inefficient housekeeper. Such a man cannot properly keep his wits about him during his working day. School teachers have learned that pupils not infrequently will do poor work and become inattentive and mischievous simply because the tasks assigned them are too easy. They have no incentive or interest. So it is with a man who is tired of his job, or his home.

Surroundings that fail to disturb certain phlegmatic temperaments will irritate others. If there is a tremendous amount of unnecessary noise, if toilet conditions are insanitary and foul, if ventilation is inadequate, if there is a lack of neatness, order, and system throughout an entire plant, carelessness, with disordered mental reactions, cannot but result.

Again, if one is fatigued, has not slept well, or has been up all night with a "sick friend," really clear thinking for the next day and possibly for two or three ensuing days will be difficult. We cannot fail to agree that mental fatigue, staleness, and monotony are prime factors in accident causation.

Physical handicaps, of course, play a vital rôle, and eyesight is of the greatest importance. Pain or illness of any character will also prove distracting.

If the number of accidents is to be lowered we must doff the mantle of indifference just because certain incidents do not at the moment concern us. We must insist upon the drivers' passing rigorous tests covering mental alertness, intelligence, and sense of responsibility. These are of far greater importance than the mere fact that they are of age. If people cannot be aroused or are unwilling to "take care," more drastic, enforceable laws will be required. The mounting slaughter must stop.

STREPTOCOCCI.

S. E. B. writes: I recently lost my brother, aged 33 years, with hemolytic streptococcus. What is this disease? How is it contracted? What is the treatment?

REPLY.

Hemolytic streptococcus is an organism that may gain entrance to the blood stream through wounds, cuts, or abrasions of the skin; or through tonsils, teeth, sinuses, etc. The first objective is to avoid the presence of this vicious bacterium by removing all possible foci of infection. Prompt attention to injuries—no matter how slight—is imperative. Allow penetrating wounds to bleed freely, and use hot water on cuts, etc.

Should large numbers of streptococci gain entrance to the blood stream they may attack the heart, the joints, and many other parts of the body. In spite of everything that can be done the mortality is high. Antistreptococcic serum is said to be of value in some cases and blood transfusions are of considerable help.

OF LITTLE IMPORTANCE.

J. B. writes: My daughter suffered from pleurisy with effusion, and it was necessary to release the fluid by inserting a needle into the chest. The next day the physician stated that a collapse of the lung had occurred. What does this mean and has it any serious significance?

REPLY.

Whenever the pleura becomes inflamed fluid may be secreted in considerable quantities and interfere with the expansion of the lung. It is good practice to release this fluid by tapping the pleural space. Sometimes the needle will allow air to enter the lung, or it occasionally happens that after the fluid has been released the lung will expand rather rapidly and there may be a rupture of some of the air sacs. The air, however, usually absorbs in a few days and this temporary pneumothorax is of little importance.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI.—For about eight years two military leaders in south China have been drilling troops and storing up ammunition with the sole object of wresting control of the government of China from Gen. Chiang Kai-shek.

They are Generals Li Tsung-jen and Bei Chung-hsi, joint controlers of Kwangsi province. Li is 45 years old and Bei is 42. Both participated in the nationalist drive from Canton to the Yangtze valley in 1926-27 with Chiang. They quarreled with Chiang a year later and Chiang defeated them and compelled them to return to the south while he became generalissimo and military dictator of the recognized central government at Nanking.

Most persons believe China will have another revolutionary outburst, and when it comes Kwangsi military leaders are likely to be in the center of it. Some think Kwangsi may usurp Canton's traditional leadership of Chinese revolutions.

The virile mountaineers who make up the population of Kwangsi have often contributed to violent political developments. The Taiping rebellion, which the Chinese staged contemporaneously with the civil war in the United States, started in Kwangsi. The Taipings killed some 40 million persons before they were suppressed. On other occasions the Kwangsi people have swept down on the Canton merchants and compelled them to disgorge riches squeezed from the people in the hinterland.

It is a common saying in the south that one Kwangsi soldier is worth ten of the heavier men of the north and twenty of those from the Canton rice paddies.

Kwangsi's grudge against Chiang is based on the contention that Kwangsi troops bore the brunt of the fiercest battles of the revolutionary drive in 1926-'27, but derived little or no benefits therefrom.

Kwangsi is one of the smallest of the Chinese provinces, being about the size of Nebraska. Its population, never accurately counted, has been estimated at from six to ten millions. The area is almost entirely mountainous. Its resources are limited, but it enjoys one important advantage—three or four other provinces, still further inland, must move their goods across Kwangsi to reach the world's markets at Canton. This offers opportunity for tax imposts on goods in transit, particularly opium. Hence, Kwangsi has managed to maintain a fairly strong army.

For the past eight years Generals Bei and Li have been staging a reconstruction program which has almost completely transformed Kwangsi's medieval villages to modern towns. Agricultural conditions have been improved and some industries have been started.

But of most importance has been the military development. No one knows definitly how many soldiers are in the province, but the Kwangsi army for the past several years has received the most strenuous training of any military force in the country. Kwangsi was the first province to inaugurate universal military conscription for all able bodied men, the training extending down through the schools to the lower grades.

LAKE FRONT PROPERTY.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am the owner of lake property at a nearby inland lake in Wisconsin. I have had this property for about eighteen years, during which period I have spent much time in making a bathing beach in the lake. I have a pier extending into the water about sixty feet long. I also have benches at the shore to sit on. 1. What are the laws governing the use and ownership of a pier, bathing beach, shoreline, and the trespassing along the shore line? The reason for these questions is this: My beach, being a made one and the only good swimming place on this particular side of the lake, has become a "public beach," so to speak. Now that I try to reason with the people using it they tell me that I have no right to govern them. 2. I would like to have all the information I can get about this.

1. Your rights to this property, just as your rights to other property, depend on the previous history of the title.

2. If you wish to try to force matters you should employ an attorney.

BANK DEPOSIT INSURANCE.

Chicago, Aug. 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Recently we discussed the insurance applying to deposits in banks from the smaller amounts up to five thousand, and under what conditions this affects amounts over five thousand. The main point to be settled in this debate, after all is said and done, is an account up to five thousand fully secured? Is the depositor fully protected against any unforeseen failure of a bank? F. T.

We would say that the protection is complete for legal purposes. If you wish to go into the matter at length we would suggest that you discuss it with your banker.

PROPERTY CONVEYANCE.

Carmi, Ill., Aug. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The grantor, A, conveyed a parcel of land to his daughter, B, "for and during her natural life only, and at her death to her bodily heirs." B has several children, all of whom some years afterward, being of legal age, conveyed their interest in said parcel of land to her. The various formalities in the execution of the deeds, as to husbands and wives [where married] joining, acknowledging, recording, and delivery, are all regular. Saving, of course, the possibility of additional heirs [a remote contingency owing to age of B], does she hold a good, merchantable title to said land? M. A.

It has been held that a "clause in deed granting 'to W. and his heirs, the issue of his body,' held sufficient to show intention to create a fee descendible to lineal heirs, and to create an estate in fee tail at common law, which by virtue of section 6 of the Illinois conveyance act gave grantee an estate for his natural life only, with remainder in fee simple absolute to the immediate heirs of his body, leaving the reversion in the grantor and his heirs. Farmer v. Reed, 335 Ill. 156."

It would follow that you should obtain deeds covering the grantor's reversion. Employ an attorney.

MORE ABOUT SPELLING.

Evanston, Ill., Sept. 5.—Your reader C. J. Kennedy, who objects to the spelling of Addis Ababa, should stop a moment to ponder before letting off steam. Any country has a right to its conventions in these matters. We don't spell Rome the way they do in Rome, either; nor Vienna as they do in Vienna. I wonder what the people of Shanghai or of Tokyo [Tokio?] think of our orthography for their towns? Mr. Kennedy might be appalled if he knew what the French do with such names as Moses, Plato, New Orleans, Nebuchadrezzar [or Nebuchadnezzar, or Nabu-kudurri-usur] and Rheims. And how does THE TRIBUNE spell Flagstaff, Arizona?

The European papers use Mr. Kennedy's spelling, Addis Abeba, but that is no reason why we should, although it has its incidental interest. It would seem to indicate that the correct pronunciation of the second word is as I heard it recently in an American newsreel—to accent the first or the third syllable, and not as in the jingle:

"Addis Ababa—Blackshirt,
Have you any wool?"

Having upheld THE TRIBUNE in this detail, I should like to upbraid it in some others. Give us back our hyphens where they clarify an otherwise meaningless assortment of words; abbreviate "Ste. Gudule" consistently so, instead of once that way and once, less carefully, "St. Gudule," as I found it in today's account of Queen Astrid's funeral; capitalize "league" when you mean "League of Nations," and "little" when it modifies "entente," even when these expressions in turn are used as adjectives [the results otherwise are ambiguous, besides being barbarous in appearance. Why not write similarly: "The man had a new York license on his car?"]

THE WISCONSIN OUTLOOK.

Salem, Wis., Sept. 2.—This section of Wisconsin—Kenosha county—was settled by true Americans, largely from New York state, descendants of those who fought in the war for independence, but time and other factors have wrought a big change. Today we have a little of everything, with the true American stock sadly in the minority, and the La Follettes and Roosevelt are the idols of the hour.

Some weeks ago your paper had made mention of the fact that a coalition of the Republicans and true Democrats would be a desirable thing to effect for the coming election of 1936. In this you are absolutely correct, as far as I can judge from local conditions, and I hope your paper will exert its greatest influence in that direction.

The Republican party cannot hope to carry anything here, and neither can the real Democrats, but by pooling their strength much can be accomplished. As far as I can judge from what I see, the situation is desperate, but I am not so despairing as to admit defeat, for there are plenty of right thinking people if all are gathered under one leadership to put us back on the right path.

SECOND LESSON IN ETHIOPIAN.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—The complaint in regard to your correspondent's spelling Addis Ababa for the capital of Ethiopia seems to have just basis in the stationery of Haile Selassie's executive offices. However, these offices use the French language, in which the spelling is Addis Abeba. English and American usage, both in and out of Ethiopia, so far as I know, sanctions the spelling Addis Ababa. A much worse case is the name of the large river and important railway station in Ethiopia usually written Hawash by English-speaking people but transformed by the French to Auache.

AGAINST A HEALTH TAX.

Chicago, Sept. 3.—One of your contributors thinks it would be a good idea to tax people who are healthy to help the more unfortunate ones. I am sure at least 75 per cent of the people who are ailing in some manner are to be blamed themselves or else their parents neglected their children's diets.

Young people in their teens start their own downfall by habits such as excessive drinking, smoking, and chewing tobacco. There are hundreds of ailments that can be traced to the above.

I myself have never smoked, nor do I drink. At the age of 13 I represented my grammar school as the healthiest boy in the posture contest conducted in the Chicago schools. Now at the age of 22 I am thankful that I am healthy and give credit to my parents for starting me out right.

We pay real estate taxes of $72 per year. The licenses on my car cost $22 per year [city and state]. On every gallon of gas that I buy there is a tax. On every dollar that I spend there is a three cent sales tax. I pity the people who have to pay income tax and personal property tax besides.

Out of my $20 per week I should start to pay tax to help those who neglected themselves!

HEALTHY TAXPAYER.

CLOGGED SEWERS.

Chicago, Aug. 30.—I wish to draw attention to the great quantity of dirt, sand, and leaves that is washed into the sewers of this city by the heavy rains we have, and especially this year, when the streets are in such a deplorable condition.

Another condition that is equally bad, if not worse, is the amount of dirt, and sand, and cinders, etc., that is washed down from the hundreds of railroad elevations, which were never properly finished, into the streets and sewers.

All of these sewers have a catch basin that is supposed to catch the dirt. These catch basins could never hold the dirt and sand that goes into them, especially under these viaducts. They have not been cleaned since last summer and the consequence is that the dirt is being forced into these sewers by the heavy rains. This sand and dirt go to the bottom of the sewer to stay there.

Business men and property owners and improvement associations have been complaining about flooded basements for years, but the aldermen and city officials have made no attempt to remedy these conditions.

G. A. R. Vanguard Average Age 91 Years.

they can march under the flag they fought under, I shall have great pleasure in telling 'them' to go to hell. Of course, I shall say it pleasantly."

Judge Advocate Willett enlisted for the war three times, finally serving as bosun's mate in the Mississippi river fleet.

This whole Gettysburg matter will be taken up at one of Wednesday or Thursday's business sessions and what will happen then is indicated by present National Commander Alfred E. Stacey's pithy remark this morning about rebel flags.

Its Place "In Museum."

"The place," said he, "for the stars and bars of the confederacy is in a museum and not at the head of a parade.

"We welcome confederate veterans when they come north and we treat them royally while they are here. They give the Union veteran the same kind of welcome when he visits the south and treat him just as royally. No hard feelings—but display of their flag at Gettysburg; well, maybe we better wait a bit."

The national commander is a man of direct and prompt speech. When he arrived from his home in Elbridge, N. Y., near Syracuse, the reception committee suggested refreshments.

"Yes," said the man of 89 years, "I have had a long day on the train and I would enjoy refreshments."

"What can we serve you, commander?" asked Col. John G. Emery, once national commander of the American Legion.

He Asks for Scotch.

National Commander Stacey replied "Scotch and ginger ale"—and specifically named the brand of Scotch.

Hardness of hearing is the commander's only ailment. He dresses with scrupulous attention to pressing of uniform, freshness of linen and trimming of mustache. He enlisted for the last year of the war at the age of 18, and had three brothers in the war, all of whom came home safe. The commander was wounded twice in the hot battle of Cedar creek, one bullet nicking his nose and other tearing off one of his big toe nails. "You see," said he, "wounded at both ends." He was in the Ninth New York heavy artillery.

He spoke pleasantly of warfare, saying, "you know the 'nicest' fighting I ever had was before Fort Stedman in Virginia—very nice fighting."

Later Life "Even Nicer."

But his later life has been even nicer.

"You know, I never really lived till I was forty. Then my neighbors sent me down to the legislature. Then I saw there were a lot of fine things in life and a lot of fun."

After the battle of Cedar creek he was one of the sixteen in a company of 100 who came out of the murderous fight alive.

Now a grand old man—the kind of an American who makes you feel proud that you are his fellow citizen.

Already there is lively discussion and adroit maneuvering in the matter of the election of National Commander Stacey's successor next Thursday at the civil auditorium.

Four Candidates.

Four candidates are in the field.

"Four of us," said Comrade Oley Nelson of Slater, Ia., "and [with a laugh] I suspect something. The only reason we are in the field is because we all can still see and hear. Our total ages come to about three centuries and a half."

Mr. Nelson himself seems the nearest certain of success, partly, say the gossips, because he is the favorite candidate of Commander Stacey, "and you bet," they add, "Comrade Stacey runs this show—kindly, but firmly."

Succeeds Father in Ranks.

Mr. Nelson is 90 years old. His father was killed at the front while Oley was a cadet at West Point. When Oley received the news of his father's death he went home—home then in Wisconsin—kissed his mother good-by, and departed to take his father's place in the ranks.

The second candidate is Jacob Secrist, Cincinnati, O., aged 88; the third, Harding I. Merrill, Wichita, Kas., now senior vice commander and aged 91, and the fourth, George H. Pounder, Fort Atkinson, Wis., now junior vice commander.

Albert C. Estabrook, Grand Rapids, Mich., aged 89, is said by many to be the leading candidate for the office of senior vice commander.

Look to Policies.

Under the head of policies one of the most important questions to be taken up at the business session of the coming week is a rigorous reiteration of the G. A. R.'s principle of "keep hands off foreign brawls."

Emphasis on the need of national defense will also be voiced.

Next year's national encampment will almost surely be held in Washington, D. C. Congress has voted $15,000 for the payment of the members' hotel bills.

Angry at Doctor.

Latest news tonight is that Comrade John Thorn, aged 89, from Idaho—whence come six other delegates to this encampment—is "good and sore" over what his physician in Boise City just did to him.

In a voice that carried well in the Pantlind hotel's gorgeous lobby, Mr. Thorn said:

"My doctor, dang him, has made me quit cigars. Now he's put me on cigarets. That's an awful blow, but there's worse. He's made me quit dancing. Says it's too much of a heart strain at 89. No cigars, no dancing! I begin to feel that I'm ageing."

"Sons of Veterans."

Two G. A. R. men have just arrived who are not only members of that organization but eligible to membership in the organization known as the Sons of Veterans. They are Abel J. Barlow, aged 95, who came to Grand Rapids alone by train from his home in Oneonta, N. Y., and Calvin A. Brainard of Jackson, Mich. Mr. Barlow was in the 27th New York infantry during the civil war and his father in the 144th New York infantry. Mr. Brainard served in the 154th New York infantry and so did his father.

Mr. Barlow and Mr. Brainard met on the train as it was passing through Kalamazoo, got to visiting, and discovered what a strange and simultaneous background of service to the Union they and their fathers had.

Compute Membership.

Tonight's computations on present membership of the G. A. R. by officers of the G. A. R. have just been given out and they are as somber as they are interesting. Thus:

The peak of G. A. R. membership was reached in 1889 when it was 409,489. That was the year the encampment was held in Boston and on the day of the parade the men marched all day.

Tonight's figures show a living membership of 6,244.

Of actual functioning G. A. R. posts only 1,344 remain, and some of them have only 2 or 3 members.

1,565 Die in Year.

In the last year 1,565 members died, or about 20 per cent.

All told, both in the G. A. R. and out, there are about 13,000 Union veterans living out of an army that numbered during the civil war 2,128,948.

Thus passes one of the glories of the nation—the once mighty Grand Army of the Republic, which has justly been described as "a civic organization, where the only passport to fraternity is an honorable discharge."

BEATS COUPLE WITH FLATIRON AS THEY SLEEP

Mrs. Myrtle Brown, 30 years old, 1612 West 87th street, yesterday was in the Little Company of Mary hospital in Evergreen Park with a possible skull fracture while her husband, Clarence, 36 years old, aided Gresham police in a search for Harold McAuley, 32 years old, their brother-in-law, who attacked them with a flatiron early in the morning. Brown was discharged from the hospital after it was determined that the flatiron blow which knocked him unconscious had no serious effect.

Brown, a brother of McAuley's wife, told police there had been no quarrels or previous trouble with McAuley, a street car conductor, in whose home the Browns had been living since Mrs. McAuley left for Canada three weeks ago to visit relatives.

Police said McAuley did not report for work Friday at the 69th street car barns. At 3:30 a. m. yesterday he entered the home and struck Brown as he slept. He then began beating Mrs. Brown, who was asleep in another bedroom with her 15 month old baby, Carroll Ann, who was ill with whooping cough. The motive for the attack was a mystery.

Tom Maloy's Nephew to Pay $160 Month Alimony

Samuel Epstein, master in chancery, who hears divorce motions for Circuit Judge Benjamin P. Epstein, yesterday approved an agreement whereby Thomas E. Maloy, nephew of the late Tom Maloy, slain head of the moving picture operators' union, will pay $160 a month temporary alimony to his wife, Jean, 7842 Bennett avenue. The agreement provides that Maloy shall be permitted to see his three children, who are in the custody of the mother, at all reasonable hours. Mrs. Maloy filed a suit for divorce ten days ago. Her bill charged cruelty and intoxication.

COUNTY RECEIVES 75 PCT. OF TAXES DUE FOR 6 YEARS

Bills for 1928 Are 89% Paid; for '33 Only 61%.

County Treasurer Gill made public yesterday a statement showing that tax collections for the years 1928 to 1933 amount so far to 75.2 per cent of the total of the levies spread for those six years. The figures cover taxes on real estate, personalty, and railroad property.

In six years the total of taxes imposed in Cook county was $1,430,865,000, of which $1,076,123,000 has been paid.

Mr. Gill's data show that the portion of each year's levy that has been collected ranges downward from 89 per cent for 1928 to 61 per cent for 1933.

Personalty Payments Poorest.

The realty tax collections vary downward from 93 per cent for 1928 to 68 per cent for 1933; the railroad property tax from 98 per cent in 1928 to 83 per cent for 1933, and personalty taxes from 69 to 42 per cent for those years.

The table of collections shows a higher percentage of realty taxes paid for 1931 than for 1930. For 1930, when Cook county taxpayers were assessed $290,284,505 in taxes, the record high for all time, the real estate taxes extended totaled $221,452,080, and the payments so far are $176,867,616, or 79.87 per cent of the extension.

For 1931 the total tax bill was $263,756,604, the real estate taxes extended were $179,915,404, and the payments to date are $144,709,644, or 80.43 per cent of the extension.

SUICIDE VERDICT IN SHOOTING OF BUSINESS MAN

R. F. Reynolds, 41 years old, former head of an automobile agency at Aurora, who was found shot to death in his car three miles east of Morris on U. S. route No. 6 early yesterday, was a suicide a coroner's jury at Morris decided later in the day.

On the night before his death Reynolds, whose ill health occasioned his retirement from the automobile concern three months ago, visited the Paul Hatcher stock farm near Morris, showed Hatcher a pistol and fired it. When his car was found, 300 feet off the road in a cornfield, Reynolds was shot through the head, and the weapon, with two bullets fired, lay at his feet. The ignition of the car was still on and Reynolds' jewelry was untouched.

In addition to his automobile interests Reynolds owned the Cedar Run Saddle club, near Oswego. He lived at 555 Downer place, Aurora. He is survived by his widow, Edith, and two daughters, Mary Jane, 15 years old, and Doris, 12. The body will be buried in Springfield, where Reynolds was formerly classified advertising manager of the Illinois State Journal.

MAZE OF TAXING UNITS IN ILLINOIS CALLED A WASTE

Too Much Decentralizing, Bar Session Is Told.

Decentralization of government in Illinois has contributed to high taxation and waste of revenues by numerous local governments, H. S. Hicks, former state senator from Rockford, told the taxation section of the Illinois State Bar association yesterday at a meeting in the Palmer house. Other sections of the association also were in session there.

Illinois has 17,136 governing bodies with power to levy taxes, according to Mr. Hicks' figures. This is more than any other state has, he said, and more than the ten states of Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Delaware, and Maryland combined, which have a total of 16,825 such units.

Old World Contrasts Cited.

Drawing a further comparison from studies he has made for the Illinois Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Hicks said that England, Scotland, Wales, and Ireland, with a population of 47,762,273, have only 2,819 taxing units. Illinois, with six times as many taxing bodies, has a population of only 7,630,654.

Mr. Hicks decided that "with our loosely organized public school system, our highly decentralized secondary road building system, and the maintenance of 1,400 township governments with practically nothing to do except assess taxes there can't help but be waste."

The township one room school system also was condemned by Mr. Hicks. In these schools, he said, the average enrollment is 13, and many schools have as few as three and others more than 20 pupils.

Figures were cited to show that representation under the present system of county boards is unequal. In Sangamon county, Hicks said, 250 residents in Salisbury have as great a voice in the county government as any 6,000 residents in Springfield.

Tells of Anti-Radical Work.

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the section on public relations, told of work done by a bar association committee to counteract efforts of radicals to enlist students in their ranks. The committee, he said, has been working through teachers and parent-teacher groups to educate American youths in citizenship through coördinated studies in American history, social science and civics.

"We are striving," Gen. Clinnin said, "to teach the children that our form of government is the best, and to acquaint them with its fundamental principles."

The section on criminal justice voted not to ask Gov. Horner to include in his call for a special session of the legislature the bill revising the criminal code of the state. The bill failed at the last regular session, and a majority of the section felt that more time should be given to instruction of lawyers throughout the state in the provisions of the revision.

REMODEL NOW

FOR COMFORT CONVENIENCE AND PROTECTION!!!

NOW A MODERN COTTAGE

Just a little house, weather-beaten and run down, that everybody condemned. A gable window was added, blinds put on, the porch renovated, shingle siding was added to give it a low and modern touch. It is now so charming that it attracts the attention of every passer-by.

A NEW ROOF PROTECTS AND BEAUTIFIES

And while this owner was remodeling his roof he also added siding shingles, colonial windows, a new gable, new porch, posts and stairs. Because he used Big Maud shingles he was able to achieve a beautiful color effect.

How much more comfortable and enjoyable your home will be this winter if you remodel now. Glaze in the front porch—put a playroom in the attic—a recreation room in the basement—do over the living room—the dining room—add insulation, storm sash and doors. These are but a few of the many changes and improvements you can make in your home to give you that added comfort and enjoyment. And they can be had at a cost surprisingly low. Bring your remodeling problems to Hines. Let our experts assist you. They will help you with your plans, advise you frankly on materials, obtain your FHA loan without red tape and delay. In addition they will place you, if desired, in contact with an independent contractor whose work is certified by Hines. No matter how large or small your improvement is, Hines will help you. Get a Hines estimate first—do it now. Mail coupon below, or call the Hines Yard nearest you.

DINGY ATTIC BECOMES RECREATION ROOM

But, now, see the change with insulation, knotty pine walls and plywood ceilings, dormer window and built-in seat with drawers underneath, built-in bookcases. Now a delightful recreation room, playroom, maid's room or study.

CAN YOU IMAGINE A MORE DELIGHTFUL CHANGE?

An almost unbelievable cheerfulness greets you on entering this remodeled home. The arch doorway draws your eye to the beauty of the fireplace and French doors. The new modern and decorative stairs and railing lend a note of smartness and cleanliness.

YOU CAN HAVE A BASEMENT LIKE THIS

Now an enjoyable rest and playroom, clean, light and airy. Walls were stripped and wallboard put on. Bookcases were built with a comfortable seat in between. Note table tennis holds the center of the room.

HINES SUPERIOR QUALITY IS YOUR PROTECTION—YOU CAN DEPEND ON THE LASTING VALUE OF THESE ITEMS!

SCHOOLS START PREPARATIONS TO ENROLL 476,000

New Oakenwald Building to Be Ready Sept. 16.

The Chicago public school system pushed ahead yesterday with preparations for the opening of the fall term on Monday, Sept. 16.

Plans were being mapped out for the enrollment of 476,000 pupils, 2,470 more than last year, a normal increase. The elementary schools are expected to enroll 342,000, the high schools, 129,000, and the junior colleges, 5,000, according to William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools.

One new elementary school, the Oakenwald, at 4070 Lake Park avenue, will be opened and additional facilities have been provided elsewhere in an effort to assure suitable housing for the increased enrollment, Supt. Bogan said. In a further attempt to expand accommodations, requests for eleven new schools and twenty additions, involving expenditure of 12 million dollars, have been filed with federal Public Works administration officials the superintendent added.

Mothers Asked to Assist.

Mr. Bogan urged that mothers of children entering kindergarten and first grade for the first time accompany them to school and take their birth certificates along with them. "If the birth of the child has not been registered, it will be necessary for the parent to apply at the city hall, in person to obtain the birth certificate," he said.

"Children are required to attend the elementary or high school of the school district in which they live," the superintendent stated. He added that permits to change schools will not be granted except in emergencies and that permits for high school changes are to be obtained from George Cassell, district superintendent of high schools, at the board of education offices, 228 North La Salle street.

Permit for elementary school changes must be obtained from the offices of the district superintendents, who are: Miss Minnie Fallon, Murphy school, 3539 Grace street; Miss Lillian Tobin, Lafayette school, 2714 Augusta boulevard; Jaroslav J. Zmrhal, Hammond school, 2819 West 21st place, and Daniel J. Beeby, Hookway school, 8101 South La Salle street.

14 Portables Are Replaced.

The new Oakenwald school, on which construction was begun in February, will accommodate 700 pupils, and replaces fourteen portables. Four new prevocational branches will be opened in former elementary school buildings. The schools to have prevocational branches are Dunbar, Peabody, Haugan, and Orr.

In the six evening schools to be reopened this fall, courses in air conditioning, refrigeration, photography, civil service preparation, and Diesel engines will be given in addition to the regular high school courses.

Mr. Bogan said that with 3,000 unassigned teachers and Chicago Normal college graduates on the unassigned list, vacancies caused by retirement of teachers will be rapidly filled.

125 Teacher Apprentices.

Approximately 125 teacher apprentices, who will receive no salary from the board of education, will be placed in Chicago high schools this year.

Summarizing advice for the opening of schools, Mr. Bogan issued a request that motorists observe special caution when the children return to classes. The children will be guided by 10,000 white belted safety patrol boys.

Ben Kramer, operator of a tavern at 194 North Clark street, was freed of a charge of slaying William Cunning by Judge Justin F. McCarthy in the Felony court yesterday. The shooting occurred last July 20. Cunning threatened him, Kramer said, when he refused to make an extortion payment.

CALGARY FIRM BEGINS DOING BUSINESS ON SOCIAL CREDIT BASIS

CALGARY, Alberta, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A Calgary firm was doing business today for social credit basic dividends and challenged other business concerns to follow suit.

A newspaper advertisment offered to do any radio repair work "brought, mailed or shipped," into the firm's shop, accepting on a "gentleman's agreement," the cost from the customer's account at the state credit house.

Transfer of the credit from the customer's account to the firm's account does not need to be made until six months after the first dividend has been distributed by the provincial government. The credit will apply to labor only.

"What other business will follow this example?" the advertisment asked. Premier William Aberhart, head of the new social credit government which took office early this week, has promised each adult citizen of Alberta a $25 a month credit dividend.

27 MILLIONS PUT IN ART SUBSIDY TO HELP 30,000

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today placed $27,315,217 at the disposal of Harry F. Hopkins, Works Progress administrator, for one of the most extensive programs for subsidizing literature and the arts in the history of governments.

Approval of Controller General J. R. McCarl, for the work relief allotment, was given after a month's delay. The project, intended to provide six months' employment for more than 30,000 writers, painters, musicians and actors, is to get under way next week.

The Public Works administration announced, coincidentally, that with 5,500 applications on hand, calling for allotment of a billion dollars, it had closed its books to further requests.

POLICE REPULSE 3,000 RIOTERS IN MEAT PRICE WAR

Cleveland, O., Sept. 7.—[U. P.]—A mob of 3,000 "meat strikers" battled 50 policemen tonight after they were repulsed in an attempt to enter a Kroger store on Buckeye road. The riot climaxed a day of picketing by men and women who joined in a protest against the high cost of meats. Housewives, organized under the name of "the neighborhood action committee against the high cost of meats," demanded a 20 per cent reduction in prices. Many officers and demonstrators suffered minor injuries. Twelve mob leaders, led by a young woman, were arrested.

Rumors of Stabilization Are Revived.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Another rush of currency stabilization rumors broke out today when it was learned that two treasury department brain trusters would emulate their chief, Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. and spend their vacations in Europe.

The treasury promptly denied, however, that Herman Oliphant, general counsel and "brains" of the New Deal treasury, and George Haas, research chief, were authorized to discuss stabilization with any one during their European junket at government expense.

Morgenthau Going to Spain.

Secretary Morgenthau himself probably will sail for Spain about Sept. 15, remaining in Spain and Portugal until Oct. 15. He chose those countries as the most removed from all currency problems and will not discuss stabilization with European financiers. He is paying his own expenses.

Oliphant and Haas, his two chief aids, however, have converted their vacations into junkets which they will enjoy as the guests of federal taxpayers and which will build them up as monetary experts if and when the New Deal considers stabilization.

Plans Work on Tarif.

The ostensible purpose for Oliphant's trip and the one which will be used to justify his traveling at government expense is to straighten out customs and tarif problems with European nations. Haas' excuse for sojourning in Europe is to collect commercial and monetary data on the Scandinavian countries.

The two junketeers, especially Oliphant, are important figures in the council rooms of the treasury, and, although they have no commission to discuss stabilization, their collection of financial data will prepare them for rôles which they will play if stabilization is seriously considered. Neither one is apt to overlook opportunities to discuss monetary matters with European officials even though the discussions be unofficial.

FIREMEN CAUSE MUCH ADO ABOUT ALMOST NOTHING

Cleveland, O., Sept. 7.—[U. P.]—A hook and ladder truck dashed down the street, siren screaming. While spectators stood with open mouths the truck stopped at an office building.

Working at top speed, firemen shot their ladder to a third story window. Up went a fireman. He disappeared through the window. A few minutes later he reappeared, came down the ladder, and rejoined his companions on the truck, which pulled away.

The woman proprietor of a hat shop on the third floor had stepped out into the hall, leaving the door ajar. A gust of wind closed it. She was locked out. The fire department gallantly came through the window and unlocked the door from the inside.

Two Rob Nickel Collector of Grip Containing 9,960

Sid Erickson, 4145 Broadway, an employé of the American Musical Instrument Distributing company, 450 East Ohio street, was robbed yesterday of 9,960 nickels which he was carrying in a small valise. The money represented collections made in various taverns where the company maintains coin musical machines. Two men leaped out of an automobile parked at the curb in front of the company offices, waved guns at Erickson, and said, "a heavy load, buddy. We'll help you carry it."

DEATH OF CHANDLER HEIR IN PLANE CRASH ACCIDENT, JURY FINDS

A coroner's jury investigating the death of Buckingham Chandler II., 19 years old, son of the president of the First Realty company, 40 North Dearborn street, and prominent in north shore society, returned a verdict of accidental death yesterday. Young Chandler was killed when an airplane he had rented crashed Friday. The inquest was held at 266 East Chicago street, Elgin.

Testimony indicated that the plane crashed when Chandler tried to make a vertical bank too close to the ground and with insufficient motive power, the jury decided.

Charles White, 17 years old, a friend of the dead youth, testified that the crash occurred near Barrington, a short distance from the estate of Sanford White, his father. Chandler had circled the house once, White said, and was banking to go around again when the crash occurred. Technical testimony was given by J. R. Heckman, a pilot, who was questioned by Maurice L. Horner Jr., executive secretary of the Illinois aeronautical commission.

Chandler's body was taken to the family home at 9 Indian Hill road, Winnetka, from which funeral services will be held tomorrow morning. Interment will be at Oak Hills, Lake Geneva.

HOME MORTGAGE DUE; MUSICIAN KILLS HIMSELF

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Phillip Gottlieb Anton, 70, cellist who in recent years has tuned pianos for a living, died today. Police termed it suicide.

Anton had been unable to follow his musical career for seven years due to an accident to his right hand. He was found in the kitchen of his home, his head covered by a cloth and the gas jets open. A mortgage on the family home, in which Anton was born, was to have been foreclosed next Tuesday.

Anton had played concerts in New York. His family before him for generations were musicians. Ludwig I., of Bavaria, presented a violin to Anton's grandfather because of his musical ability.

Army Flyer Lands Safely by Aid of Parachute Flare

Lincoln, Ill., Sept. 7.—(AP)—An army bombing plane flown by Lieut. W. M. Denham of Langley field, Virginia, made emergency landing by the light of a single parachute flare tonight after the craft's compass became disabled near here. The plane was en route from Peoria to Springfield, the pilot, who was accompanied by Private Carl Bean of Langley field, said he became lost after his compass failed. The bi-motored [Keystone] plane was damaged when it struck a fence in landing, but its occupants were unhurt.

BEGIN WRECKING WYNEKOOP HOME, MURDER SCENE

Razing of the old residence of Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop at 3406 Monroe street, where her daughter-in-law, Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, was murdered on the night of Nov. 21, 1933, was begun yesterday. It was said that A. Romano, who purchased the Wynekoop home last July, is having it razed in order to provide sunlight and air for residents living in the west side apartments of the three story building which he owns next door.

Officials of the wrecking company which is doing the work said that numerous buyers have applied for doors, windows, or sections of lumber from the house. The building was sold by the children of Dr. Wynekoop, who was convicted of the murder and is serving a 25 year term in the women's reformatory at Dwight.

OPEN VERDICT IN DEATH.

William Bosley, 57 years old, 1512 North Harding avenue, who was found dead from skull fractures on a sidewalk near his home Aug. 20, came to his death from causes unknown, according to a verdict returned by a coroner's jury at the county morgue yesterday.

Ex-Fireman Hurt on Duty Sues Road for $100,000

Edward Schuer, a former fireman for the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railway, who now lives on a farm in Lake county, yesterday filed suit in the Circuit court at Waukegan asking $100,000 in damages from the railroad for injuries received while he was working on April 27, 1934. According to the bill, Schuer was putting water in a tender in the Milwaukee yards when he fell and received permanent injuries. He charges that equipment was not in proper condition.

DO AS DOCTORS DO FOR CONSTIPATION

More than 50,000 Doctors Recommend and Use PLUTO WATER
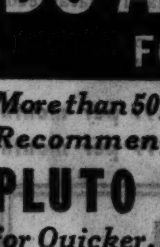
for Quicker, Safer Relief



When a doctor is constipated, what does he take for relief? That ought to prove beyond question how safe, how gentle, how effective a laxative is.

Now here's an amazing fact! More than 50,000 doctors use Pluto Water themselves to keep "regular." And—recommend it for their patients. For they know, from personal experience, that Pluto is the sure way to eliminate dangerous accumulated poisons. They know it is not a habit-forming medicine. They know its action is gentle and quick.

What Doctors Say

For instance, Dr. H. A. O. of Wisconsin, writes: "I not only prescribe Pluto almost daily, but use it personally every other day." Dr. W. M. of Michigan advises: "Pluto is the only laxative." And Dr. J. A. R. of Texas, says: "I use Pluto Water personally to cleanse my system."

Your own doctor, too, will tell you there is nothing better. And—will warn you against habit-forming drugs of all kinds. That's why you also can always depend on this famous laxative.

So, the next time you are constipated, do as doctors do. Follow the gentle "water way" to relief. Take the tasteless, non habit-forming dose—1/5 glass Pluto with 4/5 hot water. In one hour or less you'll get relief. And what a remarkable difference it makes!

Remember, too, Pluto Water is simply a saline laxative mineral water bottled at famous French Lick Springs, Indiana. All drug stores have it. Two sizes—25c and 50c. Two hundred million bottles of Pluto have been used—millions more each year. The most economical, most effective laxative you can buy! Get some today.

TROOPS ON DUTY AT HARLAN, BUT HEAD IS ABSENT

All Quiet at Polls During Runoff Primary.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harlan, Ky., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Adjt. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt tarried behind at some unnamed point when 700 state troops rode into Harlan in the early hours today and quietly descended like a dove upon the Democratic runoff primary.

Sherif Theodore R. Middleton had a bench warant ready to serve upon Denhardt based on an indictment charging the general and the militia with riding roughshod over the election laws in the tryout primaries Aug. 3. The sherif has a reputation as a resolute man, and an attempt to serve the papers was expected to cause a clash between civil authorities and the military.

The general, who already is under $10,000 bond to appear before the Harlan Circuit court charged with contempt and election law infractions, turned over command of the soldiery to two lieutenant colonels and remained away, and the dove of peace at once began to fly around this part of the Cumberland valley.

The principal contest was that between A. B. Chandler and Thomas S. Rhea for the Democratic nomination for governor.

No Disorder Reported.

The day was devoid of trouble and tonight townsfolk and the guardsmen were fraternizing on the streets. The troops did not interfere with the voting as on Aug. 3, and a vote of 11,451 was cast. This is considered heavy for Harlan county, a Republican stronghold of 70,000 population in which there are over 10,000 coal miners. Roosevelt in 1932 got 9,091 and at the Aug. 3 primaries the Democrats polled only 6,673. The ballots are to be counted Monday, and Chandler managers estimate his vote will run between 9,000 and 10,000.

On the streets tonight citizens are remarking that if the troops had behaved as friendly Aug. 3 as today, their presence would not have been resented. The heavy vote is regarded as showing the reaction.

Acting for Peace Officers.

The 700 state soldiers are under command of Lieut. Col. John A. Polin of Springfield and Lieut. Col. Roy Easley, who was commissioner of public safety of Louisville. Upon arrival Col. Polin announced the soldiery was here "to act strictly as peace officers." Word that the troops were instructed not to violate the election laws as was charged Aug. 3, spread fast.

A tour of some of the mining camps and towns showed soldiers fraternizing with miners and farmers, keeping the legal distance of 50 feet from the polling places. They acted with such politeness that the sherif and other county officials decided that bench warants should not be served upon 20 officers in connection with Aug. 3. Denhardt was the focal point of possible disturbance, the courthouse crowd held, and the general was at least twenty miles away. Denhardt recently stated that if tried in Harlan county he would "probably be assassinated."

Ballot Boxes Inspected.

In the city of Harlan the soldiery stayed away from the polls. In outlying precincts that were placed under guard, the officer in command looked at the ballot box when the polls opened to make sure it was empty, then retired with his men at least 50 feet away and took down names of those voting. When the voting ceased at 4 o'clock, the soldiers escorted the ballot boxes and the election officials to town.

At noon Sherif Middleton said: "Conditions are different today from Aug. 3. The two commanding officers are more than fair and it seems to be their purpose to comply with the election laws. Coöperation is mutual between the civil authorities and the military."

Tenseness Is Dispelled.

The removal of the tenseness was marked. At 2 o'clock this morning, citizens on the streets of Harlan were talking in resentment over the sending in of the troops, saying there was no request from the civil authorities, and Harlan was being given a black eye for no reason except politics by Gov. Laffoon.

Until a late hour radio speakers for Chandler and Rhea, the candidates for the Democratic governorship nomination, had been warming the air with accusations of vote frauds in various parts of the state, and Harlan was one common topic of the speeches.

Mrs. J. F. Byrne, Deerfield, Enters Suit for Divorce

Mrs. Mary Ida Byrne, 1137 West Deerfield avenue, Deerfield, daughter of James J. Hood, former village president of Deerfield, sought divorce from James Francis Byrne yesterday in the Circuit court of Lake county at Waukegan. Mrs. Byrne recited in her bill two instances of cruelty, charging her husband had blackened her eye on an automobile drive on April 17, 1935, and that he repeated the action on April 21. They were married Feb. 7, 1934, in Reading, Pa., and separated May 21, 1935. Attorney Harold J. Tallett of Lake Forest filed the bill.

COLLECTOR ROBBED OF $200.

EDWARD F. HUTTON'S WIFE GIVEN DIVORCE; DETAILS ARE GUARDED

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—An interlocutory decree of divorce signed by Supreme Court Justice George H. Furman at Patchogue today was filed later at the county clerk's office in Mineola by Henry A. Uterhart, counsel for Marjorie Post Hutton in her suit against Edward F. Hutton, chairman of the board of General Foods, Inc.

The papers were sealed by order of the court.

While the name of the corespondent was not divulged it was learned that she is 19 or 20 years old, five feet one inch tall, and weighs 104 pounds. Mr. Uterhart refused to discuss where the alleged infidelity took place.

Mrs. Hutton is living near Roslyn, on Long Island. Hutton is living near by. He is the uncle of Countess Barbara Hutton von Haugwitz-Reventlow.

Purchasing Agents Donate 3 De Paul Scholarships

PUBLIC LUNCHEON ON CONSTITUTION DAY ANNOUNCED

S. A. R. Joins in Big Plans for Observance.

The Sons of the American Revolution yesterday joined the list of patriotic organizations arranging special programs for the observance of Constitution day on Sept. 17.

Wilbur Helm, president of the Illinois society of the S. A. R., announced that there will be a special public luncheon at 12:30 p. m. on Constitution day in the Red room of the Hotel La Salle. The speaker will be Joseph Davis, an expert on the federal basic law. Reservations are to be made at the society's offices, 30 North La Salle street, room 1325. Telephone Dearborn 8282.

Mr. Helm said he and his associates feel that it is particularly fitting that the Sons of the American Revolution join actively in the celebration, as nation-wide observance of Constitution day was originated by the national society in 1917.

Work on Stadium Preparations.

Julius H. Miner, general director of Chicago's main observance of the day at the Chicago Stadium, announced that the work of assembling and training the 2,000 actors, singers, and dancers for its spectacular features has been begun.

Isaac Van Grove, director of production, he said, has been given the assistance of a staf of nationally known specialists in music, ballet, and drama. Blake Scott, an outstanding dance director, has been engaged as associate director.

The extensive technical arrangements are in the hands of Harry W. Beatty, technical director of the Chicago City Opera company. Anthony Stivanellow has been brought from New York to direct the costuming. The selection of Dr. Leo Kopp as musical director was announced several days ago. Robert Venables is also assisting Director Van Grove.

New Departure in Spectacles.

The plans call for the development of a new technique involving the presentation of a constantly moving spectacle which will be shown to an audience on all four sides of the central stage.

One of the features already determined upon is that of providing a military background through the use of uniformed units or nationality groups representing the racial forces such as the Irish, German, Polish, French, and Italian which have played a part in United States history.

This part of the task is in the hands of Col. J. V. Houghtaling, director of personnel.

State Bar Association to Aid.

Charles P. Megan, president of the Illinois State Bar association, announced that the organization will coöperate in the plans for a widespread observance of Constitution day. Last year 1,000 members, he said, addressed meetings throughout the state.

"The association," he said, "wants to help instruct laymen concerning the constitution, thereby, through understanding, to make the people of the state more devoted to it."

RELIEF CLIENT DROWNS SELF.

RESCUE AIRMAN IS FOUND AFTER CRASH IN ALASKA

Two Injured Companions Hike 30 Miles for Aid.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Percy Hubbard, Fairbanks flyer, whose plane crashed Tuesday 100 miles up the Chena river as he was searching for his missing partner, Arthur Hines, was found today by a rescue party.

His seven rescuers started carrying him down the river to a landing field. They hoped to be able to transport him by plane to Fairbanks for medical treatment by tomorrow morning. Reports from the rescue party indicated Hubbard's most serious injury was to his leg.

Two companions of Hubbard on his flight, his brother, Russell Hubbard, mechanic, and A. J. Douglas, Fairbanks salesman, despite severe injuries, walked thirty miles to a settlement to bring news of the accident and organize the rescue party. The trip took two days.

The accident occurred, Russell Hubbard said, when one gasoline tank went dry as the plane was flying low at the end of a canyon. Before the pilot could switch on the emergency tank the plane had crashed into the timber.

The plane immediately burst into flames. The pilot and his two passengers managed to free themselves.

Search for Hines and his three passengers, who disappeared Aug. 19 while on a flight from Dawson, Y. T. to Fairbanks was spurred by the report of two prospectors that they had seen what they had thought to be a plane hanging from the trees near the Tanana river. Pilot Ross of Cordova was en route to that territory to investigate.

END FLYING LOW OVER AN INDIANA NUDISTS' CAMP

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—American Airlines pilots have received instructions to stop flying low over a nudist camp just east of Roselawn, Ind., the airline offices disclosed today.

The practice of flying low over the area, the office said, was begun at the request of air passengers who frequently flew the Cincinnati-Chicago route, some of whom had begun to carry field glasses.

C. R. Smith, president of the American Airlines, issued orders for altitude when, as a passenger on one of the flights, his attention was called to the unscheduled attraction, the office said.

PLAN FOR PRISON FARMS OPPOSED BY LAWMAKERS

Rep. Lyons Denounces "Tea Guest" Program.

Several members of the Illinois general assembly voiced disagreement yesterday with recommendations for the reorganization of state penal institutions that have been submitted to A. L. Bowen, director of the department of public welfare.

The recommendations included the purchase of farm lands on which the prisoners could be put to work, and the construction of dormitories in which the felons could live free from the restrictions of ordinary cell life and the confinement of high walls. The committee making the suggestions was composed of Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher, chairman; Prof. Robert W. Millar of the Northwestern university law school; and Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago crime commission.

Lyons Opposes "Coddling."

"I can't understand why persons seek to coddle criminals who are out to rob, shoot, and kill," said State Representative Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Libertyville]. "In the legislature I wouldn't vote the taxpayers' money to coddle hardened criminals and give them luxuries, nor would I want any money that has been appropriated for prisons to be used for those purposes.

"We can't combat crime by making prison life easy for criminals. We can't hit them with cream puffs. We can't suppress murder by building them college fraternity dormitories. If criminals know they are going to a nice dwelling with luxuries that they never had before, nothing will stop the hardened felons from committing every crime under the state statutes.

"There should be no trimmings for the hardened criminals, and when they violate the law they should be treated as prisoners, not as tea guests. "For the boy who has committed his first crime and for those who can be redeemed all efforts should be made to rehabilitate them."

Would Punish Those Convicted.

State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] felt much the same way. Schnackenberg said he has a fixed opinion that a defendant in a criminal case should be given every protection provided by law, but, once convicted, should be punished and treated as an enemy of the society that he has offended.

"An example of sentiment in the handling of prisoners was provided when the two torso murderers, Evelyn Smith and Blanche Dunkel, were sent to Dwight," said Schnackenberg. "They were pleasantly surprised that they were going to live in better quarters than ever before.

"I don't believe in cruelty, but convicts shouldn't have advantages comparable to those provided by summer resorts.

"There have been too many escapes from the St. Charles school for boys. If the state lets adult felons escape with the same ease, there will be a breakdown in law enforcement and in respect for the law. As long as the criminal knows that conviction will result in a curtailment of liberty and advantages, the enforcement of law is likely to be reasonably successful."

3,800 British Coal Miners Fired; War Threat Blamed

Durham, England, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A notice of 14 days prior to dismissal was given to 3,800 coal miners today because of "slackness in trade due to the Italo-Ethiopian dispute."

ROBBERY VICTIM

Joseph P. Weissfeld of Buffalo, N. Y., a salesman for the New York City jewelry firm of Huntermeyer-Robbins, yesterday was robbed of diamond rings and pins set with assorted precious stones valued at $30,000 in a daylight holdup in front of 560 West Lake street. The bandits also took his chauffeur driven limousine.

Weissfeld told police he had been in Chicago a week, preparing an exhibit for the convention of the Credit Jewelry association this week in the Hotel Sherman. Yesterday morning he drove to the Lake street address to see some displays that had been prepared for his exhibit. After entering the building he saw two armed and masked men threatening his chauffeur, Henry Fields of New York, and returned to the car. The chauffeur was forced from the car by the bandits, who drove off. The car was later recovered at Des Plaines street and Austin avenue.

RE-ENACT FLIGHT OF KILLERS FROM MORRISON'S AUTO

Further evidence against Michael Kowalski was sought yesterday by Capt. Andrew Barry of the Hudson avenue police and Assistant State's Attorney John S. Boyle, who will decide whether he is to be charged with the murder of Kenneth A. Morrison, assistant controler of the Chicago park district.

Kowalski, held in the county jail with several others on charges of robbery and burglary, was identified on Thursday by Mrs. Anna Blazek, 1532 Frontier street, as one of the two men she saw on the night of Aug. 13 leaving Morrison's automobiles, in which the park official was later found shot to death, in front of 628 Alaska street.

"We went to Mrs. Blazek's home Friday night," Prosecutor Boyle said. "A squad car was parked in the place where Morrison's car was found. Two policemen walked from it in the manner described by Mrs. Blazek in telling of her view of the Morrison murderers. We looked from the same window at which she sat that night. We could see the faces of the policemen plainly and there wasn't as much moonlight as on the night of Morrison's death."

Mrs. Blazek identified the body of George Bukowy, who committed suicide in a cell, as that of one of the men. She picked Kowalski, a pal of Bukowy, out of a crowd, and declared he was the other man.

Rear Admiral N. H. Smith Visits Great Lakes Station

Rear Admiral Norman H. Smith, chief of the bureau of yards and docks in the navy department, inspected yesterday the Great Lakes naval training station, where $301,400 of Works Progress administration funds is being spent to repair 105 buildings. Admiral Smith expressed satisfaction with the work in progress. It will recondition the station, which was closed from 1933 to 1935. Admiral Smith was accompanied on the inspection tour by Rear Admiral John Downes, commandant of Great Lakes.

EDITOR PETITIONS CHANGE OF VENUE IN MINNEAPOLIS

Lays His Indictment to Conspiracy.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Declaring he feels that an impartial hearing cannot be had in Hennepin county, Walter W. Liggett, editor of the Midwest American of Minneapolis, today petitioned for a change of venue in his trial on charges of infamous sex practices.

Liggett, who since his indictment July 31, has branded the charges as part of a political conspiracy intended to silence his attacks on Gov. Floyd B. Olson and Minnesota's Farmer-Labor administration, in his petition to the Hennepin county District court stated that he asked that the trial be held in some other county.

He made his plea, he said, "so that he may be afforded an opportunity to prove his innocence in an atmosphere untainted by political prejudice and where certain powerful underworld interests will not be permitted to reach out for the purpose of influencing prospective jurors, or those actually impaneled for the trial."

Trial Set for Sept. 16.

Hearing on the petition probably will take place Sept. 16, the date on which the trial of the editor, who on Aug. 2 pleaded not guilty to the alleged offense involving an Austin, Minn., girl, had been scheduled to open.

In his appeal to the court Liggett summarized the campaign he and his wife have waged in their newspaper against Gov. Olson, including their demands for his impeachment. He pointed out that in the 30 years he has worked on newspapers, he has never been suspected of any sexual irregularities. He told of attempts to "persecute" him and "discredit" his "character."

The incident on which the charge against Liggett is based allegedly occurred March 22, 1934. It was not until June 22 last, 16 months afterward, that he was arrested. Together with Frank Ellis, radical labor organizer of Austin, Liggett was first charged with abduction of two 16 year old girls, by taking them from their homes in Austin and bringing them to Minneapolis for immoral purposes.

Penalty Is 20 Years.

Information leading to the arrests, officials said, resulted from an anonymous letter left on a desk in the child welfare office here. Subsequent to arrest on the abduction charge, and while Liggett was demanding an immediate hearing, an indictment on the more serious charge was returned against the editor by the Hennepin county grand jury. Conviction on this charge carries a 20 year sentence.

In 1926 he was able to prove that he was buried in St. Mary's church, London.

Mr. Abbatt took over the Magazine of History in 1898 and he edited it up to the time of his death. One of the services the magazine performed was the reprinting of rare historical works.

MRS. HOPKINS DIES; SHE KNEW 16 PRESIDENTS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The rare distinction of having personally known every President from Lincoln on down—that's 16 Presidents—belonged to Mrs. Archibald Hopkins, "grand old lady" of Washington who died yesterday as Annisquam, Mass.

Her grandfather was Edward Everett, featured "main speaker" at the event where Lincoln delivered his brief but immortal Gettysburg address, and her fine old home on Massachusetts avenue was filled with historic mementos associated with the famous family.

But Mrs. Hopkins lived in the present. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt hadn't been in the White House a month before Mrs. Hopkins, then 82, had taken her on an alley exploring trip.

On a dark and dismal day they peered into courtyards where tuberculosis flourished, poked areas littered with uncollected garbage, then dashed on to another alley in Mrs. Roosevelt's open roadster.

The result was an alley clearance law. President Roosevelt handed the pen with which he signed it to Mrs. Hopkins, who had fought for it for twenty years.

Scott Pays Tribute

The seventy-fifth anniversary of the sinking of the steamship Lady Elgin off Wilmette harbor, in which 263 persons perished, was commemorated at Northwestern university yesterday in Patten gymnasium before the plaque honoring Edward W. Spencer, Northwestern student at the time, who alone rescued 17 passengers. The steamer was rammed by another vessel.

Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of the university, placed a wreath at the plaque in the presence of Mayor Charles H. Bartlett of Evanston, and Postmaster William J. Hamilton, president of the Evanston Historical society. Dr. Scott paid tribute to the heroism of Spencer, whose health was so impared by the deed that he had to give up his studies at the university.

Thirty persons, including those saved by Spencer, were rescued off the university campus, while scores of others drowned in the same spot. They had drifted shoreward on débris from the scene of the wreck 15 miles out. In all, 137 of the 400 passengers, Milwaukee excursionists homeward bound from Chicago, were rescued.

In Milwaukee a requiem high mass was celebrated yesterday in St. John's cathedral for those lost in the tragedy. The ceremony has been held each year since the tragedy.

THRONGS ATTEND BURIAL RITES FOR CHAS. J. VOPICKA

Funeral services for Charles J. Vopicka, former United States minister to the Balkan states, were held yesterday at Pilsen hall, 1812 South Ashland avenue, in the presence of a throng which included public officials and leaders among the Czechoslovak, Polish, Jugo-Slav, and Rumanian peoples. Many also attended the burial services in the Bohemian National cemetery.

Mr. Vopicka died suddenly Tuesday night of a heart attack after reaching his home from the Winnetka funeral services for Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes, wife of Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior.

At yesterday's services Secretary Ickes was one of the honorary pallbearers. The male choir of the United Czechoslovak singers sang melodies which were Mr. Vopicka's favorites. Tributes were paid by Acting Consul General of Czechoslovakia Cervenka, and by representatives of Jugo-Slav and Rumanian organizations.

Otto Kerner, attorney general of Illinois, delivered the funeral oration. Mr. Vopicka was a former member of the Chicago school board and the founder of the Atlas Brewing company.

CHURCH PARLEY ASKS LOCALIZING OF EVANGELISM

Religious Education Plan Called Inadequate.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Appleton, Wis., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin conference of the Methodist Episcopal church today turned from controversy over social and economic issues to unanimous agreement that "our business as a church is still to challenge the lives of people" with the church's religious message.

This turn of emphasis was made plain in the unanimous adoption of the report of the committee on evangelism which declared that Christ did not commission the church "merely to give far-reaching and challenging ideals and principles for the remaking of human society; but to call sinners to repentance and consecration to the task of building His kingdom."

Bid for Local Leadership.

The report was interpreted by some as a first move against centralization of leadership in national boards of various sorts. The program advocated in the adopted report "was not the kind handed down but one homemade as result of enthusiasm of the local church membership.

"Every church" the report continued, "should set itself immediately to the task of finding and working out that type of evangelistic program best fitted to its own locality and its conditions."

The recent tendency to turn over evangelism to a "program of religious education" was pointed out in the report as inadequate when "hundreds of our youths and adults are groping in the dark in these troubled days not knowing which way to turn, many having gone so far as to question if the church and Christianity has anything to offer them." It was recommended that each church set apart periods of each year for evangelism, although mere "technique" of revival is not important compared with the need of "an objectively praying church" which would make evangelism "inevitable."

Joint Services Recommended.

In areas where churches do not conduct Sunday night services it was recommended that pastors group together into teams and conduct joint evangelistic services.

While the program calls for the conference to close tomororw night when Bishop J. Ralph Magee, of St. Paul, Minn., is expected to read the appointments of pastors for the next year, yet he stated in an interview that sessions may continue until Tuesday. It is rumored about the conference that the most notable change will send the Rev. Dr. J. A. Holmes of Appleton, Wis., to the First Methodist church, South Bend, Ind., known as the home church of the Studebaker family.

[ADVERTISMENT]

New Aid Said to Convey Sound Perfectly to Many Deafened

Scientists claim that thousands of cases of seriously impaired hearing which were regarded as permanent infirmities, have experienced almost perfect sound reception with the new Silver Seal Symphonic Acousticon, a new type of hearing aid that defeats deafness to an amazing extent.

Those whose personal demonstrations with this new Acousticon have been so highly successful, have said sincerely that they consider it really as one of the marvels of this age.

Although the principle of bone conduction, which it employs, is not new to scientists, this new hearing device is so very sensitive that many cases which failed to respond to previous types have experienced just the opposite result with this new model.

Scientific research, about which the public knows or hears little until new discoveries are publicly announced, has made marvelous strides toward relieving the deafened, of which there are several million in America, it is estimated. Eight out of ten of those who have tried this new Acousticon—many of whose eardrums have been destroyed or middle ear organs permanently damaged—have been amazed at the new kind of hearing it makes possible. And they have been delighted with its compact attractiveness.

No charge is made for personal demonstrations. Acousticon is glad to give any deafened person an opportunity to try out the instrument in private, without obligation. Nor do you have to take the word of another to tell if you are benefited. You either hear, or you do not hear, and it is very, very seldom that one is unable to hear sound clearly and distinctly. For a free demonstration go to ACOUSTICON, Dept. 718, 180 N. Michigan Blvd., Chicago, or write Dept. 718, same address, for full particulars and a free copy of the famous booklet, "Defeating Deafness." You will not be obligated in any way.

Novelist Is Dead

MRS. WILSON WOODROW (As she appeared in 1912).

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Nancy Mann Waddel Woodrow, who published her many stories and novels under her married name of Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, died at her home here early today of a heart ailment. She was 65 years old. Mrs. Woodrow had been in failing health for some time.

30 PLANES TO JOIN IN LAST RITES FOR CHAS. DICKINSON

A funeral cortège of 30 planes will fly low over the lake front at 2 p. m. today as the ashes of Charles Dickinson, 77 years old, known as the "father of aviation" in Chicago, are strewn on the waters of Lake Michigan.

The cortège will be headed by Edward E. Ballough of Daytona Beach, Fla., pilot who taught Mr. Dickinson to fly in 1921 and later flew him in several transcontinental races. From Ballough's plane, decorated with ribbons, the ashes will be scattered.

The aerial ceremony is being sponsored by the Aero Club of Illinois, of which Mr. Dickinson formerly was an officer. Planes will assemble at the Aero club field at 83d street and Cicero avenue and will proceed in formation to the lake front. The ashes will be scattered into the lake opposite the Blackstone hotel where Mr. Dickinson lived for the last 20 years.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Lawrence of Arabia, whose dramatic life was ended by a motorcycle crash in the Dorsetshire countryside May 19, left an estate of £7,441 [$37,205 at par], probate of his will revealed today.

The document was filed in the name of Thomas Edward Shaw, although the real family name was Lawrence. Col. Lawrence had his name legally changed to Shaw after his return from his adventures in Arabia.

The rights to Lawrence's famous book, the "Seven Pillars of Wisdom," are to be held by the trustees for a trust fund for widows and orphans of royal air force men to whom Lawrence gave the copyrights in memory of his service with the British flying corps. The film rights were bought shortly after his death. A new popular edition of the book recently came on the market and was said to have had good sales.

2 'HOME TOWNS' OF ROGERS VIE FOR MEMORIAL

Tulsa, Okla., Sept. 7.—(AP)—One of the late Will Rogers' two "home towns" in Oklahoma flared up against the other today over a memorial for the cowboy humorist.

Oologah, Okla., near the ranch on which Rogers was born, wants to build one. So does Claremore, Okla., which claimed Rogers as a citizen.

Today J. B. Wise, president of the Oologah chamber of commerce charged that its plans were "cooly ignored" by a memorial committee in Oklahoma City Wednesday.

"We don't believe that Claremore must be allowed the exclusive right of selecting the site of the memorial in view of the wishes of the Rogers' family," Wise said.

He added that the Oologah committee favored letting the nation as a whole settle the question of the site. Claremore has proposed the erection there of a $2,500,000 museum.

"It is unfortunate that any feeling should arise in this matter," said Mrs. Tom McSpadden of Chelsea, sister of the humorist who was killed with Wiley Post in an Alaskan plane crash.

With Prices Upward Bound

Review of the Week: Chicago: The Nation: The World

Foreign

War.

Italy continued to move toward war with Ethiopia. The meetings of the council of the league of nations began Wednesday. Italy refused to sit at the council table while a representative of Ethiopia was there. Italy finally agreed on Friday to a commission of five nations—England, France, Spain, Poland, and Turkey—which is to attempt a settlement. Meanwhile Italy continued to ship troops and supplies.

Before the meeting of the council Europe and the United States were upset over mineral and oil concessions granted by Ethiopia to the African Development and Exploration company. For three days England was suspected of having an interest in the company. Relations between France and England became chilled. Italian newspapers attacked England. England demanded that Ethiopia hold up the concessions.

The tension was relieved on Tuesday when officials of the Standard Vacuum Oil company, an American corporation, told Secretary of State Hull that their company owned the African Development and Exploration company. They agreed to cancel the concession. President Roosevelt was pleased.

During the week the following definite moves in the war puzzle were made:

On Sunday Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia said no foreign nation, including England, could tell him what to do in Ethiopia. He rejected the English demand that he hold up the concessions given to the American company. Italy called more men to the colors. France mobilized 40,000 troops for war games on the German border.

On Monday 5,000 Ethiopian troops left Harrar for a field base as Haile Selassie distributed gas masks to his people. English ships were centering on the Suez canal. In Paris Premier Laval told Capt. Anthony Eden, British minister for league of nations affairs, that France would not back up England at Geneva in asking penalties against Italy. The French army began its war games. Germany began the first war games since the world war. Gen. Italo Balbo, hero of the trans-Atlantic flight to Chicago and governor of Libya, reported to Premier Mussolini that Arab troops from the Italian colony in Africa were ready for war with Ethiopia. Italy shipped more men to Africa.

On Tuesday the first of 20,000 picked Ethiopian troops left Addis Ababa for the southern border. The troops were led by Gen. Habuta Mikael, carrying the gold sword presented to the emperor by the English king when the former was crowned in 1931. England sent 1,300 troops and 300 sailors to Malta.

On Wednesday the Italians served notice on the league of nations council to choose between Italy and Ethiopia. Italy filed charges with the league that Ethiopia had failed in its obligations to the league; that Ethiopia was allowing slavery; that Ethiopia had refused to define boundaries with the Italian colonies, had committed offenses against Italians in Ethiopia, had attacked Italians in Italian colonial territory, and had violated the diplomatic immunity of Italians in Ethiopia. Ethiopia replied that the league had no business interfering with the home affairs of one of its members. The same day Austria began war games, with 18,000 troops participating.

Baron Pompeo Aloisi walked out of the Thursday meeting of the league council. He said Italy had been insulted by being placed on the same level with Ethiopia. Prof. Gaston Jeze, Frenchman, who is part of the Ethiopian delegation to the council, demanded that the league do something to make sure Ethiopia's independence will not be lost. Minister Maxim Litvinov indicated that Russia would back up England if penalties were asked against Italy. He said the league had done nothing for Manchuria when the Japanese moved in there. Ethiopia sent more troops to the frontiers. Italy called 50,000 more men to the colors. Ten men were killed when two bombers crashed in midair during the French war games.

On Friday, with Italy not voting, the league council voted unanimously for the committee of five nations to seek a settlement. If it fails the case will revert to the council. The Ethiopian delegate left. That allowed Italy to come back and sit down. Italy had objected to France and England on the council because of their interests in Africa, but finally gave in.

Yesterday the five power committee sent letters to Italy and to Ethiopia asking them in effect not to go to war while the league was trying to settle their dispute. Italy ordered all its consulates in Ethiopia closed and all consular officials to return to Addis Ababa. An unconfirmed report in Geneva said a border clash had been "arranged" to occur between Italy and Ethiopia in the near future.

Germany.

According to the Hitler theory of government, the state is the highest creation of God on earth. On that ground the Nazis believe the church should be under control of the state. The Catholics in Germany have been fighting that idea. Last Sunday the highest council of the German Catholic church gravely served notice on Adolf Hitler that continued persecution of the church by Nazis might mean a prohibitory decree from Rome. If that happened no Catholic in the nation could be baptized, receive communion, or be given the last rites for the dying. That might mean a revolt of the 23,000,000 Catholics in Germany. Bismarck tried to crush the Catholic church in Germany and gave up. Nazis refused to become alarmed at the threat of the Catholics. They intimated they were strong enough to wage their own fight. Yesterday a new Catholic bishop was enthroned in Berlin. Nazi officails boycotted the ceremony.

An appeal was made to German housewives by the Nazi guild of food producers last Monday. The housewives were requested not to waste even the smallest piece of bread in the nation's campaign to stop the importation of foodstuffs so that more money may be available for the purchase in foreign lands of raw materials for industry.

Two Americans, H. Arthur Mueller of Philadelphia, and the Rev. George Fisher of Stanhope, N. J., were sitting in a Berlin beer garden last Wednesday. A group of Storm Troopers marched past the garden's entrance. Neither of the Americans saluted the swastika flag carried by the troopers. One of the troopers rushed inside and struck Mueller. The Rev. Mr. Fisher saved himself by showing an American passport.

Motherhood.

Dictator Hitler wants Germany's healthy young women to bear many robust children so they will grow up with Nazi ideas and carry on Nazi political and military power. Girls in their teens are required to study how to be good mothers. Last Tuesday a letter written to a Berlin publication known as the German Woman Fighter came to light. In it a mother protested that her 15 year old daughter, once healthy and joyous, was considering suicide because of the teachings. "Responsible for this," said the mother, "are the sledge hammer blows which a young, developing girl's soul receives daily through the crass and excessively dull manner in which she is instructed about chromosones, sterilization, and sexual diseases. . . . The result is a lower of the youthful mind and sentiment was to be killed off by force. . . . Girls are told they must marry as early as possible, before their strength is used up, in order to present the state hereditarily healthy children. They are also told that every fourth man is diseased. . . . The result is fear of marriage, of man, and of childbirth. . . . In a camp a 28 year old teacher addresses 14 and 15 year old girls as 'you growing mothers.' The young, still slumbering feminine soul rebels."

Germany loans money to couples who want to marry, but first they must pass medical examinations. The health office in Berlin announced that for the last six months of 1934 a total of 172,000 men and women applied for marriage licenses and took examinations. Of this number 4,762, or about 3 out of every 100, were rejected. There were 114 women rejected for every 100 men. The biggest reason for turning down both men and women was inherited feeble mindedness. Sterility cases numbered 196 among women and 37 among men. The purpose of the marriage loan is to increase the birth rate.

Reds.

Russia permitted the United States to have the last word in the matter of the American protest over speeches at the recent meeting of the comintern [international communist congress] at Moscow. Secretary of State Hull warned Russia last Saturday not to permit communists to plot against America in Russia again. This closed the matter. Since the secretary's announcement was public and not a note addressed to Russia, the soviets were not forced to reply.

The English Trades Union congress met in London last Tuesday. The congress voted in favor of the black circular which advises unions not to elect Reds to posts of importance in their organizations. The next day the congress refused to vote in favor of a united labor front proposed by the English delegate to the recent comintern meeting in Moscow. At the meeting of the comintern the members were told to try to get all labor to join a united front.

Last Monday the Japanese added their protests to those of the United States, England, Italy, and Latvia against the speeches made at the comintern meeting. Like all the others the Japanese protest was rejected by the Russian government.

The day after the Japanese protest the Russians sentenced to death three former officers in the White Russian [anti-Red] army. The officers were accused of being spies who had entered Russia from Manchukuo.

Fourteen women and 26 men appeared before Judge Leon Edelman in the Chicago Women's court on Wednesday. They were arrested the previous Saturday when they assembled to demonstrate against Italy in the Italo-Ethiopian dispute. The 40 radicals were granted jury trials on charges of unlawful assembly and disorderly conduct. The trials will be heard Oct. 3.

Astrid's Funeral.

When the late King Albert of Belgium was buried 18 months ago his son, now King Leopold III., trudged behind the gun carriage which bore the body. Between Leopold and the carriage walked Albert's favorite bay horse, draped in black. Last Tues-

President.

President Roosevelt, in his home at Hyde Park, N. Y., read acts of congress, received callers, saw reporters, and on Friday made the headlines all over the land.

He gave out copies of a 3,000 word letter stating that conditions were better, that for the time being the New Deal experiments with business were over, and that business was free to go ahead. [See business section.]

The letter was a reply to one from Roy Howard, chain newspaper publisher. Mr. Howard had questioned some of the New Deal's experiments. He had warned that business men were really alarmed and wanted a breathing spell. To this the President replied:

"The breathing spell of which you speak is here—decidedly so."

Political observers said the letter was historic, that it changed the President from a radical to a conservative. They hinted, however, he, as a sudden conservative, would find it hard to explain such radical things as the NRA, the AAA, the social security bill, the Guffey coal bill, and others.

Republican leaders regarded the letter as the President's opening bid for reëlection next year. Henry P. Fletcher, chairman of the Republican national committee, said the letter contained nothing but new promises. Former Secretary of War Patrick Hurley wondered how business could enjoy a breathing spell while still in the government's strait-jacket. Democratic leaders praised the letter. [For developments see main news section.]

On Wednesday the President received Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago. [See Public Works.] He had lunch with Kelly, Postmaster General Farley and others. Later—and for the first time—he revealed peevishness with newspaper men for writing stories hinting his meeting with Farley, Kelly, and the others was political. At the conference he talked about the Ethiopian oil lease and remarked that it showed that his administration did not believe in dollar diplomacy. On Wednesday he probably learned that his former law partner, Basil O'Connor of New York, had returned an overcharge of $5,153.97 to the city of Joliet, Ill.

AAA.

The policy of the Agricultural Adjustment administration in reducing crops and live stock is being felt these days in higher costs of food. A department of commerce report last week showed that the country bought more meat products from foreign lands in July than for many years past. At the same time packing centers under AAA management were reporting new all time lows in domestic live stock. In July the United States imported 37,617,583 pounds of beef, pork, poultry, edible gelatin, and tallow as against 4,503,336 in July of 1934. Prices naturally jumped.

Housewives were the first to complain. They went on meat buying strikes in Detroit and other cities. Then city, county, and state officials took up the complaint. Among the first was Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia. During the last few months he has been condemning the AAA and the New Deal generally.

At Manitowoc, Wis., Monday, Gov. La Follette also attacked the AAA. He said that to pay farmers for reducing crops and not raising hogs, as the AAA asks, would not get the country out of the depression. He said Wisconsin's idea of recovery was to produce more, not less. Representative James W. Wadsworth, who operates a large farm at Geneseo, N. Y., announced at Rochester on Thursday that he would fight the AAA. Under the AAA he would not be allowed to grow more than five bushels of potatoes next year. "I intend to raise more than that and sell them where I please," he said. One AAA defender was found Thursday in Earl C. Smith of Chicago, president of the Illinois Agricultural association. Speaking at Monticello, Ill., he said that if it was all right for industry to curtail production to keep up prices, it was also all right for the farmer to do so.

Congress.

Speaker Joe Byrns of Tennessee hopes the next session of congress, beginning in January, will be short. He was hard at work at his desk Wednesday. "With the elections coming on next year I don't think we should attempt to enact much more legislation," he said. He said he thought the next session might try to pass laws to save some of the features of NRA. Meanwhile, examination of the records showed that Democratic congressmen from Chicago were, on the whole, rubber stamps for the administration. They voted with the New Deal on almost all major legislation except the bonus and the death sentence clause in the utilities bill. The only steady anti-New Dealer was Ralph E. Church, Republican from the Tenth district.

Figures were given out on Monday that 12,057 employés were added during July to the executive branch of the federal government. This brings the total to 729,766 to date. According to the civil service commission, the payroll during July amounted to $11,110,248. The postoffice is the largest employer, with 259,454 workers all over the country. The war department is next with 66,722 employés. There are 104,500 civil employés in the district of Columbia alone. This represents a 58 per cent increase since Roosevelt became President.

Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes returned to Washington, following the funeral of his wife, Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Icges, in Winnetka, Ill., on Tuesday. The services were attended by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President; Postmaster General James Farley; Secretary of War George Dern, and Secretary of Commerce Daniel Roper; Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the secretary of agriculture; Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois; Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, and others. Mrs. Ickes was killed in an automobile accident at Velarde, N. M., last Saturday. Mrs. Genevieve Forbes Herrick, writer, who was with her, was injured.

The state department on Tuesday announced the purchase of one of the most beautiful homes in Ottawa as a residence for the American minister to Canada. The reported price was $325,000. The home was once owned by the late Warren Young Soper. On Sunday the government leased another house—the Washington home of the Edward B. McLean family. It will be used for government offices.

Public Works.

Not long ago the main concern of the New Deal was the NRA. But the Supreme court last May killed the NRA. Any doubt as to its death was removed on Thursday when Acting Administrator L. J. Martin forbade further reproduction of any Blue Eagle insignia or emblem. The main concern of the New Deal now is the 4 billion dollar works program.

The government offered loans or outright gifts for acceptable public projects. However, cities, towns, and counties did not hurry to accept the offer. About ten days ago the President said anybody who wanted funds would have to apply before Sept. 12.

The rush began last week. The bulk of the applications went to the Works Progress administration. Applications jumped from $25,000,000 a day to $100,000,000 a day. More than 2,000 applications a day were received.

Mayors and governors, seeking works funds, called on the President and other officials in person. Among them were Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago and Gov. Philip La Follette of Wisconsin.

Mayor Kelly left for Hyde Park, N. Y., on Monday. He said he wanted approval for projects to put 110,000 persons to work. Among the projects are the lake front airport, the permanent fair, playgrounds, viaducts, bridges, police and fire stations, Calumet harbor improvements, a water filtration plant, and a city sewer repair and reconstruction plan—this alone to cost $38,437,857.

The mayor saw the President on Wednesday. He left happily, carrying the President's assurance of help. It was said the President approved the major projects such as the airport, the permanent fair and the sewer program. If all Chicago's projects are approved the city will need 150 million dollars in federal funds, of which 32 millions have already been granted for street repairs. Returning to Chicago Friday, Mayor Kelly said the President particularly liked the lake front airport plan.

Gov. La Follette and his brother, United States Senator Robert La Follette told the President Wisconsin's works requirements on Friday. Wisconsin already has had approved an allotment of $16,660,798 for eight projects. Of this Milwaukee county will get $1,563,215. There are nearly 100,000 persons on relief in the county.

At Lansing on Tuesday the Michigan state administrative board voted to submit projects calling for more than $35,000,000. Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald has opposed most of them.

Iowa, in the words of a Des Moines newspaper, was "working feverishly Monday seeking ways to insure a flow of federal money into the state." Iowa officials have agreed on several hundred jobs designed to put 45,000 men to work. According to George Keller, Iowa WPA engineer, there should be work for four times that number.

BREMEN.

On July 26 a mob of anti-Nazis tore the Nazi flag from the German liner Bremen in New York City. Detective Matthew Solomon, a Jew, was injured. He arrested six men. On Friday Magistrate Louis B. Brodsky freed five of the men but held Edward Drolette for trial. In a lengthy opinion, Magistrate Brodsky attacked the Hitler régime and called the steamship Breman a "pirate ship with the black flag of piracy proudly flying aloft." He added, however, that he wanted no word of his to be considered as approving lawlessness. Yesterday the German government protested to Secretary of State Hull.

[See main news section.]

A brass band welcomed Maria Jeritza and her husband, Winfield Sheehan, to Unterach, Austria, Thursday. Mme. Jeritza is a well known Austro-American opera star. Her husband is a leading film producer in Hollywood. Mme. Jeritza divorced her Viennese husband, Baron Popper von Padroghy, in Arkansas last month. She immediately became Sheehan's wife. Mr. and Mrs. Sheehan will tour Austria and Hungary.

The City

Easy Money.

Mayor Kelly returned to Chicago on Friday well satisfied with his visit at Hyde Park, N. Y. There he saw President Roosevelt, who approved, in principle, of Chicago projects which will require about $150,000,000 of federal funds. Awarding the money is up to Harry L. Hopkins, WPA administrator. [See Washington.]

McCutcheon.

John T. McCutcheon, CHICAGO TRIBUNE cartoonist; Mrs. McCutcheon, and their son, John Jr., 17, returned Wednesday from a 13,700 mile air trip. Leaving Chicago July 18, the McCutcheons circled South America by plane, then went to Germany aboard the Graf Zeppelin. They returned to New York on the Normandie. The entire trip, including train travel in this country, totaled 20,000 miles. They traveled through four seasons with only 55 pounds of baggage each.

Tokens.

Twenty-three states and a few cities now have sales taxes varying from .005 to 3 cents on $1. Illinois' 3 per cent sales tax is intended to raise $36,000,000 a year toward relief. The levy, which will expire on Jan. 1, 1937, is technically not a tax upon the customer but an occupational levy on the merchant. The state demands 3 per cent of his gross sales receipts. But the merchant is permitted to figure the tax as part of his cost of business and raise prices accordingly.

Intending to help the merchant get the added cost and the customer to pay it, Illinois has issued aluminum tokens, or metal coins. Each is worth 1½ mills, or 3-20 of a cent.

Chicago shoppers got a brief look at tax tokens early in July when round coins were issued. These were taken out of circulation when the federal treasury department protested that they violated national coinage laws. Illinois then issued a token ⅝ of an inch square with rounded corners. The first 15,000,000 of these gimmicks hit Chicago Tuesday. The state department of finance pays the cost of minting them and sells them to the merchants at face value.

As more thousands of tokens poured in toward the end of the week, clerks and customers suffered fractional headaches. The tax is supposed to start with one token on 5 cents and move up on a uniform scale. But after the purchase passes 33 cents and a tax of 1 cent, both tokens and pennies are needed to arrive at the tax. Buyers complained that retailers were giving them token change at the rate of six for a cent. That figures to nine mills, one short of a cent. Merchants complained that the store taxes the customer for $1 but pays the state on $1.03.

The department stores are continuing to charge the tax by the bracket system. This levies one cent on purchases from 15 to 51 cents, 2 cents from 51 to 83 cents and 3 cents from 83 cents to $1.16.

Meanwhile Knowlton L. Ames, state finance director, reported collection of $4,764,612.78 for the first month of the 3 per cent tax.

Wednesday 435 building contractors filed suit against Ames to prevent the state from collecting the sales tax.

Constitution.

On May 28 the Chicago park board considered the request of Father Charles E. Coughlin to use Soldiers' field for a massmeeting of his Union for Social Justice on June 5. The board adopted a policy against permitting the field to be used for "propaganda on political and economic subjects of a controversial nature" and rejected the Detroit radio priest's application.

Father Coughlin then sued for the right to speak in Soldiers' field on June 19. On July 26 Judge Kelly issued a writ ordering the park board to come across. The park board immediately dodged the writ by appealing the case. Father Coughlin gave up all hope of getting the field this year because the Illinois Supreme court will not hear the appeal until late in the fall.

Having set a precedent, the park board since has rejected three requests for Soldiers' field on "controversial" grounds. It was denied the Chicago Federation of Labor for a Labor day celebration. On Tuesday the park board turned down the Constitution day committee and Save America, Inc., both seeking the field for Sept. 17, the 148th anniversary of the adoption of the United States constitution. Save America, Inc., was an unknown corporation, but the Constitution day committee stood on its merits. Robert J. Dunham, president of the park board and Illinois director for the WPA, was in California during August, and the board held its tongue. Dunham returned Monday, and the next day Commissioners Joseph I. Witmanski, Harry Joseph, and James C. Petrillo agreed with him that a Constitution day meeting in Soldiers' field would be against the May 28 policy.

On Wednesday the Constitution day committee leased Chicago Stadium.

Alimony.

"I don't believe in women being forced to pay alimony," said Superior Judge Martin M. Gridley on Thursday, and then reduced the alimony Mrs. Helen Lewis, 7301 Sheridan road, must pay her husband, Donald, from $15 to $5 a week. Pending a divorce suit, Lewis had testified that he financed his wife's house furnishing business. She says it's losing money. Illinois has a new law which makes wives as well as husbands liable for alimony.

Watchers.

Ninety per cent of the men and youths who call, "Watch your car, mister?" to motorists have police records, it was learned by police who investigated the racket. The Chicago Motor club and the police stolen automobile detail plan to drive car watchers from the streets. Many, carrying saws, skeleton keys, and other automobile theft tools, have been caught, investigators said. [For developments see main news section.]

Milk.

Heavy rains brought heavy grass which made the cows heavy with milk. Dairymen in the Chicago milk shed had more milk to sell, but couldn't get rid of it. They complained to the Pure Milk association. It met with the Associated Milk Dealers, and the result was a 1 cent cut in milk prices Monday. Standard milk was reduced from 11 to 10 cents a quart and vitamin D milk from 12 to 11 cents.

day only Leopold was allowed to walk immediately behind the herse bearing the body of his wife, Queen Astrid. Astrid's father, Prince Carl of Sweden, walked slightly behind the king on the way from the castle to the cathedral, where mass was said. Leaving the cathedral, Leopold became the only royal marcher on the tedious trip to the royal crypt at Laeken, three miles from Brussels.

Despite his sprained arm, cut cheek, and fractured rib, King Leopold insisted on following the European custom of walking behind the herse. In the most tragic moment of his life he paraded before thousands of his subjects who stood in the blazing sun along the funeral route. The young monarch kept his reddened eyes on the herse, which was last used at the burial of his great uncle, Leopold II., in 1909. Last Thursday physicians advised the grief stricken king to take a rest.

Foreign Notes.

Last July the British ministry of labor said that American chorus girls could no longer work in England. The ministry claimed the American girls were taking jobs that should go to English girls. Last Tuesday the ministry decided the American girls could come back to work in England. No English girls were found who could do the work.

William Aberhart led the campaign which gave the province of Alberta, Canada, the first Social Credit government in the world. On Monday he and the seven members of his cabinet were sworn into office. They have promised to give every one in Alberta cashable credit of $25 a month. After his inauguration Aberhart planned a trip to Ottawa to see if he could borrow at least $15,000,000 from the Canadian government. Alberta needs that much to fill its empty treasury.

A German girl erased the word "Jewish" from her grandfather's death certificate and wrote "Evangelical." She said that she did it so she could keep her job. On Friday she was sentenced to four months in a Berlin jail.

The people on the Island of Corsica thought the prince of Wales was being murdered last Thursday. He was only shooting at fish from the deck of his yacht, anchored off the coast of the island. The same day his brother, the duke of Gloucester, bought a ring in London. It was an engagement ring for his fiancée, Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas Scott.

Strange

Jean Darlington, 5 years old, of Schenectady, N. Y., is always at her parents' call. Her father, a radio engineer, has built a tiny receiving set on the small wagon she pulls around.

Citizens of Tuscola, Ill., walked unafraid through the streets of their town Monday night. The lights were turned on for the first time in a year. Trouble with a utility company had halted the service.

Solomon Rickner of St. Paul, who says he is 114 years old, returned home Monday after a week in a hospital.

Charles Kaplan, 22 years old, 1308 South Keeler avenue, Chicago, will be more careful of rattlesnakes. Kaplan, a zoölogy student at the University of Illinois, tried to transfer three snakes from one cage to another Sunday. One of the snakes bit his right index finger.

Frank Kamin, a Chicago shoemaker, was stopped by two robbers in Kansas City, Mo., on Tuesday. They took $2 and his shoes. He walked barefoot to the nearest police station.

Aided by a cæsarian operation Ivy Sawyer, actress wife of Joseph Santley, the movie director, gave birth to a son in Los Angeles on Wednesday. Her two other children were cæsarian babies.

A burglar broke into a potato chip plant in Kansas City, Mo., Tuesday night. He slid down a water pipe. The pipe broke. He fell into a vat containing 100 pounds of melted grease. He escaped.

Southern Pacific railway officials reported on Wednesday that hundreds of pelicans are dying on Great Salt lake, Ogden, Utah. The birds alight on the water but cannot rise again because of the heavy salt clinging to their bodies.

IRISH POET.

James Stephens, considered the greatest Irish poet of the day, arrived in New York on Monday for a series of lectures. Every time he comes to America he is asked for his opinion on American writing. Monday was no exception. American writing, said Stephens, is lowbrow, brutal, and a bit crazy, but very powerful. In 1925 Stephens said that American authors were still far behind English writers in fineness of style. Their best trait, he said then, was power. American poets, he felt, were close to the top. Stephens' first big effort was "The Crock of Gold," published in 1912. He is a little man, with a lean, tanned face.

Education

Families living on farms of the federal government near Jackson, Neb., pay no school taxes. Jackson school authorities refused to allow the families' 41 children to enter Jackson schools.

When children went to school in Russia they were asked about their parents. If their father or mother had been aristocrats, officers in the army of the czar, business men, or kulaks [land owning farmers before the revolution], the children usually didn't get into the overcrowded schools. On Wednesday a new order was published in Russia. It said that hereafter school authorities were to take all school children without inquiring about their parents.

School pupils in Alexandria, Ind., got an extra week's vacation. The old school board refused to resign and make way for the new one, appointed by the city council. Citizens stoned the homes of G. J. Armstrong and Chad Nicoson, members of the old board. Pupils in the junior high school went out on strike. Wednesday the old board finally resigned. The new board said that school opening would be delayed until Monday so everybody could cool off.

Cook county schools opened their doors on Tuesday to 100,000 pupils. The next day 200,000 more children started their year's work in parochial grammar schools. Parochial high schools and academies will open tomorrow. City public schools will open a week later. William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools, prepared the machinery for distributing $6 a month to each of 4,470 high school pupils whose families are on relief. The money will come from the $50,000,000 fund set aside by President Roosevelt for National Youth work.

Science

The American Psychological (dealing with the science of mental processes) association met in Ann Arbor, Mich., last week. These professors revealed the following facts:

Harvey C. Lehman, Ohio university—Study of the work of 1,264 chemists, mathematicians, physicists, astronomers, inventors, fiction writers, and poets showed that man, on the average, reaches the height of his ability to create ideas at the age of 35. The curve of work showed a rapid rise from the age of 12 and a slow decline at the age of 89. Poets reach their height before 35, and astronomers after 40.

M. M. White, University of Kentucky—Suppressed desires which make some persons ill or unbalanced may be found in almost every one.

Dr. A. T. Poffenberger of Columbia university, president of the group, closed the session Friday with a plea for psychologists to catch up with the present great human problems. He agreed that psychology had lagged behind the mechanical sciences instead of providing the means for human adjustment to social changes. He asked for a more practical application of the science to recovery.

Radium.

Three University of Rochester scientists Tuesday began to build a machine for making "artificial radium." The machine will cost $10,000. A magnet containing 14 tons of iron will drive hydrogen gas around a racetrack circuit between two poles in a vacuum chamber weighing 400 pounds. Material sensitive to radio will be broken up and reformed into new parts when the gas builds up 4,000,000 volts of electrical energy. Some of the particles change into a kind of radium which lasts only a short time. Ordinary mineral radium gives off rays for thousands of years. Because of its short life artificial radium may surpass the natural kind for medical treatment of humans, said Prof. E. O. Lawrence of the University of California.

Sex.

Dr. I. Garcia of the University of the Philippines in Manila believes he has discovered a way to decide the sex of an unborn baby. Monday Dr. Garcia announced that he had an electrical machine apparently able to separate male and female influences in the male cell which fertilizes the female egg cell. He cited the births of boys to two women previously childless. Fertilization was accomplished artificially.

Religion

The 89th annual Wisconsin conference of the Methodist Episcopal church opened in Appleton, Wis., Friday. Last year the conference adopted a social service report which approved the New Deal as the indicative of a new order. This year the conference sent out a questionnaire to its 400 members. Only 189 of them replied. Carl F. Keck, member of the executive committee of the Methodist Laymen's conference of the midwest, charged that the questionnaire had been so worded that it trapped the members into expression of radical sentiment. Some of the laymen believed that the questionnaire was prepared by the Methodist Federation for Social Service. This organization is known as one of the most radical Protestant propaganda agencies.

All week 75 young Methodists have been meeting in Evanston. They represent every section as the executive group of the youth council. Last year when 900 members, young and old, met in Evanston they published socialistic findings for which they were widely censured. This year the young men are meeting in secret. They were told to drop sensationalism from their activities by Roger F. Little of Urbana, representing the recently organized Methodist Laymen's conference of the middle west. He told them to stick to religion as their one big task and mind their own business.

FORD.

W. J. Cameron of Dearborn, Mich., spokesman for Henry Ford, Detroit automobile manufacturer, asserted on Thursday that Mr. Ford is the chief target of the tax-the-rich program of the New Deal. Mr. Cameron spoke before Ford service men of 29 states at Atlantic City, N. J. He said that every form of attack has been made to get control of Mr. Ford's company. "Banks have been pulled out from under it," said Mr. Cameron. "Unions have started strikes; men have come with hundreds of millions of dollars to buy in. Now comes this tax-the-rich idea."

Disasters

Late summer is the time for tropical cyclones in the China seas (typhoons) and the Philippine Islands (baguios), around the coast of India, east of Australia, east of the Island of Madagascar, and in the Caribbean sea area (hurricanes). Last Monday night a hurricane shrieked across the Florida keys, bounded along the west coast of Florida for the next two days, cut a swathe through the crops of Georgia, and slowly wore itself out along the east coast of the United States at the end of the week.

Estimates of the dead in the Florida keys reached 1,000. (See Main News Section.) Known dead were over 400. Most of the dead were war veterans who had been building roads and embankments across the keys to Key West. On Thursday President Roosevelt ordered an immediate investigation. He wanted to find out why the veterans were not removed from the keys earlier, when the first warnings of the storm were issued.

Monday afternoon an 11 car train was made ready on the mainland. It was to go down into the keys and remove the veterans, living in flimsy shacks and tents on the low islands. The train got down, but never came back. With the people on the islands, it was buried under a wall of water tossed across the land by the wind. The storm lasted only a few hours in the keys, but the toll of death mounted all week as searchers found bodies.

On Friday the weather bureau refused to accept responsibility. Gov. Sholtz of Florida said that some one had been tragically careless. He ordered the burning of bodies on funeral pyres in spite of the request of Col. George E. Ijams, assistant administrator of the veterans' bureau, to buy the veterans with military honors.

The veterans had been sent down to the keys at the suggestion of Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to the President. He thought that would be a good way to prevent a bonus march such as embarrassed President Hoover. Now the administration is explaining why the veterans were kept in a place of known hurricanes without provision for their safety.

All but five of the lives were lost in the area between the mainland and Key West. Those five were lost in North Carolina and Virginia as the storm moved northward. Along the west coast of Florida and from Georgia northward there was heavy property damage.

Late Monday night the steamer Dixie was blown off her course and went aground on the north end of French key, sixty miles south of Miami, Fla. There were 231 passengers and 122 members of the crew. Rescue vessels were forced to wait until Wednesday. All of the passengers and most of the crew were removed without loss of live by late Thursday. The captain and a skeleton crew remained on board the Dixie. The storm also drove the Danish freighter Leise Maersk aground 75 miles north of Key West. No lives were lost.

On the other side of the Atlantic ocean two English vessels got into difficulties Thursday. The English passenger ship Doric and the French freighter Formigny ran into each other off the coast of Portugal. Two other English boats rescued 736 passengers from the Doric. Both crippled ships made port under their own power. In the English channel the paddle steamer Whippingham, with 400 passengers aboard, sprang a leak in a storm. The vessel was towed to England without it being necessary to remove the passengers.

Floods in the valleys of the Ohio and Rio Grande rivers caused property damage, though no loss of life was reported.

After being trapped in a standing position on a mountain ledge for more than 24 hour, Paul Cardoni, young surveyor working in northeast British Columbia, was rescued Wednesday by a party of Indians and prospectors.

Crime

Homer S. Cummings, United States attorney general, arrived at Plymouth, England, on Tuesday. He went to Europe to study crime and police. English newspapers hailed him as the "Terror of American Crooks," and the "Creator of G. Men." He had a hard time convincing ship reporters that he personally did not kill Outlaw John Dillinger. He said: "I am looking forward to my visit to Scotland Yard with great interest. I want to discuss the taking of fingerprints and filing records. I want to investigate Scotland Yard's laboratory detective methods." Mr. Cummings then hurried to London. On Wednesday he hurried to Scotland Yard. He spent two hours there.

James H. Neal, official of a Denver live stock commission company, entered his Denver home with his wife Monday night and found a young woman dead in their bedroom. She had shot herself with Neal's pistol. Neither he nor his wife knew the woman. On Tuesday she was identified by Neal's son, James, as Mrs. Helen Waller, 28 years old. The son told police she wanted him to finance a divorce for her. He said he refused. Police believe that Mrs. Waller entered the Neal home with a key, found the pistol, and shot herself.

Salvatore Esposito, a Brooklyn Transit company collector, was shot and killed on Monday by one of six gunmen who robbed him of $250 in dimes and nickels. On Wednesday Detective Charles Aracy arrested two youths when he noticed that their pockets bulged with small coins. By night four others were seized. District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan of Brooklyn obtained a confession from Joe Bolognia, 23 years old, by appealing to his vanity. He set a motion picture camera, with sound recording equipment, in operation and asked Bolognia to pretend he was a hard boiled movie gunman and to tell all about the Esposito murder. Bolognia's chest swelled. He told everything.

Deputy sherifs on Wednesday night began patroling the roads in the farm areas of Will county. They were assigned to this duty because of the theft on Tuesday night of eleven pure bred Hereford cows from the Scheel farm, six miles east of Joliet, Ill. For several months thieves have been stealing live stock and chickens from farms in Will, McHenry, and Grundy counties. They operate more swiftly, but on a smaller scale, than the old time cattle rustlers. The modern rustlers are content with two or three head, which they load into trucks. Arrest, except on the scene, is difficult because the cattle are not branded.

The Chicago crime commission gave out a report showing that 236 criminals from the Joliet and Stateville prisons and 175 lawbreakers from the Pontiac reformatory had been paroled since April 1 and returned to Chicago. The report also revealed that 149 men and ten women had been freed on probation in Chicago courts since that time. Of the 570 law violators, 78 were indicted for new crimes committed since they were freed. Two of them, John Slattery and Edward Ryder, killed an elderly watchman during a robbery at the Hickory Hills Golf club on Aug. 23. New York also has its easy justice trouble. On Monday federal agents announced the arrest of Robert C. Nelson, recently paroled from Sing Sing. He is accused of being in a $185,000 jewelry robbery at Miami, Fla.

Labor

Union labor had its annual holiday on Monday. The extra week end holiday was spoiled in many areas by rainy, cold weather, which kept hundreds of thousands of people home. Nevertheless, 194 persons lost their lives in automobile accidents during the week-end holiday.

Mass meetings were held on Monday in most cities. William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, spoke at Canton, O. He said better times were coming for the workingman. He warned, though, that the working day must be shortened.

At Omaha, Neb., J. C. Lewis of Des Moines, president of the Iowa State Federation of Labor, shouted that the United States Supreme court showed itself to be un-American when it ruled against the old age pension plan. He said that the justices would get pensions of $10,000 a year each when they retired.

R. G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, spoke at Springfield. He said that trade unions increase education, shorten hours of labor, lengthen lives, raise wages, cheer the home, and make the world a better place to live in.

New York's nine burlesque houses were dark Thursday. Dancers and chorus girls had gone on strike. A few theaters in Washington, Philadelphia, Boston and Atlantic City were also affected. The Burlesque Artists' association said the strike was called because the girls were required to work 12 hours a day, seven days a week without getting pay increases. The strike ended last night.

Poet's Widow

Lady Watson, it was learned Monday at Brighton, England, is seeking employment, even as a servant. She is the widow of Sir William Watson, poet, who died Aug. 13. She needs employment over the period necessary for clearing up his estate. Lady Watson expects $10,000 from the United States when the estate is settled.

Sir William Watson was considered by many to be one of England's greatest modern poets. But he was not a money maker. He is perhaps best remembered for his poem "The Woman with the Serpent's Tongue," published in 1909. It was admittedly a composite picture of Mrs. Asquith and Miss Violet Asquith, wife and stepdaughter of the prime minister. The first few lines of the poem follow:

The Woman with the Serpent's Tongue,
The haggard cheeks, the hungering eye,
The poisoned words that wildly fly,
The famished face, the fevered hand—
Who slights the worthiest in the land,
Sneers at the just, contemns the brave,
And blackens goodness in its grave."

The last lines follow:

"To think that such as she can mar
Names that among the noblest are!
That hands like hers can touch the springs
That move who knows what men and things?
That on her will their fates have hung!—
The Woman with the Serpent's Tongue."

The principal inspiration for Watson's poem was said to have been the case of John Davidson, a poor Scottish poet. His friends applied to the government for a pension for him. A woman high in official and social life fought against the pension. She said that poets were not necessary. Davidson was refused the pension. He killed himself. Watson then wrote his poem.

Blue and Gray

The 75th anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg comes in 1938. Only once since 1863 have Union and Confederate veterans met on the Gettysburg field. That was in 1933. They were just a handful, but they promised to hold a final, big reunion in 1938. Everything appeared successful last year. The Union veterans approved the plan. They laid only one condition; their former enemies could not carry their flag, the Stars and Bars, unfurled. When this condition was carried to the United Confederate Veterans, Gen. Rice A. Pierce of Union City, Tenn., then commander in chief, snapped:

"Tell 'em to go to hell."

The Confederate veterans met again at Amarillo, Tex., last week. On Wednesday Paul Roy, representing Gov. George H. Earle of Pennsylvania [Gettysburg is in Pennsylvania] officially invited the southern warriors to attend the Gettysburg reunion in 1938. He told the southerners that they would be free to carry the Stars and Bars unfurled whenever and wherever they wished. The veterans said that they would attend the reunion. [See mains news section.]

MARY.

Mary Pickford started a riot in a Los Angeles department store Wednesday. As advertised, she appeared in the book section to autograph her latest book. Hundreds of women and men crowded around her. Soon afterward the crush became heavy. Hair pulling followed. Order was restored when Miss Pickford who had agreed to stay only one hour, announced she'd remain several hours.

Chicagoland

Indiana.

One hundred and ten years of history of Clay county unrolled in a pageant at Brazil Monday night. More than 500 persons attended. Miss Mildred Harrell was chosen queen.

The state highway commission in Indianapolis on Tuesday set Sept. 17 for the opening of bids for the completion of the new three lane highway for U. S. road 52 between Indianapolis and Lebanon.

Charles M. Davidson, former chief clerk of the Indianapolis park board, died on Sunday in his home in Indianapolis.

The Wayne county 4-H club was announced on Tuesday as winner of the 1935 junior live stock judging contests at the Indiana state fair at Indianapolis.

Sherif Otto Ray of Indianapolis told Judge Andrew Jacobs on Tuesday that he would fire two deputies because they wrongly arrested three Cleveland youths. The youths were Peter Rozewski, Steve Solka, and Tom Patterni. The deputies, whose names were not revealed, suspected the young men because they carried $259.

Iowa.

A four day vacation for Des Moines firemen ended at 3:25 p. m. on Monday. A call at that time was the first alarm they had received since 3:45 p. m. on Thursday.

More than 840,000 drivers' licenses for 1935-37 were issued up to Aug. 31, the state motor vehicle department at Des Moines announced on Monday. The examiners have been visiting each of the state's 99 counties at least once a week.

Thousands of Iowa school teachers returned to their classrooms on Tuesday at higher salaries than they received last year. The pay is still below that of 1929 and 1930. Fewer married women were listed.

Plans were completed at Vinton on Wednesday for a celebration of Sweet Corn day on Sept. 11. All the hot, buttered corn on the cob that the crowds can eat will be ready to serve at noon.

The state trafic law limiting the speed of freight trucks to 35 miles an hour does not apply to light delivery trucks. This was the ruling of Lew Wallace, motor department superintendent, at Des Moines on Wednesday.

Gustave Alesch, state representative of Le Mars, protested on Thursday against an alleged strip dance at the Iowa State fair. He named the dancer as Jane Rhodora. He said the dance was advertised as a strip dance, and he doubted it would be 100 per cent, but he got a surprise, he said. A. R. Corey, director of the fair board, denied Alesch's charge.

Wes G. Henke of Charles City was elected Iowa state commander of the American Legion at the close of the state convention at Waterloo on Wednesday. Clinton was chosen for the 1936 convention.

Clement C. Williams, dean of the college of engineering, University of Iowa, was elected president of Lehigh university, Bethlehem, Pa., on Friday. He has been at Iowa for several years.

Wisconsin.

Gov. Philip La Follette, in a radio talk from Madison on Tuesday night, said he was sorry that the Wisconsin senate had refused to approve his 200 million dollar public works program. Had Gov. La Follette's program been approved the people of Wisconsin would have been even more heavily taxed than they now are.

More alimony was paid in Milwaukee county in August than in any other month since October of 1931. The records, compiled on Monday, showed that ex-wives received $50,828.67 last August as against $41,784 during August of 1934. The next best record was in October, 1931, when $52,663.84 was paid.

City Attorney Max Raskin of Milwaukee announced on Tuesday that he has a list of 3,000 saloon owners and other liquor dealers who are liable to forfeiture of their bonds because of liquor violations. Licenses range from $200 to $1,000. Joseph A. Budar, former hotel operator, was given a license on Tuesday to operate a tavern. He was once convicted of a liquor law violation. The license committee does not consider prohibition law violations in acting on applications.

The Milwaukee city council on Tuesday voted to investigate the high prices of meat. Meat prices in Milwaukee are now about as high as they were immediately after the war.

Thirteen state and national organizations will meet in Milwaukee during September. The state medical society will bring 900 delegates. The state association of master bakers will draw 300. The convention of the Milwaukee Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women will attract 500 women. All told, conventions are expected to bring about 3,325 delegates.

Michigan.

County Treasurer Thomas Vidro, at Grand Rapids, announced on Monday that tax collections for August amounted to almost $150,000. The tax collections for August, 1934, totaled only $39,803. The big increase came from payment of old taxes, some as far back as 1932.

Michigan may hear Senator Huey Long of Louisiana late this month. John W. Lentz, of Maybee, president of the Michigan Farmers' union, announced on Monday that Long had promised to appear before the union, probably at Saginaw.

Forty persons were injured at Flint on Monday when two bleachers collapsed during an outdoor boxing and wrestling show. Only two of those hurt needed hospital treatment.

Funeral services were held Wednesday for John Riley, 90 years old, civil war veteran, who died at his home at Grand Ledge on Sunday. He served with the 49th Ohio regiment. He was wounded and taken prisoner. Only two civil war veterans survive in the Grand Ledge area.

The Michigan state Supreme court, Lansing, on Wednesday heard arguments to determine whether Paul F. Voelker or Eugene B. Elliott is entitled to hold office as state superintendent of public instruction. Voelker was defeated for reëlection by Maurice R. Keyworth in the Nov. 6 election. Last June 22 Keyworth was accidentally killed. Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald then appointed Elliott to the "vacancy created by Keyworth's death." Voelker asserted that since Keyworth had not yet taken office, his death created no vacancy.

On Monday, near Mount Pleasant, a 7,000 barrel a day oil gusher "blew in." Isaiah Leebove, head of the Mammoth Petroleum company, which owns the gusher, said that there is enough natural gas in the state to supply Flint, Pontiac, Lansing, and even Detroit. On Tuesday the Lansing city council approved an application for federal funds to finance a pipeline.

Flying

The aviation division of the department of commerce, Washington, on Tuesday made its first report on the airplane accident in which Will Rogers and Wiley Post were killed near Point Barrow, Alaska, on Aug. 15. The report stated that the Rogers-Post plane was nose heavy. It added that the carburetor might have been damaged by ice or spray. Either of these circumstances could have caused the accident. It is known that the motor failed, but just why can only be guessed, the report said.

Jack Frye, president of the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., announced in Kansas City on Monday that the airline soon would select 60 young women from 24 cities as stewardesses abroad the company's ships. All of them must be graduate nurses.

The department of commerce aviation opened an investigation on Monday into the crash of a twin motored express plane of the Western Air lines near Burbank, Cal. The plane fell in flames Sunday night. Burned to death were George C. Sherwood, 38 years old, of Los Angeles, the pilot; Frederick N. Burlew, 23, of Glendale, Cal., the co-pilot, and Miss Donna Naylor, 21, of Burbank, the stewardess. Twelve sacks of mail were burned. C. N. James, vice president of Western Air, said that "Something was wrong with either the plane or the pilot."

Harold Neuman of Moline, Ill., was the big show of the National Air races at Cleveland. Here's what he did. On Saturday he put his little Howard monoplane through difficult stunts and crashed. He emerged unhurt from the wreckage, climbed into another Howard and entered the second heat of the Louis W. Greve trophy race. He won. On Sunday he won the final heat of the Greve race after a neck and neck race with Marion McKeen of California. To win Neuman flew 207.292 miles an hour. On Monday, piloting the white cabin plane Mister Mulligan he won the Thompson trophy race, one of the most difficult races. It was not Neuman though, who gave them the biggest thrill and scare. It was Roscoe Turner. Turner's ship caught fire. By expert handling he brought it down safely and escaped injury.

Politics

At Rockford, Ill., on Monday, Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr., speaking before Republicans from Winnebago, Ogle, and Boone counties, said the President had sponsored policies which were un-American and more like the policies of present day Russia, Germany, and Italy. On the same day Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York spoke at Denver. He said the New Deal was guilty of blundering, excessive spending, and excessive power.

On Sunday, in New York, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university, asserted the New Deal was applying communistic ideas to American life. He said the share-the-wealth scheme of the New Deal is really a steal-the-wealth scheme.

Many Republicans, like Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, believe that the Republican party can win the presidency with a good candidate. Passing through Chicago several days ago, Nye said his choice is Senator William E. Borah of Idaho. Borah is admittedly the first choice so far. Borah himself paused in Chicago soon afterward. "I have no statement on politics," he told reporters. "It is too early."

In Washington, on Thursday, Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican national committee summoned members of the executive committee to meet in Washington on Sept. 25. They are to get ready for the 1936 campaign. They will also consider where to hold their national convention. The last one was held in Chicago. City Manager McElroy of Kansas City, Mo., formally invited the Republicans there.

Meanwhile Wisconsin Republicans set Oct. 7 for a general meeting of Republican leaders. A city will be selected later.

President Roosevelt met with Postmaster General Farley, his 1932 campaign manager. Col. Henry Breckinridge, assistant secretary of war under Wilson, spoke at New York. He called the New Dealers adventurers. He said they were foreign-minded and ought to be kicked out.

Nor was the Roosevelt cause helped any down in Texas. At Dallas, on Wednesday, Elliott Roosevelt, son of the President, resigned as first vice president of the Young Democrats of Texas. "But I wasn't forced out," he said.

MYRTLEWOOD WINS BY NECK; TIES HAWTHORNE RECORD

WEST MAIN IS SECOND, NECK AHEAD OF CLANG

Trio Races Up from Behind.

The most thrilling finish of the Chicago racing season developed in the $5,000 Sprint handicap, run before a crowd of 15,000, at Hawthorne yesterday.

At the end of the six furlong contest, in which ten of the fleetest horses in training took part, the order was:

Myrtlewood, holder of the world's record at the distance, first by a neck.

Clang, holder of the world's record at 7 furlongs, also up from far back in the stretch, third.

Boy, Was It Close!

A blanket would have covered the three leaders and a faltering stride by any of them might have reversed the entire outcome. Myrtlewood, to win, had to run in record time. She rushed around the six furlong course in 1:10 3-5, which equalled the Hawthorne track record made more than 10 years ago by the speedy old sprinter, Gibbons.

The daughter of Blue Larkspur-Frizeur, which races for Brownell Combs of Lexington, Ky., carried 115 pounds and gave away weight to all her rivals. She ran fifth while Transmutable, Isaiah, Slim Rosie, and Advantage fought for the early lead and reeled off the first quarter in the fast time of .22 3-5. The time for the half was :46 seconds flat.

Then it was that Myrtlewood, hustled along by Jocky Jimmy McCoy, began to assert herself. She dashed past Slim Rosie and next conquered Advantage. In a few more strides, she whipped Transmutable and Isaiah and by the time the field was at the sixteenth pole her nose was showing in front.

There They Go!

From far back in the pack, West Main and Clang also began to move up in long fast strides. They too picked up the early leaders and went sailing on. Then they challenged desperately to overthrow Myrtlewood. She would not submit to any such challenges, however, and raced gamely on past the finish line, in a manner that indicated she was thoroughly enjoying herself.

Myrtlewood earned $4,450 for Owner Combs. West Main's share of the purse was $1,000. Clang picked up $500 for John S. Clark Jr., of New Orleans, who owns him, and Isaiah, which hung on to be fourth, got $250 for his effort.

Myrtlewood had been backed almost to the exclusion of all the others. She paid $4.40 to win, $3.20 to place, and $2.60 to show. West Main's place price was $6.80 and his show price $4.20. The show price on Clang was $4.20.

Match Race Sept. 18.

The finish was so close that Albert Sabath, president of the Hawthorne association, announced soon after the race he would offer a special race on Sept. 18 for a purse of $3,000 to engage Myrtlewood, Clang and West Main. All, according to the conditions of the race, would carry the same weight they did in the Hawthorne Sprint handicap. West Main, with Jocky Corbett up, carried 114 pounds, one less than Myrtlewood, and Clang's impost was 112 pounds.

Tony Pelleteri, who trains West Main, and Charley Peck of the Board of Trade, who owns him, both expressed a willingness to wager $10,000 that West Main will win the special match event.

Norris Slips Over One.

Young Jim Norris from the Board of Trade, slipped over a long shot in the third race when his stylishly bred Two Edged, a son of Sickle-Deuce, after racing on the outside all the way, got up in time to beat Mrs. W. E. Schmidt's Jock Image by a length and a half. Opening Night, the favorite, was third. Two Edged paid $38.80 and wound up a daily double which paid $109.40. Two Edged was ridden by Jocky W. Ray.

RYDER GOLF CUP AS GOOD AS WON, BRITON INDICATES

LEATHERHEAD, England, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The British Ryder cup squad is so confident of winning the international professional golf trophy that the cup has been insured for a trans-Atlantic journey.

Speaking at a luncheon for the team, Commander R. T. C. Roe, the manager, said today:

"The British team has 'got its tail up' and is far from suffering from an inferiority complex. We've gone so far, in fact, as to insure the Ryder cup for a return journey to England."

Sox Defeat Yankees, 3-2; Then Lose, 5-2

BY EDWARD BURNS.

New York, Sept. 7.—Ted Lyons this afternoon indulged in his favorite pastime, licking the Yankees. Ted turned back the New Yorkers, 3 to 2, on five hits in the first game of the double-header which closed the White Sox season on Broadway. It was a feverish encounter in which the winning run was supplied by Zeke Bonura, who tripled and came home on a single by Jimmy Dykes.

Monte Stratton, American association sensation, made his bow in the second affair and put on a fairly good performance. However, he had the misfortune to draw Charley Ruffing as an opponent. The Sox dropped this one, 5 to 2, Washington averting a shutout with a ninth inning home run just as his last previous homer spoiled a Yank shutout in Chicago on Aug. 28.

Yanks Win Series.

The outcome gave the Yanks the season series, 11 games to 9, but the Sox strengthened their first division claims when Cleveland gave Boston a double spanking. The Sox left for Boston after the afternoon's business. Tomorrow they open a four game series there with a double-header. Vernon [No Hit] Kennedy will pitch the Boston opener and Babe Phelps will try his hand in the second game.

Stratton's major league debut was impressive despite the score. He showed a lot of stuff and worked under the handicap of a meek Sox offensive until Washington's homer, a walk and single by Conlan and Simmons drove Ruffing from the game. Deshong came in to retire the last batter.

Lyons' victory was his fourth of the year over the Yankees, although he did not have the pleasure of winning one in the recent double-header epidemic in Chicago.

Teddy Bears Down.

Ted allowed only one hit in the first five innings, but that one was Bill Dickey's No. 12 homer, which was good for a 2-all tie in the second inning. The Yankees made a single in each of the last four innings, three of them by lead off men, but in each instance the Sox braced magnificently and got the side out. Lyons' worst strains were in the sixth, when the Yankees had the bases loaded, and in the ninth, when Hoag, running for Dickey, reached third with one out.

Allen was the American league's leading pitcher until the Sox bumped him with his fifth defeat. They also had the pleasure of slapping him with his fourth defeat, in the series opener in Chicago on Aug. 25. Allen's early lack of control gave the Sox the first two runs of the game in the second inning. He walked Bonura and Dykes, both of whom scored, after two were out, on a single by Sewell and a double by Lyons.

FIRST GAME

The Sox not only sent two runs across in the second inning of the first game, but managed to have runners on third and second when the session ended. Appling started the inning by fanning, but Bonura walked after a three and two count, and Dykes walked on five pitches. Washington flied to Chapman for the second out, but Sewell lined a single to left, Bonura scoring and Dykes stopping at seond. Lyons dropped a double back of third, Dykes scoring and Sewell stopping at third. Conlan, who had opened the game by singling on the first pitch, was not so powerful in the second inning. He was thrown out by Allen.

The Yanks also opened the second with a strikeout, Gehrig being the victim. Selkirk reached first when Sewell was charged with an error for inability to handle a roller along the first base line. Dickey slapped his No. 12 homer into the right field bleachers, he and Selkirk trotting around with the tying run. Sewell reached into the boxes for Saltzgraver's foul and Lyons threw out Ryan.

Al Boots Chance.

The Sox got a runner on base in the third inning—Appling walked—and again in the fourth when Dykes led off with a single. But these arrivals did no more to the score than the six men who went out in order for the Yanks in the third and fourth innings.

Conlan led off the fifth inning with his second single. He had gone down with Simmons in a double play after his first hit and was blotted out with Al in similar fashion in the fifth. Hayes flied to Chapman.

In the sixth the Sox again took the lead. With one out, Bonura socked an enormous triple to left center and scored on Dykes' second single, a smash to center. Washington, up the third time with a runner on base, flied to Chapman. Sewell forced Dykes for the third out.

Lyons got a measure of revenge on Dickey by making him fizzle with the bases full in the sixth inning. Hill led off with a single to right, the second hit off Lyons, then Rolfe fanned. Chapman walked and he and Rolfe moved up on Gehrig's grounder to Bonura. Selkirk was passed, filling the bases. Then Dickey fouled to Sewell.

With two out in the seventh, Allen

MAKING PHILS LIKE IT, BUT HOW THEY HOLLER!

Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Phillies and Joe Gomez go down in a double play in the seventh of yesterday's game with the Cubs. Jurges fielded Gomez's grounder, tossed to Herman, who forced Wilson at second, and Billy threw the ball to Cavarretta to retire Gomez. The Phillies made no complaint about this play, but in the second they staged a wild demonstration in protest against the way Umpire Barr called strikes.

Mangin Beats Menzel in U.S. Tourney

Forest Hills, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Gregory S. Mangin of Newark, N. J., national indoor titleholder, seeded eighth among the American players, defeated Roderich Menzel of Czechoslovakia, 6-1, 9-7, 6-2, today as play was resumed in the national tennis tournament at Forest Hills. Ten thousand attended.

This victory sent Mangin into the quarter-final round, where he will meet Sidney B. Wood Jr. Mangin didn't permit his big adversary to get started in the first set and then displayed remarkable staying qualities in the protracted and thrilling second set which required 138 points.

Games Deuced Repeatedly.

The match was packed with theatricals put on by the temperamental Menzel, who fumed at the galleries' sometime wild conduct. Most of the drama occurred in three games—the first, second and tenth of the second set. The first game went to deuce 10 times before Mangin could hold his service and six times in the second game before Menzel's delivery prevailed.

Those two games, using up almost as many points as were played in the entire first set, left the players almost breathless. The umpire was obliged to waive rules and regulations and permitted them a short rest. The next two games followed service and then Menzel broke through Mangin in the fifth and ran up a 5-4 lead.

Hanging on tenaciously, Mangin gained the jump in the tenth game and won three of the first four points. Menzel dug in and squared the match at deuce. In the battle of 16 points that ensued, Menzel twice gained the advantage, but Mangin fought him off, going to the net each time. He took Menzel's stinging forehands and turned them into angle volleyed placements. In an effort to shake Mangin, Menzel kept the ball deep, but Greg outsteadied him and won the game to tie the count.

Mrs. Fabyan Wins.

Menzel obviously had played himself out and with the exception in the third game of the last set, the

RANKIN WINS 15 MILE ROAD RACE AT BUFFALO

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Three young Canadians trimmed a big field of distance runners in a 15 mile road race here today, two finishing one, two, and the third, who came home fourth, winning the time prize.

John Shorer of Toronto, aided by a 12 minute handicap, finished first, followed by Dick Wilding, also of Toronto, who had a five minute time allowance.

Then came the veteran Albert [Whitey] Michelson of New York, running with a six minute allowance, but he did not travel fast enough to beat out Bob Rankin of Hamilton, Ont., for the time prize, the Canadian star finishing from scratch in 1 hour, 44 minutes, and 15 seconds. Shorer's actual time was 1 hour 52 minutes, and 24 seconds.

Cardinals Beat Braves, 8-5, for P. Dean's 17th

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The world champion Cardinals swept their four game series with Boston by defeating the Braves, 8 to 5, today for their sixth consecutive triumph.

By their victory the Cardinals maintained their two and one-half game lead over the Chicago Cubs and increased their first place margin over the Giants to four games.

Paul Dean was hit freely for 12 safeties, but his teammates' work at bat enabled him to gain his 17th victory of the season and swell his and Dizzy's total to 41, only 8 victories behind their combined 1934 record.

The Cardinals clinched the game with a four run attack in the third.

A double play nipped a one run Boston rally in the fifth and, except for the short lived threat in the eighth, the younger Dean coasted to victory. Score:

GALAN MAKES 2 HITS; DRIVES IN PAIR OF RUNS

Bill Lee Hangs Up 16th Victory.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

More heroics bounced off the bat of Augie Galan yesterday and the pennant dreaming Cubs galloped on to a sweep of the four game series with the Phillies. The young man who the day previous rescued his mates from a perilous situation by tripling and then exploding a homer, cut himself down to a pair of singles on this occasion, one of them sending home two runs. That would have been enough, but for good measure the Cubs came up with some more to carve out a 4 to 0 victory.

The triumph, simultaneous with the jolt handed the Giants at Cincinnati, boosted the Grimm brigade from third into second place by a one and one-half game margin, but not that much in percentages, because of the difference in the number of games played. The Cardinals, however, having bumped off the Braves for the fourth straight, remain two and one-half games out in front, the difference representing the five extra defeats the Cubs have experienced.

Cub Infield Sparkles.

The two runs slapped across the plate by Galan could easily have been enough because of the talented infield defense which backed up Bill Lee's occasionally shaky pitching. The big southerner was in jams of one kind or another in each of the first five innings. But once in front he disposed of his chores with neatness and dispatch, only three enemy athletes getting to base in the last four innings. One of these was on a single, one was a punctured batter, and the other survived on a fumble by Billy Herman, who at other times was of great assistance in Lee's progress toward his 16th victory.

The Cubs, although winning, did nothing of a boisterous nature against one Hugh Mulcahy, a slatlike fellow recruited from Albany. He held them to two hits for four innings, but in the fifth made the mistake of passing two men in succession. That was where Galan stepped in and produced two runs with his first single, marking the ninth straight game in which he has hit safely and giving him a record of nine runs driven in during the now concluded series.

Phils Tough with Umpire.

The Phils didn't bother Lee much in the second inning, but they did cause Umpire George Barr a few uncomfortable moments. The inning opened with a pass to Camilli. Vergez struck out and Manager Wilson, the next batter, wanted to argue about the third strike instead of getting in the batter's box. Barr finally ordered Lee to pitch and two strikes floated across. Then Wilson stepped up to the plate and let the next pitch drift past for strike three.

To show that he was pretty mad about it Wilson began piling dirt on the plate and meanwhile, from the Phil dugout, came a barrage of bats, gloves, and other loose paraphernalia. The Phils were just about ready to toss out the bat boy when the enraged Mr. Barr dashed over and ordered the firing to cease. To prove he was the boss man, Barr chased Prim and Jorgens off the bench. Then Barr went back to the plate and Coach Lobert was there to renew the argument. His few choice words drew him an order to follow Prim and Jorgens.

Mulcahy Starts O. K.

Lee's first bit of real difficulty came in the third. Singles by Allen and Chiozza put men on third and first with only one out, but Watkins popped to Jurges, who followed with a throw that retired Moore. Lee also had to stick close to his work in the fourth. Vergez singled and took second on a passed ball with one out. Wilson then popped to Herman and Gomez was set down on a grounder to Cavarretta.

Until Mulcahy's wildness opened the way to two runs in the fifth the

Cubs Win Over Phils, 4-0; Go Into 2d Place

Cubs weren't of much account as swingers against the tall right hander. The first of their two hits during that time was Herman's No. 49 double which sailed past first base with one out in the opening inning. Lindstrom fanned and O'Dea flied to Allen. The other hit was furnished by Cavarretta after Demaree had been tossed out in the second inning. He erased himself by attempting to steal before Hack walked. Jurges ended it with a roller to short.

The setting for Galan's worthy contribution in the fifth was arranged by Mulcahy. He threw out Cavarretta and then walked both Hack and Jurges. Lee popped to Gomez for the second out and more help appeared for the Cubs when Wilson committed a passed ball which put Hack on third and Jurges on second. They both scored on Galan's single to right. Galan continued to enjoy himself by stealing second, but Herman couldn't produce.

Lindstrom Gets Around.

The Cubs padded Lee's lead by scoring once on two hits in the sixth. Lindstrom led off with a single to center. O'Dea lined to Moore and Demaree walked. A fly to Allen removed Cavarretta. Hack spanked a single to right to score Lindstrom and Jurges bounced into a force play.

After getting two runs on one hit and one run on two hits the Cubs produced three hits in the seventh without scoring. Lee started it with a single to left and Galan singled to right. Herman bounced to Vergez who stepped on third to force Lee and threw to first for a double play. Lindstrom singled to deep short and was forced by O'Dea for the third out.

The Cubs completed their scoring in the eighth when Jurges singled off Bivin and drove home Demaree, who had survived on a fumble by Chiozza.

The tail end Boston Braves will call around at Wrigley field today for the opener of a four game series. Tex Carlton, being a Brave nemesis of long standing, will be dragged out of the bull pen to pitch the opener. The Cubs will have to face either Ben Cantwell, who trimmed them recently in Boston, or Ed Brandt, the left-hander.

Phil Cavarretta ceremonies were conducted as scheduled and the youthful Chicago citizen was enriched to the extent of a new automobile, a guitar, and a basket of flowers. The car was the gift of Chicago Italian-Americans. The musical instrument came from a graduate of Lane Tech, which was where Phil absorbed his schooling.

The official attendance was announced as 8,642. There also were 3,000 school kid guests, who brought along a big sign which let the world know they were Cavarretta boosters.

Manager Grimm finally relieved Chuck Klein of his distress as a batter. The bulky Hoosier was benched, the reason being that he had gone hitless in eighteen consecutive appearances at the plate.

The first place Cardinals are scheduled for two games today. That will bring them up to where they have played four fewer than the Cubs. An even break there and a victory for the Cubs will boost the latter to two games from the top.

YES, SIR! FUTURE MRS. JOE LOUIS IS A GOOD COOK

Fighter Tells Plans for Wedding in New York.

BY HARVEY WOODRUFF.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pompton Lakes, N. J., Sept. 7.—"Sure, she can cook southern fried chicken."

From the usually dead-pan countenance of Joe Louis, former CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Gloves titleholder, now about to meet Max Baer as his next step in quest of the heavyweight championship, came enough of a smile to show his regular and glistening white teeth.

It was an answer to our direct question concerning Miss Marva Trotter of Chicago, Englewood High school graduate to whom the sensational colored heavyweight is engaged and whom he is expected to marry within a few days after his tussle with Baer at Yankee stadium Sept. 24.

Joe's Ready to Talk.

Once Louis rarely smiled. In fact, his immobile countenance was subject of wondering comment. This correspondent had feared the Brown Bomber might be diffident or secretive about his romance. Far from loquacious—Joe probably never will be loquacious—he was ready and willing to discuss the subject. He answered questions about Miss Trotter and his plans with even more animation than those about his impending bout with Baer.

Thus assured about the southern fried chicken, we reminded the former Golden Glover that on our last visit to his camp he had consumed a 1½ pound steak following a breakfast of three lamb chops and six eggs.

"Yes, and she can broil steak, too, with French fried potatoes," Louis replied. Now the smile was wide.

"How about corn muffins?"

"Well, I don't know about that, but I'm sure she can."

Girl Is First.

"Well, did you pick Miss Trotter or her cooking first?" we insisted.

"O, the girl," replied the chap whose fists dealt devastation to Primo Carnera in six rounds. "You know a girl usually doesn't cook for a fellow until after she likes him."

"Where did you learn about her culinary arts?"

"That sounds like one for Russell Cowan [Cowan is Joe's tutor and secretary], but if you mean cooking, I've known it both at her home in Chicago and at my mother's home in Detroit, where Marva came to celebrate my 21st birthday."

"Does your mother approve of her prospective daughter-in-law?"

"Mother likes her very, very much," replied Louis.

"When will you be married?"

"Probably a few days after the fight. We won't decide definitly until after she comes to New York a few days before the bout. Even if I knew I'd rather not tell, for we hope to have a quiet affair."

Will Marry in New York.

"The wedding, then, will be in New York?"

"That's likely. Marva's mother died just about the time I was meeting Carnera. Her father, with whom she now lives, is willing it should be that way. He's connected with the government postal service in Chicago."

"Is Miss Marva employed as a stenographer as reported?" we asked.

"She was in a doctor's office, but gave up her position after her mother's death. Our marriage is so close she'll not take another job."

"Where will you spend your honeymoon?"

"We haven't thought of that."

"Where will you live?"

"Chicago or Detroit, we're not sure. Not New York."

"Don't you like New York?"

"Yes, I like it all right, but you're expected to go places and do things here, while in Chicago or Detroit we could rest and live quietly without so much publicity."

"Won't Miss Trotter want you to retire from the prize ring? You're supposed to have earned $160,000 in fifteen months, you know."

No Idea of Quitting.

Joe Louis looked at his questioner in surprise, as if the subject never had occurred to him. The two of us were seated alone in an upper bedroom of Dr. Bier's cottage, occupied by the Louis camp entourage, at the Pompton Lakes health resort. Louis leaned over and replied earnestly, without trace of a smile:

"Why, no, she is marrying a fighter. I expect to keep right on fighting, and she expects me to until I become heavyweight champion. After that we can think about retiring."

"Will the future Mrs. Louis accompany you on your trips to fight scenes?"

"Probably not. That's up to her. Fighting is my business, just like writing is your business. Does your wife always go with you?"

singled for the third hit off Lyons. Dykes made a nice pick up back of third to get Hill's hot one. Jimmy made a wide throw, but Appling got the out with a one handed catch and neat tag play.

Here's the detail of the rigorous ninth. Dickey opened with his second and the Yankees fifth hit and got to second when Conlan let the ball get through him. Hoag ran for Dickey and reached third on Saltzgaver's sacrifice. Ruffing batted for Ryan and fouled to Sewell. Lazzeri batted for Allen and walked. Hill ran the count to two balls and two strikes, fouled off a couple, then flied to Conlan, who came in fast for the game ending catch.

SECOND GAME

Stratton got out of the first inning of the second game after a nervous start. He walked Hill on four pitched balls, then Rolfe caromed a single off Hayes' glove, Hill stopping at second. Chapman shot a wicked liner to Washington for the first out and Stratton forthwith grew calm. Gehrig popped to Bonura for his fifth consecutive failure of the afternoon. Appling threw out Selkirk.

The Sox got two runners on after two were out in the second. Washington was hit by a pitched ball and Shea walked, but Selkirk ended the threat by coming in rapidly to snatch Stratton's blooper.

Stratton really strutted his stuff in the third inning. Hill was called out on strikes without a murmur. Rolfe flied out to Conlan, then Chapman also was called out on strikes without a beef.

Dykes singled to right with two out in the fourth for the second Chicago hit. Washington then tapped to Gehrig. The Yanks touched up Stratton for a pair of runs in their half. It was done on singles by Gehrig, Dickey, and Saltzgaver and Ryan's fly to Conlan.

Simmons opened the sixth with a single to center, his first hit of the afternoon. Hayes singled to left, his second hit, Simmons stopping at second. Appling failed in two attempts to sacrifice, but the runners moved up while Luke was grounding out to Rolfe. The runners held on while Bonura lifted a short fly to Selkirk. Dykes ran the count to three and two, then fanned.

The Yanks added their third run in the seventh inning. Hill singled, stole second, and scored on Chapman's first hit of the afternoon, a single to center. Two were out when the Yanks started production in the eighth. Dickey singled and Saltzgaver walked, and both scored on Ryan's triple to left center.

Washington's homer in the ninth inspired the Sox to get a little tough. They added their second run on a walk to Shea and singles by Conlan and Simmons. Deshong came in to relieve Ruffing and the ball game ended pronto on Hayes' fly.

6 Hit Performance Drops New York to Third.

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Gene Schott, young Cincinnati right hander, helped push the Giants down into third place in the National league standing today when he and the Reds defeated New York, 4 to 2.

Schott yielded three hits in the first inning, then only one more up to the ninth, when Hank Leiber's double brought in Travis Jackson, who had singled. Fred Fitzsimmons, making his first start since July 5, was pounded out in the second inning.

PIRATES, 5; DODGERS, 4

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Pirates came from behind today to make it three straight over the Brooklyn Dodgers with a 5 to 4 victory in their final meeting of the season. The teams divided the year's 22 games.

Earl Grace's home run after Gus Suhr had doubled in the sixth inning produced the winning tallies. Jim Weaver, who started for the Pirates, was driven out in the second, but Guy Bush checked the Dodgers with one more run to earn his tenth victory of the season. Arky Vaughan, Pirate shortstop and league leading batter, had a perfect day at the plate with four hits. Score:

THRILLING FINISH OF HAWTHORNE'S SPRINT HANDICAP—Myrtlewood, West Main, and Clang reach the end of six furlong dash necks apart, with Myrtlewood (closest to the rail) getting the decision of the judges. West Main is next to Myrtlewood and Clang on the outside. The latter two horses finished with a rush that threatened to overtake Myrtlewood, but the filly had just enough speed to win. Going into the stretch West Main was tenth and Clang was being shuffled around in fourth place. A crowd of 15,000 saw the race, which was the most exciting of the Hawthorne season.

Superlative pitching performances, including a no hit-no run game by Frank Brauer of Cleveland against Great Bend, Kas., marked opening games yesterday in the national soft ball tournament in Lincoln park.

Cincinnati got off to a good start by eliminating Kenosha, the defending champion, 2 to 0. The Ohio entry later defeated Madison, Wis., 3 to 0, to enter the third round.

Homer Decides Game.

Phoenix, Ariz., encountered unexpected opposition from Lancaster, Pa., and was carried twelve innings before going into the second round with a 1 to 0 triumph. Joe Hunt, 6 foot 4 inch Phoenix first baseman, broke up the contest with a home run.

Casey Dropp of Kenosha, after pitching to four Cincinnati batsmen, was ruled ineligible because he had played in a Milwaukee metropolitan tournament. Cincinnati made one run off Dropp. Kraft, who replaced Dropp, was nicked for a home run by Miller, Cincinnati first baseman, for the other marker.

New Yorkers Quit.

A team representing New York defaulted to New Orleans after four innings of play when the easterners objected to the delivery of the New Orleans pitcher. His pitching was ruled legal, but the New Yorkers refused to continue. They were losing 2 to 0 at the time.

C. Y. O. Teams Play Today for Championship

The climax to the 1935 baseball race in the Catholic Youth Organization will take place this afternoon at Normal park, 61st and Racine, when the two finalists in this year's campaign—St. Adrian's and Good Shepherd—meet to decide the archdiocesan honors. The game is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

St. Adrian's, which has reached the title finals for the fourth straight year, in this afternoon's game will try to break the jinx which seems to have stopped its teams in the past. In three previous attempts to win a C. Y. O. title, St. Adrian's has always been unsuccessful despite brilliant playing in the sectional playoffs.

St. Adrian Favorite Today.

Led by Ray [Lefty] Owens, 22 year old hurler whose mound ability has been the mainstay of the St. Adrian nine since the parish entered C. Y. O. competition in 1931, the south side ball club will take the field against the inexperienced Good Shepherd players the favorites in today's contest. St. Adrian has compiled a league record of 12 victories and two defeats this year against Good Shephard's 13 victories and two defeats. This is the first time that Good Shepherd has gained a final berth in the C. Y. O. baseball league.

Opposing Owens will be Ben Szymanski, star Good Shepherd hurler who holds the league strikeout record with 107. He has suffered two defeats against eight victories in league play.

Shunas and Jaksy Leading Batters.

Leading batters on the two rival teams who figure to play prominent rôles in today's championship game are Andy Shunas and Bruno Jaksy for St. Adrian's and Casimir Zawislak and Joe Szarlarski for Good Shepherd.

In a preliminary contest, St. Michael's, South Chicago, will play St. Mary of Celle, Berwyn, for third and fourth place beginning at one o'clock.

Batting order:

Big 10 Coaches and Officials Meet on Rules

Coaches and football officials of the Western Conference gathered yesterday at the Sherman hotel for their annual rules interpretation meeting. The two sessions were presided over by John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics, and Fielding Yost of Michigan, a member of the rules committee.

No major changes or radical interpretations were made, but three points—delayed intermissions, protection for punt receivers and illegal equipment—were discussed and voted upon.

Three to Judge Touchdowns.

The most important action, however, was extending the power of the field judge and the head linesman to rule on touchdowns in goal line stands. Under the rules the referee is the sole judge of all scoring plays. The conference requires that the referee stay behind the offensive team at all times.

This has led to numerous situations where touchdowns have been scored on short bucks, but were not allowed because the referee's vision was cut off by the back field men. An outstanding incident occurred in the Michigan-Illinois game last year when Illinois bucked the ball over three times, only to have the ball carrier thrown back and downed short of the goal by the time the referee reached the play. On the fourth attempt, the ball carrier broke through to score. Illinois won, 7 to 6.

Will Signal Referee.

The head linesman and the field judge, who stand at opposite ends of the line of scrimmage when the ball is on the goal line, are in a better position to mark the forward progress of the ball and henceforth will be empowered to make the decision, signaling the referee whether it is a touchdown or not. The referee will then give the customary signal, both arms extended over head, to the stands. The same system will be used in field goals and point-after-touchdown attempts, the field judge flashing a secret signal to the referee.

Delayed intermissions were caused, Fred Gardner, referee, told the assembly, by band maneuvers between halves. Often the visiting team reaches the field ready to play, but the home team delays while the musicians drill. In several instances, visiting coaches have asked that the penalty for delay of the game be enforced, but since no interpretation had been agreed upon, nothing has ever come of these requests.

In the future it was agreed if the home school's band has arranged a program that runs overtime, the home coach must notify the officials so that the visiting team can be advised and allowed to remain in the locker room until the field is cleared.

Blames Fatalities on Pads.

Thigh pads drew most of the fire in the illegal equipment discussion. Yost, who made a survey of football deaths over a period of three seasons, said 90 per cent of the fatalities were the result of head or rib contact with hard thigh pads. It was agreed that all thigh pads must meet the code requirements of ⅜ of an inch of foam-rubber or felt padding and that the umpires would assume these requirements had been met until the opposing players complain.

Such a complaint will bring an examination of the player in question and if he is found wearing illegal pads he will be expelled.

The coaches voted to provide protection for a man signaling for a fair catch only until he has taken two steps if he fumbles the punt. The rule covering this situation now gives protection "while the ball is in the air," but incidents were cited where the ball bounded off the receiver's person and traveled far beyond his reach before striking the ground. The new interpretation was to cover play between the time the ball strikes the receiver and the time it touches the ground.

Bears Battle Stars Today at Milwaukee

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

The Bears, winners over last year's All-Americans in THE TRIBUNE'S recent annual classic, will employ at least three former Marquette players in their opening lineup. George Halas, their manager and coach, has promised that. The starting lineup will include Jack Manders, Beatty Feathers, Bill Karr, Wayland Becker, Milton Trost, Johnny Sisk and Gene Ronzani.

The Badger All-Stars have drafted most of their players from Stevens Point. ## ISAACSON TO CENTER

Ted Isaacson, 272 pound line man with the Chicago Cardinals of the National Professional Football league will be converted into a center for the season now opening, Coach Milan Creighton announced yesterday.

With the retirement of Frank McNally this year, the Cardinals were left short of experienced men for the pivot position and Creighton has decided to place most of the burden on the former Washington university player. Isaacson is the biggest player in the National league and moves with good speed despite his bulk.

Bernie Hughes, former University of Oregon star, is back to do his share of the center work. Another pivot man is Paul Shenefelt, but Coach Creighton wants still another player to stand the strain of the position.

The Cardinals are drilling strenuously for their opening league battle against the Packers at Green Bay, Wis., a week from tomorrow. Scrimmages are being ordered by Creighton daily.

Tony Blazine, star of the recent Soldiers' field battle between the Bears and the All-Americans, is continuing to rip the practice scrimmage lines since joining the Cards squad early last week.

Mack Recalls Six Former Athletics from Minors

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Six former Athletic players will be back in Connie Mack's lineup this or next season. Mack announced he is recalling George Caster, Dutch Leiber, and Frank Hayes from Albany, Al Benton from Williamsport, Harry Matuzak from Tulsa, and Texas Yarter from Galveston. Caster, Leiber, and Benton will report this year.

Small Town Boy Knocks Out Boxer at County Fair

Algona, Ia., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Clarence Phillips, Algona youth, was just a "sucker" when he climbed into the ring to challenge Young Zbyszko, carnival boxer at the Kossuth county fair. But Young Zbyszko was a knocked out fighter with a broken jaw when Clarence climbed out again a minute and a half later.

MILLS TO FACE FIREMEN TODAY IN TWO GAMES

American Giants, Florals Play Double-Header.

Today's Games

Chicago Firemen vs. Mills at Mills stadium, Kilpatrick avenue and Lake street, 1:30 p. m. [2 games].

American Giants vs. Duffy Florals at Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets, 1:30 p. m. [2 games].

Chicago Giants vs. Spencer Coals at Spencer Coals field, 4200 North Central avenue, 1:30 p. m. [2 games].

Jim Vaughn, who defeated the Chinese All-Stars last Sunday and the Chicago Firemen on Labor day, will try to win his third game in a week when he takes the mound against the Firemen in one of the two games this afternoon at Mills stadium. Lefty Sullivan will work the other game for Mills.

JIM VAUGHN.

The American Giants will meet the Duffy Florals at Shewbridge field while the Chicago Giants will be the opposition at Spencer Coals field in double-headers in other Chicago baseball league features.

27th Year as Pitcher.

Vaughn's feat of pitching nine-inning games on successive days and winning 4 to 3 and 7 to 5 decisions is all the more remarkable when it is recognized he is now in his 27th year on the pitching mound.

The Firemen will be making their last Chicago appearance before entraining for New York where they meet the New York Firemen next Saturday in one of New York's major league parks. Mack Burrows and Roy Gutcher will be the Firemen's selections for mound duty.

At Shewbridge field the American Giants will meet the Duffy Florals in a double-header.

The Florals, beaten previously by the American Giants, who have added Red Wright, former House of David lefthander, to an already strong mound staf, are a stronger team and are playing better than they were at the last meeting. Tony Sims and Leo Zentura are the other Duffy hurlers.

Pick Wright and Kohlenberg.

Manager Tom Brice plans to use Wright and Dutch Kohlenberg in an attempt to stop Turkey Stearns and Mule Suttles, leading American Giants sluggers. The Giant selections are Ted Trent and Willie Cornelius, the team's leading hurlers.

The Chicago Giants will invade Spencer field for a double-header. Henry Clay, Giants' southpaw who has hurled a two-hit game against the Duffys, and beaten the Mills, will pitch one of the games while John Donaldson will be on the mound in the other.

Ed Macik, former University of Illinois hurler and recently with Louisville in the American association, and Pete Beam, former Coals pitcher, have joined the Spencers. The two new men will share hurling duties with Marvin Carlson and Jake Sommerfield.

Rube Lindquist, who has signed with Milwaukee for next season, will be in right field for the Coals.

LENORE KIGHT'S HUSBAND HIRED DESPITE PROTESTS

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Cleon J. Wingard, husband of Lenore Kight, outstanding American girl swimmer, was officially a teacher in the Cincinnati school system today, despite a protest against employment of out of towners. Wingard came here from Pittsburgh. He and Miss Kight were married secretly at Wellsburg, W. Va., Wednesday night.

Approval of his appointment as an instructor in physical education in Lincoln school here came, with others, before the board of education yesterday. Protesting against appointment of out of towners though not mentioning any names, Edwin C. Becker and Elmer F. Hunsicker refused to accept the recommendations of Dr. Edward D. Roberts, superintendent of schools. Votes of the five other members passed the recommendations, however.

Reject Berlin Proposal for World Chess Tourney

WARSAW, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The International Chess union, by a vote of 10 to 3, today rejected a proposal to hold its next tournament in Berlin, expressing regret that the German chess union had introduced the "Aryan" paragraph.

40 DRIVERS SEEK $2,000 IN PRIZES AT ROBY TODAY

Rebuilt Track Offers 50 Mile Big Cart Event.

Automobile racing, presenting the greatest drivers in America piloting high-powered cars will return to the Chicago area today at the New Roby Speedway, 108th street and Indianapolis boulevard.

Carl Stockholm and Emmett T. Howard, have spent approximately $20,000 in refurbishing the plant, building a fence enclosing the 700 acre property, rebuilding grandstands and bleachers, painting and reconstruction of the mile track. Automobile parking has been arranged for 5,000 cars and promoters expect 20,000 to watch the 40 or more pilots who will battle for the $2,000 prize money offered.

Time Trials Start at 10 o'Clock.

While actual racing will not begin until 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, time trials for qualifying positions will start at 10 o'clock this morning. Gates will be opened at that time. Rain checks issued for the postponed race of Aug. 18 when the meet was rained out, will be honored today.

The race is being conducted under the sanction of the contest board of the A. A. A. A technical committee appointed by the board will inspect each car, while drivers must undergo a physical examination. An electrical timing device has been installed by the A. A. A. and all records created at Roby will have the approval of the contest board.

The old Roby track has been dug out and a new surface of clay and oil has been built. According to drivers who have already been on the new oval, it will be one of the fastest mile tracks in America.

Bill Cummings Entered.

Among the noted pilots who will face the starting flag this afternoon are Wild Bill Cummings, winner of 1934 Indianapolis race, and national point champion last year, who is now fighting for the same championship. Wilbur Shaw is another as is Billy Winn, who recently won the annual 100 mile race at Springfield, and repeated at Syracuse last week. Maynard Clark, winner at Atlanta last Monday will compete, and Babe Stapp, veteran of 10 Indianapolis races, will be at the wheel of a fast car. Eddie Elden, Chicago pilot, who narrowly escaped death on a practice spin four weeks ago at Roby, has repaired his car and, although still wearing a bandage on his arm, will start. In addition to this crew of noted pilots, the field includes 30 or more drivers.

Trial Heats Determine Position.

The program includes three qualifying heats to determine position in the 50 mile feature event of the afternoon. Each of these heats will be over the 10 mile route. Another 10 mile event is listed for cars that fail to qualify for the mail event.

Today's entrants, not including 12 not named yesterday, follow:

Lawson Little Defends Crown at Cleveland.

Armstrong Wins

DON ARMSTRONG of Aurora yesterday shot a 74 on the Beverly Country club course to qualify as one of the Chicago district's representatives in the national amateur tournament which starts at Cleveland tomorrow. Armstrong competed in the playoff against Bill Bassett, Flossmoor, who shot a 77 and Dick Ashley, Kenosha, Wis., who carded a 78. Armstrong left for Cleveland last night immediately after his victory.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The world series of the golfers who play for fun—the thirty-ninth annual amateur tournament of the United States Golf association—will open tomorrow at the Country Club of Cleveland, O., with every indication that it will be a real world series in every sense of the word. Main reason for this statement, of course, is a chunky young man from Stanford university named William Lawson Little Jr. Young Mr. Little last year was a world's champion on all counts, in fact the only golfer in the universe to score a double major victory.

Little, the boy who came so close to winning a big time prize in the early years of his still tender career, finally found the combination to success with the aid of that distinguished cracksman of the fairways—Thomas D. Armour. Lawson's game was lacking just that grain which makes champions, and Armour not only helped him find it, but aided him in picking up a few stray pecks.

Jimmy Had No Chance.

First proof of that in 1934 was Little's first visit to England, as a member of the Walker cup team, on which he proved to be one of the shining lights. Came the British amateur, and Little streaked through to the final against a Scotch carpenter by the name of Jimmy Wallace. It is now a point of history that Jamie had not a wee chance, for the amazing Californian poured an avalanche of shots upon him which brought the title to America once again, this time by the incredible final score of 14 and 13, based on a morning round of 66.

The staunch Little returned then to the real test—the first real American championship meet patterned after the British tournament. Lawson, as it turned out, found Brookline, if anything, easier than Prestwick, for he played on to the final, where he ran away from David [Spec] Goldman, the Dallas lather, 8 and 7, clinching the matter with a morning round of 69 which left him 5 up.

Did Little pause there? Nay. Another visit to the Armour laboratory and so off to Britain again this spring, there to repeat his British amateur victory of last year, and set himself for one of the unheard feats of amateur golf—a two year double on the biggest titles open to a simon pure player.

Can Little Repeat?

The fact remains that the national amateur opens tomorrow and no golfer is a winner until next Saturday night. Can Little do it? There are at least 206 golfers of assorted age, experience, and temperament who are convinced at this moment that he cannot. The U. S. G. A. program for the tournament at Cleveland calls for 207 players, the largest match play field in the history of American golf.

Little meets a youngster who doesn't know much about him in the first 18 hole round tomorrow when he faces Rufus King, 18 year old star from Wichita Falls, Tex., King, up to a few years ago, didn't go in for golf so much, concentrating on trapshooting until he won the National Junior title. After that he took up golf more seriously and has been playing well, upsetting some fine players in the Denver district, where he qualified. He won the Colorado State Amateur title two weeks ago from a good field.

79 Matches Carded Tomorrow.

Pairings, announced last night, set 79 opening day matches while 49 players drew byes. Little was placed in the fourth quarter or the lower half of the lower bracket. Johnny Goodman of Omaha drew Richard Haskell of Seattle, who may not play, as he was advised that he had qualified as an alternative from the Seattle district only last night. Unless he flies, he will not be able to reach the course in time.

Among those back will be Goldman, the 1934 runnerup, who qualified under wraps at Dallas, and his Texas pal, young Reynolds [Extra Hole] Smith, who set some sort of record last year at Brookline by winning five of his six matches at extra innings before losing to Goldman in the semi-finals. Another will be Willie Turnesa, who last year gave Little his hardest match after beating Charley Yates with a course record nine of 32.

Nine former champions—Chick Evans, Max Marston, Francis Ouimet, George Dunlap, Jess Guilford, Dave Herron, Bob Gardner, Chandler Egan, and Ross Somerville, are included in the field. England has two representatives in Robert Sweeney and T. A. Torrance. Guilford is a doubtful starter, however, as he has been ill for the last three weeks.

Chicago will send once more one of the best delegations in the event. Last year the local contingent was one of the sensations of the tourney, three of them going to the fifth match.

Roth-Adam Nine Meets Altgeld Park Today

The Roth-Adam baseball team, winner of the northwest bracket in the Illinois State Baseball league, will keep in trim for the coming playoff for the Charley Grimm trophy at Wrigley field by meeting the Altgeld Park nine at Harrison and Washtenaw avenues this afternoon at 3 p. m.

A CHAMPION AND HIS CHIEF RIVALS FOR U. S. AMATEUR TITLE

W. Lawson Little, winner of both the British and American amateur golf titles in 1934, who will defend his national crown in the 39th annual tournament of the United States Golf association, which opens tomorrow.

Hunters Await Wisconsin Date on Upland Game

BY BOB BECKER.

Two days for upland game hunting and then waterfowl shooting is on the program—this is the schedule Wisconsin hunters have this fall, according to the 1935 regulations recently issued by the department of conservation. Inasmuch as an increasing number of central states shooters are going into Wisconsin to hunt upland game [partridge, pheasent, prairie chicken, and sharp tailed grouse], the following seasons are of interest.

Oct. 19 marks the opening day for upland game hunting in Wisconsin. This is a Saturday. Therefore Thousands of hunters in that state have a week-end to swing their shotguns into action before taking to the duck blinds. The upland game season in Wisconsin continues through Oct. 21.

This year one can hunt ruffed grouse in Wisconsin in the counties of Ashland, Buffalo, Calumet, Chippewa, Clark, Crawford, Dunn, Eau Claire, Florence, Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Iron, Juneau, Kewaunee, La Crosse, Langlade, Marathon, Marinette, Marquette, Monroe, Oconto, Oneida, Pepin, Pierce, Portage, Richland, St. Croix, Sauk, Shawano, Sheboygan, Taylor, Waupaca, Waushara, and Wood.

The bag limit on grouse, ring necked pheasants, prairie chickens, sharp tailed grouse, Hungarian partridges, and even quail [in the few counties where quail hunting will be permitted], is four per day and 8 in possession. Inasmuch as the department of conservation has decreed a rather complicated schedule as far as the counties open to hunting are concerned, shooters should write the department at Madison, Wis., for a complete list of regulations affecting the various species of upland game.

The duck season in Wisconsin is the same as for Illinois, Oct. 21 to Nov. 19. The woodcock season runs from Oct. 19 to Oct. 23. The daily bag and possession limit is 4 per day.

18 Holes in 15 Minutes, Goal Today

Golf, the most deliberate of all sports, this afternoon will yield to the American urge for speed when 24 members of Westward Ho Golf club will endeavor to send a golf ball streaking around the course in less than 15 minutes for 18 holes.

In a practice round early this week the relay team bettered 20 minutes and with further practice the mark of 15 minutes—or less than one minute per hole—seems destined to fall.

According to an announcement by R. C. Darley, club president, the method of procedure is similar to a relay race. A man drives off, while two other men stationed on either side of the fairway, about 200 yards out, will be ready to play the second shot a soon as the ball comes to rest. A chip shot man awaits a shot short of the green, while a putter is in readiness on the green to drop the putt.

The ball is thrown to the second tee to save time and is driven off by another man. A similar crew is scattered on the second fairway to handle the ball in the same way.

As soon as a man plays the ball he hastens to another station further down the course. As the ball travels at an average speed of 1,200 feet per minute, a player must be spry to reach his next station within the few minutes allowed. In some cases, players must race 1,200 yards in less than five minutes.

The exhibition is open to the public free of charge. All the spectators must do is remain stationary as the ball whirls around the course. It is possible to see play on five tees and four greens without leaving the clubhouse.

Yacht Notes

The first meetings of motor boat organizations in the autumn season will be held tomorrow night. Members of the Chicago Motor Yacht club will meet to plan participation in the Illinois waterway cruise, Sept. 13 to 15, and the election slate of officers for 1936. The meeting will be held in the club ship at Belmont harbor.

William Erickson, motor yacht navigator, will show moving pictures taken from his Eric V. at the opening meeting of the power yacht squadron of the Lake Michigan Yachting association, tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock. Erickson's pictures were taken during the squadron cruise to Ottawa, Ill., this summer. A business meeting of the squadron also will be held.

Dr. William E. Redlich of the Chicago Yacht club, reports that his 43 foot schooner, Auf Wiedersehen, was clocked by its crew at 11½ miles an hour for three straight hours last week in the race from St. Joseph, Mich., to Chicago.

CARD COMPLETED FOR O'MAHONEY STADIUM BOUT

Four Other Matches Will Support Main Event.

The wrestling show which will open the indoor season at Chicago Stadium a week from tomorrow has been completed. In addition to the main bout between Danno O'Mahoney, heavywreight wrestling champion, and Joe Savoldi there will be four preliminary encounters.

Sergei Kalmikoff, bearded heavyweight, will meet Lou Plummer in one of these. The others will bring into action Jim McMillen and Frank Brunowidz, Rusty Westcoatt and Pete Mehringer, and Chief Little Wolfe and Emil Dusek.

Savoldi is due in town Tuesday to start preparations for his title match against O'Mahoney. It appears that O'Mahoney will not arrive until after a scheduled encounter at Philadelphia Friday. He wrestles Ed [Don] George at Boston tomorrow.

17 Sea Scout Crews Row for Trophy Today

Seventeen picked crews of Sea Scout oarsmen, from as many Sea Scout ships in the city, will row today in the annual Commodore Ernest H. Noyes Cup cutter regatta. The crews of ten boys and a coxswain, will race over a five-eighths of a mile course just north of Navy pier, starting at 1:30 p. m.

Standard 29 foot Navy cutters owned by the Sea Scouts, a branch of the Boy Scouts, will be used. The oarsmen are all between the ages of 15 and 21. Vice Commodore H. A. Gross, officer of the day, is in charge of the racing. Racing crews of the S. S. Ship Buccaneer and S. S. Ship Farragut, leaders in races this season, will try to better the course record of 4:19.4.

OPEN WINDY CITY LEAGUE'S 31ST RACE TOMORROW

16 Bowling Teams Ready for Title Chase.

BY HOWARD MARTIN.

It's one opening after another as bowling continues to edge into the sport picture. The next big inaugural is that of the Windy City Major league, which will get its 31st season under way tomorrow evening at the Windy City alleys in Cicero.

Appearing to be stronger and better balanced than ever before, the sixteen teams will start shooting for a prize list of $3,160 at 8:30 o'clock across sixteen alleys.

Several new teams have been entered, among them the Burlington Zephyrs from the Randolph league, and the Strachan Coals, a strong south side lineup captained by Walter Schultz and Ducky Holmes. There also are several new sponsors.

Teams from last year that will be back in action tomorrow evening are: Mineralites, O'Keefe Coals, Lauterbach Coals, J. M. Kralovecs, Pilsen Olympias, Blazek Tailors, Vogel Brothers, Soper Brothers, McKesson's Old Crow, and Betinis Boosters.

The league was organized in 1904 and is about the oldest and finest in the country, says Jerry Peck, mainspring of the organization and one of its best bowlers. During the season it is planned to honor Anton Stehno and A. F. Jiruska, who formed the league 31 years ago. Tomorrow's schedule:

Alleys 1 and 2, J. M. Kralovecs vs. Pilsen Olympia; 3 and 4, Blazek Tailors vs. Serrano Cigarros; 5 and 6, G. and W. Whisky vs. Miller High Life; 7 and 8, Lauterbach Coals vs. Betinis Boosters; 9 and 10, Vogel Brothers vs. Soper Brothers, 11 and 12; Burlington Zephyrs vs. Strachan Coals; 13 and 14, O'Keefe Coals vs. Almanaris Water; 15 and 16, Mineralites vs. Curran's Blatz.

Monarchs Bowl 3,010.

The Monarch Beers lived up to their championship rating last night at the Lorraine Arcade when they took three games from the Moulding-Brownell corporation in the Classic league. They totaled high series with 3,010, while the Baby Ruth Candies, who won two games from the Ben Bey Cigars, had high single game, 1,034.

The Edelweiss Beers defeated the Pabst Blue Ribbon Beers twice, and the Miller High Life Beers beat the Oak Leaf Motors in two games. Paul Krumske of the Edelweiss totaled 661 for high series, and Jack Bishop of the Baby Ruths shot the high game, 250.

North End League.

Only one 3,000 series, two games over the 1,000 mark and six individual series over 600 were rolled in the opening stand of the North End Traveling league. Perhaps the reason for low scores was the fact that it was opening night, but some regarded this as an indication that the new quarter rounds or smaller strips of molding in the gutters are destined to shrink a lot of bowling averages.

With a 3,002 total the Schamberger Schlitz team was high for the inaugural session and knocked off Reed Butterscotch for three games, a feat which was equaled by the Birks in their match with Samuelsons. Harry Kaad's 639 topped the individuals. He was followed by George Notz, 637; Art Butler, 620; Bill Kazlo, 606; Bill Zelasko, 603, and Joe Janis, 602. Tomorrow night's schedule:

Idle Hours vs. Schamberger Schlitz at Harry Kaad's, 7 p. m.; Reed Butterscotch at Samuelson's, 7 p. m.; Kaadland vs. Birk Brothers at Willow, 7 p. m.; Michelobs vs. Westers at Bryn Mawr, 7 p. m.; Roosevelt Brewing at Milford, 9 p. m.

About the Women.

Not having a national tournament to worry about, Betty Ramsey comes to bat with the information the Congress Women's league got off to a successful start with the Budweiser Girls sweeping a series against the Alberti Jewelers. These two teams again appear to be the class of the sixteen entered, an increase of two over last year. Sandack Jewelry and White City also swept their series, tying the Budweisers for the team leadership.

Many high scores were rolled, Betty Dorn of Northtown Recreation getting a 230 game and Elaine Peters of Birk Superbs shooting a 217, which helped to give her high series of 567. Other good games were made by the following: E. Engel, 215; C. Enders, 212; E. Kirg, 212; C. Ehrns, 206; F. Trettin, 203; C. Rosecrans, 201; I. Brosius, 198; B. Ramsey, 198; M. Frank, 193; E. Munzel, 192; C. Grob, 192; G. Johnson, 192; D. Burmeister, 191, and N. Kolb, 190.

MAYORS FIGHT AT RAPID CITY BOXING MEET

Rapid City, S. D., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Mayor Roy Doherty of Rapid City has got the fight he craved.

Mayor Dan McCutcheon of Belle Fourche will take him on in the headline bout of the Five State A. A. U. boxing tournament here Sept. 17, 18, and 19.

Mayor Doherty yesterday issued a challenge to "every mayor within a radius of 1,000 miles," and said that "if any of them won't fight, get Huey Long." McCutcheon accepted the challenge today.

WHO'S WHO in National Tennis

FRED J. PERRY.

Fred J. Perry needs no introduction to this or any other tennis gallery in any part of the world.

This pipe puffing Britisher has probably played in more countries than any other tennis player unless it be William T. Tilden.

During the last twelve months the debonair Britisher has established himself as number one champion by winning the English, French, and American championships.

He, like Roderich Menzel, made his way to the top of the tennis world, not by some one telling or showing him how to hit the ball, but by teaching himself.

He's Champion at Ping-Pong, Too.

His favorite sport outside of tennis is ping-pong. Perry held the ping-pong championship of the world for several years, winning the first title at the age of 15.

Perry claims his doctor recommended he play some outdoor sport to build up his health. That prescription has made Perry one of the most athletic figures on the courts. He can outrun, outhit, and outlast any player in the game.

Perry came to America in 1931 to try his luck in the national tournament at Forest Hills. Perry was beaten in the semi-finals, but during the tournament he had beaten seven of America's first ten players. His first American championship came in 1933 when he beat Jack Crawford in the finals.

Gives England Cup First Time in 25 Years.

The same year the Englishmen startled the world by beating Australia, America, and France in Davis cup play, thus taking the cup to England for the first time in 25 years.

Perry returned to America in 1934, again winning the American championship, this time beating Wilmer Allison in the finals.

In winning the Wimbledon singles championship last year Perry became the first Englishman to win the British title since 1909.

Eight matches were played to bring the men's and women's field up to the quarter-final round and one round of eight matches was played in the women's tournament which saw the highly favored Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., pressed hard to turn back the challenge of Freda James of England. The scores were 7-5, 5-7, 6-4.

Don Budge Advances.

The winners in the men's tournament, besides Mangin, were Don Budge, Wilmer Allison, Sidney Wood Jr., and Bryan M. Grant Jr. Budge put out his Davis cup teammate, John Van Ryn of Philadelphia in straight sets, 8-6, 6-4, 8-6.

Completing a contest that had been interrupted by rain, Allison eliminated Gene Mako of Los Angeles, 6-2, 6-0, 7-5. At the time the match was halted by rain last Wednesday, Allison was leading, 6-2, 6-0, 2-3. Mako led 5-3 before Allison settled down to run out the set and the match.

Wood disposed of John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, while Grant triumphed over the intercollegiate champion, Wilbur Hess, also from Fort Worth, 7-5, 5-7, 6-1, 6-4.

MEDICA BREAKS MILE RECORD IN WESTERN SWIM

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Pacific northwest dominated the opening program of the Far Western A. A. U. swimming events today as three meet records were bettered.

Jack Medica of the Washington Athletic club, Seattle, won the mile free style in record breaking time of 21 minutes 47.5 seconds. This took 1.9 seconds off his own mark, set a year ago.

The northwestern feminine stars swung into action to take the first three places in the 100 meter free style, which was won by Olive McKean in 1 minute 11.2 seconds. Her teammates were Mary Lou Petty, who was second, and Betty Lea, who was third.

Miss Petty came back later to win the 400 meter free style by four lengths over Norene Forbes, Santa Monica, with her teammate, Miss Doris Buckley, third.

The other records of the afternoon were turned in by Ray Kaye of Detroit in the 200 meter breast stroke and Paul Wolf, Los Angeles, in the 100 meter free style. Kaye left his opponents well behind to swim the 200 meters in 2 minutes 53.2 seconds, trimming 7.3 seconds off the old mark. Wolf won by six inches over his teammate, Art Lindegren of the Los Angeles Athletic club, in 59.4 seconds. This was one-tenth of a second faster than the former mark.

SEEK NEW PLAYERS.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A. Frank Ruppenthal, owner, and Alex [Shrimp] McPherson, player manager, of the St. Louis Flyers of the American Hocky association, will leave next week for Canada to seek new talent and pick a training site.

FORT SHERIDAN POLOISTS MEET 124TH ARTILLERY

Fort Sheridan, central circuit polo champion, will meet the 124th Field Artillery this afternoon at Fort Sheridan. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

Opposing Fort Sheridan for the 124th Field Artillery will be Lieut. J. S. McAnulty at No. 1, Capt. W. S. Everett at No. 2, Maj. R. G. Hunter at No. 3, and Lieut. Chris Schuh at back.

The game will be the last match for Fort Sheridan before competing for the 12 goal tournament at Oak Brook next week.

NEW YORK WINS CADDY TOURNEY; CHICAGO SECOND

New York won the first annual caddy golf tournament at Jackson park yesterday when it finished with a total score of 621. Chicago was second with 644, while Washington finished third with 655. The winning team was composed of Gus Cuccinello, Ted Hular, Tony Nocera and Ignacio Russo.

Johnny Dixon of the Chicago quartet led the low scorers with 78—73—151 for 36 holes. Other members of the Chicago team were Edgar Hudson, Joseph Sisolak, and Norman Kittler.

Battle for League Lead Is Thrill of Sports Week

Into the home stretch of the National league baseball race swept the St. Louis Cardinals, the Chicago Cubs, and the New York Giants, running neck and neck. And playing the most important rôle in keeping the three clubs bunched in as stirring a finish as the major leagues have seen since 1926, was a little reformed infielder, who a year ago couldn't field and couldn't throw well enough to win a regular post on a major league ball club.

While the Cardinals were moving along with the same efficiency that has carried them to five pennants in the last nine seasons, and the Giants slipping back in much the same manner as in their blowup of last season, it was little Augie Galan, the Cubs' left fielder, who supplied the punch that kept his club within striking distance of the leaders. When the week opened the Cardinals were in first place, a game ahead of the second place Giants, who were, in turn, a game and a half in front of the Cubs. When the week closed the Cardinals were still out in front, four games ahead of the Giants, but the Cubs were still only two and a half games behind, very largely because of the heroic slugging of little Augie Galan.

Cubs, Cards Keep Pace Over Labor Day Week-end.

The Cubs and the Cards kept apace over the Labor day week-end, the Cubs losing their final game to the Reds on Sunday and sweeping the holiday double-header with the Pirates, while the Cubs trimmed Pittsburgh on Sunday, but split with the Reds on Monday. The Giants, continuing the decline which had dragged them from first place the previous week, lost to the Phillies Sunday and lost their chance to gain when rain washed away their double-header on Monday.

Then started the final phase of the National league race, the swing of the four eastern clubs through the west. The Braves, tail-enders for the entire season, offered no serious opposition to the triumphant advance of the Cardinals, but the Phillies, long a jinx to the Cubs, moved into Chicago. And there's where Galan started to function. Purchased two years ago as an infielder, he had been shelved because his erratic fielding gave no promise that he ever would develop sufficiently to displace one of the regulars. When the current season opened he was shifted to the outfield, where he soon established himself as a capable, every day ball player, neither flashy in his fielding nor sensational in his batting, but good enough at both to win a regular position away from more experienced but less willing veterans.

Drives In Six Runs as Cubs Win, 8 to 2.

In the opening game with the Phillies on Wednesday he hit two home runs, driving in six runs, and the Cubs won, 8 to 2. The Cubs won with ease on Thursday, keeping pace with the Cardinals and gaining a game on the Giants, who lost to the Reds. On Friday the Giants rose up and pulled out a victory in the tenth inning; the Cards rallied in the eighth and came from behind to whip the Braves. The Cubs were trailing, 2 to 1, as they went to bat in the eighth inning with visions of slipping a full game in the race should they fail to make up that one run margin. Galan came through. He tripled to left to open the inning and walked home on Billy Herman's single.

The clubs battled through the ninth scoreless. Again in the tenth Galan was the first man at bat. Again he came through. This time he drove the ball deep into the right field bleachers for a home run and the ball game.

Yesterday's victory for the Cubs put them a game and a half ahead of the Giants, who dropped to third when they lost to the Reds.

Aside from the struggle between the three leading clubs of the National league, the week's play in the major leagues was distinguished only by the collapse of the boom of the Pittsburgh Pirates, which had carried them within striking distance of the leaders the week previous.

The Detroit Tigers, riding along peacefully at the front of the American league, gained a game and a half over the second place New York Yankees to stretch their margin to nine and one-half games. The record for the week:

| Chicago | 6 | 1 | Detroit | 4 | 0 |
| St. Louis | 6 | 1 | New York | 2 | 1 |
| Cincinnati | 4 | 3 | St. Louis | 3 | 2 |
| New York | 2 | 3 | Cleveland | 4 | 3 |
| Pittsburgh | 3 | 3 | Washington | 3 | 3 |
| Brooklyn | 1 | 3 | Chicago | 2 | 3 |
| Philadelphia | 1 | 4 | Boston | 2 | 5 |
| Boston | 0 | 5 | Philadelphia | 0 | 3 |

Sir Malcolm Campbell Defies Death for Speed Mark.

For years a speed of five miles a minute has been the goal of Sir Malcolm Campbell as he has raced his great six ton automobile, Bluebird, over Florida's beaches. Year by year he has whittled a few fractions of a second from the time it required him to guide his machine across a measured mile on the smooth, white sand of the shore line at Daytona Beach.

The world gasped when he raised his speed to four miles a minute. It gasped again last March, when Sir Malcolm came closer to death than ever before to establish a new land speed record of 276.816 miles per hour over sands warped into the semblance of a corduroy road by the lashing of an angry sea. Vainly he waited to try once more to lift that mark to the long sought 300 miles an hour, but the tide whose gentle action was to smooth out the ruffled face of the beach served only to corrugate it more and again Sir Malcolm went home to England, his dream unrealized.

Last week he tried again, this time on the smooth, salt surface of the Bonneville Salt Flats along the shore of the Great Salt Lake. Along a thirteen mile straightaway of blinding white, he drove his roaring Bluebird. Across the measured mile, it skimmed in 11.83 seconds, a speed of 304.331 miles per hour. The terrific heat generated by the friction of spinning wheels on sun baked salt blew out a front tire. The rear tires were cut to shreds. In fifty-two minutes, eight minutes short of the time limit, when he must start his second mile run, new tires were in place. Campbell was ready for his second run. A roar, a flash, and the second mile was covered.

The timing tape showed he had taken 12.18 seconds for the second mile, at a speed of 295.566 miles per hour. His average for the run, American Automobile association officials told him, was 299.875, still 125-1,000 of a mile short of his goal.

Disheartened he prepared for a new trial within two days. Then hours afterward came the gladsome news. There was an error on the tape of the automatic timing machine. He had covered the second mile in 12.08 second, not 12.18, and his speed for the run was 298.013. His average for the two miles was 301.1292. The Bluebird had traveled more than five miles per minute. Sir Malcolm had attained his goal.

Usually when a woman reaches the age of 32 years and is the mother of two children, she is content to settle down to a placid domesticity, and leave the rigors of competitive sport to younger and more agile contestants. Not so Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare. Fresh from her triumph over little 17 year old Patty Berg of Minneapolis, for her sixth national women's golf championship, the Philadelphia matron announced that she will continue to play competitive golf.

Fred Perry of England is generally recognized as the world's greatest amateur tennis player, and great tennis players as a rule are temperamental. So when, despite a cold drizzle, officials of the United States Lawn Tennis association informed him that he must play his match with Frankie Parker of Milwaukee, one of America's most sensational youngsters, he stormed and fumed. But he played and Parker paid for his pique. Without permitting the young Milwaukeean to win a set, Perry rushed through the match to win with ease, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0.

Two riders were severely injured and a horse was killed as a result of a spill which took place directly in front of the grandstand in the last race at Hawthorne yesterday.

Johnny Leyland and Frank Grill were the jockies injured. Parties was the horse which had to be destroyed after breaking her left foreleg. Leyland was the rider on Parties and Grill had a leg up on Port o' Play.

A third horse, Cherokee Sal, also went down in the mêlée, but escaped injury, as did her rider Frankie Faust.

Three Horses Fall.

Leyland took Parties up sharply in order to avoid crowding nearing the judges stand. The 6 year old mare crossed her legs and fell, Port o' Play and Cherokee Sal stumbled over her.

Jockies Leyland and Grill were taken to Garfield Park hospital. Leyland's left ear was torn almost completely off, he suffered a scalp wound and a deep cut in his neck, but Dr. Hubert Meachim, who attended him, reported last night he was out of danger.

Grill's Shoulder Is Broken.

Jocky Grill suffered a compound fracture of the shoulder blade. He too was reported to be resting easily. Both Leyland and Grill will be out of action for six weeks or two months, Dr. Meachim reported.

After the bad mix-up, which came soon after the start, Ogygia, paying $95.20 for a $2 ticket, turned up as the winner with Let Her Play second and Enro third.

The fans wagered $445,000 at Hawthorne yesterday. Not since 1931 has a Hawthorne crowd been in such a speculative mood. Tops in betting at Hawthorne last year was $265,000.

The Fighter, star juvenile in Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Milky Way farms stable, which finished second in the Junior Champion stakes at Aqueduct in New York yesterday, will be sent to Chicago for the Hawthorne Juvenile handicap to be run Sept. 21, according to the plans of Trainer Bob McGarvey. After filling the engagement at Chicago, The Fighter will return to the east to try for the Belmont Futurity, richest of all 2 year old stakes run in America.

George H. Foster, secretary of the Illinois racing commission, announced to horsemen yesterday that he had been assured by the National Jocky club, which operates Sportsman's Park, that there will be a material increase in the value of purses at the popular half mile track during the 22 day meeting which opens on Oct. 7.

On week days there will be two races at $600, four at $700, and one at $800. This is an increase of $600 a day over last year. On Saturday there will be two races at $600, four at $700, one at $800, and one at $1,000. This is an increase of $700.

Young Dale Shaffer was in the paddock and helped Trainer Alex Gordon saddle his good 3 year old St. Bernard for yesterday's $5,000 Hawthorne Sprint handicap. Trainer Gordon and Owner Shaffer are optimistic about St. Bernard's chances to win the Hawthorne handicap at a mile and an eighth to be run next Saturday.

The Cuban jocky, F. Rodriguez, drew a five day suspension yesterday when he cut across in front of the field too sharply on Betty Shaw in the third race. He rode Golden Rock II. to his sensational victory in the Marquette handicap at Lincoln Fields last Monday. He was scheduled to ride the South American horse again in the Hotel Sherman purse at Hawthorne tomorrow.

Frank Donahue and a big party of friends from Milwaukee were entertained in the clubhouse at Hawthorne yesterday by Thomas McHale, chairman of the board of directors of the Chicago Business Men's Racing association.

Jocky Paul Keester was back in action at Hawthorne yesterday for the first time since he rode Coldstream to victory in the Hyde Park stakes at Arlington Park. Keester is waging a terrific battle against increased weight, but every now and then gets hit in the chin by his mean rival and is knocked out.

LOU MEYER WINS ALTOONA RACE; TITLE TO PETILLO

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Lou Meyer of Huntington Park, Cal., setting an average speed of 86½ miles an hour, roared to victory today in a 100 mile automobile race over the Altoona-Tyrone speedway—last dirt track championship race of the season.

He led a fast field of many of the nation's foremost racers, finishing a lap ahead of Frank Brisko of Milwaukee. The winner's time was one hour, nine minutes and 20 seconds.

Meyer took the lead a few miles later after Floyd Roberts, of Van Luis, Cal., was forced into the pits at the 30 mile mark by a flat tire. Roberts had won the qualifying honors earlier in the day with a speed of 93.90 miles an hour. He finished in third place.

The order of the other finishers:

The race automatically gave the national championship to Kelly Petillo of Huntington Park, winner of the 500 mile Indianapolis classic, who piled up 720 points during the summer. His championship depended on whether Bill Cummings won the Altoona event—Cummings has 620 points and today's race meant 120 points to the winner.

TTENNOB, away fast and displaying fine speed, increased his advantage rapidly on the turn and, continuing strongly, easily held sway thereafter. FIRING SQUAD, fractious at post, went sluggishly until reaching final quarter where he came with a rush on inside. MASTERPIECE, inclined to bear out, was under strong riding the final five-sixteenths and held on fairly well, yet failed to hold FIRING SQUAD.

FITKIN, saving ground throughout and under mild restraint the first half mile, came away fast when called upon and had something in reserve. GAY BANNER, taken to outside after saving ground the first three-eighths, closed well under strong handling. NO MORE, raced wide while under strong restraint the first half mile, responded only mildly to pressure soon after reaching stretch, later weakened and swerved badly in late stages.

BROAD MEADOWS, quick to get going, but taken under light restraint before going a quarter, responded to mild pressure in wearing down FREDRICK and came away in late stages to win with something left. FREDRICK displayed good speed from the start, saved ground throughout and, though failing to hold the winner, held on well. CAPT. JOY, raced wide throughout, improved his position gradually and was going well at the end.

VANITA, blocked soon after the start and steadied along for five-eighths, sharply impeded CHIEF MOURNER as she came around the leaders entering stretch and tired after taking command, but stalled off WATERSPLASH. Latter went over sharply soon after the start, was rated along under snug restraint for about five-eighths, forced MALIMOU back as she forced her way to inside entering stretch, and fought it out gamely in the drive. CHIEF MOURNER forced the pace under strong restraint, was still racing in hand when impeded entering stretch, and went evenly when clear.

MYRTLEWOOD, away fast but eased slightly when outrun, came around the leaders with a rush and, holding on well, withstood WEST MAIN'S charge. Latter, badly outrun early, raced between horses when coming with a great rush in stretch and was rapidly getting to the winner. CLANG, unable to keep up and allowed to drop far out of it on stretch turn, came to extreme outside for final quarter and also closed boldly.

WHEAT MOUNTS ON CANADIAN PRICE FIXING

All World Markets Are Affected.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Heavy buying of wheat sent prices soaring in markets throughout the world yesterday following the announcement of the Canadian government that it will guarantee a minimum price of 87½ cents a bushel to farmers on the best grade of wheat this year. Prices rose 3 cents a bushel in Winnipeg, the limit allowed under the rules of the exchange. On the Chicago Board of Trade wheat closed 2 cents above Friday's last quotation, and in Liverpool the advance was 1¾ cents.

Significance of the Canadian decision rests in the strategic position which the dominion occupies this season in the world market. Canada controls the largest wheat surplus in the world and importing countries, including the United States, are dependent on her for supplies.

Regarded Notice to World.

The guarantee of an unexpectedly high price to farmers was regarded as a notice to the world that Canada will exploit to the fullest her advantageous position as a world supplier. The price policy leaves Canada free to sell in the export market at any price she pleases. The government is gambling that other countries will pay prices high enough to prevent any loss on the undertaking.

Probable American imports of Canadian wheat this season are placed at 50 million bushels. American mills are credited with purchases to date of upward of 10 million bushels. At the government guaranteed price it would have cost a minimum of $1.29½ a bushel to deliver top grade Canadian wheat in Chicago or other lake ports yesterday, including the import duty of 42 cents a bushel, but not including freight.

Millers Pay More than $1.60.

American wheat of comparable quality was quoted yesterday in the cash market in Minneapolis at prices ranging from $1.29 to $1.35 a bushel. Adding to this the processing tax of 30 cents a bushel, American flour millers are now paying more than $1.60 a bushel for milling grade wheat.

Developments in the world wheat outlook not only brought speculative buying into the wheat pit in Chicago yesterday but also caused a covering movement on the part of shorts. The market opened higher, suffered a momentary relapse, and then resumed its advance.

| | Yesterday. | Friday. | Wk. ago. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Wheat | $ .94½ | $ .92½ | $ .89⅞ |
| Corn | .56½ | .56⅛ | .57⅝ |
| Oats | .26⅞ | .26⅝ | .26¼ |
| Rye | .44⅜ | .43⅞ | .43⅜ |

Other grains were sympathetically strong with wheat but finished the day at only moderate gains over Friday's price level. The bullish situation in wheat in this country does not apply to other grains.

Other Crops Are Good.

A good corn crop appears assured, a big oats crop has been harvested and there is a plentiful supply of other feeds. The rye supply is adequate.

A contributing factor to the strength in Winnipeg yesterday was the removal of most of the emergency restrictions on trading which have been in force for several weeks. The council of the Winnipeg exchange voted to remove the restrictions on short selling. The only restrictive measure that was not removed was the 3 cent limit on daily fluctuations in wheat. The emergency rules were put into effect in July pending a clarification of the government's wheat policy.

CASH PREMIUM HIGH.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Competition of millers for undamaged wheat has boosted the cash premium to the highest figure attained in years at this season, market authorities said today. Because of rust and heat which plagued spring wheat farmers of the northwest choice grades were in such demand today that millers were offering 14 to 16 cents a bushel premium for immediate delivery grain over the speculative future quotations.

One Chicago operator said: "We do not believe that any living member on the various exchanges has ever seen cash premiums for milling wheat as high at this season as they are this year."

Means No Dumping.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Farm administration officials today expressed pleasure over the action of the Canadian government in fixing a minimum price of 87½ cents a bushel for Canadian wheat.

This action was interpreted by officials to mean that Canada would not dump its surplus, estimated at 203,000,000 bushels on Aug. 1, on the world markets.

WHEAT LEADS MOST COMMODITY PRICES HIGHER IN LAST WEEK

Price advances occurred in most of the important commodity markets last week. Wheat, lard, hogs, butter and eggs all closed the week with gains over the preceding Saturday. The features of the week in the wheat market were the pessimistic appraisals of the American and Canadian crop situations and the announcement by Canada of a minimum price on wheat for farmers. December wheat in Chicago showed a gain for the week of more than 4½ cents a bushel. The continued short run of hogs in the Chicago market was reflected in advances in pork and lard prices. Other commodities registering gains were hides, sugar, silver, and coffee.

Cotton closed the week slightly below the price level prevailing a week earlier. Corn futures and rubber also lost ground.

The following table shows yesterday's closing quotations in cents on a representative list of commodities as compared with the preceding week and the high and low figures for the season:

For the first eight months of this year the company had a trade volume of $37,886,584, compared with $34,952,740 in the corresponding months of last year, a gain of $2,933,844, or 8.4 per cent.

ILLINOIS BONDS ARE INCLUDED IN OFFERING BY RFC

Peru Approves $2,000,000 Payment to U.S. Companies

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Congress today approved by a vote of 58 to 6 a project authorizing the payment of credits totaling $2,000,000 to the Electric Boat company and United Aircraft corporation in connection with the purchase of submarines and airplanes.

Canadian Freight Trafic Rises, but Runs Below 1934

MONTREAL, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Canadian freight trafic in the week ended Aug. 31, totaled 47,380 cars, an increase of 3,533 over the preceding week. The volume ran 5,508 below a year ago, however.

Holiday Cuts Last Week's Auto Output

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Production of automobile passenger cars and trucks in the United States and Canada this week totaled 34,140 units, compared with 49,115 in the preceding week and 38,116 in the corresponding period in 1934, Cram's Report, Inc., announced today. The sharp decline was due largely to the observance of Labor day by the industry.

"Another reason for the decline this week is that most plants are slowing down or completing the manufacture of 1935 models," Cram's said. "Many of the closed plants have fairly large numbers of men working in various departments as preparations are pushed in meeting 1936 model assembly line schedules."

August Output Is 235,000.

Estimated production for August is placed at 235,000, compared with 244,713 in the same month of last year. The reason for this smaller number of units in August of this year, the agency explained, is traceable to the earlier dates of the next national automobile shows, which will be held in November as against January and February in former years. All companies that will introduce new models at the national exhibits have for a number of weeks been lowering assembly line operations and finishing up the last of this year's cars.

Production of the General Motors group amounted to 13,900 units this week, compared with 24,500 last week and 15,425 a year ago. The Ford total was 14,000 units, compared with 16,700 in the preceding period and 13,540 a year ago.

Chevrolet Sets Record.

Deliveries of the Chevrolet Motor Car company in August were the best for the month in the history of the company. The total was just short of the 100,000 mark at 99,018 cars and trucks, a gain of 33,623 units over the same month last year.

Most Chrysler plants were closed and total output was 1,200 units. This compared with 1,500 units last week, when Dodge was the only company producing. Retail deliveries of Dodge passenger cars to the first eight months of this year totaled 133,640 units, an increase of 90 per cent over the 70,333 Dodge cars sold in the corresponding period last year. Dodge's truck sales amounted to 38,830, up 18.2 per cent over the 1934 period.

Domestic retail sales of Pontiac cars in August totaled 10,811, against 7,097 in August, 1934. Deliveries in the last ten days of the month amounted to 3,667.

Production of all cars for the first eight months of this year was estimated at 2,793,619 units, compared with 2,318,826 in the corresponding period last year.

HOWELL, CUTTEN MAY TRADE UNTIL COURT DECIDES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The grain futures commission notified the fifteen grain futures markets today that pending disposition of an appeal from its suspension sentence, Thomas M. Howell and Arthur W. Cutten would be permitted to trade.

Howell and Cutten were barred from trading for two years each after the commission had ruled them guilty of violating the grain futures act.

The commission said that a recent ruling by the federal Circuit court in Chicago in granting Howell permission to file a petition to set aside the commission's suspension order had specified that they should be allowed to trade until the petition was disposed of by the court.

Financial Advertisers Hold Meeting This Week

A delegation of 25 Chicagoans left on a special train yesterday for the 20th annual convention of the Financial Advertisers association to be held tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday in Atlantic City. The group joined delegates from Milwaukee and western cities. The train was to pick up Cleveland and Pittsburgh representatives at the latter city. Chester Price of the City National Bank and Trust company was chairman of the Chicago "On to Atlantic City" committee. Paul P. Pullen is president of the Chicago Financial Advertiser.

ILLINOIS AUTOMOBILE LICENSES IN 8 MONTHS EXCEED ALL OF 1934

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 7.—[U. P.]—Passenger automobiles licensed in Illinois to Sept. 1 this year totaled 1,310,902, Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes' office announced today. This is an increase of 60,864 vehicles over the same period in 1934 and exceeded total number of licenses issued last year—1,285,434.

Truck registrations for the eight months were 182,785 compared with 169,138 for the corresponding period in 1934. In all of last year 178,496 trucks were registered.

The announcement showed motor vehicle fees collected up to Aug. 31 amounted to $18,230,214 as compared with $16,898,848 a year ago, an increase of $1,331,365.

FOREIGN MONEY DIPS AGAIN, BUT CLOSES UNEVEN

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Foreign exchanges weakened today but closed irregular. Sterling lost a half cent at $4.92¾, a dip of 3⅝ cents in the week, and the franc again sagged to 6.59 cents, but closed at 6.59⅛ cents, unchanged on the day and off 1 point on the week. This placed the dollar at $1.0064 against the franc.

Guilders closed at 67.61 cents, unchanged on the day and down 7 points on the week. Swiss francs rose 1 point to 32.52 cents, but lost 7 points on the week. # GOLD BOND SALE IN ILLINOIS IS HELD ILLEGAL

Opinion Rules Out Hedging Clause.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Bonds purporting to be payable in gold, even though they contain the so-called "hedging clause" sanctioned by the Securities and Exchange commission, cannot be qualified for sale in Illinois, Attorney General Otto Kerner held today.

The opinion, given to Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, whose offied for sale in Illinois, Attorney law, was based on the request of an eastern utility company which desired to qualify for sale in Illinois a series of refunding bonds. The utility company asked permission of Hughes' office to designate the bonds as "First and Refunding Mortgage Five Per Cent Gold Bonds."

Carry "Hedging Clause."

In addition the bonds were to carry the "hedging clause," which provides that, notwithstanding the designation of "gold bond," payment could be made in any currency which is legal tender at the time of payment.

S. T. Pogue, in charge of the securities division in Hughes' office, saw in the opinion nothing affecting bonds which previously have been sold in Illinois.

The opinion, he said, merely holds that the "hedging clause" approved by the Securities and Exchange commission is in conflict with Illinois securities law which requires that any bond sold as payable in gold must be paid in gold.

The sole effect of the opinion, Pogue declared, was merely to disqualify for future sale in Illinois any issue purporting to be gold bonds unless federal laws and regulations less federal laws were changed so as to make payment in gold possible.

Object Is Protection.

"The Illinois securities law," Kerner's opinion held, "has for its object and purpose the protection of investors. The provisions are explicit and so clear as not to admit of construction that securities may be sold, offered for sale, or advertised for sale in this state by using the word 'gold' in such advertisments when such securities are not redeemable or payable in gold.

"To permit the advertising of securities using the word gold which are not redeemable or payable in gold would certainly not be in harmony with the rules, and to use the word gold in such advertisment might have a tendency to mislead the investors."

SHORT INTEREST SHOWS BIG GAIN DURING AUGUST

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The short interest outstanding in issues listed on the New York Stock exchange during August registered its sharpest advance since Jan., 1934, rising 128,059 shares to a total of 998,872 shares, the exchange announced today. Increases of 72,338 and 30,276 shares were made in June and July, respectively. The expansion of the short interest in August brought it within close range of the Jan., 1934, aggregate of 1,030,083 shares.

Announcement of the third successive monthly increase in the short position was welcomed by brokers who regard it as imparting technical strength to the market after its continued rise. They pointed out that the growth of the short interest concurrently with the advance of stock prices tended to substantiate the conventional Wall street theory that short selling justified itself by helping to check soaring markets and by providing a "cushion" for their ultimate fall.

During the last five months the short interest has increased about 31 per cent and an average price of 50 shares has risen 33 per cent.

EXCHANGE SEAT SELLS AT $135,000, HIGH SINCE APRIL

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The value of memberships on the New York Stock exchange reached a new high level since April, 1934, today when arrangements were made for the transfer of a seat at $135,000. The price represented a gain of $15,000 over that of the last transaction, on Friday.

At current levels, exchange seats are selling at more than double the year's low price of $65,000, established on April 3. At that time volume of trading on the exchange averaged approximately 3,500,000 shares a week as compared with the present rate of 7,000,000 to 9,000,000 shares.

BUSINESS NEWS IN REVIEW

"Breathing Spell" for Business Encourages Markets—Stock Average Runs Up to Four Year High—Morgan's Return to Investment Field Hints of Much New Financing.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Favorable Washington news, coupled with further signs of increasing business activity, brought so much cheer into the market last week that industrial stock averages rose to their highest levels since September, 1931, thus giving the autumn trade an auspicious start.

Most sensational of the week's developments marketwise was President Roosevelt's statement on Friday that his "basic program" had been virtually completed and that business could be assured of a "breathing spell." Nobody in the business world seemed to know just what that meant, but, because it was the most encouraging business news that had come out of the capital in months, it immediately sent stocks shooting upward.

No Word on Budget.

The chief criticism of the President's statement in financial circles was that it gave no promise of the government's working toward a balanced budget, but marketwise this very failure to mention governmental expenditures was bullish because government deficits are the principal cause of inflation. Thus, either way the market experts surveyed the President's statement, it was interpreted as bullish, and stocks were not slow in reflecting these appraisals.

On Friday, following the release of the President's statement, leading shares rose $1 to $3 per share and yesterday many of them followed with further gains of $1 to $5 per share. Trading in the first hour on the New York Stock exchange yesterday was the heaviest in months.

Bond News Favorable.

Two days before the President's "breathing spell" announcement the treasury department had cheered up the financial community with word that its latest offering of 500 million dollars of 1½ per cent three and one-half year bonds had been oversubscribed. Coming on the heels of the treasury's disturbing failure to market all of its 100 million dollar offering the preceding week, this news was thankfully received by banks and other financial institutions.

The reason for last week's success, said bondmen, was Secretary Morgenthau's abandonment of his recent policy of selling bonds at auction to highest bidders, and the "sweetening" of the offering in other ways. In making the new issue more attractive Morgenthau was understood to have followed the advice of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Better news from Washington coincided last week with business developments indicating that the upturn that began at midsummer was broadening into the fall pickup that had been hoped for.

Favorable Factors.

Early cool weather, a heavy movement of coal, and increased shipments of fall goods of many kinds brought the railroads a gain of 51,488 in freight car loadings for the week ended Aug. 31, according to Friday's report by the Association of American Railroads. This was the biggest gain on record for the season, and the 679,861 freight cars handled represented the biggest total since November, 1931.

News from the steel trade, barometer of activity in the heavy industries, was favorable as the mill took up the slack caused by the Labor day holiday. Output of steel ingots, measured by various agencies, continues at about 50 per cent of the capacity of steel plants. Heavier output is expected when automobile manufacturers begin to fill their fall requirements, preparatory to the bringing out of their new 1936 models.

Production of electric power dropped a little more than seasonally, but was still well above 1934 levels.

Hurricanes, floods, and rains helped depress retail sales in many sections of the country, but the dip was regarded as temporary. The oil industry was troubled by the breaking out of gasoline wars on the west coast.

Morgan Returns to Bonds.

When congress passed the banking act of 1933, J. P. Morgan & Co., leading American banking house, which hald sold billions of dollars of railroad, industrial, and foreign bonds, was left with two alternatives. It could continue to do a commercial banking business or it could go on selling bonds, but it could not do both. The choice had to be made by June, 1934.

Passage of the 1933 act followed months of hearings by the much publicised "Pecora committee" in which the private transactions and tax payments not only of the House of Morgan, but of other banking firms were aired. These hearings reached a climax when it was disclosed that although Morgan partners paid 51 millions in federal income taxes from 1917 through 1929, they paid only $50,000 for 1930, 1931, and 1932. And it reached another climax when a circus press agent rushed in during the senate committee hearing and plunked a lady midget into the lap of august John Pierpont Morgan, while he was testifying.

The House of Morgan decided to get out of the bond business, which was utterly stagnant anyway, and accordingly in June, 1934, announced the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., incorporated in New York as a private commercial banking firm with total resources of 344 millions.

Last week the financial world was stirred by another Morgan announcement. After seeing President Roosevelt scotch an attempt to insert in the banking act of 1935 a provision permitting commercial banks again to underwrite and sell bonds, Morgan partners decided to split their association, Partners Harold Stanley, William Ewing, and Henry Sturgis Morgan leaving the commercial banking firm to form a new bond house to be known as Morgan, Stanley & Co., Inc., which will have no corporate connection with the bank.

Market experts were quick to interpret this move as a sign of returning prosperity to the bond market which has been improving since last spring, due largely to a flood of refunding operations. They figured that the Morgan move reflected a belief on the part of the partners that this refunding wave would shortly blossom into offerings of new bond issues.

Canada's Gift to Farmers.

Canadian governments have been in the wheat business for nearly ten years. The provinces began trying to manipulate prices in 1926 and for the last year and a half the dominion government has been playing the market at Winnipeg steadily, getting more deeply involved in wheat. It has managed to keep the price of Canadian wheat above world levels, but in doing so it has discouraged exports and acquired 200 million bushels for which there has been no foreign market.

A few weeks ago the Canadian government decided to drop pretenses and make its gift to the wheat producers of the western provinces an outright subsidy. It would cost the dominion taxpayers millions, but it was the only way to keep prices high enough at home to satisfy the clamor of the farmer politicians and low enough abroad to sell the wheat.

John I. McFarland, Canadian wheat "czar" would leave the futures market in Winnipeg to its own devices. He would cease his price pegging there and buy wheat directly from the farmer for the account of the government and then sell it abroad for the government at a lower price.

Sets Minimum Price.

Friday night the long awaited announcement concerning the price the government would pay was made. For No. 1 dark northern wheat Czar McFarland would pay 87½ cents per bushel at Winnipeg. This is the finest grade of Canadian wheat. Other grades acceptable to millers are selling in Winnipeg at 2¾ cents to 11½ cents less per bushel, and of this

STOCKS CLIMB AGAIN; TRADING OUTRUNS TICKER

Week-End Is Busiest in 19 Months.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—Bullish influences continued to dominate the stock market today as large blocks of shares changed hands at the opening, resulting in the largest first hour turnover since May 28 with a total of 730,000 shares. Such was the volume of dealings that fifteen minutes after the gong had signaled the start of operations the high-speed ticker tape was two minutes behind operations on the floor.

The demand for stocks was not restricted to any particular section, but spread throughout the list at price advances ranging from fractions to more than 3 points. While the pace slowed down somewhat after the first half hour and prices tended to droop, especially in some of the more speculative spots, the advances were retained for the most part.

Busiest Saturday in 19 Months.

Total turnover for the abbreviated session amounted to 1,289,960 shares, the busiest Saturday since Feb. 12, 1934.

The largest single transaction was 10,000 shares of Radio at 7⅞, up ⅛ of a point and a high record. United States Steel opened at 46⅝, also a new high, on a sale of 3,000 shares. Some selling took place later in this issue, however, and it was forced to close with a small fractional gain.

General Motors opened at 45⅝ on a sale of 1,500 shares, but later 6,500 shares were sold at 45½, after which the market went on to make a new high for the year at 45⅝.

The rush of buying orders was attributed to mounting business and trade indices and the growing feeling that fall business will be the best in many years.

Several Encouraging Influences.

The President's promise of a "breathing spell" for business was considered another incentive for traders to buy stocks, as were the better prices for wheat in the Chicago and Winnipeg markets.

Additional encouragement for the speculative fraternity was found in the weekly carloadings report, made public overnight which showed an increase in freight movement considerably greater than the usual seasonal amount.

Today's opening was pointed to as testifying that traders who failed heretofore to get in on the rising market were determined to do so as quickly as possible. Brokerage houses reported orders were coming in from all over the country, especially from the west and middle west, and the attendance in board rooms throughout Wall street was said to be better than it usually is on a Saturday.

Railroad Issues in Demand.

The reaction to the carloading report was heavy buying of carrier shares at rising prices. A block of New York Central sold at 25¾, up half a point, after which the stock extended its gain to reach a new high for the year and close up ⅜ of a point. Union Pacific closed 2 points higher on a comparatively small volume, while Atchison closed with a fractional gain after opening up 1⅛ points higher.

American Telephone was one of the outstanding performers of the day. Opening at 141⅜, it quickly shot up to a new high for the year, closing at 143¼ for a gain of 3⅛ points. Chrysler and Westinghouse Electric were among other market leaders to reach new maximum prices.

American Can, American Safety Razor, and Allied Chemical and Dye gave scintillating performances as they rang the bell with gains of 4¾, 2¼, and 3 points, respectively. Auburn, likewise, came along in fine style as it climbed 3 points to close at 38¾, a new high.

RAILWAYS SHOW GREATER LOSSES THAN LAST YEAR

Rise in Gross Offset by Larger Expenses.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Five years after the depression sent the railroads into an adverse situation from which they have never since recovered, finds them, as a group, still living on hope, according to a view expressed in Wall street circles. Some remedial legislation has been enacted, improved business has increased revenues in recent years, and gross taxes paid have decreased.

However, in the first six months of this year 142 class 1 companies incurred a net loss of $62,025,000, against a net loss of $23,162,000 in the same period last year. In the first seven months of the year gross revenues increased by a fractional percentage compared with the same period last year, or from $1,905,907,000 to $1,910,943,000.

Wages and Costs Increase.

The decrease in net despite the increase in gross resulted from increases in wages and costs. Wages are now at the pre-depression level as a result of the restoration of a 10 per cent reduction imposed some years ago. At the same time, rising prices for supplies have outstripped increases in revenues.

The enactment by congress at its last session of a law for the regulation of commercial interstate highway trafic went a long way toward meeting what the railroads have contended has been a serious situation in respect to diversity of competitive conditions, but the effects of this law may not become evident for a year or two. Here again, the status of the railroads under the law may be described as hopeful, but nothing more.

Only Strong Roads Refinance.

There was a revival of public financing by the railroads last year which was continued with abated vigor into 1935. This financing, however, was undertaken by strong companies only. Other lines have had to go to the government for funds or to the courts, with the result that the list of railroad bankruptcies was increased this year by the inclusion of a half dozen large systems.

Except for the issuance of reorganization plans to cut down funded debt, the railroads have been able to do little to improve their situation. High hopes were held when the Association of American Railroads was formed about two years ago that it would have a greatly beneficial effect. The association has directed a major portion of its efforts in fostering a campaign against government ownership.

Can't Reduce Labor Forces.

While it is conceded this campaign might prove valuable should a demand for government ownership ever become popular, it is pointed out that it resulted in no increase in revenues.

The railroads undoubtedly could realize substantial economies if they could reduce labor forces in a manner now prohibited by the law under which Joseph B. Eastman, federal coördinator, holds his position. It is pointed out, however, that if revenues had recovered to the extent hoped for when the law was enacted some two years ago, there would not have been the need for reducing employment.

Measured by the volume of production, as indicated by railroad car loadings, business in the United States was worse in July and August than in June, 1933, when the national industrial recovery act and similar legislation was enacted, or even than in December, 1932, according to Railway Age.

BUTTER FIRM TO LOWER; OCTOBER EGGS UNCHANGED

Trade in butter and egg futures yesterday was not as heavy as early in the week with butter closing unchanged to ⅛ cent lower on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, November being 26¼ cents per pound. October eggs closed unchanged at 26 cents per dozen.

Profit taking and increased hedging pressure were responsible for the easiness in butter. The spot market was unchanged to ¼ cent per pound lower, while the four leading markets reported a net increase in stocks in cold storage. Withdrawals of eggs from storage were 1,600 cases less than a year ago. Sales of butter were 66 cars and eggs, 24 cars. Prices follow:

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Constructive operations continued to dominate bond trading in the New York Stock Exchange during the two hour period today. Virtually all classes of domestic corporation bonds extended their gains with many forcing their way into new high ground on fairly active trading for a week-end session.

Second grade railroad liens were prominent in the advance, the strength in carrier stocks continuing as the directing force in the market for those issues.

Expect Better Earnings.

Many of the better grade rail issues have reflected good buying recently, which is attributed to the sharp pickup in carloadings and the outlook for better earnings.

The improvement among public utility loans today, while confined to fractions in most cases, was general and carried the price average for that group up 0.19 point on the day. Murray Body 6½s continued to push upward in line with the common stock into which they are convertible and sold up 5 points at one time to a new peak, but closed with a net gain of 3⅛ points.

Federal Issues Dull.

The market for United States government bonds was again dull and mixed. On a turnover of $391,400 the group showed gains of 1-32 to 3-32 and declines of 1-32 to 4-32 at the close. Heaviness of the federal loans in the past two days has been independent of the general market trend, even the higher grade corporate issues ignoring the weakness which was rather pronounced on Friday.

Real Estate Bonds.

The prices of real estate bonds have advanced sharply during the last year and a half. In the seventeen months to June 30, 1935, for instance, the average gain was $129 per $1,000 bond, and the market has since been strong.

There are several reasons for this. During the last few years income from the properties securing the bonds has been applied toward accumulated taxes, bringing the day nearer when bondholders again will be receiving a return. Income has improved, not so much from higher rentals, average rental increases having been nominal, but from increased occupancy. Easy money conditions have facilitated reorganizations. High bond and stock prices have diverted investment funds from listed markets and speculators have given real estate bonds some attention.

Another factor is rigid building costs. These have discouraged new construction which would have competed with the older buildings securing outstanding bonds.

There are, however, adverse factors confronting bondholders. One is the fact that depreciation continues as time passes. Buildings securing outstanding bonds grow older and their depreciated value decreases.

Moreover there is always the possibility of a decrease in construction costs which would stimulate construction of buildings to compete with those already standing. Further increases in the general rent level, even though it should be substantial enough to foster new building, would not act adversely on bondholders because the properties already standing would in all probability get their shares of increased income.

In judging the investment value of a real estate bond one should not make the mistake of believing that because the outlook generally for these securities is favorable that all real estate bonds are attractive speculations. Such is not the case. There are issues which probably will not pay out at anywhere near the prices at which they are currently quoted.

The fact that these bonds are unlisted also should be considered. Although the market is more active than formerly, there are issues on which the asked price is 20 to 30 per cent higher than the bid price, indicating lack of marketability.

Still another factor of vital importance in judging a real estate bond is the ability to obtain information on it. Full information is available concerning many issues. Why then tie yourself to an issue on which no information is available where it is impossible to form an estimate as to value? It would be a sheer gamble.

TRADE PROMISE OF ROOSEVELT HELPS MARKETS

year's estimated 300 million bushel crop, Canadian farmers, because of rust and bad weather, will produce 100 million bushels of wheat unfit for milling, but suitable for feed and other uses. The price to the individual farmer will depend on geography as well as the quality of his grain. It will be the price at Winnipeg, minus freight and handling charges.

The amount of the subsidy taken from the taxpayers to assist the wheat raisers will not be known until Czar McFarland discovers how much he can sell the grain for abroad.

Board of Trade experts in Chicago said that if this scheme will ever work successfully it should work this year, because bad weather is cutting the production of wheat in Argentina, Australia, and other exporting nations, and the AAA crop reduction scheme, plus last year's drouth, has turned the United States from an exporting to an importing nation.

Because the 87½ cent price was two cents higher than No. 1 dark northern wheat was selling for on Friday, Winnipeg traders on Saturday pushed prices of wheat futures in the open market up about 2½ cents.

News Highlights.

In Washington, Chairman Jesse H. Jones of the Reconstruction Finance corporation attacked two Chicago law firms, Winston, Strawn & Shaw, and Pam & Hurd, charging that at the time the RFC made the famous 90 million dollar "Dawes" loan to the Central Republic Bank and Trust company these law firms advised the RFC that it could collect double liability from the stockholders of the Central Republic. Silas Strawn, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, replying for his firm, said Jones was misinformed, that the firm had advised the RFC that it could pursue such claims, not that it could collect them.

E. L. Cord, who several years ago startled the motor world with the first front wheel drive car to be placed on the market, is about to produce another novel car, a Diesel motored Auburn. The motors will be supplied by the Cummins Engine company of Columbus, Ind. Clessie Cummins, former chauffeur, who designed the motor, recently toured the country with an experimental Diesel powered Auburn, crossing the continent with a total fuel cost of $8. The day after news of the projected Diesel was out, Auburn stock rose and Auburn dealers were swamped with inquiries.

Generosity Increases.

Chicago banks reported that wealthy individuals who had not previously acted to insulate themselves against the increased estate and gift taxes were beginning to get busy making gifts and setting up trusts. Such procedure enables an estate to avoid the rigorous estate tax by submitting to the 25 per cent lower gift tax. But an even larger saving is in store for those who set up their gifts or trusts during the next four months because the estate tax increases voted at the last session of congress went into effect immediately, but the gift tax increases do not become effective until Dec. 31.

A pointed illustration of the manner in which the Agricultural Adjustment administration's corn-hog reduction program is building up live stock business in other parts of the country at the expense of the central west was afforded by Armour & Co.'s announcement that it was about to reopen its packing plant in Tifton, Ga. Explaining, Armour's President Cabell said that Georgia farmers were raising hogs and hog feeds on lands formerly used for cotton, but made idle by the AAA cotton reduction program, thus increasing hog production in the south.

"Steal" Is Righted.

Tapewatchers on Friday deduced that some gullible neophyte had been taken for a ride by sharpshooters, the "pickings" amounting to $340. The evidence was that 10 shares of Coca-Cola International, a very inactive stock, appeared on the tape at $450 per share. Coca-Cola International is a holding company for Coca-Cola, and one share of International is exchanged at any time for two shares of Coca-Cola. Inasmuch as Coca-Cola was selling actively at $242 per share, International shares were automatically worth $484, or $34 per share more than $450 for which an International stockholder had sold his shares. The steal was so obvious and caused so much comment that the following day cancellation of the deal was announced. Who the sucker had been was not disclosed.

CHICAGO STOCKS GAIN IN LARGE WEEK-END TRADE

Cord Shares Set New High and Lead in Volume.

Prices edged slightly higher again yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Trading was at the highest Saturday level of the year. The two hour session saw a 44,000 share turnover in 83 issues. Fifty-one issues advanced, 17 were steady, and 15 lost ground.

Cord was the feature of the day, despite the fact that the motor accessory shares slowed down and abandoned their recent leadership. Nearly one-fifth of total volume was the 8,550 trade in Cord as interest was quickened at the prospect of the company's early introduction of a Diesel powered passenger car. The issue closed at a new 1935 high of 5⅛. It ended at 4⅞ on Friday and was at 4⅜ at the end of last week.

Other Automotive Issues Irregular.

Noblitt-Sparks receded more than a half point from its top levels of Friday and Bendix held steady, both in active trade. A 2,150 share turnover in Houdaille "B" brought another new high of 22½, but the stock closed down at 21¼. Automatic Products ended at 10¼ for another new top.

Utilities were generally strong, with Commonwealth Edison reaching a 1935 ceiling at 86 and closing at 85¾ for a rise of almost 4 points during the week. Other utilities rose fractionally.

A new top of 52 was hit by Ryerson, but other steel shares were fractionally lower. Williams Oil-O-Matic continued its rise in active trade to touch 8½ and be within a quarter of its 1930 ceiling.

Among others in the list of 13 issues making new highs yesterday were A. M. Castle, Club Aluminum, Dayton Rubber, General Candy, and Wahl, the latter in an exceptionally brisk turnover.

Thirteen Issues at New Highs.

Merchandise shares weakened fractionally, although Chicago Mail Order picked up an eighth. Butler Brothers lost that much in a 1,900 share turnover.

Chicago corporation and Cities Service were strong and in fairly active demand. Cherry Burrell and Associates Investment were among those to advance a point or more.

The week saw trading in 150 issues, compared with 165 last week. Twenty-six hit new tops on one or more days. Total volume for the six days were 239,000 shares, almost even with the previous week's 241,000 shares and nearly treble the 84,000 turnover in the corresponding period of 1934.

SEC POSTPONES DATE OF DEALER REGISTRATIONS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The date on which registration of brokers and dealers in over-the-counter markets become effective has been postponed until Jan. 1, a delay of three months, the SEC announced today. This action was taken because there is evidence of ground for denial of registration to about 200 applicants, and more time is necessary for investigation.

The SEC wishes to give every broker or dealer whose eligibility for registration is questioned an opportunity to appear personally and lay his claims before the commission, before action is taken, as there have been threats that suits to test the authority of the constitutional powers of the SEC may be started by some of those who believe they have cause for complaint.

FEDERAL COURT RULES OIL ACT CONSTITUTIONAL

Sherman, Tex., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Federal Judge Randolph Bryant today upheld the constitutionality of the new Connally oil act today, a decision regarded as of farreaching importance to the rich east Texas oilfields.

The measure, enacted by congress last February, was designed to prevent movement in interstate commerce of "hot" oil, that which is produced or withdrawn from storage in excess of the amount permitted by state laws.

Judge Bryant's decision was rendered against the East Texas Refining company, which was seeking tenders on 155,000 barrels of oil. The company attempted to prove the Connally law was unconstitutional.

Railroad Employe Pension Group to Meet Tomorrow

The fifth annual convention of the Railroad Employes' National Pension association will open a five day session tomorrow in the Hotel Sherman. The main subject for discussion will be the enactment of legislation that will provide added legal safeguards for the recently enacted railroad retirement act. The subject will be discussed tomorrow by Lieut. Gov. P. J. O'Malley of Wisconsin and his son, Congressman Thomas D. O'Malley.

Credit Women's Club Will Hold First Meeting

The Credit Women's club of the Chicago Association of Credit Men will hold its first meeting of the season Tuesday evening at International house on the University of Chicago campus. J. J. Killacky of John Sexton & Co., one of the directors of the association, will discuss "Credit Methods."

PRICES OF PORK, HOGS CLIMB AS SUPPLY SHRINKS

Swine Receipts Are Near Lowest on Record.

Pork and hog prices in the Chicago area soared on low receipts last week, and were relatively the highest in the country. Only 39,900 hogs arrived here, less than 1,000 above the smallest weekly total on record, barring strike periods. Two years ago last week Chicago receipts totaled 277,436, but of this total 180,665 were pigs and sows killed by the government to reduce supplies and raise prices.

Chicago consumers, as a result of the drouth and AAA programs, are feeling the effects of the derth of pork supplies more acutely than consumers in other parts of the country. Chicago hog receipts for the year to date show a decrease of 51 per cent from the average of the last ten years, whereas the decrease for the entire country shows a drop of 41 per cent.

Expect Smallest Receipts Since 1872.

Chicago receipts for 1935 will probably not exceed 3,600,000 head, the smallest total since 1872, seven years after the yards were established at the present location. In that year 3,252,623 hogs arrived here. Twice in the last ten years Chicago has handled more than 10 million hogs in a year.

Prices of hogs last week averaged $13.15, including the processing tax, showing a rise of 35 cents compared with the preceding week. It has been exceeded by only one weekly average in the last nine years, and compares with $9.40 a year ago and with $3.90 two years ago, when there was no processing tax.

Upwards to $14.45 was paid for top grades, the highest September mark since 1926 and within 20 cents of the highest mark for this month in 15 years.

Decline Near End of Week.

Hogs suffered a relapse toward the end of the week, losing 10 to 30 cents of the gain, but final quotations still were 10 to 15 cents above the close of the previous week.

Stimulating the demand for meats were such factors as cooler weather and the return of vacationists to the city. The east reported sharp advances in wholesale meat prices.

Demand in the cattle yards last week showed a preference for "cheapest" grades, which advanced sharply and were relatively the highest in the packers' purchases, considering quality and yield.

Steers under $10.50 and hefers below $9 rose 25 to 50 cents in the last six days, but good to choice steers weakened 25 to 35 cents. The week's steer average at $10.70 was only 10 cents under the highest since May.

Lambs scored a rise of $1 to $1.40 in six days, one of the sharpest week's advances in recent years. Native and western lambs reached $10.25, highest for this season since 1929.

WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 7.—Fine domestic wools were very active during the last week and prices advanced to higher levels on a number of important lines. The rise in prices of territory wools was 2@5c, scoured basis, on some types sold in original bags, and these advances were reflected in a sharp advance in quotations on 64s tops at the end of the week. Lower grades of territory wools all had some demand at prices very firm to slightly higher, compared with the preceding week.

LARD OFF 7½ TO 17½ CENTS AS TRADING REMAINS SLOW

Trade in provisions was relatively slow yesterday and, while there was scattered buying of October lard early, the market eased and at the close prices were 7½ to 17½ cents lower. Clear bellies [salt pork] were 5c lower.

While there is a marked scarcity of hogs and the output of cured product is small, leading interests claim many operators, who have been looking for sensationally high prices for the latter, are inclined to overlook the fact consumer demand is subnormal. They estimate prices for hog products are out of line with purchasing power. Spot lard closed at $15.95; loose, $16.15; leaf, $16.00, and bellies at $18.50 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds follow:

MEDICINE Marches On!

Courtesy of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

Less than a century ago, present-day anesthesia was unknown, and every surgical operation was a fearful ordeal. . . . and due to the lack of proper antiseptics and asepsis, the success of even a minor operation was problematical.

But today, as a result of advances in medicine and anesthesia, surgery has been so perfected, that the average operation is not considered a dreaded undertaking; its success is usually a foregone conclusion.

Diphtheria, scarlet fever, syphilis, tuberculosis, diabetes—have yielded to the science and skill of the medical profession. X-ray and radium have broadened the field of medical efficacy.

Yet even now, Medicine is not content to sit back and complacently view its remarkable accomplishments. Its present successes are but milestones marking the path of progress. Medicine marches on!

THE NEWEST ADVANCEMENT

● Recently, people in the Chicago area have been witnessing A Crusade in Medicine—which has resulted in making available to the public responsible low-cost medical care—through the Civic Medical Center of Chicago.

The Civic Medical Center has brought together specialists of experience and character in all divisions of medicine and surgery; established them in one co-ordinated institution—where every modern facility and special apparatus necessary for complete diagnosis and treatment is assembled . . . where the patient can receive thorough medical care that heretofore one physician, alone and unaided, has been unable to provide.

And by thus welding every phase of medicine into one solidified unit, important economies have been effected that now make possible . . .

Dependable, experienced medical care—the services of specialists in every field of medicine—at fees well within the reach of people of modest means!

AN IMPOSING RECORD

● The success of this newest step in the forward march of medicine is clearly proven by the following imposing record . . . During the past 2½ years, this large staff of the Civic Medical Center has attended over 65,000 patients—involving over 300,000 individual treatments; performed over 1500 surgical operations; delivered over 700 mothers and cared for as many babies—and all this AT LOW COST! Without the strictest confidential and personal relationship between physician and patient—such a record could not have been built or maintained.

BULGARS BOAST LEAD IN HEALTH AND LONGEVITY

Ancestry Is Founded in Warrior Race.

BY ARCH FARMER.

If it were possible to characterize a people by emphasizing a particular trait or distinction which they possess, the Bulgarians might be characterized as the world's healthiest race. Such at any rate is the oft-repeated and seemingly not unfounded Bulgarian national boast.

Dr. Weliko Grableachoff, a Chicago Bulgarian of literary and academic distinction [Ph. D., Ll. D.] is authority for the statement that Bulgaria has more centenarains in comparison to her population than any other nation in the world.

"The country," he says, "is too small both in population and area to be able to advance any claims of superiority along lines of wealth, industry, commerce, political power, or military might. Yet in one respect Bulgaria is preëminent, and that is in the good health, the vigor, and hardihood of her people."

Savants Look for Secret.

Many scientific bodies, medical institutions, and private investigators, Dr. Grableachoff continues, have made a special study of the climate, environmental influences, the mode of life and diet of the Bulgarians in an effort to discover the secert of their longevity and superb health.

"The great Russian scientist, Professor Metchnikoff, attributed the phenomenon to the widespread consumption of Bulgarian sour milk. Whatever the reason, the fact remains that in this small country in the heart of the Balkan peninsula man lives a longer and healthier life than in any other place upon the planet."

Modern Bulgaria is a country of some six million inhabitants and an area of 65,000 square miles which reentered the historical scene an an independent nation 56 years ago after five centuries of Turkish domination.

Scourged by Nomads.

It was about the year 746 A. D. that a small but warlike nomadic tribe led by the daring king, Asparouch, emerged from the boundless steppes of what is known today as Russia, boldly attacked the northern boundry of the once mighty Eastern Roman Empire, crushed its legions and conquered most of the Balkan peninsula. This territory was populated by numerous small slavonic tribes who had but recently emigrated from the north and, due to their own disorganization and lack of unity, were easily held in bondage by Byzantium.

The new conquerors quickly were assimilated by the Slavs but not before they had laid the foundation for a powerful and united nation to which they gave their own name of Bulgaria.

Under the leadership of capable and energetic kings, the Bulgarians extended the confines of their kingdom far and wide, waging successful wars with the Avars, Serbs, Magyars, and Byzantium, besieging on several occasions Constantinople, and exacting and receiving tribute from the eastern Roman empire.

1,000 Years of Christianity.

Coincident with her political rise, Bulgaria developed a rich national culture. In 912 she embraced Christianity and, in order to make its doctrine more easily understood by the masses, created a new Slavonic alphabet and an extensive literature.

Early in the 14th century, however, Bulgaria, then torn by internal dissension and weakened by moral decadence, began to disintegrate and after a bitter and prolonged struggle, succumbed to the rule of the Turks, then victoriously sweeping over Europe, spreading terror and dismay throughout Christendom.

For more than five centuries it seemed that Bulgaria might be doomed to national extinction, but in 1876 the Russian emperor, Alexander II., declared war on Turkey for her liberation. The Russian arms were victorious and in 1877 the peace pact of San Stefano, giving liberty and independence to the country, was signed.

War Flares Four Times.

Bulgaria's woes still were unended, however, for the terms of San Stefano were revised and a substantial part of the Bulgarian people thrown back under Turkish subjugation. In the comparatively short time since 1877 Bulgaria has been drawn into four bloody wars in an effort to liberate herself entirely from foreign domination.

Bulgaria today is a modern progressive country with railroads, paved roads, harbors, telegraph and telephone communications, newspapers, theaters, libraries, museums, schools, universities, and art and music academies. The percentage of illiteracy is exceptionally low and the cultural level of the masses unusually advanced.

The capital of the country is Sofia, a city of approximately 300,000 people noted for its charm, its palatial buildings, paved boulevards, and impressive monuments. There reside King Boris III. and Queen Giovanna.

Minerals Are Neglected.

Although its industry and handicrafts are well developed, Bulgaria is predominantly an agricultural country. The principal exports are wheat, corn, rye, live stock, poultry, and

The newest of costumes for early morning and late evening and all the occasions important to feminine fancy in between will be displayed on Friday evening when the junior board of the Elgin Y. W. C. A. holds its second annual fashion show at the Masonic temple.

With members of the board and their friends as models, the fashion parade will begin at 8 o'clock and Rex, a St. Bernard dog, will add a note of reality to some of the sports scenes. During the intermissions Mrs. Perry Thomas will sing and Mrs. Cecil Higgins Lasher will present her tap dancing class in several numbers.

A budget wardrobe, showing a complete outfit for a student at any midwestern college, will be a feature of the show. Another will be the junior division in which children will display new fall fashions for the youngest generation.

Only Money Raising Event.

The fashion show will be the board's only money raising event this fall and proceeds will be used to continue its industrial work, which includes paying the salary of a full time secretary in the department at the local "Y."

In addition the board will serve in other departments, among them the Girl Reserves, the membership and camp committees, and two members will assist the regular staf weekly at the desk and in the office routine.

The junior board had its beginning in March, 1932, when a group of young women volunteered their services to the general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. The first projects were the organization of free classes in cooking, sewing, etiquette, and recreation among the factory girls of the city.

The first formal organization was in October, 1933. At that time the present name was selected and membership was limited to 36. A member of the senior board was appointed to act as adviser and a definite set of rules drawn up.

Provide School Lunches.

The activities begun in 1932 were continued. Additional classes in bridge, child care and training, and psychology were formed, and the board financed and served weekly suppers to the girls who attended the classes. They also assisted the local Salvation Army in serving hot noon lunches to undernourished school children.

Last fall the board decided that the guidance of a trained worker would make its efforts more effective and held its first style show to raise funds to hire a part time secretary for an industrial department at the Y. W. C. A. Later a full time position was financed.

Besides the style show, the board will sponsor a benefit movie in the spring. Mrs. Desmond Moody is president. Serving with her are Miss Rachael Muirhead, vice president; Miss Virginia Higinbotham, secretary, and Miss Sybil Rhoades, treasurer.

Miss Katherine Karsten is general chairman of the fashion show. Membership of the subcommittee includes: Models, Miss Marion Pyott, Miss Rhoades, and Mrs. Moody; publicity, Mrs. LeRoy Schurmeir, Mrs. Gordon Seymour, and Miss Muriel Rovelstad; place and entertainment,

VAST CARNIVAL PROGRAM OPENS FOR CITY TODAY

Activities to Center in Communities.

The northwest side, gay with street decorations and in carnival spirit, will devote this week to its participation in Chicago's homecoming celebration. Each community will have daily programs beginning tomorrow, programs in which every one will be given opportunity to take part. Business, civic, athletic, and social organizations all will have a hand in the week's activities.

There will be hand concerts, youth contests, bicycle races, street dances, vaudeville shows, amateur nights, athletic exhibitions, American Legion and Boy Scout demonstrations, sales promotions, beauty contests, carnival nights, swimming and tennis tournaments.

The celebration will culminate next Sunday afternoon with three events to which all Chicago has been invited, a rodeo in Edgebrook, a bicycle race in Belmont-Cragin, and the finals of the northwest side tennis tournament in Field park.

Unique for City.

The northwest side will be the only section of the city to hold homecoming activities next Sunday, Roy I. Levinson, divisional chairman, announced. Consequently the central committee is coöperating to make these events the climax of the city's celebration.

The rodeo in Edgebrook will be held next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Elston and Luna avenues and will include an old fashioned wild west show, riding contests, trick ropers, Indians, a Roman steeplechase race, and an amateur horse show. Horses will be furnished by the Elston and Edgebrook stables and David Jaynes and William Schmidt will have charge of the program.

Walter Goralski, chairman of the Belmont-Cragin celebration, announced that more than 500 entries have been received for the bicycle parade and races to be held next Sunday afternoon. The events will be run on Diversey avenue from Harlem avenue to Pulaski road.

Plan Prizes for Races.

Among the racing events will be a race for girls under 12, a race for boys under 14, a race for boys over 14, and a free for all race with no age limit. Prizes will be awarded in both the parade and races.

Finals in the northwest side tennis tournament will be held next Sunday at Eugene Field park, 5100 North Ridgeway avenue, beginning at 10 o'clock, according to Leonard J. Sterling, park director. Fifty-nine singles and doubles matches have been scheduled for the preliminaries, which are being played this week throughout the northwest side.

Divisional finals in the Spirit of Northwest Chicago Youth contests, a strictly northwest side feature, will be held next Friday afternoon and evening, Mr. Levinson announced.

Select Beauty Queens.

The athletic events will be held at 2 o'clock at Gompers park, Foster and Tripp avenues. Finals in the voice and oratory contests will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock in Field park fieldhouse, 5100 North Ridgeway avenue. Preliminary contests in these classifications will be held in all northwest side communities during the first part of the week.

Two communities, Logan Square and Belmont-Cragin, will select beauty queens during homecoming week. "Miss Belmont-Cragin" will be selected Thursday evening at 9 o'clock at Blackhawk park, and will be crowned Sunday at 2 o'clock at Diversey and Harlem avenues.

The queen of Logan Square will be chosen by popular acclaim tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Harding theater, according to Parker Bates, Logan Square chairman. She will be crowned Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the Logan Square monument. There will also be a vaudeville and Boy Scout activities at that time.

Parade Next Friday.

Other events in Logan Square include a band concert tomorrow evening at the monument, vaudeville and symphony orchestra concert Wednesday evening, a street dance Thursday evening, and a parade on Friday.

In Mayfair where Sidney Doe is chairman, there will be a mardi gras tomorrow evening at Elston and Lawrence avenues. There will be a band concert Tuesday evening in Gompers park, athletic contests Wednesday afternoon at Gompers park, voice and oratorical contests Wednesday evening in Mayfair park fieldhouse, a parade and street dance Thursday evening at Elston and Lawrence avenues, vaudeville and street dance Friday evening at Kenneth and Lawrence avenues, and a baby carriage and doll buggy parade Saturday afternoon, beginning at Lawrence avenue and Pulaski road.

Norwood Park, Jefferson Park, Edison Park, and Edgebrook, will combine forces for a parade tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock which will form at the Jefferson park fieldhouse, Long avenue and Higgins road.

Roller Skating Race.

On Tuesday evening Norwood Park will have a band concert at Niagara avenue and the Northwest highway; Wednesday evening at the same place will be the athletic, voice, and ora

Clarence De Butts, Principal at Tuley, Ends 50 Year Career

BY JAMES FULLER.

When Tuley High school opens next week it will be without the familiar figure of Clarence De Butts, principal for seven years. After a teaching career of 50 years he is retiring "to take a 50 years' vacation."

CLARENCE DE BUTTS.

Mr. De Butts has been an educator of what might be called the old school were it not that the best educators have always belonged to it. He values scholarship in fundamental subjects above the extracurricular activities, the frills and furbelows of modern education.

Didn't Appreciate Him.

There is the story of a teacher who was transferred from Tuley to another high school. She is reported to have said afterwards: "I didn't appreciate Mr. De Butts until now. At least he left the kids in the classrooms long enough for us to teach them something."

And now, since he has retired, Mr. De Butts, who was assistant superintendent of Chicago schools for nine years, can give voice to some of his more unorthodox ideas on teaching, the fruit of a half century of experience in the field.

"Much of this insistence on degrees and more and more college is a lot of poppycock," he says. "Many of our teachers who have the most degrees are the worst teachers. A teacher's ability depends on other factors. You must have a liking and a sympathy for children and an infinite patience to make a success of teaching.

Methods Called Modern.

A characterization of him published years ago in the Livingston county [Ill.] Business directory when he was superintendent of schools at Fairbury is as true now as then.

"He is modern and up to date in his methods, yet is never given to fads," it said. "He wins and retains universal esteem. Possessed of a logical mind, extensive knowledge, and a clear apprehension of the relative importance of details, he is an excellent judge of human nature and adept at imparting information. He governs quietly, firmly, and consistently."

Mr. De Butts will contiaue to reside part of the year at least at his home at 542 Pine avenue, but he will devote some of his leisure to his farm near LaPorte, Ind., and some to his two sons and his grandchildren, who live in Oak Park.

He was born 70 years ago in Adeline in Ogle county and received his high school and elementary training there. He learned the Latin required for college entrance from his high school teacher, Frank Cooper. The latter, however, had only a smattering of it himself and used to learn it in turn from a country minister.

Taught First in Iowa.

After his graduation from Cornell college, Mount Vernon, Ia., Mr. De Butts taught in schools in Marshalltown, Ia.; Cornell, Pontiac, Odell, and Fairbury in Illinios. He entered the Chicago public school system in 1909 as principal of the Lowell school. In 1916 he became principal of Bowen High school, and in 1918 he went to Englewood High school as principal.

From 1919 to 1928 Mr. De Butts was assistant superintendent of schools in charge of assignments and transfers of teachers. He was assigned to Tuley High in 1928.

300 OF FRANZEN FAMILY TO HOLD REUNION TODAY

More than 300 members of the Franzen family, descendants of John Henry Franzen, one of Du Page county's earliest pioneers, will gather today at the old family homestead near Bensenville for the annual family reunion. An all day program, including a business meeting, speeches, and a picnic lunch and supper has been planned.

Members of the Franzen family, most of whom still live within 25 miles of the original homestead, each year look forward to the occasion for renewing family ties and paying tribute to the memory of John Henry Franzen, who passed in 1893.

John Henry Franzen came from Germany with his parents in 1834 and reached Chicago the following year. Two years later the family obtained the farm site 18 miles further west, which will be the scene of next Sunday's reunion.

Mr. Franzen built a brick factory and a flaxseed oil mill, one of the first in Illinois. He also farmed the surrounding acres and, when the industrial growth of Chicago made his other businesses unprofitable, devoted his entire time to agriculture.

CLUB WILL HOLD FLOWER EXHIBIT IN PORTAGE PARK

The Portage Park Garden club will hold its seventh annual autumn flower show on Saturday and Sunday at the Portage park fieldhouse, 4100 North Long avenue. It will award ribbons and prizes for the most perfect blossoms, unusual flowers, indoor and outdoor plants, garden novelties, baskets and bouquets.

PREPARES FOR COLLEGE

Miss Jeanette Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Esther Nelson of 6826 Oleander avenue, who returned recently from a fortnight's visit with friends in Asheville, N. C., to prepare for her entrance in Northwestern university. A member of the February graduating class at Schurz High school, Miss Nelson plans to study journalism in college.

ELGIN VETERANS TELL OF SCHOOL DAYS BACK IN '56

Trace Academy History for Four Decades.

BY BERNICE CRANSTON.

Beside the boys and girls who respond tomorrow to the peal of the bell from the dome atop Elgin's white brick academy on the hill will troop another youthful company, in crinolined skirts and dainty slippers, in homespun jeans and sturdy boots, for the start of the 80th year of the famous institution.

These footsteps will be silent save to two whose memories take them back to a December day in 1856 when the first classes were called to order in rooms recently finished and newly dedicated to the cause of learning.

Walter H. Kimball and Frank B. Perkins, the city's veteran residents, both were in attendance on the day that made reality of the plans formed by the pioneer citizens who obtained a charter for the Elgin academy on Feb. 22, 1839. Mr. Kimball will be 97 on Oct. 7, and Mr. Perkins celebrated his 94th birthday in July.

Planned for Future.

An examination of the original charter shows these pioneers to have been unusually progressive and foresighted. Instead of binding posterity with their whims and fancies, they drew up a simple and concise document. Ahead of their day, they provided for co-education and manual training and freed the students from denominational religious requirements.

The little village on the Fox river then was but four years old and so many were the problems of the citizens that the plans for the academy were laid aside for four years. When they were revived in 1843, James T. Gifford, founder of Elgin, sought to forward them by offering a building site.

The need for a public school, however, became so apparent that all hands were turned to it and the first school was opened the next year and a brick building erected in 1848. That same year the Free-will Baptists selected Engin as the site of their northern Illinois college.

Recall Corner Stone.

They purchased property north and east of the village at what is now Park and College streets and began to build. The corner stone was laid with due ceremony. Both Mr. Perkins and Mr. Kimball remember the event and relate it colorfully. They were impressed by the small red covered testament and gold dollar that were sealed in the stone.

For some unrecorded reason the building was abandoned after the first story was finished. Stark and ghostly, it stood on the hill, surrounded by its scaffolding, a place to be avoided by law abiding citizens and the subject of many weird stories.

Among them is the account of how Allan Pinkerton, a cooper in the neighboring village of Algonquin, lured some of a band of counterfeiters there and effected their capture—a part of his campaign that broke up the gang then operating in the river valley and began his career as a famous detective.

Obtain Former College.

In 1854 Elgin became a city and Joseph Tefft, one of the trustees of the proposed academy, was elected mayor. He decided that the growth of Elgin now waranted further consideration of the old plans and called a meeting of the board, at which he was elected president.

Negotiations were begun to purchase the property of the defunct Northern Illinois college and a campaign was launched to sell stock in the academy. The purchase was made the following year for $3,300 and $7,800 worth of shares, at $50 each, were sold to finance the purchase and to finish the building.

Worthy of note is the fact that the old stock book of the Elgin and Genoa Plank Road company was utilized, the necessary changes being made in the handwriting of Orlando Davidson, who served for 45 years as secretary of the board.

Following the plans drawn by a Buffalo architect for the Baptists, Joshua Wilbur and E. F. Reeves, Elgin contractors, completed the building, a faculty of four teachers was hired and the opening date set for Dec. 1, 1856.

Hire English Principal.

Fortunately for the academy, Robert Blenkiron, a graduate of Christ's college, Cambridge, England, was in the west for his health and accepted the position as principal. His assistants were Mrs. W. M. Capron, who acted as preceptress and taught English and literature; Miss Clare Edgecomb, teacher of primary classes, and John B. Newcomb, who instructed classes in phonography [shorthand], natural science, penmanship and the normal course. Prof. Blenkiron taught the ancient languages and higher mathematics.

As Mr. Perkins and Mr. Kimball remember, there were no formal courses of study outlined. The students advanced from class to class according to their inclination and ability. The younger children assembled in the east room of the second floor, while the more advanced studied in the west wing.

The east wing of the first floor housed the principal and his family. The west was divided into rooms for resident students. The third floor was not finished. Many of the students came daily from their homes, others boarded with neighboring families.

Pupils Make Own Homes.

The arrangements that Mr. Perkins and his friends—William Browning, Kelvyn Raymond, and Amelia Cowden—made was a common one. Children of neighboring farmers in Barrington township lived too far away to make a daily trip back and forth so they rented rooms in a house near the academy, and Delia Raymond, Kelvyn's older sister, acted as housekeeper and chaperon.

Some of the wealthier students from out of town stayed at Waverly house, a hotel operated by one of the Kimball family on the west bank of the river, and were brought to school in a horse-drawn bus. Walter Kimball's home was across the river too.

Few records were kept in those early days. An old Bible, under the date of Jan. 1, 1857, lists 107 students. The first catalog was published in 1863. Two courses were announced, scientific and classical. The scientific required two years prepatory and four years academic work. In the classical, prepartory requirements were the same and the academic curriculum was for three years. Board, tuition, fuel, and light in the academy was estimated at $50 to $75 a year; outside the costs were set at $75 to $100.

Another Cincinnatus.

The civil war took its toll, both among the students and faculty and in the academy's finances. Both Mr. Perkins and Mr. Kimball were among the 153 who enlisted. Lincoln's proclamation reached Elgin on April 15, 1861. Mr. Kimball was plowing when a neighbor brough the news. He unhitched one of his team, rode to town, enrolled, and returned to finish his day's work.

He served for five years and four months in the 7th Illinois infantry, company A, under Capt. Joselyn, father of Frank Joselyn who is also a resident of Elgin now. Mr. Perkins enlisted in Geneva in Company A of the 36th Illinois. He served three years. It was through his efforts that the memorial to the war veterans was erected on the academy campus.

On account of the financial crisis brought on by the war, the trustees were forced to borrow money to keep the school going. Later the mortgage was foreclosed and the property offered for sale. There was one bid of $6,000, but the officers were able to make other arrangements.

City Withdraws Aid.

About that time the city of Elgin offered to buy $4,000 worth of academy stock. The next year, before the transaction was completed, the offer was withdrawn according to the following quotation: "In view of the indebtedness of the town of Elgin for soldiers' bounties and the expense of a new bridge [the Fox river bridge had been washed away by a flood]."

Fortune changed under the leadership of Amos G. Sears, who, with his wife, guided the academy from 1870 to 1881. An influx of students and other circumstances brought prosperity. In 1872 the enrollment reached 250, this because the new school laws required that teachers be prepared in natural sciences, physiology, and the laws of health and many returned to take up the work.

In that year, also, the first diploma was awarded. It went to Laura Davidson, daughter of the secretary of the board who afterward taught mathematics in the academy for ten years and, later was married to Nathaniel Sears, son of the principal.

Gifts Aid Academy.

Her husband was the Judge Sears who, in the last decade of his lifetime [he died in 1934] made many gifts to the academy. Among them was $35,000 toward the $100,000 endowment fund created in 1911, the Orlando Davidson gymnasium in memory of Mrs. Sears' father, the dean's residence, and best known of all, the Laura Davidson Sears Academy of Fine Arts.

The art collection is valued at more than $1,000,000 and contains more than 200 canvases of early Americans and old masters, notable among them a large painting of George Washington, by Gilbert Stuart. This painting was found in the south by Judge Sears, bearing the scars of bullet holes and saber slashes, undoubtedly the work of marauding guerillas during the civil war.

Karl J. Stouffer, the present dean, came to the academy in 1911. About three years ago, he began an educational system that made Elgin academy unique in its field. The outstanding features are a longer class period, a definite budgeting of the student's preparation time, a progressively changing daily class schedule, and a system of definite rewards for developed responsibility and achievement.

EXPECT CLASSES AT NORTH PARK TO SET RECORD

College Begins 51st Year Next Week.

North Park college is preparing for the largest enrollment of its history this fall and expects 1,360 students to register next week for the term that will begin the school's 51st year. The expected registration would be a 5 per cent increase over last year's total of 1,203, which was 291 more than that of 1933.

The new students, including more than 300 college freshmen, will register on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. Registration for former students will be on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. Class work will begin the following Tuesday.

New Courses Are Added.

Primarily a junior college, North Park offers high school work in the academy, courses in music and religious education in special departments, and theological training in the seminary. The junior college curriculum this year will introduce a new graphic arts department and new courses in business psychology, advertising, and contemporary society.

Emphasizing its policy of individual attention to student development, the college will enlarge its counseling and personnel service this year. To make for closer contact with the student body, Peter Person, head of the service department, will establish his office in the main building.

The acquisition of a neighboring 19 acre athletic field and the addition of two members to the coaching staf will give the school sports program new impetus. Jack Heuss, 1933 football captain at Northwestern, and Wilbur Anderson, former Illini athlete, are the new coaches.

New Field to Be Built.

Located on the northeast corner of Kedzie and Foster avenues, the athletic field will be used for practice football, track, and baseball and, when properly sodded and prepared, for competitive football. This year's schedule of six games, however, will be played in nearby fields.

All except the homecoming game will be played at the Spencer Coals field. On Nov. 2 the team will meet the Wheaton college junior varsity in the Loyola stadium.

Other new faculty members are Miss Carola Lund, a recent graduate of Northwestern university, who will teach foreign languages in the academy, and Jean Hagstrom, scholastic leader of his class at North Park and Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Minnesota, who will be public speaking instructor.

Mt. Olive Walther League Will Give Play Sept. 19

"Little Clodhoppers," a three act play, will be presented by the Walther league of the Mount Olive Evangelical Lutheran church on Thursday evening, Sept. 19, in the church auditorium, Tripp avenue and Byron street. Harold Southerwick is directing the cast, which includes Miss Bernice Kannenberg, George Weyer, Joseph Ibsen, MissMarcella Allbright, Miss Elaine Conrad, Miss Lucille Kitley, and Harold [illegible].

Independence Park Women Organize New Tennis Club

The women's tennis club now forming at the Independence park fieldhouse, 3945 North Springfield avenue, enrolled fourteen members at its first meeting last Tuesday evening. The club will meet again at 8 o'clock Tuesday, Sept. 17, to complete the drawing up of its constitution and to elect officers.

NEW TAX RATES FOR TOWNSHIPS ARE ANNOUNCED

'34 Figures Given as Aid to Realty Owners.

New 1934 tax rates for the thirty country townships in Cook county, outside of Chicago, were made public last week by Michael J. Flynn, county clerk. The rates are given to enable property owners to compute the approximate amounts of their forthcoming tax bills. In making the computation it will be essential to know what the assessed valuation of realty or personal property may be.

The assessed valuation may be obtained from the published lists of personal property assessments. The assessed valuation of real estate may be found in the 1933 real estate bills, and will be the same for 1934, save in cases where corrections have been made.

In the above township tax lists, tax rates applicable to the entire township, such as the county, forest preserve, town and road and bridge tax rates, if any, will be incorporated into the basic rate. To the basic rate must be added the local rates such as of the municipality, park, and school districts and so on, to obtain the total rate applicable against a piece of property. The location of the taxable property is important since different school and park districts may lie side by side in the same municipality.

dairy products. There is also much mineral wealth in Bulgaria, including coal, lead, silver, and copper, all, however, largely undeveloped because of lack of capital.

There are approximately 100,000 Bulgarians in America, the largest number, about 30,000, located in Detroit. In Chicagoland there is a scattered population variously estimated between three and five thousand persons, including those living in Gary, Hammond, and other suburbs.

The Bulgarian group in Chicago was active during A Century of Progress Exposition, and on July 30, 1933, celebrated Bulgarian day, the events of which were attended and participated in by Bulgarians from all parts of the country, Canada, and Mexico.

Civic Minded People.

So Chicago Bulgarians did their bit in creating interest in Chicago's memorable Worlds' Fair, and their attitude on that occasion is typical of their interest in civic undertakings, philanthropic and social affairs of the city in general.

Industrially, Chicago Bulgarians are widely distributed in the vocations and professions, and academically the younger generation demonstrates the national enthusiasm for education by enrolling in the city's high schools, colleges, and universities.

The Bulgarian Christian mission, organized in 1907, was the first Bulgarian religious organization of its type in the United States. It is now located at 101 South California avenue, near the center of the Bulgarian population.

LOGAN SQ. ASKS NEW DIVERSEY SPAN OVER RIVER

The Logan Square Business Men's association and the Logan Community council have presented requests to city and county officials asking inclusion of a new bridge over the north branch of the Chicago river at Diversey avenue in projects to be financed with federal funds, Charles V. Falkenberg, president of both groups, announced.

Tentative plans for a four lane, bascule type bridge have been prepared by the city bridge engineer, Mr. Falkenberg said. It is estimated that such a bridge would cost approximately $750,000.

The present bridge is in poor condition and too narrow to take care adequately of the trafic that it must bear. Construction of a new bridge has been urged by Logan Square groups for ten or more years, Mr. Falkenberg said.

The project must have the support of the war department in addition to the city, the Chicago Park district, and the state of Illinois, it is explained, because the river at Diversey avenue is considered navigable and hence under the jurisdiction of army engineers as agents of the federal government.

I. C. C. WILL HOLD HEARINGS ON BUS PLEAS THIS WEEK

Kimball-Homan Case Set for Wednesday.

Public hearings on a number of cases involving proposed extensions of transportation facilities on the northwest side will be resumed this month by the Illinois Commerce commission, according to Lee Friedman, attorney for the commission.

On Wednesday the commission will hear the Kimball-Homan case in which have been consolidated requests for Surface Lines and Rapid Transit feeder buses on Kimball and Homan avenues to connect with stations on five branches of the elevated, the Logan Square, Humboldt park, Lake street, Garfield park, and Douglas park lines.

Peterson Case Thursday.

The Peterson avenue case will be heard by the commission on Thursday. Installation of feeder buses by the Surface Lines from Cicero avenue to the lake on Peterson avenue, Ridge avenue, and Bryn Mawr avenue is asked in the complaint of the city drawn up at the request of Ald. H. I. Brody [39th].

A majority of the cases now pending before the commission will be heard on Wednesday, Sept. 25. Among these is a complaint by the city asking a Surface Lines track extension on Fullerton avenue from Central avenue to Natchez avenue where Fullerton avenue joins Grand avenue, a distance of about one mile.

Asks Belmont Extension.

The city is also asking a similar extension on Belmont avenue from Central avenue to Narragansett, and a trolley bus extension on the same street from Pacific to Cumberland avenue.

Also to be heard on the 25th is the Ashland avenue case involving a feeder bus extension from Irving Park boulevard to Lawrence avenue on a complaint by the city. The Surface Lines have an application with the commission for an extension from Courtland to Clybourn avenue on Ashland.

The consolidated Foster-Kimball avenue cases have been marked heard and taken under advisement by the commission, Mr. Friedman said.

TWO NORWEGIAN LODGES UNITE IN 25TH BIRTHDAY

Women to Celebrate Next Saturday.

Anna Kolbjornsdatter, No. 36, and Camilla Collett, No. 37, the two largest and oldest chapters of the Supreme lodge of the Daughters of Norway in Chicago, will join to celebrate their 25th anniversaries with a banquet on Saturday evening at the Logan Square Masonic temple, 2451 North Kedzie avenue.

MRS. MAGGIE GULLAUG.

Featured speakers for the occasion will be Mrs. Maggie Gullaug, president of the supreme lodge, and Olaf Bernts, Norwegian consul. Mrs. Laura Maxwell is president of the Anna Kolbjornsdatter lodge and Mrs. Nora Haugan heads the Camilla Collett chapter.

Mrs. Emma Hjelkrem is chairman of the committee planning the anniversary celebration. Serving with her are Mrs. Julia Wardel, Mrs. Cora Roderick, Mrs. Borghild Hilton, Mrs. Rose Howardsen, Mrs. Volbog Anderson, Mrs. Sina Gran, Mrs. Elsie Hanssen, Mrs. Jennie Quist, and Mrs. Margareth Carlsen.

Founded in Minneapolis on March 31, 1897, the Daughters of Norway planned to "provide a refuge for Norwegian newcomers, brought among total strangers into a strange land with a strange language."

After immigration ceased, the lodge began to emphasize the preservation of old country customs, literature and culture. It continues to be a fraternal organization and provides for its members in case of ill health and other misfortunes.

There are lodges in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, North Dakota, Washington, New Jersey, and New York, with a total membership of 6,000. Chicago has 1,000 members in its five lodges and is now the stronghold of the organization.

SANGREAL ORDER WILL DEDICATE ARCH OF ARTHUR

The Arch of Arthur on the grounds of St. Stephen's church, 3533 North Albany avenue, will be dedicated next Sunday afternoon by the local Order of the Sangreal, assisted by representatives of the various British societies in the city. At the same time, the order will announce the recipient of its 1935 award of the Cross of Honor.

A block of porphyry, taken from the ruins of Tintagel castle in Cornwall, England, the birthplace of King Arthur, and a large torch from the council chamber of the Knights of the Round Table are the items of greatest interest in the arch.

The porphyry was a part of the large slab from which the tomb of the Duke of Wellington in Westminster Abbey was carved and is a gift from the Loyal Fellowship of the Knights of King Arthur, order located in Tintagel. The torch will be placed in a deep niche in the arch, beside which is carved the Arthurian oath "For God, Country, and Home."

The Cross of Honor is annually awarded to an American who has served God and humanity through the church. Two years ago it went to President Roosevelt and last year was given to Dr. W. S. Keller, a Cincinnati physician.

BEGIN OPERATION OF NEW DIVERSEY BUSES THURSDAY

Parade and Ceremonies to Be Wednesday.

Mayor Kelly will cut the ribbon on Diversey avenue, marking the culmination of a five year fight by Logan Square residents for the buses. Installation of the buses, which will be of the trolley type, were ordered several months ago by the Illinois Commerce commission.

Clubs Join in Program.

All Logan Square organizations will take part in the celebration, according to Charles Falkenberg, chairman of the arrangements committee. These include the business men's association, the Kiwanis club, the Lions club, the Athletic club, American Legion post, No. 405, and the Avondale Chamber of Commerce.

The parade, which will include floats donated by merchants of Milwaukee and Diversey avenues and a drum and bugle corps, will form at Milwaukee and Diversey avenues. It will go east on Diversey to the north branch of the river, return by way of Logan boulevard to Milwaukee avenue, and thence north on Milwaukee to Diversey.

A massmeeting will be held at the intersection of Milwaukee, Kimball, and Diversey avenues following the parade. A speakers' platform will be erected and there will be a speaking program from 8 to 10 o'clock. Extension of Line.

Mr. Falkenberg will open the meeting and State Representative Raymond T. O'Keefe will preside.

DEEMS TAYLOR GIVES ROMBERG SHOW NEW TOUCH

Many New Programs Are Bobbing Up.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

HELEN MARSHALL.

When Sigmund Romberg's Swift show returns to the air at 9 o'clock Tuesday night over WMAQ—NBC it is likely to find even more favor than it did last year. Deems Taylor is replacing the learned Dr. William Lyons Phelps of Yale as commentator. A "preview" of the program in its new form indicates that the change is a definite improvement. There is a lot of sparkle and wit in the Taylor remarks.

The voice of Helen Marshall, the unknown singer who was cast as its prima donna last year, has been polished up. Morton Bowe, a promising young tenor, has replaced Byron Warner as leading man. Rise Stevens, contralto; George Briton, baritone, and a chorus round out the cast—that is, with Romberg's grand orchestra.

Roy P. Anderson, baritone, who was chosen the best male singer in the Chicagoland Music Festival Aug. 17, will be a guest singer with Romberg on Sept. 24.

On the first program Romberg will present a selection from "Rose of France," his most recent operetta which has never been given in America and special arrangements of his number "The Night Is Young" and "When I Grow Too Old To Dream."

Many a new program is coming along now. Ralph Ginsburgh and his Palmer House ensemble will launch a new show "Musical Footnotes" over WBBM—CBS at 11:30 this morning in company with Vivian Della Chiesa, the lark of East Chicago who a few months back won the WBBM unknown singer contest in competition with 2,300 girls, and Franz Imhof, operatic tenor.

Paul Whiteman's Expanded Program.

When Paul Whiteman launches his variety hour next Thursday in competition with Rudy Vallee and Al Jolson he will have as guest entertainers Mischa Levitzky, noted pianist, Michael Bartlett, Grace Moore's latest leading man, and Bobby Burns, the Arkansas comedian. His own versatile crew of soloists, of course, also will perform.

Dragonette on New A. K. Series.

Jessica Dragonette, sometimes called the Mary Pickford of radio, will be the soloist with Josef Pasternack and his orchestra in the first of the new Atwater Kent musical programs at 7:30 p. m., Thursday, Sept. 19, over the Columbia network. It will be the noted soprano's first appearance on CBS.

"Jeannine in Lilac Time."

A new show, "Jeannine in Lilac Time," will make its debut over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System at 6:15 p. m. Monday, Sept. 23, and will be heard at the same hour Monday through Friday. The programs, originating in the studios of WLW, Cincinnati, will present Jeannine, a brilliant young vocalist. Paul Pearson and his singing orchestra will present the music.

The General Motors Symphony concerts will not be offered in competition with Major Bowes Amateur hour this fall. Last year the symphony, with noted guest soloists, was on the air at 7 p. m., Sundays, the Bowes' hour. This year it will be heard at 9 p. m. Sundays.

Fred Astaire has decided that radio isn't so bad after all and his sponsors have induced him to return for a steady engagement on that Saturday evening cigaret Hit Parade. Fred made four guest appearances during August on this program, and it will be a steady job when he comes back in a fortnight.

2 NEW SERIALS BY BESS FLYNN OPEN TOMORROW

They're 'We Are Four,' 'Bachelor's Children.'

Two new dramatic sketches will make their bow over W-G-N tomorrow. They are both written by Bess Flynn, one of radio's best known actresses and writers, and are called "We are Four" and "Bachelor's Children."

Both will be heard Monday to Friday inclusive. "Bachelor's Children" will be heard at 10:30 a. m. to 10:45 a. m., while "We are Four" will be broadcast from 11:00 a. m. to 11:15 a. m.

The author of these two new dramas is a radio person of considerable fame. Her characterization of "Mother Moynihan" in the W-G-N and Mutual Broadcasting System sketch "Painted Dreams" has brought her national recognition. She is a former actress from the legitimate stage.

A Story of Four Orphans.

"We are Four" is the story of a family of four orphan children. A wealthy grandmother leaves a will in which she leaves the estate to one of the four instead of dividing the money and the conditions which were imposed in the will form the plot for the story. It is a story of Nancy Webster's struggle to keep her brother and two sisters together.

"Bachelor's Children."

"Bachelor's Children" is the story of Dr. Robert Graham, a bachelor physician who takes the orphaned children of his old top-sergeant to raise in return for the sergeant's saving his life during battle.

WILLIAM MILLER NEXT SOLOIST ON "SYMPHONETTE"

William Miller, lyric tenor, well known to Chicago radio listeners because of his appearance on many programs, will be the guest soloist with Henry Weber and the W-G-N concert orchestra on the "Symphonette" at 9:15 p. m. Thursday.

Other featured soloists to be heard during the coming week with the concert orchestra will be Lawrence Salerno, baritone, at 9:30 Tuesday, and Attillio Baggiore, operatic and concert tenor at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday.

WARING IN ACTION

PRO HOCKY TO BE W-G-N FEATURE AGAIN THIS YEAR

Blackhawk's Season to Start Nov. 7.

When the National Professional Hocky league season gets under way in Chicago Nov. 7 W-G-N will again broadcast the home games of the Blackhawks, which are to be played on Sunday evenings on the Chicago Stadium rink. W-G-N will have the exclusive broadcast privileges for the third consecutive season, under an agreement effected between W-G-N officials and Maj. Frederic McLaughlin, president of the Chicago Hocky team.

There will be 16 Sunday evening games on the Stadium rink for the Blackhawks. Bob Elson again will broadcast the games for W-G-N, starting at 9:45 p. m. and continuing until 10:30 p. m. This will enable the listeners to hear, almost in every game, a brief summary of play of the first two periods of the match and a detailed, play by play, report of the final period of the contest.

The final championship series, the playoff games for the league title, also will be broadcast by W-G-N under the agreement if the Chicago team is in the running for the Stanley cup.

"REFLECTIONS" TO MAKE BOW ON WMAQ AT 1:30 P. M.

How "Yes, We Have No Bananas" was concocted from "The Pilgrims' Chorus," "Bring Back My Bonnie to Me," "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls," and "Just an Old Fashioned Garden" and how "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi" was based on a phrase from Liszt's "Liebestraum" will be demonstrated musically in "Reflections," a new weekly program which makes its debut over WMAQ at 1:30 p. m. today.

The program, sponsored by a chain store, will feature the two piano team of Alice Lovan and Helen Morton and the singing of Kaye Storey and Gary Temple, all of whom are well known to the radio audience.

Niela Goodelle Launches New Program Tonight

The première of a new series of informal musical programs starring Niela Goodelle will be presented at 8:45 tonight over WENR and NBC. For her first program Miss Goodelle will sing "As Long As the World Goes Round and Round," "What Is There to Say," "Isn't This a Lovely Day?" and the novelty, "Oh, Suzanna, Dust Off That Old Pianna."

Three Inquiring Visitors on Bob Becker's Program

VIRGINIA CLARK HAS GUESTS IN NEW HOUSE PARTY

One of Chicago's most popular morning programs, the Friendly Neighbor, broadcast over W-G-N at 10 o'clock every weekday morning, will change from transcribed music to a sparkling live-talent variety show, featuring different stars of the radio, stage and screen every week.

Virginia Clark will continue to handle the program. After almost a year and a half on the present show as "The Friendly Neighbor," she becomes mistress of ceremonies and chief star of the new program which will be known as "The Friendly Neighbor's House Party."

Biggest news of the change is that the lovely Virginia, established with the radio public as a dramatic actress, will reveal a singing voice of considerable charm.

Joining Miss Clark on the première of the new show are the musical team of Glad and Woody. Known to fans as "The Songsmiths," this couple is well known for their stage and radio work. Their type of entertainment is remarkable in that nearly all their programs include original songs.

FOUR CAMPUSES TO BE FETED ON COLLEGE HOUR

Radcliffe college, Smith college, the University of Chicago, and Mount Holyoke college will provide the settings for the week of "College Broadcasts" which will be presented by graduates and undergraduates of those institutions over W-G-N beginning tomorrow night. On Monday night Mrs. Harry Dunbugh and Mrs. William Agie will have the leading rôles in a skit honoring Radcliffe. Smith college on Tuesday night will present the Bennett Sisters, well known in radio, as guest stars, and Eleanor Griffenhagen, Ruth Griffenhagen, Evelyn Totman, Katherine Korrady, Nancy Merrick, Barbara Barry, Harriet Kruger, and Elizabeth Heuchling.

On Wednesday George Buck and his quartet will honor the University of Chicago. Graduates of Mount Holyoke will dramatize outstanding events in the lives of two famous graduates, Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, and Miss Mary E. Woolley on Thursday night.

"Book a Week."

Margery Graham, who conducts the "Book a Week" program over W-G-N each week day morning at 9:15 a. m., has selected Zona Gale's "Friendship Village" as the book to be read beginning tomorrow.

W-G-N News Notes

Isham Jones and his famous dance orchestra, known from coast to coast, will be featured on a new program on W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system beginning early in October.

Shep Fields and the Veloz and Yolanda orchestra which is heard nightly over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system from the Empire room at the Palmer house is featuring a new tune known as the "Veolanda." The number was written by Frank Veloz of the famous dancing team of Veloz and Yolanda and Maestro Fields.

Harold Stokes, director of the W-G-N dance orchestra, was the guest of honor at a celebration at his home town of Hillsboro, Ill., over the Labor day holiday week-end.

Ollie Thomas, saxophone player and clarinet soloist with the W-G-N dance orchestra, is a great amateur magician. Ollie delights in mystifying the rest of the boys of the orchestra with his sleight of hand performances between orchestra programs.

Charles Flynn, juvenile of the "We Are Four" cast, the new W-G-N sketch, qualifies easily as one of radio's most enthusiastic sportsmen. Charlie plays a good game of baseball, basketball, tennis, golf, and football, and is an excellent swimmer.

Bob Elson, W-G-N's baseball announcer, is one of the station's most enthusiastic moviegoers. Bob attends every picture première in Chicago's loop and is a regular at all of the major pre-views. He is the walking directory on pictures around the studios and his recommendations on movies are much sought.

Charlie Agnew and his orchestra, who were last heard on the air out of Chicago on W-G-N, are playing a two weeks' engagement at the Peabody hotel in Memphis.

Alice Blue, W-G-N's featured pianist, is a licensed air pilot. Her hobby is flying, although she has been kept so busy with her radio work of late that she hasn't had much time to spend in the air.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and ¾ of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomcat, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you, don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for—25¢. ©1934, C.M.Co.

NEW BARRINGTON BOY SCOUT CABIN TO BE DEDICATED

200 Will Give Program on Thursday Night.

More than 200 boys and girls will take part in a pageant next Thursday evening marking the dedication of the newly completed Boy Scout cabin in Barrington. The program will be given on an outdoor stage erected in South Side park in the rear of the cabin and will begin at 8 o'clock.

"From Youth to Manhood" is the title of the pageant in which Boy and Girl Scouts, Cubs, Sea Scouts, and Campfire Girls will illustrate the ceremonies employed by various nations to induct youths into manhood.

The program also will include a band concert by the Barrington High school band and awarding of Eagle Scout rank, according to Roy Willmering, chairman of the general committee. Mrs. W. A. Fanning will direct the pageant.

Ceremonies Are Listed.

The Barrington Cub pack will act the manhood ceremonies of the Australian bushmen and the Sea Scouts will present the ceremony used in bestowing Greek citizenship. "An Arab Chief Welcomes New Warriors" will be given by Scout troop No. 10.

The conferring of knighthood will be shown by Girl Scout troops No. 1, 2, and 3, and the ceremony of an Indian youth becoming a warrior will be given by Boy Scout troop No. 29 and two tents of Camp Fire girls. Scout troop No. 21 will present a young pioneer's initiation into the estate of manhood.

Cabin Valued at $6,000.

The Scout cabin, which is valued at $6,000, was built with labor furnished by the federal government. Land was donated by the village, and materials furnished by local citizens. It is 35 by 50 feet.

There is a basement workshop where Scouts may work on handicraft projects. Each troop has its own locker room. There is a large fireplace in the main room. It will serve as a clubhouse for Barrington Scouts and meetings are scheduled to be held every afternoon and evening except Saturday and Sunday.

EPISCOPALIANS COLLECT PENCE OFFERING TODAY

Five million pennies have dropped into tin containers, sugar bowls, cups, and what not in Episcopalian homes of Chicago and vicinity during the last two years as daily thank offerings. That is the estimate of S. A. Lyman, executive secretary of the bishop's pence, the unique plan for putting grace and thanksgiving back on the tables of Chicago homes.

Today will close the second year of operation of the plan, and when the coppers which flow into offering plates at that time are counted it is expected the gifts will exceed $50,000.

"Approximately 9,000 families, or an estimated 27,000 persons, have taken part in the plan in the diocese of Chicago," Mr. Lyman said. "In addition to the work accomplished by the pence plan in this diocese it has been adopted in a number of other dioceses and in local churches."

Under the plan each adult member of a family is asked to deposit one penny per meal in a "pence can," which was designed especially for the purpose. On the pence container is a grace and thanksgiving which is to be read before and after the meal, thus instituting the custom which has been discarded in many modern homes.

BAND WILL PLAY AT ST. JOHN BOSCO FETE TOMORROW

The band concert tomorrow evening will be a highlight of the St. John Bosco parish carnival now in progress at Fullerton and Central avenues. The Northwest Town Civic federation is coöperating with the parish members in presenting the concert.

The carnival, which opened last Friday and will continue until Sunday, is the first to be sponsored by the new parish which was founded early in 1934. Proceeds will accrue to the parish building fund and will help pay for the new church and school that are being erected at Belden and McVickers avenues.

The school will be ready for occupation and opened on Sept. 23. It will offer the first five grades and will be taught by five sisters of the order of the Daughters of Our Lady of Providence. The Rev. John V. Sugrue is pastor. His assistants are the Rev. Salvator Formousa and the Rev. Thomas Donovan.

Mrs. Barthel will represent the church in the woman's department of the Chicago church federation and Mrs. Peterson will be delegate to the motion picture council. Mrs. R. E. Ailsworth is the new publicity chairman.

$918,492 SEWER PROJECT ON N. W. SIDE IS APPROVED

Plans Sent to WPA in Washington.

Plans for the extension of lateral sewers in the district bounded by Irving Park boulevard, Harlem avenue, Wellington street, and Pueblo avenue, have been approved by the city and were sent to Washington last week for approval of Works Progress administration officials, according to Oscar P. Hewitt, commissioner of public works.

The project involves more than thirty miles of sewers and will cost approximately $918,492. It will insure employment for at least one thousand men.

Thirty-six streets in the territory, many of them unpaved, will be benefited if the government grants the money, Mr. Hewitt said. The sewers will range from ten inches to three and one-half feet in diameter.

No Tax on Property.

"All of these sewers are to be constructed without special assessment or increased taxes upon the property owners," Mr. Hewitt pointed out.

In this territory the project contemplates the installation of drains from the sewer line to the curb. While the plans call for the construction of sewers under only 14,000 feet of street, approximately 238,000 feet of sewer pipe will be used.

Surveys made in the district preliminary to drawing up plans for the project revealed some of the oldest remains of road construction in the city. Osceola avenue from Roscoe street to 100 feet south of Addison street is what is commonly known as a "corduroy road."

Logs Still in Evidence.

In a "corduroy road" the roadbed itself was constructed by laying hewn logs in a criss-cross fashion, a method employed especially where the ground was soft and marshy, as it was in the Chicago area. The old logs are still in evidence on that stretch of Osceola avenue.

C. & N. W. RETIRES 4 WITH RECORD OF 172 YEARS' WORK

Grant, 3912 Dakin street, passenger trainman, served 48 years; Murray A. Henderson, 4349 North Long avenue, 42, and Robert E. Czoseck, 5115 Pensacola avenue, assistant accountant, 29.

ANNUAL GERMAN DAY PAGEANT TO BE GIVEN SEPT. 22

200 Groups Will Assist Stadium Spectacle.

Chicago's annual German day celebration, which again this year will take the form of a huge historical pageant, to be given in the evening at Chicago Stadium, will be held on Sept. 22, it was announced last week by spokesmen for the German Day association.

F. W. BRUMMEL. [Moffett-Russell.]

The celebration, traditionally one of the city's premier commemorative events, is expected to excel, both in its numerical representation and in the lavishness of its program, any German day fête ever staged here.

More than 200 unit organizations, located throughout the city, will coöperate in presenting the pageant, rehersals for which have been in progress for several weeks. As he did last year, Gustave A. Brand, city treasurer and president of the German Day association, will direct the evening spectacle. Mayor Kelly is the day's honorary chairman.

Rôle of Germans in America.

In music, drama, and song the pageant will emphasiez a German-American theme, depicting in colorful panorama the rôle of the German people in American history from the period of earliest colonization.

Fred W. Brummell, a member of the county board of appeals and honorary vice chairman of the celebration, in a statement last week, struck the keynote of the 1935 observance.

"The German day program is planned and will be participated in by persons of German birth or extraction who are 100 per cent Americans, and who, moreover, strongly disapprove of any German-American citizen involving himself in foreign politics or religious differences.

"While the pageant will commemorate the traditions and heritage of the fatherland, its primary purpose is to emphasize and pay tribute to the achievements of the German people in the United States."

Complete Plans This Week.

Details of the pageant program will be made public this week. Committees and organizations participating also will be announced.

Officers of the German Day association are Mr. Brand, president; Frank Waldherr, vice president; Mrs. Elizabeth Vavrinek, second vice president; Joseph Beron, third vice president; George Iberle, fourth vice president; Adolph Glauche, corresponding secretary; Fred Lindner, program secretary, and J. P. Schlichting, financial secretary.

Others are Herman Loescike, treasurer; Erik K. Huebener, door ward, and Theodore Pilgram, Just Emme, and Adolph Gill, members of the financial committee.

Stop Furnace Worries

By Adding Holland's Amazing New Powered-Air Principle To Your Warm-Air Furnace

Quickly Pays for Itself in Fuel Savings and Adds Years to the Life of a Furnace

● It may seem hard to believe but Holland's Powered-Air unit, added to your old warm-air furnace, will make it work better than when it was new! Here are some of the astonishing things it will do: Heat every room in your home evenly regardless of weather conditions—And so end cold weather "register hugging."

Heat your home much quicker. This will be especially noticeable in the mornings because it will end shivery bathrooms and bundled-up breakfast snatching.

End the menace of cold drafty floors, for it gives even room temperature.

End the weary parading up and down basement stairs to "tend" the furnace—because Powered Air gives you so much better control of your fire and burns so much less fuel.

Which brings up the big economy factor. The Powered-Air principle will reduce your furnace's working temperature from 400 to 600 degrees to 150 or 200 degrees. That not only saves fuel, it saves the furnace. And that's where the Powered-Air principle pays for itself.

You will find that the controlled ventilation from this system will banish stale parched air from your home . . . will make your home much more comfortable and much healthier! And you also get the benefit of Summer ventilation from the same unit.

Sounds like it's too good to be true? You won't think so if you will have it demonstrated in your home! There are over 100,000 now in use. Home owners will back up these claims from their own experience. Perhaps we can refer you to neighbors who can tell you the whole story.

At least don't face the problems of another Winter with an old furnace until you see what Holland's Powered Air will do for you. See how easily you can add it to your warm-air system and have its economies help make the payments. Estimates and demonstrations gladly furnished.

costing less than 3¢ per portion

TIRED of "the same old thing" for lunch and dinner? Racking your brains to think of something different? Here's the answer—Franco-American Spaghetti. Its zestful, savory sauce tempts the appetite, brightens the whole meal.

It's the easiest dish you can serve, too, and just about the most economical. No cooking or fussing; simply heat. A can holding three to four portions is never more than ten cents. Buying all your ingredients for home-made spaghetti plus the cost of cooking them would amount to more than that.

And women frankly admit that Franco-American is even better than their own delectable home-cooked spaghetti or macaroni. The cheese-and-tomato sauce (made with eleven different ingredients) is blended so smoothly, seasoned to such delicate piquancy.

SOUND SLEEP AT NIGHT
—And Energetic Days

Ovaltine is a delicious pure food concentrate approved by thousands of physicians and used in 54 different countries today. When taken as a hot drink at bedtime it promotes sound sleep in a surprisingly short time.

By this method you avoid the use of drugs. And when you awaken in the morning you feel refreshed—clear-eyed, alert—with your nerves calm and mind clear—just the way you should feel after a perfect night's sleep.

Ovaltine is remarkably easy to digest, and because of its unusual food values, it assists nature in rebuilding nerve, brain, and body tissue while you sleep, supplying energy value also.

The following excerpt from a letter voluntarily written by Mr. Edward Felker of Erie, Pa., is typical of hundreds regularly received from delighted users: "The first night I started to use Ovaltine I went to sleep almost at once after I hit the pillow. After I took it for three nights, my nerves were much steadier and my brain was more clear. I highly recommend Ovaltine to persons who suffer from loss of sleep and unsteady nerves."

So outstanding are the results accredited to Ovaltine that, during the World War, it was used as a standard ration for invalid, nerve-shattered soldiers. Thousands of people, men and women, use it regularly to restore vitality when fatigued. And it is also highly recommended by physicians for nervous, under-nourished children—and as a strengthening food for nursing mothers, convalescents, and the aged.

Get a can of Ovaltine at any drug or grocery store today. Or mail the coupon at the right for a 3-day trial supply.

Yes! It's friendly to hands! And kind to clothes! It's the safest way to get beautiful, snow-white washes—that's why you'll be crazy about Fels-Naptha Soap.

Try it—and see what a gorgeous job it does! "Trick" soaps and cheap soaps skip over dirt—they leave specks behind. But Fels-Naptha's richer golden soap and plenty of naptha get ALL the dirt—even the grimiest, stuck-fast kind.

Fels-Naptha washes so gently, you can use it for your daintiest things—silk stockings, lingerie, woolens. Fels-Naptha keeps your hands nice—for there's soothing glycerine in every golden bar.

Change to Fels-Naptha! You'll like it in tub, basin, or machine; for soaking as well as boiling clothes. It's great for dishwashing and all your soap-and-water tasks. Get a supply at your grocer's today!

GOOD POSITIONS Await DeLEE GRADUATES

The unusually fine quality of work which DeLEE students have exhibited at style shows has created a sensation in the beauty profession. The owner of a high quality Chicago shop reflected the attitude of many shop owners when he said, "Never before in all of the years I have been in this business have I seen such superb work." Shop owners are clamoring for DeLEE graduates. We have more calls for operators than we have graduates.

Think what that means to YOU. It means that if you receive training at DeLEE you qualify yourself for one of these good paying, pleasant positions. Shop owners KNOW that DeLEE graduates, trained personally by Madame Louise, are genuine beauty experts, capable of pleasing even the most fastidious clientele.

You, Too, Can Have a Good Paying Position

Why worry about finding work? Why wear out your shoes answering ads? Why struggle along with low pay? Learn beauty culture at DeLEE and qualify yourself for a good paying, pleasant position. No matter what you have been doing—teaching, bookkeeping, stenography—you can learn beauty culture and assure yourself a happy, prosperous future. Previous experience or a high school education not necessary.

You'll enjoy learning beauty culture and hairdressing at DeLEE. Classrooms are light, airy, clean, and colorful. You associate with hand picked, high type girls. You receive INDIVIDUAL, PERSONAL instruction under Madame Louise, internationally famous beauty expert. You are not herded in a classroom with a hundred other girls. YOU REALLY LEARN, and you learn easily, quickly, and thoroughly. Tuition is reasonable and terms can be arranged to suit your convenience.

Visit DeLEE tomorrow. You'll enjoy the visit and it won't obligate you in any way.

Work Relief Is to Come During Campaign.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—State Highway Engineer Ernst Lieberman today made public his $10,300,000 "easy money" program for the construction of 87 railroad grade separations in Illinois. It is awaiting federal approval as is a list of road projects to be built with $8,700,000 from the works progress administration.

For an estimate of the jobs to be created by this work, the state engineer referred to the federal requirement that for each $1,400 WPA should provide the equivalent of a man-year of employment. On this basis 7,357 men will be engaged in grade separation construction and 6,213 on the paving and grading projects.

Relief During Campaign.

Because of the many delays in getting the projects under contract, most of the unemployment relief will come next year when President Roosevelt and Gov. Horner are campaigning for reëlection. Highway slab can not be laid in winter. Although the grade separations can be started in cold weather, it takes about a year to finish one of these structures.

An even dozen of the proposed structures are in Cook county. They are as follows, listed with the estimated cost:

Viaduct for Crawford avenue near 123d street in Alsip, Ill., over the Baltimore and Ohio Chicago trunk railroad, $113,000.

Viaduct for 75th street near Kedzie avenue over the belt railroad, $161,000.

Viaduct for 147th street over the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad in Dolton, $210,000.

Metropolitan Area Jobs.

Subway for U. S. 66 under the Alton and Santa Fe railroads south of Joliet, $513,000.

Viaduct for Ill. 65 over the E., J. & E. south of Aurora, $81,000.

Viaduct for Ill. 54 over the Chicago and Great Western railroad in Elmhurst, $110,000.

Viaduct for Ill. 53 over the C. & G. W. in Lombard, $125,000.

Viaduct for Ill. 71 over the Burlington in Shabbona, De Kalb county, $108,800.

Viaduct for county road north of Mundelein over Soo Line, $197,000.

In addition to the $19,000,000 of WPA funds, the state highway department still has $3,600,000 worth of work to be contracted under the public works setup of the old national recovery administration.

Trafic Violations Observed

At 5 p. m. Wednesday, during the height of rush hour trafic, a car bearing license 1-054-644, issued to David D. Walcher, 1329 East 53d street, failed to stop at a stop sign at State street and North avenue.

Last Monday at 6:10 p. m. a sedan bearing license 523-389, issued to Thomas C. Charles, 2323 Commonwealth avenue, deliberately drove through a red light at Irving Park boulevard and Clarendon avenue, an important business intersection.

At 11:20 a. m. on Wednesday, a sedan with license 707-621 parked on the wrong side of the street in front of 1018 North State street, a carline street. The license was issued to Max Klausch, 1018 North State street.

An auto bearing license 391-137, issued to Joseph F. West, 6809 Perry avenue, ran through a red light at 75th and South State streets at 11:45 a. m. Monday.

The fact that Ohio is a busy through street did not deter the driver of a car bearing license 1-131-938, issued to Florence A. Luke, 4325 Ellis avenue, from failing to stop at Ohio and Wabash at 5 p. m., a busy hour, on Wednesday.

At 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon a sedan bearing license 815-998 was parked blocking the pedestrian walk at Illinois and St. Clair streets. The license was issued to Walter Wolf, 1122 Winona street.

At 2:30 p. m. Wednesday a car bearing license 569-975, issued to Philemon Hearn, 6078 Ridge avenue, obeyed a red light at Ridge and Howard street, but kept edging through the light, preventing children from crossing on the green safety light. By the time the light changed to permit the car to go it was already in the middle of the street.

AUTO FATIGUE TEST

ASK MIDDLE CURB TO PREVENT AUTO SPILLS ON CURVES

T-Rail in Center Would Lessen Passing Evil.

The Chicago Motor club proposed to State Highway Engineer Lieberman last week that old railroad rails might be anchored in the center of pavements on sharp curves and at the crest of hills as a precautionary measure against head-on collisions.

"Statutes and common sense require a motorist to stay on his own half of the pavement on curves and on ascending hills, but there are occasional violations which all too frequently end in disaster," said George Barton, engineer for the club. "The only 100 per cent effective regulation of trafic is a physical control.

Virtually "Fool Proof."

"On the two lane slabs, with a T rail in the center, cars would be held in a single line. It would be almost impossible for the reckless, the drunk, or the stupid driver to overtake and to pass another automobile on a curve or hill exposing himself to a head-on collision with some innocent and careful motorist approaching from the opposite side of the hill or curve.

"On the four lane pavements, there is a similar need for a physical separation of the lanes for opposing streams of trafic, but it is not so urgent. There generally is room to pass a slower machine without swinging to the left of the center line. However, even on the wide slab, reckless drivers sometimes use the left half of the pavement; some type of curb, parkway, or a T rail in the center would contribute to safety."

Lieberman Cites Faults.

Mr. Lieberman was not impressed with the suggestion. He pointed out difficulties in snow removal with a center rail. These difficulties, however, would not be prohibitive.

"Cars accidentally hitting one of these rails at high speed would turn a flipflop," said the state engineer. "Warning signals wouldn't prevent drivers from hitting the rails any more than signs prevent all motorists from passing on hills and curves.

"We're strongly in favor of divided highways, however. Twenty foot slabs built in the future might have a parkway in the center on the curves and hills. They can't have such an esplanade for all of their length because there would be no passing of slow machines.

Favors Center Parkway.

"I'm in favor of dividing all new forty foot roads with a parkway such as is being built on the Skokie road in Lake county. In widening a slab from two to four lanes, I want to build a separate, parellel twenty foot pavement wherever right of way can be obtained, rather than adding ten feet to each side of the old road.

"Ten feet was added to each side of the old roads in the Chicago metropolitan areas a few years ago because the need for widening was so urgent that it was inadvisable to wait for acquisition of additional right of way. On some of those widened jobs, the old pavement in the center is disintegrating rapidly. Sometime in the future I'd like to acquire additional right of way, add another ten feet to each side of the slab, and then tear out the old center strips for a parkway."

NEWS AND VIEWS

The first large commercial application of a new rust proofing process has been made by Chevrolet Motor company with the installation of special equipment for the "cromodizing" of fenders, running boards, and other sheet metal parts. The new process differs widely from others used in the automotive industry in that the rust proofing is accomplished as the parts pass on a conveyor through a series of spray booths, and the treatment, instead of forming a brittle coating over the surface, combines with the metal and changes it chemically to form a rust proof surface.

Numerous manufacturing advantages and extra benefits to the car owner are claimed for the new process, which was developed by the Chevrolet manufacturing department in conjunction with the laboratories of the American Chemical Paint company and tested by the General Motors research laboratories. Since the treatment of the sheet metal is the last step before the enameling of the parts, the cromodizing equipment is installed at the assembly plant rather than at the manufacturing plant where the stampings are made.

Six hundred men who have been in continuous employment of the Studebaker company for fifteen years were guests of the corporation recently at an entertainment staged in South Bend. The families and friends of the veteran workers also attended.

One of several features of the evening was the presentation of silver badges, denoting fifteen years' continuous employment, to the veterans. The presentations were made by Paul G. Hoffman, president, and H. S. Vance, chairman of the board of the Studebaker corporation.

Over four hundred service and parts representatives of Ford dealers east of the Mississippi river, including 25 from the Chicago branch area, visited Atlantic City Sept. 5 and 6 in recognition of their attainments in a recent service contest among Ford dealer employés, according to W. K. Edmunds, in charge of Ford operations in the Chicago area.

Highlights of the two day stay were an inspection of the Ford service display there, which has attracted nearly half a million Atlantic City visitors this summer, and a breakfast meeting at which the principal talk was made by W. J. Cameron of the Ford Motor company. Mr. Cameron presents the weekly talks which are a feature of the Ford Sunday Evening Hour, broadcast of which will be resumed Sept. 29.

An American automobile has again taken the limelight away from the British with the establishment of a new world's speed record for 24 hours on the Bonneville salt flats, Utah.

The car is a super-charged Duesenberg special speedster and the record is a full day and night's running at the terrific speed of 135.47 miles per hour average.

The 24 hour run was made on the great salt desert near Wendover, Utah. Ab Jenkins was the driver, assisted by Tony Gulotta, of Speedway fame. The 135.47 mile per hour average nosed out the record of 134.85 miles per hour made recently on the same desert speedway by John Cobb, British sportsman, in his 700 horsepower special built Napier racer.

VOICE OF TRAFIC

CAUTION LIGHTS SHOULD BURN.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Now that our trafic experts are contemplating upon the advisability of giving Chicago a right turn on the red light I'd like to suggest that the amber or caution light be left on in Sheridan road instead of shutting them off entirely, as is the custom in the small hours of the morning. This would help to remind motorists coming from the side streets that they are approaching a dangerous thoroughfare.

And I would like to know why signal lights are kept in operation all hours of the night on deserted corners like Kinzie and Dearborn and on Canal street when a lot of busier corners haven't any signal lights whatsoever. ED MOHR.

GRUESOME DETAILS.

Hinsdale, Ill., Aug. 26.—This is in hearty commendation of your playing up the results of auto accidents with hospital pictures and stories of the gruesome details which most people know nothing about.

In Ohio the white crosses at scenes of fatal accidents have been removed as causing depression to motorists' spirits. What is more needed? I ask you!

Only two days ago I encountered a wild woman with better car and clothes and children than her conduct would suggest, weaving in and out on a busy thoroughfare, swaying back and forth without warning. I have had other narrow escapes or great provocations from these silken bullies. Pray help me make their faces red! It may save them as well as others from faces mashed to an unrecognizable pulp. H. R. HOLE.

HOOSIER AVOIDS CHICAGO.

Valparaiso, Ind., Aug. 14.—My friends asked me for a solution to the police pest in and around Chicago—ticket for parking, lights, and so forth.

"Don't come to Chicago or don't come near Chicago." That is the solution, and I am now very happy, having lived in the state of Indiana, and I have not been to or near a trafic police pest court in the last four years. During those four years I have lived in Indiana. RICHARD HARMON.

NO DIRECT ROAD BETWEEN AURORA AND SOUTH SIDE

23 Miles Without East-West Pavement.

BY HAL FOUST.

Chicago's south side and the Fox river valley from Aurora south are without direct pavement connections. In any other section of the state such populations would long ago have presented a political front to Springfield that would have resulted in a concrete highway.

Although the main trafic streams into the metropolis are toward the loop, this city has residence and business districts spread along twenty-five miles of lake front, each district originating more trafic than a majority of the municipalities of Illinois. The south side is such a source of trafic.

The most southerly east and west pavement extending from Chicago to the Fox river valley is Roosevelt road. To the north is North avenue. Still farther north is the Evanston-Elgin road, routed to the lake front two miles above the Chicago-Evanston limits.

Geography and Politics.

South of Roosevelt road is Ogden avenue, but it bears to the north toward the loop in proceeding eastward from Aurora. The first pavement south of Roosevelt road extending east and west for any distance consists of the Lincoln highway from Dyer, Ind., through Chicago Heights to Joliet and thence west with Ill. 69 markers. This is twenty-three miles south of Roosevelt road.

Geography as well as politics accounts for the failure to build a through pavement west from Chicago's south side. The natural barrier is the Des Plaines river valley that carries the Illinois and Michigan canal, the sanitary and ship canal and two railroads in addition to the river.

There are many pavements, maybe too many, extending west as far as the Des Plaines river valley, but bridges are few. There is no slab road west from the valley for any appreciable distance in the thirty miles of river from Roosevelt road to Joliet.

$1,000,000 Mannheim Bridge.

On 55th street motorists can drive west into Archer avenue to Summit and there bridge the river in Lawndale avenue at Summit, Ill. Thence to Aurora is a circuitous route north to Ogden avenue and thence southwest to the Fox river valley.

Seventy-ninth street leads to the new $1,000,000 Mannheim road bridge and an even longer detour to Ogden avenue to reach Aurora. The same long detour, or rather a longer detour, is involved in using an old bridge at Spring Forest, which is at 87th street, but must be approached from the east in 95th street, since 87th is not open.

The state is building a $700,000 bridge to connect the new Ill. 54, a north and south route, with the projected Ill. 52, to extend east from the river near the south bank of the Calumet Sag channel. But there is no pavement west from this bridge.

Autoists living in the suburbs in the southern end of Cook county, in driving to Aurora or nearby Fox river valley points, must either travel gravel and crushed stone byways or add considerable mileage by swinging south through Joliet. The Tribune roadster covered the narrow gravel direct route last week and there was much evidence that most motorists who make the trip notwithstanding the lack of suitable facilities prefer the longer journey by pavement.

Just a Pretty Drive.

It was a pretty drive with recreational appeal for idle hours, but it was not efficient motor transportation of commercial values such as would accrue at both terminals of a modern pavement from the far south side directly west to, say, Oswego.

The Chicago Motor club suggested Oswego because such a road there would connect with U. S. 34, an important cross-country route. The pavement would be about three miles south of the Aurora city limits. For travel from Aurora to Chicago's south side it could be reached conveniently on U. S. 30, which goes southeast from Aurora.

The volume of trafic on any proposed road can be fairly accurately calculated by considering the populations at the terminals and along the route. On this basis such an east and west pavement in northern Will county and southern Cook county would warant the investment, according to the motor club. In addition, there is every reason to expect that such a road would be used for recreational travel.

There are seven east and west pavements between 55th street and the Lincoln highway leading east from Archer avenue on the east bank of the Des Plaines river valley. Surely they carry enough trafic wishing to continue west to justify at least one pavement on west from the Des Plaines.

CHECK VOLUME SHOWS BUSINESS GAIN LAST WEEK

Money Turnover Rises Quarter Billion.

Business activity throughout the nation as measured by the volume of money changing hands through checks increased slightly last week over the previous seven days and gained sharply over last year, the federal reserve board's weekly report indicates.

Debits to individual account in the week ended Sept. 4 amounted to $6,782,919,000. A week earlier the total stood at $6,519,951,000, while in the week ended Sept. 5, 1934, a total of $5,621,155,000 was shown.

Aided by Sept. 1 Payments.

A portion of the week to week gain resulted from inclusion of two business days in September. Heavy interest and dividend payments are usually made around Sept. 1, while month-end settlements account for an appreciable amount. The upturn over last year results almost wholly from a greater volume of business being transacted in 1935.

Banks in the Chicago district, the seventh reserve area, reported even greater gains for both periods. The volume of debits by 161 banks in forty-one clearing house cities amounted to $1,073,040,000, an increase of 27.9 per cent over the previous week, when $839,259,000 was withdrawn.

Excluding Elgin, Ill., which was not included in the 1934 comparison, the total for the forty cities aggregated $1,071,918,000, compared with $723,937,000 in the corresponding week last year, an increase of 48.1 per cent.

Reports by Cities.

Chicago reported $748,279,000, against $455,943,000. Des Moines debits totaled $17,390,000, compared with $97,022,000; Detroit had $130,332,000, against $97,022,000; Indianapolis reported $27,365,000, against $26,162,000, and Milwaukee, $42,950,000, compared with $39,343,000.

Bank clearings in Chicago last week exceeded the previous week and were well above the same period last year. The total for the week was $248,600,000, compared with $220,100,000 in the week ended Aug. 31 and $198,500,000 in the same 1934 period.

CHICAGO BANK STOCKS HIGHER; MARKET ACTIVE

Chicago bank stocks closed the week at higher prices and in better demand. First National advanced four points from the preceding Saturday's level to 172 bid and 176 asked. Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company closed at 69½ bid, 71½ asked, for a rise of 1½ points.

Harris Trust and Savings was unchanged at 250 bid, 265 asked. Northern Trust company turned 5 points lower, contrary to the general trend, closing at 525 bid and 535 asked. Terminal National was unchanged. Chicago Title and Trust improved three points to a close of 123 bid and 126 asked.

FHA REPORTS GAIN IN MORTGAGES MADE FOR CHICAGO REGION

A steady increase in the volume of business being transacted under the Federal Housing administration's better housing program was reported by the FHA yesterday for the northern Illinois district office. For the week ended Sept. 3 the report shows a dollar volume of $395,010 in mortgages selected for appraisal with fees paid, mortgages accepted for insurance, and premium paying recorded mortgages.

Mortgages accepted for insurance numbered 33, amounting to $181,700, of which 23 for $112,000 were for refinancing of existing mortgages and 10 for $69,700 were for new construction. Premium paying recorded mortgages—that is, mortgage loans placed with lending institutions—totaled 21 in the amount of $84,760. Of these 14 for $62,000 were for refinancing and 7 for $22,760 covered new construction.

During the same week a total of 26 new mortgages was selected for appraisal, with fees paid, with a dollar value of $128,550. Of this amount 21 mortgages for $101,350 were for refinancing and the remaining five for $27,200 were for new construction.

The totals of business under Title II. for the northern Illinois district to date are: Refinancing, 595 projects totaling $2,819,413, and new construction, 246 projects amounting to $1,564,345, or a grand total of 841 projects in the amount of $4,383,758.

COTTON CENSUS SHOWS INDUSTRY MOVES TO EAST

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The continued eastward movement of the world's cotton industry and the striking fall in consumption of American cotton is revealed in the preliminary summary of the world cotton census issued recently by the International Federation of Master Cotton Spinners.

While the United States, Great Britain, and European countries show an appreciable decrease in number of spindles during the year ended July 31, 1935, Japan was forging rapidly ahead. Between January and July this year she increased her spindles by 414,000 to 9,944,000, which is almost double the total recorded for 1926.

Chinese spindles jumped up to 4,800,000, while India, which has experienced progressive expansion, now has 9,613,000.

The world's cotton consumption for the 12 months ended July 31 increased by 828,000 bales, but consumption of American cotton dropped by 1,627,000 to 10,852,000 bales.

COTTON TRADING CONSISTS OF EVENING UP OPERATIONS

Evening up operations for the government crop estimate due to be issued at 11 a. m. Chicago time Monday furnished a good part of the trade in cotton yesterday. Strength in stocks grain and in Liverpool was responsible for a somewhat higher average of prices in the early trading, but the buying was not aggressive and at the close Chicago was unchanged to 6 points lower, while other markets were 2 to 8 points lower.

The trade is looking for the government report to suggest a yield somewhat in excess of the 11,798,000 bales indicated a month ago. Last year's final returns were 9,636,000 bales.

Farmers who have raised premium cotton this season will secure over 12 cents per pound for their product, according to an announcement by the AAA. They are entitled to keep all of the premium secured above the average price paid for middling ⅞ inch cotton, and the AAA will give them the difference between the basic grade and the 12 cent level. Spot cotton closed unchanged to 5 points lower, with New Orleans 10.60 cents, Houston and Galveston 10.55 cents, and New York 10.70 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

MANUFACTURERS SPEND MILLIONS ON FACTORIES

About 100 New Plants Under Construction.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

After its long period of quietness through the depression, the industrial real estate market is showing signs of revival, according to brokers engaged in this field. In the various industrial districts there has been considerable development in the way of expansion and improvement of existing plants, although a substantial number of factories has been installed.

Taking the whole Chicago industrial picture there have been a number of spectacular projects put under way this year. Among these are the $40,000,000 improvements which the American Sheet and Tin Plate company, United States Steel corporation subsidiary, is installing at its Gary works; the $2,000,000 plant of the Electro-Motive corporation at McCook, and the $1,000,000 beef slaughter house which Armour & Co. is erecting in the stockyards.

100 Factories Being Built.

According to the F. W. Dodge corporation a conservative estimate places the number of factories now under construction in Chicago at about 100. The costs of these factories range from $15,000 to $150,000.

Of the larger enterprises, the American Sheet and Tin Plate company is completing this year the first phase of its expansion program. This work, largely of a construction character, will cost around $20,000,000. The second phase, largely to do with fitting the plant with new machinery and improvements in mill operations, will be started shortly after the first of the year at a cost of about $20,000,000. Other steel industry expansion includes the expenditure of about $1,000,000 by the Republic Steel corporation on improvements to its plants in East Chicago and South Chicago.

Other Important Expansions.

Other important expansions include construction by the Walgreen company of an addition to its laboratory at West 47th place and St. Louis avenue in the Central Manufacturing district in which it will manufacture a considerable part of its goods. This building will contain 100,000 square feet and will represent an investment in land and building of about $500,000 with another $1,000,000 for equipment.

The Fleischmann Malting company is erecting a malting works at 2153 West 51st street which will cost about $500,000. Enlargement of the Wander company plant at Villa Park will cost about $250,000, and the Olson Rug company is spending about $415,000 on its plant.

Projects Listed for Year.

Other important projects listed for this year include the following plant expansions and cost: E. J. Brach & Sons, candy, $250,000; Wilson & Co., $250,000; Mills Novelty, $100,000; Chicago Printed String company, $150,000; Griffin Wheel company, $100,000; Liquid Carbonic, $125,000; Cromwell Paper company, $100,000, and Air Reduction, $250,000.

In addition to the Walgreen plant, the Central Manufacturing district reports the following actions regarding its properties:

Hollup corporation, welding rods, occupied in January a plant three times the size of its former facilities.

Loose-Wiles Biscuit company purchased the property at 3659 South Ashland avenue in exercise of option.

Vacant Plant Purchased.

Federal Foundry Supply company recently purchased the Illinois Nail company plant at 3540 South Morgan street, which has been vacant.

In addition, the Chicago Carton company in June completed payments on its $750,000, plant, occupied in the middle of 1934, and the J. R. Short Milling company completed payments on its plant at 3739 South Wall street.

The Clearing Industrial district reports in the first eight months of 1935 there has been some form of construction under way every working day. The greater part of this construction consists of additions to existing plants. Among the companies expanding or improving their factories in the district are the Allan B. Wrisley company, L. A. Young Spring and Wire company, the National Aluminate company, Lamson & Sessions, Perkins Products company, and the Amalgamated Roofing company.

New Tanning Plant.

Among the new factories on which work will be started shortly is one which the J. Greenebaum Tanning company of Milwaukee will erect at 3057 North Rockwell street at a cost of about $100,000.

Louis B. Beardslee, who specializes in industrial real estate, says that contrary to the general opinion there is no large excess of modern industrial property available in the Chicago market. He says this applies particularly to one story industrial buildings, which have been greatly in demand.

Money to Loan
$10,000 to $1,000,000 each on first mortgage on properties in the Loop or in any part of Chicago or suburbs. Very low rates of interest. Loans must be exceptionally well secured. Also reorganization loans and loans on residences.

SEARS LEASES OLD HARTMAN BUILDING GROUP

The leasing of 500,000 square feet of space at 39th street and South Western avenue by Sears Roebuck & Co. was announced yesterday by M. C. Penticoff, manager of the Chicago retail district of the company. The three buildings included in the deal formerly were occupied by Hartman's Furniture and Rug company.

"A marked increase in our business in the Chicago area in recent months, coupled with indications of continued business growth, has necessitated this move, which will double the warehouse capacity of Sears' Chicago department stores," Penticoff said.

The property consists of a three story office building, a one story garage that will accommodate over 100 delivery trucks, and a seven story and basement warehouse. Alterations are now in progress and it is expected the buildings will be occupied by Oct. 1.

Canterbury Tale Murals to Feature New Inn

A restaurant and taproom of unusual design is being installed in the premises at 178 West Randolph street. To be called the Canterbury inn, the new café will be featured by murals depicting characters and scenes from Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales." The main dining room will have a depth of 150 feet. A feature will be a stage setting located in the window space above the entrance.

Two Buildings to Be Erected on Devon Ave.

An important building development for the south side of Devon avenue from Western avenue to Artesian avenue was announced yesterday by Maurice H. Berkson of Coen-Berkson & Co., Inc., real estate firm. At the southwest corner of Devon and Western a one story building will be erected at a cost of $75,000 and at the southeast corner of Devon and Artesian a building to cost $90,000 will be put up.

The Devon and Western building will be erected by Clarence Beck, owner of the ground, on a site fronting 75 feet on Devon and 112 feet on Western. Work will be started about Oct. 1 as soon as a lease on a barbecue stand on the ground expires. Arthur Niemz is drawing plans for the building. A feature will be a tower illuminated by neon lights at night.

At the Devon-Artesian corner a building will be erected by a syndicate which purchased the ground from Beck. This structure will front 123½ feet on Devon and 112 feet on Artesian. The architects are Loewenberg & Loewenberg. Work is expected to be started about Oct. 1.

Both buildings will be connected by a structure now occupied by the Kroger-Consumers company and will form a part of the Beck property. The Coen-Berkson company is agent for the renting of the two buildings, which are expected to be largely occupied by chain organizations.

Radio Firm Rents House on Michigan

A near north side landmark, the old residence at the southwest corner of Michigan avenue and Huron street, is to be remodeled immediately into an elaborate showroom for the Zenith Radio Distributing corporation, according to an announcement made yesterday by Eugene F. McDonald Jr., president of the Zenith Radio corporation.

McDonald said a lease has just been closed on the property with Leslie Hanawalt.

Philip B. Maher, architect, has prepared plans for the remodeling, which will convert the old-fashioned residence into a structure in the modern manner, the design being reminiscent of the buildings of A Century of Progress. The general effect will be black and white. The greater part of the building will be finished in white cement, with black granite used as trim.

Will Be Flood Lighted.

Flood lights will be used at night to illuminate the building.

The structure will be used as the new home of the Chicago and northern Illinois distributors of Zenith products. There will be large show windows on the Michigan avenue side in which a number of radios will be on view.

A new product of the company, a device which will enable farmers and others living in the country, whose homes are not wired, to charge their batteries by a windmill attachment, also will be displayed. In the new device a generator is attached to a propeller which derives its power from the wind and the generator in turn charges the battery. It is claimed the new device will enable country people to enjoy the same uninterrupted radio service as city dwellers, who are able to plug their sets in on power lines.

Old Arnold Home.

The main floor of the building will be devoted to display purposes, while the second and third floors will be used for offices. The old residence is said once to have been occupied by Isaac N. Arnold, one time congressman and friend of Lincoln. In recent years it has been used by women's apparel and interior decorator firms.

The Bowes Realty company represented the lessee and Judson F. Stone the lessor. The construction work is in the hands of the B-W Construction company. Completion is expected in about a month.

WALTER S. CARR LEASES FLAT AT 1301 ASTOR

A number of north side residential leases were reported closed recently by Miss Cornelia Enzinger, resident broker for the Ambassador hotel. Walter S. Carr, railroad supply man, leased for three years the Frederic Clay Bartlett apartment at 1301 Astor street. Carl Meyer, member of the law firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt, leased a duplex apartment at 2430 Lake View avenue. Phelps Dunham has leased a house at 103 Bellevue place and B. E. Bensinger of the Brunswick-Balke-Collender company has leased the house at 1421 Astor street from Alexander Smith. In addition, Walter Frazier, architect, and Sidney Heap have leased apartments in the Ambassador.

PARTLY FINISHED BUILDINGS REAL ESTATE PROBLEM

Uncompleted at Time Owners Lost Funds.

A real estate problem which is raising much conjecture in building and realty circles as to its ultimate solution is that affecting buildings on which work was started about the time of the 1929 stock market crash, but which could not be completed because their builders ran out of funds.

These structures raise the ghostly skeleton work of their unfinished frames in many parts of the city, mute reminders of the great building boom which swept over the city in the "twenties." Now they constitute a white elephant for the real estate market and a problem for contractors, builders, and real estate owners.

It has been estimated there are 125 of such unfinished buildings in all parts of the city, ranging from tall apartments structures to the more common three flat buildings. As they now stand many of these buildings are eyesores and real estate men say they are a detriment to neighborhoods.

In the meantime, the partially finished structures represent a very large investment of captial on which no return is being received. It is stated that only an improvement in rents will make it profitable to go ahead with their construction. However, the city building department reports in recent weeks there has been some show of interest on the part of building interests, some inquiries having been received as to what will be necessary to go ahead with work. Such inquirers were told in most cases work can proceed.

Few to Go to Land Owners.

Few of the major unfinished buildings are likely to revert to the original owners of the ground on which they stand, according to real estate men, for a number of reasons. First, in many cases the ground was paid for so that a clear title could be shown in applying for mortgages. Then there are mechanics' liens placed against properties by contractors who were not paid for the work they performed.

Real estate men say in cases of concrete and steel construction it will be possible to go ahead if rents warant. However, there will be some disadvantages, including the difficulty in making changes from original plans to accommodate future whims in apartment design.

Buildings Damaged by Weather.

As to the smaller buildings, which the weather has been allowed to enter, plaster work has been destroyed and plumbing damaged in many cases. Realty men say it will be difficult to accomplish much in the way of salvage in such cases. And for all uncompleted buildings the longer they stand exposed to the weather the more difficult it will be to salvage them.

Owners of most uncompleted properties are not paying taxes, which will add another difficulty to their rehabilitation. The taxes levied against these properties are the rates applied against unimproved lands.

Requests from the city building department that uncompleted buildings be either torn down or finished do not get far for several reasons. Owners say they cannot complete the buildings because they have no funds and contractors say if the buildings are razed they will have no security against which they can enforce payment for their work.

Novel Weaves Mark End of Scratchy Wools; New Fabrics Soft, Air Cooled

By RHEA SEEGER.

WOOL gathering shoppers can start any day now. They'll find some of the most interesting fabrics ever unpacked, some of the most exciting new colors and color combines, and unquestionably the trickiest textures ever presented. Woolens used to be synonymous with scratchiness, with a certain amount of discomfort and too great warmth, but that's all changed. Smooth, soft woolens, as soft and as easily cut and managed as satin or heavy silk, are abundant. Thin woolens, as air cooled as anything in cotton mesh or open textured summer materials, have still the cozy comfort of wool without any of its old suffocating thickness.

Smooth woolens make the ideal first fall dresses . . . thicker wools with bumpy or patterned textures make the swanky, casually smart country and spectator as well as sports clothes, while the thick, warm, suedelike textures fashion the coats and out-of-doors clothes that will keep you warm and snug on the coldest day.

Checkered Tweeds Will Wear Indefinitly.

These are a few of the woolen fabrics ready for your fall wardrobe. No. 1 . . . smooth, plaid wool ready for gay street outfits of plaid wool skirt harmonized to velveteen jacket or swagger coat. Or they may be used for a college or school dress, with the plaid making one of the youthful plaited skirts and shirtwaist blouse tops. No. 2 . . double crossed, high colored, semi-smooth, thin wool in grand one color selections . . . green, henna, American beauty red, bright blue, violet, and even old gold. No. 3 . . . one of the tricky new embroidered effects . . . a solid, one color background wool, spaced with contrasting wool dots clipped to make uneven thread edges.

No. 4 . . . checkered tweed for swagger topcoats, for greatcoats with capes, and for full, swinging travel capes. It's extra warm and colorful, and it will wear for years. No. 5 . . . another huge plaid wool a bit thicker than No. 1, but equally as good for campus clothes. It's perfect for separate skirts or jackets or capes or coats. No. 6 . . . a novelty weave in dark colors, with a diagonal rough pattern, suitable for coat dresses and capes and cape coats. No. 7 . . . a smooth flannel wool in many high colors for bright, contrasting tailored dresses to wear under fur capes or fur trimmed coats. No. 8 . . . another grand travel tweed for a cape or cape coat, or the greatcoat model. The white thread is especially effective against the somber background.

Brown and Golden Beige in Herringbone.

No. 9 . . . a monotone mixture, also a splendid choice for travel clothes and street coats and spectator sports coats. No. 10 . . . uneven cord texture in a thin wool for fall street and daytime dresses. No. 11 . . . most unusual and as smart as anything in satin or imported silk, this thin wool is embroidered in silky, matching French knots. This sort of material needs no trimming. No. 12 . . . another dotted pattern, this. Three contrasting colored dots are embroidered against a plain, one color background, usually dark. No. 13 . . . a broken, square checked pattern in rich fruit shades.

No. 14 . . . an all purpose herringbone patterned tweed. One swatch was in brown and golden beige color combine. Tiny, uneven, contrasting dots occur at widely spaced intervals and make for color. No. 15 . . . another embroidered dotted wool similar to No. 3, only in other colors. No. 16 . . . hairy, thin wool of one dark shade contrasted with vari-colored, embroidered, uneven outline dots.

No. 17 . . . wiry, thin wool, in one swatch frosted with a silvery white checked pattern. It comes in lovely new fall shades including a grape green. No. 18 . . . a bumpy and moderately thick tweed wool mixture, frequently seen with scarlet and gold and white nubs brightening up a deep tobacco brown background. No. 19 . . . another large, many colored plaid—a soft, smooth wool for dresses, separate plaited skirts and for use as a lining and facing for collars and cuffs.

JOTTINGS ON AUTUMN STYLES FOR SHOPPERS FROM 6 TO 60

- Slickers come in time for the return to school—in nice, bright colors and big plaids. There are also berets to match the oiled silk raincoats and matching, child's size umbrellas of the same colorful, waterproof material.
- Tiny turban hats have the trimming pushed away down in front and then covered with a tiny wisp of a veil. Colored flowers in bright velvets, copied from the popular models of last summer, are used for headlights.

Hair Brush for Juveniles Especially Constructed to Stimulate the Scalp.

WILL careful curling, relentless brushing, and some maternal prayer transform the straight haired baby into a curly head?

There seem to be two schools of thought on the question. There are those who say it can be done, who claim that as the baby locks are trained so will the adult hair be inclined. Some mothers claim that they created their daughters' curls with their own two hands and a little brush. And it does seem reasonable that in hair that is almost straight, with perhaps just a mite of curl that asserts itself when the hair is damp, there's an excellent chance for waves to be trained into existence by careful nurturing.

Brushing Primary In Giving Luster and Health to Hair.

In any case, since a bit of curl is much to be coveted, it's well worth trying. Certainly the brushing incidental to the training of curls in childhood will start the youngster's crowning glory off on precisely the right foot. The wispiest, straightest, most colorless hair will profit by religious daily brushings, and lucky is the child who early gets the habit!

It's to foster hair glamor by the sound routine of good hair habits that the manufacturers of one of the best brushes on the market have recently introduced a specially sized brush for children. It's light in weight and of a size that presents no problems to childish hands.

Bristles Constructed to Give Most Stimulation to the Scalp.

The bristles are uneven and set in wavelike formation to facilitate penetration to the scalp. It's this massaging and exercising, by the way, that makes a scalp healthy and hair glamorous with luster. The narrow wooden back makes this brush tremendously easy to use correctly, with the necessary vibratory motion.

While it is inexpensive this brush is one of the best on the market. Keeping it clean is simple; suds and warm water leave it undamaged. We'd strongly recommend one for every child in every household, especially the little girls who'll one day want glamor in their hair!

[For information about this child's hairbrush telephone Eleanor Nangle, Superior 0100, or write her in care of The Chicago Tribune.]

The right kind of a brush and the correct method of brushing are tremendously important to the business of coaxing curls into the small girl's hair. A new brush, made especially for children, has the stiff, uneven bristles that massage the scalp, promote luster, and, if the gods are kind, encourage the coveted curls. This brush is light in weight and easily manageable in a child's hands. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

TEMPTING FOODS SERVED UP CHARMINGLY

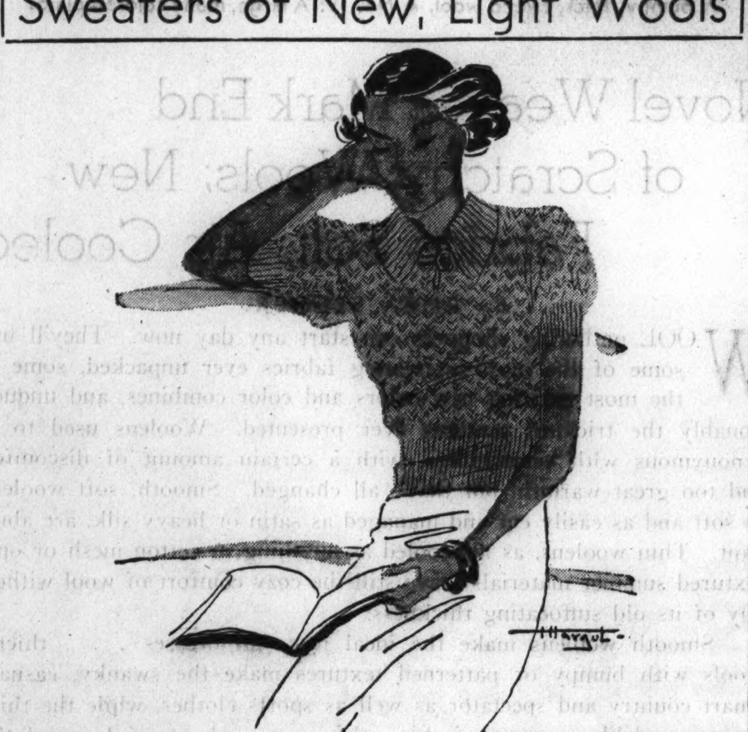
A tempting assortment of hors d'oeuvres becomes all the more attractive when bristling from a swank mirrored ball with a crystal handle. The simplicity of the appetizers, both as to materials and preparation, is marked, a fact which enhances not detracts, from the total loveliness.

No Skin Too Sensitive for Sweaters of New, Light Wools



By Jean Macdonald.

CAMPUS wardrobes are just about complete, but there is always room for an extra sweater or two—especially one of those fine, lightweight wools as soft as eiderdown. Scratchy wools have been eliminated from hand knits, so that the most tender skin may now wear hand knitted woolies comfortably.

The young girl's sweater illustrated today is made of extremely fine angora—a yarn which is not overwhelmingly expensive, despite its good quality. The chevron stripe effect in the body is not in the least difficult to knit, since it is a combination of the simple knit and purl stitches. The ribbing in the collar is a new and interesting feature. The opening at the neck uses a popular silver clip fastening in contrast to the soft chartreuse green of the blouse.

Not more than six balls of yarn is required for this sweater, which may be worn comfortably under a cardigan, suede jacket, or suit. Less expensive material such as zephyr, two ply saxony, or fine fingering wool may be used with equally attractive results.

HOW TO ORDER

If you wish instruction for knitting the short sleeved, chartreuse blouse with chevron stripes, illustrated today, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to Jean Macdonald, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago. Be sure to send name and address with your letter.

Child's Temper Seldom Sign of Adult Violence

Parents Too Often Regard Display of Anger with Exaggerated Concern.

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

THERE are plenty of writers on child training to cry "beware!" to parents, pointing out the dangers and pitfalls ahead. What we need is more writers who have something reassuring, something comforting to say. The thoughtful, conscientious, loving mother or father usually is too much on the lookout for trouble, apprehensive that this behavior may mean lack of character, or that that trait will prove a handicap in adult life.

This tendency on the part of parents doesn't need intensifying. Such fearfulness takes much of the joy out of life, for both parents and children, and frequently creates a tension which shows itself in unnecessary restrictions or attempts at discipline, unnecessary because they are based largely on fear and worry as to the future.

It's sensible, obviously, to be open-eyed about the consequences of certain situations and behavior, to see children's faults and try to correct them, to guide their energy and talents so that they may serve rather than handicap them. But it also is important and acts as a counterbalance to see the bright side of the picture, to be able to be justifiably optimistic about the future, granted you have done your best. So parents quite as often need quieting, calming, and encouraging as they do alarming, scolding, and warning.

It is important, then, that some of us who write for parents should, from our knowledge and experience, give comfort to offset the axieties which are so easily aroused by advice which all too often paints a picture showing how dark the future may be if the management of a child isn't perfect and his environment ideal.

So, we want to say here, in this column, be comforted. Many things work themselves out in the course of time. Some results you can accomplish visibly and quickly by intelligent effort, but not all. The training, the principles you try to instill, the attitudes you try to develop in the children, although sometimes they may seem to you to be quite lost, will bear a late fruit. The causes of this delay we often cannot see until afterwards. Sometimes a physical condition must clear up before a child's behavior is consistently poised. Sometimes a family situation must be solved before a child is uniformly happy and emotionally stable.

"My nephew," said a grandmother the other day, "was a terribly difficult boy and youth to manage. But he has grown up into a splendid man. My son, who is 40, was all my husband and I could handle. He would have been called a problem child if he'd been young today. Now there's not a finer man in the world, I believe, than he has become. And the same thing is true of my own brother. What a temper he had!"

Displays of temper and violent exhibitions of anger rank foremost among those acts of children which arouse serious anxiety in a mother's or father's heart.

"I tremble for her future when I see her outbursts," said one mother of her small daughter.

"I'm afraid he'll do some terrible thing if he doesn't learn to control his temper," said another mother of her son. "He might injure or kill some one in his unbridled anger." If you'll stop and think a moment you'll realize that one of the most common fears that parents voice is: "My child has such a terrible temper, I don't know what will happen if he grows up life this."

Anger is one of the most primitive of the emotions, and one of such a nature and such great force that it must express itself.

Yet no one would wish to see her child grow up to be the victim of violent anger and bursts of temper, so violent as to unbalance him temporarily and, perhaps, lead him into harmful acts.

But how often does this happen? Rarely, we must admit. If a child is normal, if his home life is presided over by loving and intelligent parents, it is not likely that he or she will grow into a man or woman who, because of unbridled rages, is a menace to other people.

Parents Should View Anger in Its True Proportion.

But this does not mean that we should do nothing at all about the temper of the small child, or the violent anger of the older one. What it does mean is that we should not exaggerate the importance of either. All parents should realize that the cure for these spells of anger is, in addition to their efforts, the good sense that comes to every child with maturity and experience.

There is, however, something to be done besides leaving the working out of this problem to time. What one does, however, depends a great deal upon the age of a child, and the kind and frequency of his outbursts.

One thing in which we no longer believe is the Spartan command, "control yourself," or the clamping of a lid on these seething emotions by our severity of manner or actual punishment. We believe rather in eliminating as much as possible the cause of temper or anger outbursts.

And these causes may be many and varied. Or where the anger is justified [as anger often is] we must try somehow to teach our child to handle or direct that emtion so that the child himself is not psychically hurt, nor the person or animal who causes it physically hurt [if it's that sort of anger]. Often, after a spell of anger is over, we can talk to a child in a way that will help him to help himself, or make our management of him easier next time. You would be able to see how practical this general advice is, if I had the space today to give you examples. I have worked it and seen it work myself.

Emotional Causes Must Be Sought in Anger Complex.

Now, it sometimes happens that a child who, in babyhood or small childhood, gave no exhibitions of temper will, at a later age, be aroused occasionally [or habitually] to violent anger. This child may be helped in various ways. Emotional causes may be sought for; his general physical and nervous condition can be looked into; he can, at the same time, be made to see the destructiveness to himself of the paroxysms; or he may, for instance, be made to tolerate the ignorance or lack of imagination that have motivated the action that has offended him; or he may be taught to use the energy of his anger to right a wrong instead of railing impatiently at it. And remember that often, not always of course, but often, the types of anger are indicative of the intensity that is frequently part of a rich and positive nature.

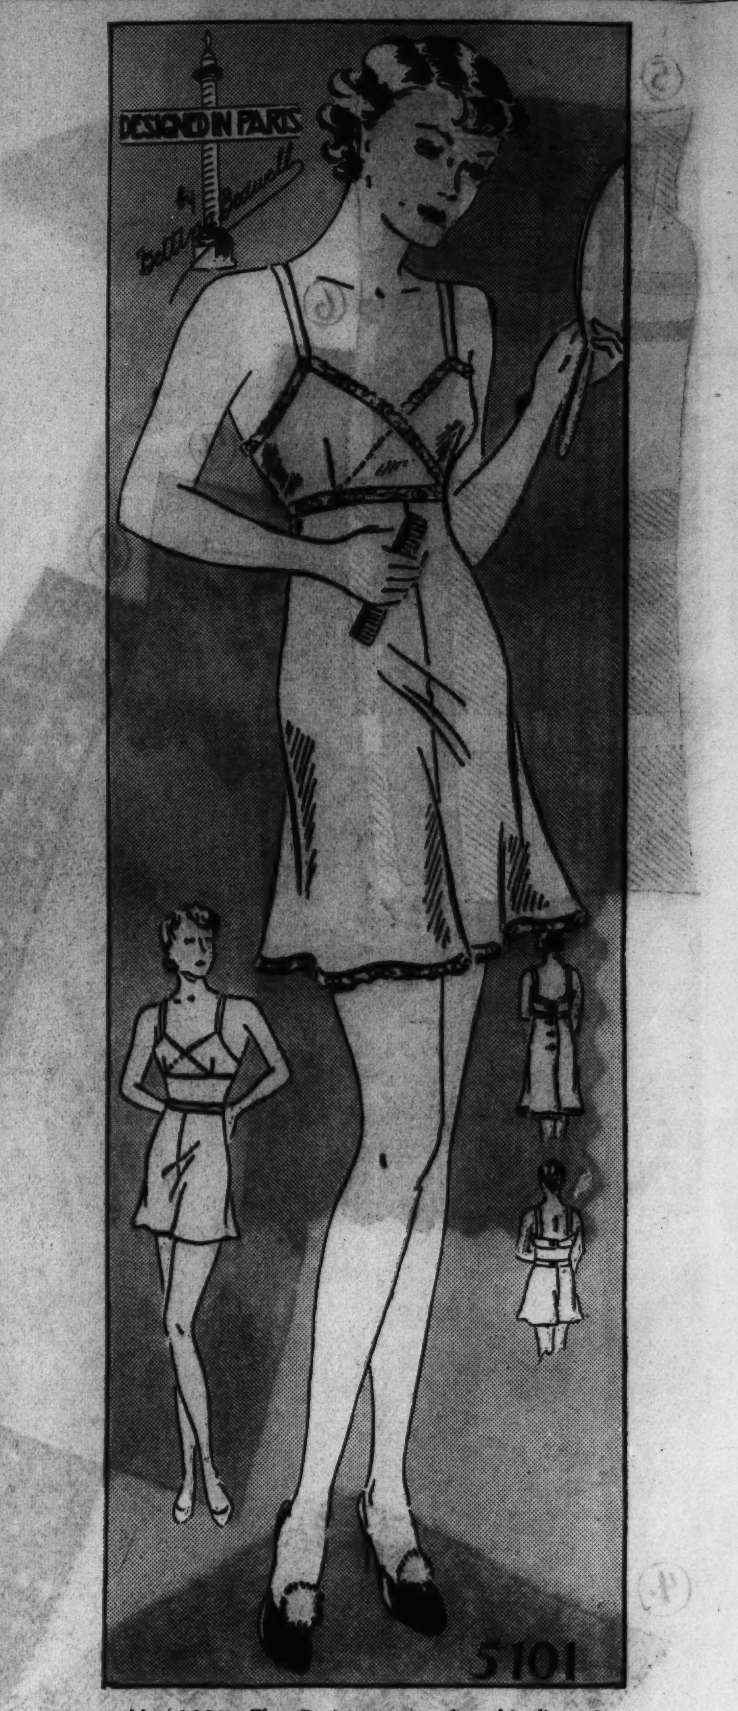
Paris Pattern Lingerie Design Is Original of French Salon



No. 5101—The Paris pattern for this lingerie is available in sizes 14 and 16, and in 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS.—[Special.]—This pattern, No. 5101, permits you to make dainty lingerie for yourself, in either the step-in variety or the two piece brassiere and panties. I have adapted the design from that of a famous Parisian lingerie maker who makes lingerie for the most elegant women of France. I had the step-in made up and find it a perfect garment to wear under modern frocks, either for daytime or evening. The model is trimmed with narrow borders of real Valenciennes lace. However, you can put whatever edging on it you prefer, or you may make up the lingerie without lace. Crêpe de chine is the most practical material, but nowadays many fashionable women have their step-ins made of chiffon for evening. Georgette is another sheer material frequently used.

The brassiere, which also forms the top to the step-in, is adaptable to almost any figure except the excessively stout, and is in two pieces, crossing in triangles in front and buttoned at the back. The panties are simple, with two seams only, and slightly flared, and quite short.

This pattern permits you to make at home lingerie that is fine and dainty at a minimum cost.

FULL BLOWN ROSE

By Nancy Cabot.

THERE is no limit to the color arrangements offered by the lovely applique pattern, "Full Blown Rose." Depending upon individual taste, the colors may range through the reds, roses, pinks, and shades of peach. The block being a large one, measuring 16 inches square when completed, only 10 applique and 10 plain blocks are required for a complete quilt. A quilt or coverlet of this floral type requires only the simplest finish, the most effective being a narrow binding around the edge, about one-half or one-quarter of an inch in width.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

Wood Plate Offers Amusing Way of Serving Canapes

SOMETHING new and as amusing as it is practical is a wooden plate, quite large, for serving little canapés and appetizers. In the center is fixed a wooden pear with many tiny holes for colored toothpicks on which you stick those delicious, sizzling hot, bacon wrapped olives, or little sausages.

Or, if you prefer, you can purchase a painted pig, Mexican style, which performs the same service as the pear.

These items are sold at Chicago stores.

Straight Back Is Essential to Silhouette

Three Simple Exercises Get Spinal Column in Trim for Loveliness of Figure.

By Antoinette Donnelly.

WITH all the dieting that is going on, and all the flesh that is being dropped by the wayside, there's still something wrong with silhouettes. They are not the streamline build they should be.

Now, today, let's concentrate on the back. That's where the trouble lies nine cases out of ten. Let's concentrate on it for many todays and tomorrows. It's going to require a bit of time to flatten and straighten it once it's gone the way of poor posture. A good back should be as straight, as flat and erect as a graceful tree. There should be no outcurve from the nape of the neck over the shoulder blades, then a swoop in at the waistline, then out again in a wider swoop at the back part of the hips, in again at the back of the thighs. That's the picture the erring silhouette takes on from a profile view. And the one thing, more than any other, that ruins frock, suit, coat, no matter how beautiful or costly.

It's curious how a figure may be dieted down to the most desired weight and yet, because of the crooked backline, shoot miles wide of the mark of smartness. I see this curved back outline so often on women who, I know, adhere rigidly to diets. Their dieting and their weight reduction, while good, aren't enough to turn out the smartly gowned woman to whom one gives a second look. I challenge you to watch a parade of women anyance. There's no question about it. It is. It makes the outstanding one walk well. It makes her clothes look well. It's just everything in style and smartness.

Suppose, for a couple of days, just to make you more conscious of this back feature of the silhouette, that you study women you see on street, bus, car, in restaurants, or anywhere.

Note especially the line you get from a sideview of the area from the back hair line down below the shoulder blades. You'll be surprised to see how often the curved line, instead of the straight, is presented. You'll see it more often on women with excess weight, of course, but you'll see it often enough on women who have no overweight, but who sit and stand badly. It's an ugly line on any one. And, as said, it is simply devastating on clothes. It's an ageing line and, incidentally, the line that is responsible for thickened and doubled chins.

Head Largely Responsible for Faulty Curve in the Backline.

The head is largely responsible for the appearance of the faulty curve. It has been carried forward too far for a long time, or been given to long exercise must be done. I am giving you three exercises today which, I can guarantee, will make your fall suit look a million times better in a month's time, if you'll only practice the routine twice daily for periods of not less than six minutes by the clock.

I know these exercises will do the work because they've been tried out on several women who came through with positively streamline builds They're easy to do. Not a bit of strain in any one of them. But they are simply grand for substituting the "I" backline for the unwanted contour. Two of the exercises you do standing, and you can do it at any time, and with clothes on. It is better, however, to make a regular job of straightening out the back curves and go at the exercises systematically, morning and night, without any dress hindrance. For the third you must get down on the floor.

Only Three Simple Exercises, But They Bring Beauty Reward!

No. 1. Grasp an old broom handle or cane. Take this exercise in five counts. Count 1: hands down at sides. Count 2: bring cane sharply up to chest. Count 3: high overhead and straight overhead, stretching up and up. Count 4: bring cane back down to shoulder blades. Count 5: bring down to lower back. Now, reverse count. 1: lower back; 2, shoulder blades; 3, overhead, and so on. It's a grand exercise, including many more benefits than just the back straightening, as you'll see.

No. 2. Stand with feet away from wall, head against wall, arms stretched forward. Without moving head position, bring shoulders and lower back to touch flat against wall. Forward, backward, forward, backward. Gradually increase the distance between wall and feet.

No. 3 Lie on back on floor. With hands at sides, simply massage the shoulder-blade-cushioning by squirming and rubbing this and that way against the floor or carpet. You'll be amazed at how you can work off the excess flesh this way. But you must keep at it daily.

As said, these three back and shoulder exercises are enough if you only will do them conscientiously.

If you find yourself weakening after a trial or two, just remember the prize. It's a far younger, better looking, smarter looking girl you'll be earning for yourself.

THE STAMP COLLECTOR

By Richard McP. Cabeen

THE fourth commemorative issue of 1930 consisted of a single stamp designed to honor the 200th anniversary of the birth of Frederick William Augustus Henry Ferdinand, Baron von Steuben, a Prussian officer on the staf of Frederick the Great, who came to America late in 1777 and offered his services to the continental congress as a volunteer officer.

Gen. Washington at once appreciated the worth of such a trained soldier and made him inspector general at Valley Forge. In spite of the hardships under which the army lived that winter Von Steuben changed them from a mob into well drilled troops.

As a reward congress gave him the rank of major general and inspector general of the entire army. Upon retirement he was given a grant of land at what is now Steubenville, N. Y., where he lived until his death in 1794.

Baron von Steuben was born at Madgeburg, a fortress in Prussia, on Nov. 15, 1730, therefore the stamp, which was issued on Sept. 17 at New York City, did not appear on the exact anniversary date. The design was taken from a medal designed by the sculptor Karl Dautert for the town of Madgeburg, and shows a profile, facing left. The inscription "1730—General von Steuben—1930" appears around the margin of the medallion. The stamps were printed from 400 subject flat plates on unwatermarked paper and were perforated 11. Eight plates supplied the issue of 66,487,000 stamps.

Gaudiness Is Tabu in New Paris Fashions

Silken Women Now Selecting Wardrobes Designed for Wearability.

By Bettina Bedwell.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Significant indications of a trend toward more simplicity and less gaudiness in Paris fashions, were the clothes that silken women from the world's corners chose in Paris this summer. It has been some years since so many special frocks were ordered for single parties, or afternoons or evenings. Special clothes for particular occasions mean that the Paris dressmakers start new styles between the seasons when they show their big collections and officially launch them. These between-collections clothes were remarkably simple and wearable, and, more important, beautifying.

Kay Francis breezed into Mainbocher's salons and walked out with one of his model hats and coats, that she refused to take off, but she ordered a lot of special things made for her. Myrna Loy kept Schiaparelli's new Place Vendôme fitting rooms busy while she was in Paris and she took a great deal of time over the ensemble she wore to Lady Mendl's [formerly Elsie de Wolfe] garden party.

Grace Moore and Capt. Molyneux had long conferences over the wardrobe he is to make for her after her stay in Cannes.

Outstandingly Well Dressed Women Prefer Simple Dresses.

Facts that are important to fashions, garnered from observation of all these clothes are the following:

Skirts, for daytime, are easy rather than narrow, rather short, and either gored or draped a bit near the waistline in front.

Jackets are either hip length or wrist length and they are, more often than not, fitted in at the waistline, but this is not an unfailing rule. Jacket sleeves tend to be puffy or be a bit draped where they go into the armholes.

Dresses have skirts that are definitly wider and just as definitly more becoming and graceful. I haven't seen a tortured, poured-in- hipline in the best society for some time. Dress bodices usually are draped somewhere and dress sleeves tend to be rather large or to have some kind of trimming or drapery to take them out of the straight and simple line.

Movie Stars Dress in Private Life Along Canons of Good Taste.

No. 1 shows a Mainbocher frock with which Kay Francis fell in love and from which she wouldn't be separated. It is the kind of dress that the best dressed women of Paris and London prefer to wear most of the time for daytime. Made of a simple, heavy silk marocain crêpe, this model has a gracefully draped bodice with a cluster of shirring at the right side and a wrapover neckline on the left. The simple sleeves are trimmed above the wrists with a bias band of the silk, caught into shirring on top. The wide suede belt has a round gold buckle. The skirt is rather wide and unflared and the dress buttons under the arm on the right side.

No. 2 is the suit that Myrna Loy ordered from Schiaparelli to wear to Lady Mendl's garden party and luncheon. It is made of black wool, patterned with irregular white squares. The fitted, hip length jacket has fluted revers and is fitted with tucks. The blouse is made of white silk patterned with black squares to match the suit material. The skirt of this suit is draped a bit at the front by four curved tucks below the waistline. A black felt hat with white felt border and flowers goes with it.

No. 3 is a jacket and frock that Kay Francis chose from Schiaparelli's collection. The simple dress is black wool with a skirt that is rather wide and quite short. The jacket is made of white wool, patterned with black three leaf clovers. It has double revers, is fitted at the waistline, and closed on a black button with a white clover leaf on it.

The sleeves of the jacket show how fancy sleeves may be that are full at the sides and around the back, a section being gathered into a seam down the top of the sleeves and into the side-back seams of the jacket. A postman's cap of black felt goes with this suit.

Myrna Loy has No. 4, which Schiaparelli made for her in bright blue and white glazed chintz, patterned with fantastic flowers. It is an evening dress with a bodice that is plaited into a round décolleté in front and ties at the back of the neck. The lower bodice is surpliced in back. The skirt is draped along the left side of the back and trimmed there with a vertical ruffle of the chintz. A godet below this ruffle flares the lower skirt.

Rustproof Nails Needed for Wood Repairs in Home

IN any kind of wood repair work around your house, and especially repair work on a roof, make sure that the nails are rustproof. The speedy deterioration of nails is one reason that many roofs give out sooner than they should. If the nails rust and break off, the covering will loosen long before its time. Roofing nails for shingle roofs come in different lengths. They should be selected according to the length of the shingle to be penetrated.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, Sept. 9.

Many complaints are received regarding the action of gladioli this season. The foliage grows and flower buds appear, but these fail to develop into blooms. This condition is the result of a season of rain, followed by hot days. Lawns are also affected, for many reports state that brown spots appear, causing bad effects. These are also brought about by rain, excessive moisture, followed by hot weather, and nights with heavy dew, covering the grass. Such spots should be carefully raked and reseeded. The seed should develop before frost. This is the time to make a new lawn or repair the old. Chip up bare spots, rake to a fine seedbed, sow with the best seed obtainable, rake the sown surface slightly, and roll when the ground is not too wet. Keep all flower beds in the best of care, beds edged, weeds removed, rampant growths cut back or tied up. Keep the plants in the water lily pool in good condition by removing yellow leaves.

Tuesday, Sept. 10.

Crocus bulbs should be planted early, or as soon as they may be obtained. The madanna lily should also be planted as soon as it can be purchased. See that the plants in vases, window boxes, and hanging baskets do not suffer from a lack of moisture. Send in the orders for all stock, trees, shrubs, and bulbous plants that are to be planted the later part of the month or early in October. It is a good time now to transplant peonies. These fine flowering perennials revel in a good rich soil. Do not replant in the same soil. Give them new soil, and dig the holes large enough easily to accommodate the roots. Do not plant too many flowers on the small lot, or they are certain to dominate the garden.

Wednesday, Sept. 11.

Destroy all weeds to be rid of any seeds they have. Foxtail, pigweed, ragweed, and others are in this list. Seeds of these noxious weeds live in a dormant condition for many years, but as soon as favorable conditions are supplied they start into activity. Plant autumn crocus; they make good rock garden plants. There is still time to divide and transplant the bearded iris, Siberian and Japanese varieties.

Thursday, Sept. 12.

Begin now to make the new border of hardy perennials. The soil should be deep and moisture holding. Do not transplant the inside growths of plants that spread, for the outside growths are the more vigorous. The beds of lily of the valley may be remade now, if they have become overcrowded. Save the best pips and reset two or three inches apart, placing them just beneath the surface. Stimulate the lawn by making an application of a complete fertilizer at the rate of four pounds to 100 square feet. Cut back the smaller plants of the pot marigold [calendula] and pot them for later flowering indoors. Many of the annuals will furnish good pot plants if lifted now and grown on.

Friday, Sept. 13.

Liquid plant food will aid the hardy chryanthemums to develop their bloom. Watch for insects and keep the plants staked. Transplant late flowering perennials in spring. Phlox that is three years or more old should be divided and transplanted. The seed of phlox may be saved, sown this fall, and colors selected for saving later on next summer. Save the leaves for composting. Do not permit trash to stand in piles. Compost the soft parts, destroying the rest to prevent insects from finding a place to remain.

Saturday, Sept. 14.

If lettuce and radish seed are sown now they will give a fine succession to be used along about Thanksgiving. Sow in a frame for protection. A pot or two of calla lilies makes a fine house display. Pot the tuber now. Pot up freesias for the window. Use three-quarter pots. Fine hanging baskets can be made by using certain oxalis, such as the oxalis grand duchess varieties in white, pink, and lavender.

Two Accessories Add Efficiency to Telephoning

TWO small essentials for the telephone are a sanitary glass mouthpiece and letters by which to index the telephone directory. The mouthpiece is simple to adjust to standard phones. It is germproof and easy to keep sterilized, shiny and bright at all times. Having the telephone directory indexed will save the wear and tear of pages in the "most used book" in any office. The letters are of gold print on a red or black mat, and finished with transparent tissue that is easy to apply to the pages. Full directions come with a set. Both items mentioned are available in the stationery section of a State street department store.

Eating Finger Foods Requires Special Method

Consumption of Delicate Dishes Less Bugbear If One Knows Rules.

Miss Bartlett will be glad to answer questions pertaining to etiquet and correct social behavior. For a personal reply, enclose a self addressed, stamped envelope with your letter.

By Helen Bartlett.

HAVING practiced conscientiously the technique of properly and gracefully consuming lobster and steamed clams according to the rules propounded in this column last week, you should now be able to order up one of the hard-shelled crustaceans and face the public with poise and confidence. We promised last week, too, to resume the discussion of etiquet as applied to the eating of the more aristocratic foods, and give other intimate sketches of the correct method of eating some of the difficult delicacies. Let's begin with artichokes.

They comprise one type of the finger foods, and although they look more like a species of cactus, they are not so impregnable as they would seem. In reality the artichoke is the edible flower head of a plant of the aster family.

Each Leaf or Petal Is Taken with Fingers, Then Put in Sauce.

With the artichoke it is customary to serve a drawn butter or hollandaise sauce as an accompaniment. With the fingers, then, each leaf or petal of the artichoke is peeled off individually, dipped in the sauce, and eaten. The first and second outer rows of leaves probably will be found to be not especially tender, except that portion near the stem. So just draw the leaf between your teeth and scrape off that portion which is tender and edible. Deposit the too fibrous portion on the plate and peel off another leaf. You will find that the closer to the center the more tender the leaves will become. Eventually all the leaves will have been removed, and the choke, the choicest piece of all, will be discovered in the center. With the blade of your knife scrape off the fuzzy growth on the top, cut the choke into quarters, at least and, with the fork, dip the pieces into the sauce and enjoy to the utmost.

Special Fork Provided for Consumption of Bluepoints.

Bluepoints on the half shell are not nearly so uncommon as some of the other delicacies which we have discussed in this chapter on "fastidious foods." But they should rightfully be included and, perhaps, there will be some who will be interested. To cope with oysters, the proper implement to seek is the little narrow, pronged oyster or cocktail fork. If the table is set for a full course dinner this little fork will be found at the extreme right. Cocktail sauce will be served and, doubtlessly, a little wedge of lemon. Squeeze the lemon juice over the bluepoints first if you like the sharp tang of lemon. Then, without cutting the oysters, dip them, one at a time, in the cocktail sauce . . . and then—down the hatch! It never is correct to cut the oysters with a knife. If they seem too large to be eaten gracefully in one bite, fold them over with the little fork in order to make them more compact.

Canapes and hors d'oeuvres also are in the finger food classification, unless they happen to be so "gooey" or awkward to handle that a finger bowl would have to be provided. In such a case they are eaten with a fork.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Clothing, Baby Carriage, and Household Items You No Longer Need Will Find Ready Use by Families Who Now Must Do Without Them.

By Sally Joy Brown.

HAS any reader a suit of clothing, size 46, for a man in dire need of it? He's an elderly person who has been ill and unable to find work for the past three years. His clothing is worn and shabby, and he has no way of replacing it. He is provided with a home and food by his elderly sister, who works in a factory. Her job is pasting labels on bottles, for which she is paid $14 a week. The address is on the near southwest side.

L. W. is an inmate of an institution for the indigent aged, and is quite helpless. She has written to me requesting a dictionary. Because of her condition she will be unable to call for it, but I will be glad to give her address to any reader willing to donate and mail one to her.

M. B. has requested an old clock. The one which he has possessed for the past 33 years no longer runs and she writes that the stillness of her little flat makes her lonely. "The evenings will be getting long, and I would love to have an old one to hang on the wall so that I could hear it tick."

Mrs. I. H. weighs only 97 pounds. Her husband has been without employment for the past 18 months. She does her own washing and is simply not strong enough to wring clothing out by hand. Can you help her secure a wringer?

Avenues of Fashion

If you would like information about modes for men, especially about articles described in this column, write to the Men's Fashion department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Illinois. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your letter.

WHAT with the approach of the time when one must discard the old chapeau de paille, as the French so deftly term hats of straw, the attendant activity of selecting a hat of felt is upon us. The problem that is present for those of unusual height or girth is one that would well take several volumes to propound. However, here we will concern ourselves only with the current fashion in top pieces and discuss a complete wardrobe of hats for day wear. One need not own all these hats, but the advantages of having several to be used with appropriate types of clothes is apparent.

HARD HAT

The derby, or, as it is called in England in honor of its originator, the bowler, is ever useful for wear in town, although originally made to serve as a headguard for huntsmen. Fashion favors this hat with a full, slightly belled crown and fairly flat brim.

SMART HAT

Growing in popularity is the Homburg of black or midnight blue, an alternate for the derby and correct for wear with tuxedo or dinner clothes.

SOFT HAT

The dark brown snap brim, with its black band, may have either bound or raw edge and is a favorite with university men for on and off campus wear.

ROUGH HAT

ate for early autumn wear, favored in brown, green, and medium gray.

COUNTRY HAT

For the typical country outfit, the "pork pie," named for its resemblance to that British culinary favorite, carries out the feeling of tweeds, in rough finish brown or green.

SPORT HAT

Many men have found to their liking the smart conical-crowned Tyrolean hat in rough finish felt. It is competing for current favor with the all-purpose brown snap brim.

CLOTH HAT

Hats of stitched tweed have a constant place in the fashion picture. Impervious to weather, they have a nonchalance that is decidedly smart.

CAP

The smart cap, made in one piece in a distinct plaid, such as the prince of Wales sports,

Check Heating Equipment of House in September to Assure Steady Warmth Throughout Winter

Furnace, Insulation, Weatherstripping, and Storm Sashes Need Inspection.

Beautiful floors deserve careful attention. A new booklet by Louise Bargelt, "Keeping Floors Flawless," is 3 cents by mail and 2 cents at Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

By Louise Bargelt.

SEPTEMBER is the month when it behooves us to check up on the heating efficiency of our house, to ferret out ways and means by which we can secure for ourselves increased winter comfort and decreased heating costs!

This is the time to determine the working capacity of our heating plant, as well as our insulation, our weatherstripping, our storm sash; to discover any small, heat-leaking cracks, any draft admitting crannies.

If last winter our boiler or furnace seemed to be showing its years, developing a prodigious appetite for fuel, and a proportionate slowing up in energy, if certain rooms were chilly and hard to heat and our fuel bills unreasonably high——

This is the month to do something about it!

If last winter our house was drafty, our basement too hot, our bedrooms too cold, if we couldn't sit next a window because of gusts of wind which came in, and the children couldn't play on the floor without catching cold——

Now is the time to remedy these conditions!

Any Heating System Can Be Modernized.

For there is no type of heating system which cannot be modernized, nor any fuel which cannot be made automatic or semi-automatic. Nor is there any house which cannot be made tighter and more weather resistant. Manufacturers of heating equipment, as well as of insulation in all its forms, have fortunately not forgotten the already existing equipment, and the already built house, in their strides ahead. Modern improvements are not alone for the new house which is to be built. They can be applicable to existing equipment and homes.

There has been a comfortable reduction in heating costs, too, so that the improvements will pay for themselves in the course of a few years!

Below are a number of different things to do for an ailing system; improvements which may cost from twenty-five dollars or less, to a hundred dollars or more, but may make a vast amount of difference in your comfort and your heating bills!

Check Valves of Inefficient Radiator.

Radiator Heating: [A] One pipe steam system. When radiators refuse to heat quickly or properly, check up on the valves. Are they stuck or are new ones needed? Is the piping too small, or has it too many elbows? Heavy pipe insulation, quick vent air valves on the main lines or raised radiators may help. Or the system can be changed to a vacuum system by substituting vacuum air valves for the regular air valves. At a cost of less than $5 per valve.

[B] An unsatisfactory vapor system, changed into a vapor vacuum system, will prove much more efficient. The vacuum vent necessary for this change costs about $10.

[C] Hot water system. Good circulation is imperative if this type radiator is to heat well. If the circulation is poor or the radiator is too far from the boiler, it can be speeded up by a circulating pump or an electric impeller. Sealing an expansion tank will help, too.

Metallic Paint Retards Flow of Heat.

If a boiler is in good shape, thoroughly cleaned, and still the radiators refuse to heat, check up on the radiators themselves. Their efficiency may be reduced by 10 per cent or more by metallic paint. Or they may be poorly placed.

Have the system checked to discover if there are enough radiators. Some one may have skimped on their number. If they are the old, clumsy type, consider replacing them with the newer, more efficient, slimmer, and less conspicuous type. These new ones may be of the "convector" type, concealed in wall, or outstanding and covered. Or they may be of the regulation standing sort, and yet so designed that they can fit into virtually any space, whatever its height or width.

Blowers Rejuvenate Old Hot Air System.

Warm Air System: The old hot air system can be given many of the advantages of the modern warm air system by installation of one of the modern blowers which will force a steady flow of air through jacket, ducts, and registers to every room in the house. Hot air systems frequently do not heat well because the air inlet opening is not large enough. Or the pitch to ducts may not be correct. Or the ducts may not be insulated.

If a smell of coal gas is sometimes found in a house, check up to see if the joints need cementing. Make sure, too, that the furnace is large enough and that it is clean. Also that the dampers work properly.

No house heating in a northern clime is truly healthy in winter unless some provision is made for adding moisture to the indoors air.

With a warm air furnace, a unit can be added which will add moisture to the air and perhaps wash it as well.

With a radiator system, a humidifying radiator can be added. Radiator covers sometimes contain efficient provision for supplying moisture. Radiator pans are not of any great help—but they are better than nothing.

Many Air Conditioning Radiators Work Year 'Round.

There are also many types of air conditioning radiators which perform all year round jobs. And, too, there are electric units which can be attached to any outlet. These run in price from $10 and less to $100 and more. These units supply a certain amount of moisture to the entire house.

In checking up on the heating system this month, a central control thermostat saves on fuel and adds to comfort! These cost under $50. If you have a radiator system, you can have individual radiator thermostatic control. Of course the clock type of thermostat, which obligingly changes the night temperature to a day temperature and back again, is more expensive than the central control type—but think of all it does!

Last but not least for consideration is the fuel to be burned.

If you wish to burn coal, there are the modern stokers which make coal more than semi-automatic. The coal is not only fed from bin to burner, but also the ashes are placed in cans for you, and the cans changed as the ashes fill them!

Decide on Fuel Before Buying Heating Unit.

It is almost always possible to install an oil burning unit in a boiler or furnace. Gas furnaces are being put in existing boilers and furnaces every day.

If you are in the market for a new furnace or boiler decide before you buy it, however, what type of fuel you wish to burn. Buying a heater especially designed for the fuel you are to use is the part of discretion.

And don't think you have to be cold or chilly this winter because your heating plant may be a bit aged and you don't feel like stretching your budget for a new one.

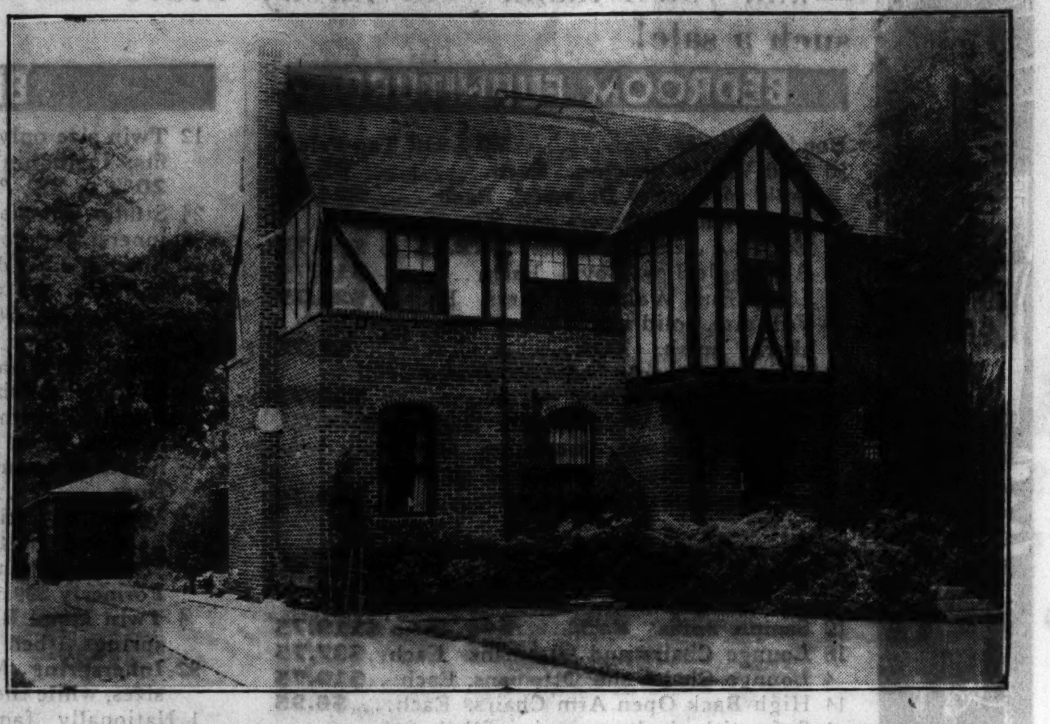
Call in a reliable heating contractor and see what he has to suggest in the way of first aid for whatever may ail it!

Of course no boiler or heating plant or the most modern of warm air furnaces can heat inexpensively a house which has too many air cracks and crevices, too thin walls, and yawning gaps at windows and doors.

Check up on your house cracks this month, too! Seal up the structure's loosest places at least. Caulk where caulking is necessary—but this is another story—and more of this later!

Mrs. Bargelt will speak over W-G-N next Wednesday at 10:15 a. m.

More space was needed in this home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Delano Lawson, 20 Merrill avenue, Park Ridge, so definite changes were started to add to its efficiency. Architect for the remodeling, William F. McCaughey, 3 Prospect avenue, Park Ridge. The walls and floors were entirely refinished.



By extending the house, as the picture shows, some 200 additional square feet of floor space was achieved. The living room was enlarged, its walls paneled in old English oak, its ceiling textured in Elizabethan pattern. A new bathroom was built, the master bedroom made larger, and a new sun room added. New comfort and beauty are obtained through these changes.

A glimpse into the rear spaces of the Lawson home before it was landscaped. Everything is rigidly laid out, but in quite conventional pattern, without regard for the beauty possible through luxuriant growth of shrubs and flowering plants.

A view of the back yard now from a large, screened, awninged porch. This porch is a part of the home's modernization, and overlooks the new beauty which has been given to the rear spaces of this Park Ridge home. The season now is here to check up on your home.

Expert Advice Is Needed on Cracks in Old Plaster

IN buying an already built house one sometimes may find cracks in ceilings and walls. There are nearly half a hundred reasons for these cracks. Some of them imply poor construction and others are not serious and may be remedied easily. However, if a buyer knows nothing about cracks and sees evidence of their abundance on the different walls and ceilings of the house he is inspecting, that is the time to call in a plasterer.

Right Paint Will Efface Ugliness of Badly Placed Door

HAVE you an oddly placed door of some closet or some passageway which presents an appearance incongruous and out of harmony with the room? One method to eliminate its awkward appearance is to paint its panel, or its panel edges, in one of the principal colors of the room's decorations. In this way it echoes the general color scheme of the room, and blends in with its surroundings.

Flounces Lend Festive Air to Dressing Table

Silvery Cellophane Fabric May Be Employed Over Chintz or Gay Sateen.

"New Curtains and Draperies," a booklet by Claire Winslow, answers perplexing questions about correct lengths, colors and fabrics. It is 5 cents by mail, 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Claire Winslow.

NOTHING can do more to make a bedroom look festive and feminine than a flounced dressing table. And the sky's the limit when it comes to creating this object of womanly vanity. You can spend lavishly on imported silks and satins, colored mirror glass tops, extravagant little benches, lamps, etc., or you can gain a charming effect with a slender budget, having a carpenter make the extremely simple shelf top, getting the bench in the stores, and doing the upholstering and needlework yourself.

The picture today shows a delectable, crisp, fresh looking little dressing table all done in cellophane. This lovely fabric is of slit cellulose film with a fine cotton nub, so that it has an interesting texture and a silvery sheen. Because it is quite transparent it is used over another material such as sateen or glazed chintz. Thus you can get intriguing color combinations if you wish. You might use the white cellophane over coral pink sateen, or over powder blue, or turquoise.

Skirts May Be Snapped to Sturdy Tape.

In the picture an all-white effect was desired. A table with a semicircular top was used. The two skirts, or flounces, were gathered in plaited fashion on a sturdy tape especially made for the purpose, which comes with snaps attached. You fasten the other part of the snap on the table itself, then easily attach the flounces and as simply remove them for cleaning.

A pair of tall, crystal stemmed lamps with white shades are reflected in the pretty, unframed mirror, and crystal perfume bottles repeat this decorative note.

The cellophane of which the flounces are made may be bought by the yard at any of the large Chicago stores.

Radiator Coils Used as Basis for Dressing Table.

A friend of ours brightened up her tiny guest room by hiding the unsightly radiator coils under a dressing table skirt. Her husband made a shelf and a scalloped valance to fit over the radiator top in two pieces of beaver board which he attached firmly together. Then he papered them with a smart coral, white, and gray striped wall paper.

On the underside of this valance his wife hung the flounce of gleaming white glazed chintz she had gathered on a wide white tape, using thumb tacks to make it secure all round. The whole was fitted over the radiator, a mirror hung above, and presto, you have the effect of a smart litle dressing table! And at virtually no expense, too. The walls of this small room are powder blue, and the curtains are of coral dotted voile that matches the coral stripe in the paper. The furniture is painted white, with a flat, not a glossy finish. Try this recipe, some time, for a little room you have been having your doubts about.

FLOUNCES LEND FEMININITY AND DELICACY

A flounced dressing table works a small miracle in any bedroom, bringing it a touch of femininity and beauty. This has full skirts of cellophane in silver white, over white sateen. The cellophane has a fine cotton nub, giving it an interesting texture.

New Chromium and Maple Models Represent a Revolution in Billiard Table Cost and Structure

"Making the Most of the Dinette," a helpful booklet by Edith Weigle, tells how to furnish this small room to increase its apparent size and beauty. It is 3 cents by mail, 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower lobby.

By Edith Weigle.

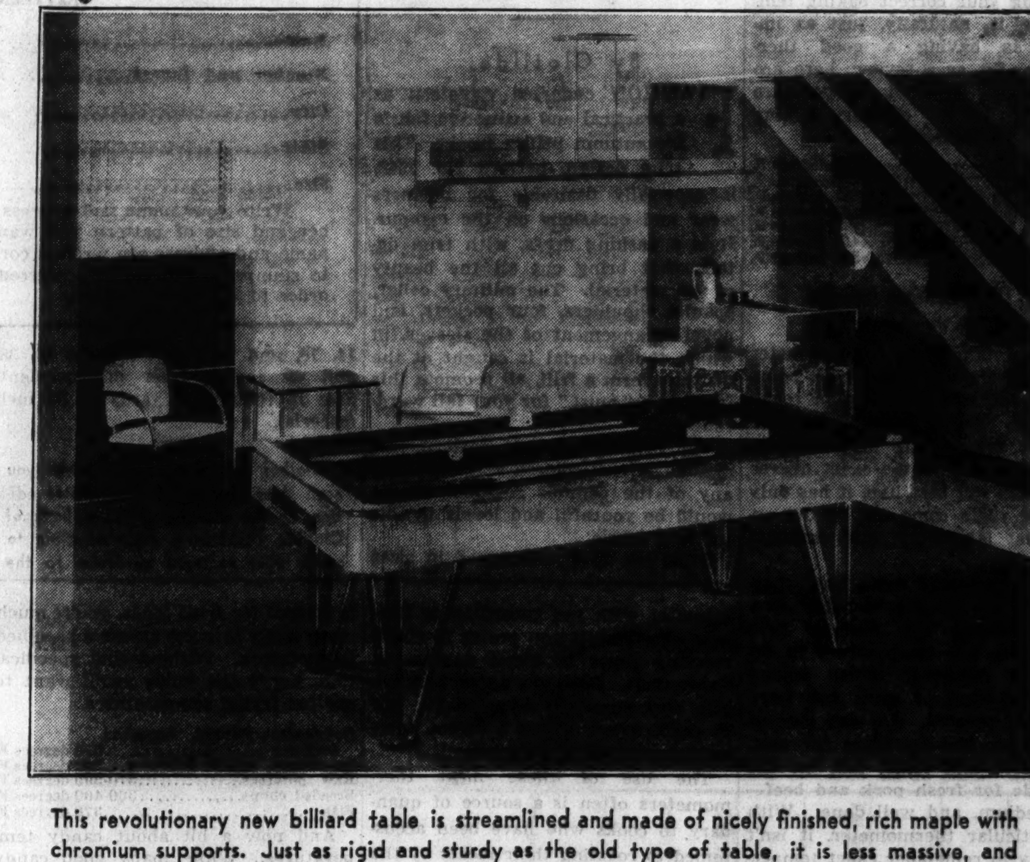
HERE'S a grand new piece of furniture for your game room: A billiard table with revolutionary features. It's the first of its kind and it's bound to bring shouts of praise from those indoor sports devotees who are enthusiastic about the game.

Perhaps the most startling fact about this new article is its cost. You can get it for about a fifth the former price paid for a billiard table, which means that many homes which could not afford one before may now enjoy it. It is made of nicely finished rich maple and has chromium legs. Although not nearly so massive as the old type of table, it is just as rigid and is exactly the same size.

It comes equipped with a folding top, easily slipped on, which quickly converts it into a ping-pong court or a large card or dining table. Too, the whole is easy to assemble. Two men can set it up complete in six minutes. Unique features are the specially colored pocket lethers, a new type of chalk, more utility racks for ash trays, drinks, cigarets, etc., and fifteen solid color balls.

Another revolutionary idea in the field of billiards is the new tone of cloth this table is wearing. Instead of the usual green, a soft claret red shade, extremely restful to the eyes, is being used.

The picture today shows the 1935 billiard table just described. Note its streamline effect and the sturdy supports of chromium. It was exhibited at the recent show at the American Furniture Mart, and is now being sold in the game department of a large Chicago department store. It will have nation-wide distribution.



This revolutionary new billiard table is streamlined and made of nicely finished, rich maple with chromium supports. Just as rigid and sturdy as the old type of table, it is less massive, and sells for about one-fifth the price. It is available at a large Chicago department store.

Household Hints and Queries

Mrs. Bargelt will be glad to answer questions on the repair and care of the home. Please inclose a stamped, addressed envelope with query.

Don't try to paint a basement concrete or cement floor with an oil paint before eliminating the free lime from the cement or concrete! Dissolve about three pounds of zinc sulphate crystals to each gallon of water, pour the mixture over floor, and let it stand for several days. Wipe up crystals, then paint, first applying a priming coat of paint thinned with one-fourth spar varnish to three-fourths paint. First investigate the available colors in special types of paint for cement and concrete, for these special paints require no surface preparation of the floor other than a good cleaning.

Where ants have firmly entrenched themselves in a small lawn, spray the lawn with a strong soap wash—dissolving a pound of common laundry soap to a gallon of water. Injecting a little kerosene into nests will be effective.

Dear Mrs. Bargelt: We are going to start shortly to paint our children's outdoor sandbox. Also the play apparatus. What colors are good? Should the paint be protected?—MRS. G.

Answer: Brown or green will go well with grass and shrubbery, sand, and flowers. Chinese red or orange are bright and cheerful. You can cover paint with spar varnish for added protection.

Dear Mrs. Bargelt: What causes a sidewalk to develop bad cracks? [2] What can be packed into cracks to fill them up? KENNETH R.

Answer: The drainage may be poor, so that water collects beneath the concrete, or the concrete may have been laid improperly. The trouble should be located, corrected, and the walk relaid.

Dear Mrs Bargelt: We are going to start shortly to paint our children's outdoor sandbox. Also the play apparatus. What colors are good? Should the paint be protected?—MRS. G.

Answer: Brown or green will go well with grass and shrubbery, sand and flowers. Chinese red or orange are bright and cheerful. You can cover paint with spar varnish for added protection.

Home Decorating Queries

Miss Winslow will be glad to answer questions on home furnishings and decoration. Confine your queries to one room and number them. If a personal reply is desired, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Query: "I am considering refurnishing my bedroom in modern. Do you think this style is a fad, or is it here to stay? I don't want to spend money for something that will not be good for years from now.—V. Mc."

Answer: Conservative modern, that is modern of simple lines, good proportions, pleasing woods and finishes, is here to stay. Avoid types that carry gaudy bits of gold or silver ornamentation, or that are peculiar in shape, or chairs that have wild and strange colored upholstery. It is now possible to get excellent modern bedroom ensembles at almost any good furniture or department store.

Query: "In making draperies that draw on a traverse cord arrangement is it necessary to have them floor length or may they stop at the window sill?—H. K."

Answer: If the draperies are to be in the living room I should have them floor length, or within an inch of the floor. If they are to be in the bedroom or in an informal room such as a game or sun room they may then be made level with the sill, if you wish, or with the lower edge of the window frame.

Thermometers of Great Value in All Cookery

Indispensable Equipment Styled in Many Types for Uses in the Kitchen.

By Mary Meade.

HOUSEHOLD thermometers, except for an occasional clinical model to determine little Willie's condition after a green apple orgy, were little used a few decades ago. A questioning hand was thrust into the oven's depths to gauge the proper moment for popping in the muffins, an experimental elbow tested the temperature of baby's bath water, and fat for deep frying was heated until it browned a bread cube in a specified length of time.

All of which tests, naturally, might prove amazingly satisfactory when used by the experienced homemaker who had perfected her skill through years of trial and error. There still are scoffers, in this day of highly specialized thermometering who pooh-pooh more than one thermometer for any kitchen, just as there are many good cooks who believe that exact measurement of ingredients spells the death of really fine cooking.

But for the most of us, who haven't time nor opportunity to perfect our skill in testing temperatures by our own sense of heat, a set of good, accurate household thermometers is practically a necessity.

Oven Thermometer Checks Both Stove Regulator and Cooking.

Probably at the top of the list should be a good oven thermometer. The better ranges, of course, will boast an oven temperature control and, possibly, an additional temperature gauge, but our experience has been that a number of these will bear checking with a separate thermometer. After a period of several years, some oven regulators may under or over shoot their specified temperatures by a number of degrees, which may actually throw baking off completely, while you wonder why your favorite old recipes don't come out as well as they used to. By checking with a good oven thermometer, you can frequently discover the cause of these puzzling baking failures, and alter your regulating to eliminate the error.

Oven thermometers vary a great deal in makeup. One handy and inexpensive one is a round disc which may be hung down from one of the oven racks, thus making it easily readable and preventing any upsets. The vertical thermometers on a standard base are another possibility, and we've been interested in a horizontal model that's most convenient to read.

Knowing your correct baking temperatures, is, naturally, just as important as having a good thermometer. So, as a review, here are the generally accepted temperature equivalents of the ordinary baking terms, in Fahrenheit:

|---|---|
| Very slow oven | 250 degrees F. |
| Slow oven | 300 degrees F. |
| Moderately slow oven | 325 degrees F. |
| Moderate oven | 350 degrees F. |
| Moderately hot oven | 375 degrees F. |
| Hot oven | 400 degrees F. |
| Very hot oven | 450-500 degrees F. |

Roasting Thermometer Gauge to Doneness of Various Meats.

Another important thermometer which is decidedly growing in popularity is one which is used in roasting meats. The only really accurate means of determining when a roast has been cooked to the exact degree of doneness you best like, it has only of recent years come out of the experimental laboratory into common kitchen use.

Several models of roast meat thermometers are on the market. One boasts a handy flat reading field which gives, not temperature in degrees, but markings which denote when each type of meat has been sufficiently roasted. On one side of the field are the markings for veal, cured pork, and lamb, and on the other side for fresh pork and beef—rare, medium, and well done. With this particular thermometer, it isn't necessary to remember exact temperatures, for all you need do is roast the meat until the mercury approaches the correct marking.

Another, slightly shorter thermometer with red recording is likewise excellent, if you prefer to check roasting times by exact degrees in Fahrenheit. Both are under 7 inches tall, and especially adapted for use in small ovens where a larger thermometer would be impractical.

The use of these meat thermometers often is a source of quandary to cooks who have been accustomed to roasting their meats by the "so many minutes per pound" system. No matter what the type, the bulb of the thermometer is inserted into a small incision in the meat, so that the bulk is centered in the fleshiest part of the roast. It should rest on neither fat nor bone, if accurate results are to be obtained. The temperature reading of the thermometer has nothing to do with the temperature of the the oven—a point which confuses some cooks—but is a measure of the internal temperature of the roast. When the mercury registers that degree to which you want your roast to be cooked, the roasting is finished, without any weighing or advanced multiplication on your part of minutes times pounds. These internal temperatures generally are accepted for the roasting of meats:

|---|---|
| Beef, rare | 135 degrees F. |
| Medium | 155 degrees F. |
| Well done | 170 degrees F. |
| Veal | 170 degrees F. |
| Pork, fresh | 185 degrees F. |
| Cured | 170 degrees F. |
| Lamb, medium | 175 degrees F. |
| Well done | 182 degrees F. |

Veal and pork, whether fresh or cured, never are served in anything but well done state. The oven temperatures [not that of the meat thermometer] for all the roasts above should be 300 degrees F., a slow oven, except in the case of cured pork, which is roasted [or baked, if you prefer to call it that] at 350 degrees F.

Deep Fat Thermometer Insures Excellence of Fried Foods.

A deep fat thermometer is something else every well equipped kitchen should have, so that fried foods really may be cooked to the prime of their goodness. While the bread cube test sometimes is specified in recipes for fried foods, you're much more likely to come across a specified temperature. Without that specification, here's the guide you'll want to use for frying temperatures.

|---|---|
| Doughnuts, fritters, uncooked mixtures | 370 degrees F. |
| Croquettes, cooked mixtures | 390 degrees F. |
| Raw potatoes | 370-395 degrees F. |
| Breaded chops | 360-400 degrees F. |
| Fish | 370 degrees F. |

And now a bit about candy temperatures. While many good candy makers rely on the softball, hardball, or thread tests, you needn't be an expert to get fine results, and uniform ones, if you gauge your candy cooking with an accurate thermometer. These temperatures usually are employed:

|---|---|
| Sirup stage | 220-230 degrees F. |
| Thread stage | 230-234 degrees F. |
| Softball stage | 234-240 degrees F. |
| Medium ball stage | 240-244 degrees F. |
| Hardball stage | 250-264 degrees F. |
| Crack stage | 264-320 degrees F. |
| [Varying with degree of hardness desired. Lower temperatures are chewy.] | |
| Caramel stage | 320-360 degrees F. |

You'll likewise appreciate the check-up a refrigerator thermometer offers in keeping that piece of kitchen equipment at its peak of efficiency, whether it operates mechanically or uses ice.

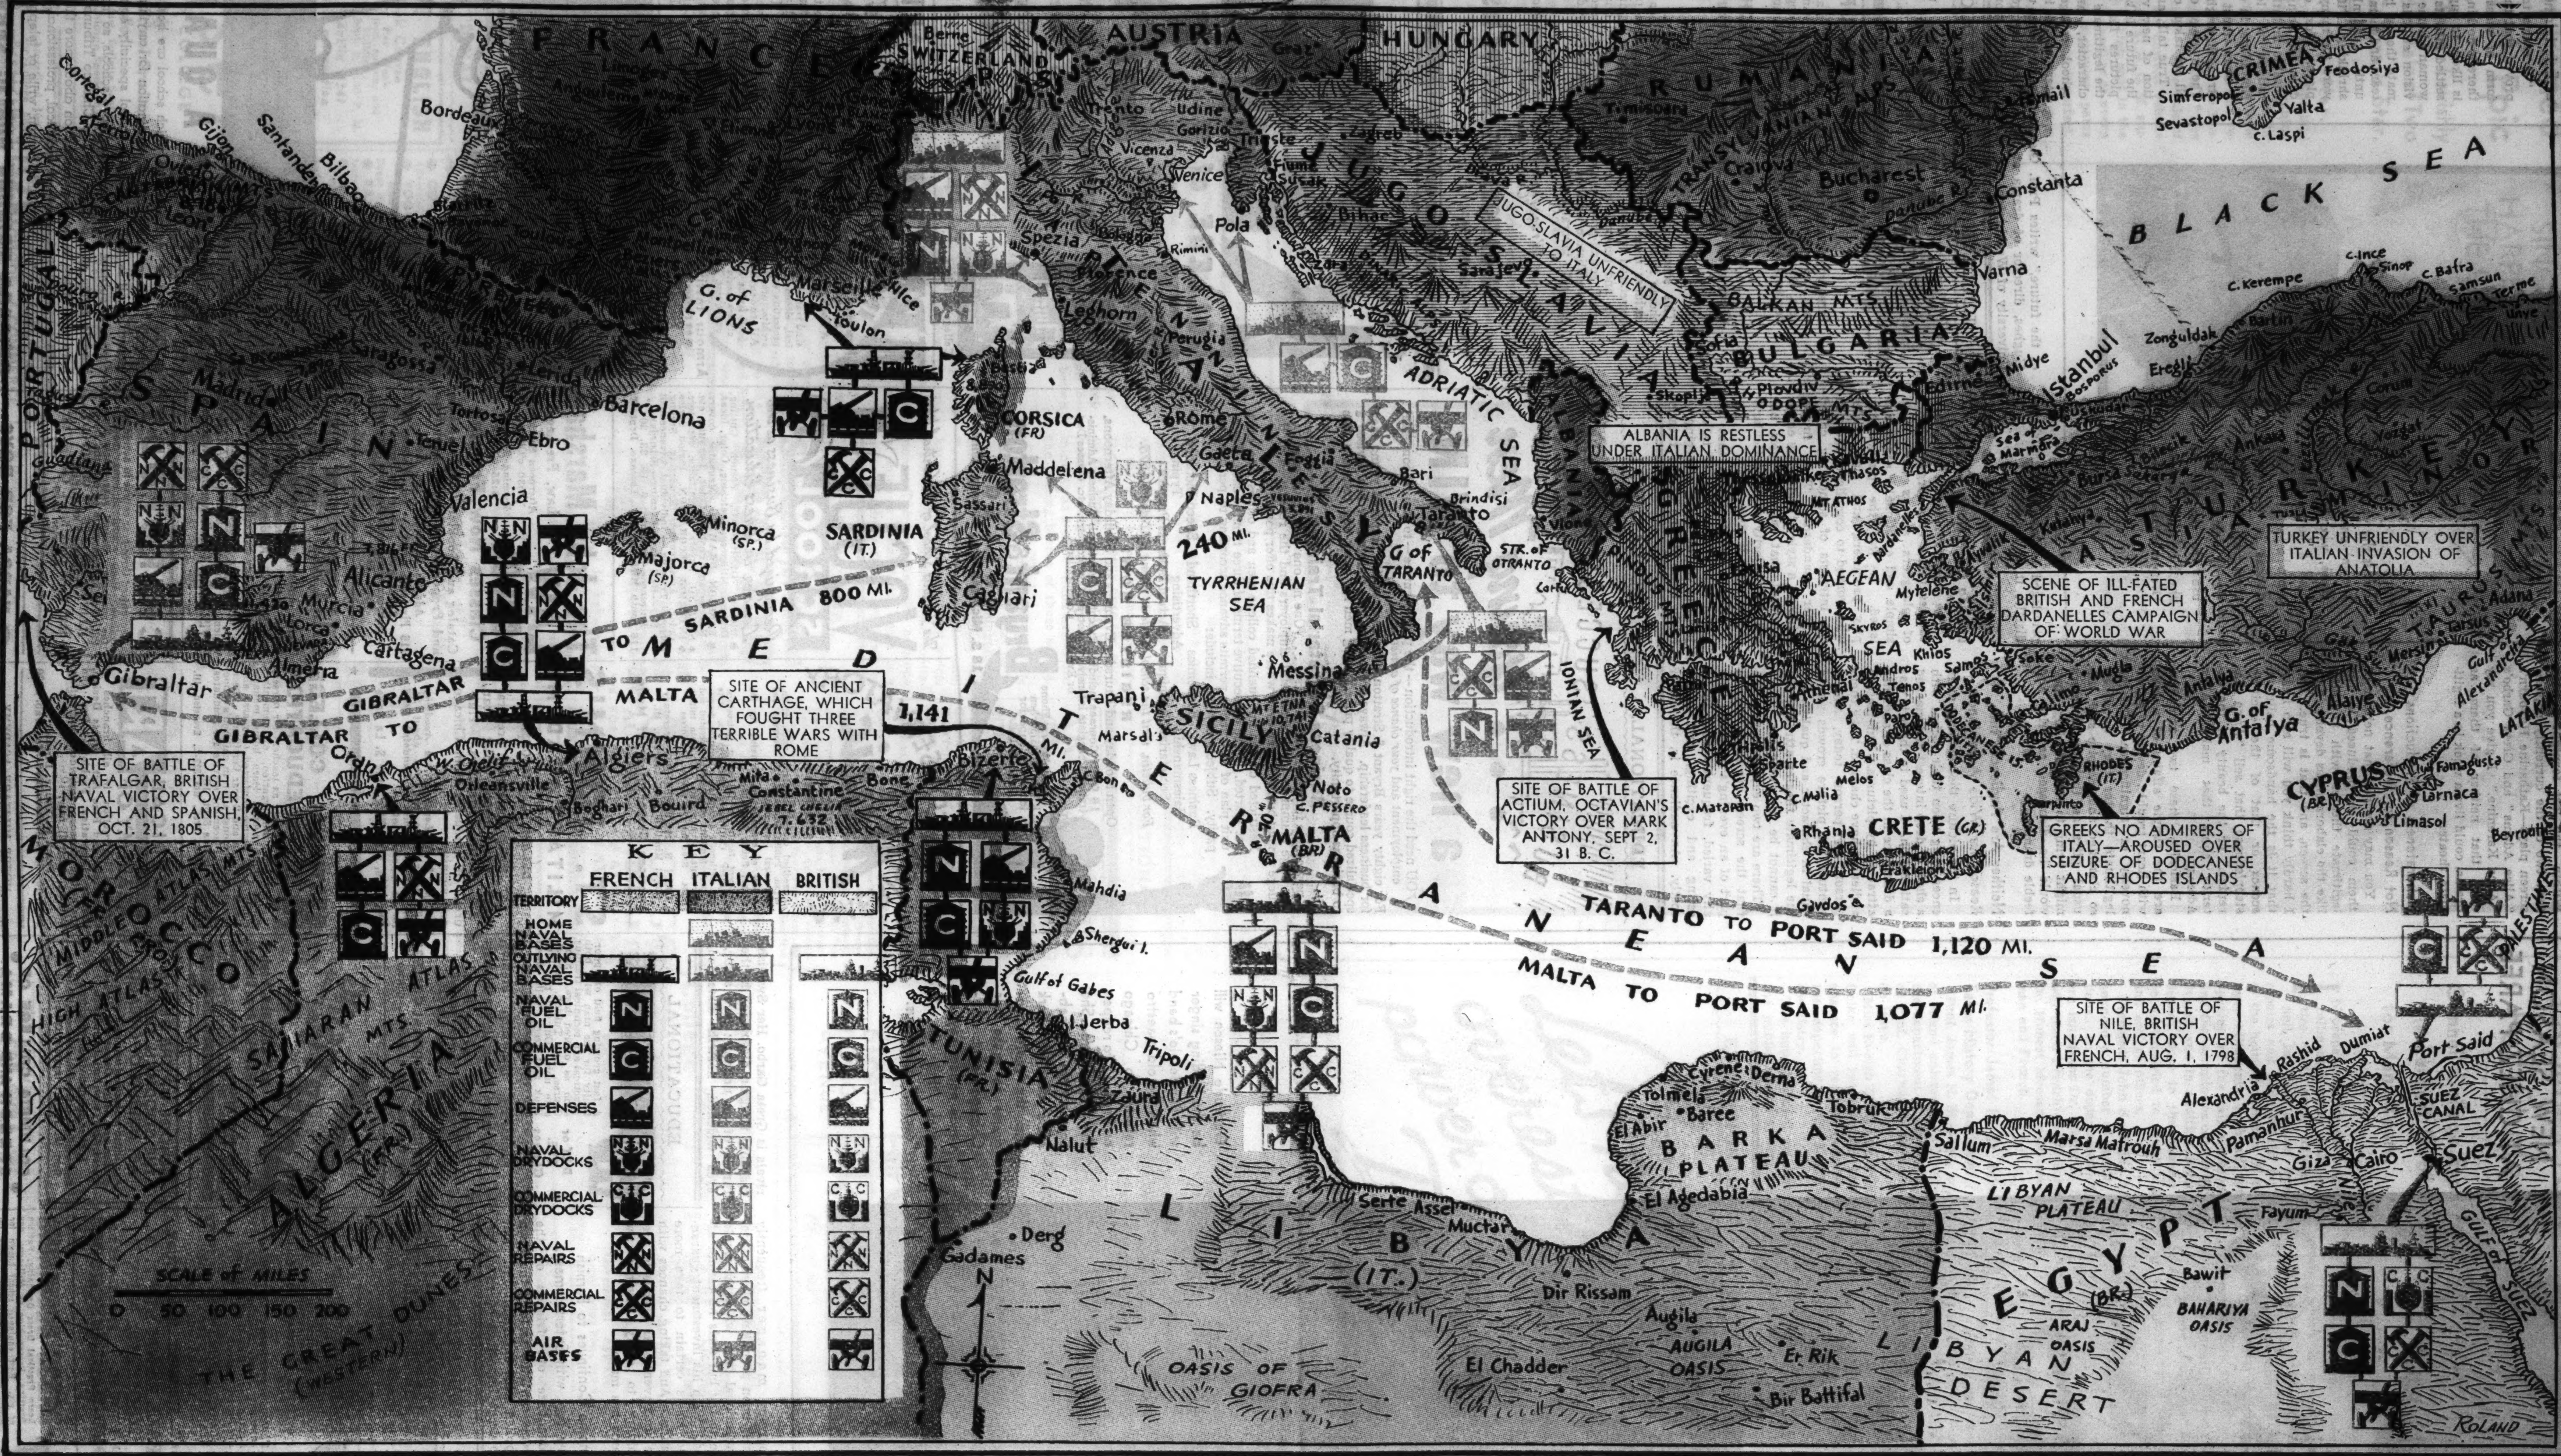
Italy Threatens to Test Might of British Fleet on Mediterranean



War map of the Mediterranean sea

Great Inland Sea Is Key to Africa and Possible Scene of Naval Conflict

By DAVID DARRAH

IS THE Mediterranean, the inland sea which separates Europe and Africa, again, as in the time of ancient Rome and Carthage, destined to become the scene of a struggle for naval dominance, this time between the British empire and what Mussolini believes to be the beginning of his new empire? The next few months or perhaps weeks will tell. Confident in the power of his air force and submarines, Il Duce believes he can challenge the hitherto unchallengeable British navy, at least in the Mediterranean. And the struggle may determine whether naval strategy in the future may not be entirely changed by the new and more powerful air arm.

For some years Mussolini has been aiming at control of the Mediterranean, which is a direct way of throwing down the gauntlet to British prestige in Africa and the orient. Indeed, until a few years ago, when responsibility of office taught him to be more discreet, Il Duce used to declare that the disintegration of the British empire was to the best advantage of Italy, and this, it would seem in view of events taking place today, represented his real thought, although until the Ethiopian campaign Mussolini and all his predecessors in office always have maintained outwardly that friendship with Britain was the keystone of the Italian foreign policy.

That policy was more or less enforced, with Britain controling Gibraltar and Suez and thus able to bottle up Italy effectually. Twelve years ago, for instance, following an incident with Greece over the slaying of Italian members of a boundary commission in Albania, Mussolini ordered his fleet to bombard Corfu. His warships were peppering away at the island when the British battleship Iron Duke appeared on the scene and the bombardment suddenly ceased.

But much water has passed under the bridge since then.

Broadway Promises Greatest Season in Years

Theater Guild Is First Unit to Tell Plans

"If This Be Treason," by Holmes and Lawrence, to Open September 23.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The town is full of gossips and the gossips are full of news, news concerned mostly with the new theater season. But it does not pay to place too much credence in what one hears or reads in the papers. Which, like so many other things, is reminiscent of that native son of the west who was buried a fortnight ago. "All I know is what I read in the papers." How many years do you think it will be before the world that was left desolate by the passing of Will Rogers will be able to read those words without a heart twinge? A good many, I hope. The longer and the better we remember Rogers and the humbling thrusts of his humor the better it will be for us and the world we are helping to mess up.

Most of the gossip, as I say, is related to the new theater season that is about to burst. It has been about to burst these last several weeks, but there has not been anything resembling bursting weather to encourage it. One cannot herd people into the old-time theaters, innocent as most of them are of air conditioning improvements, while the thermometer is still hovering around the middle eighties. The season does promise, however, once it is started, to be much the most interesting and important theater season we have had in many years.

Guild's Play a Plea for Peace.

The Theater Guild is the first of the important producing units to make definite promises. Its executives were of a mind to hold off the Guild's activities until October, but noting the trend of playgoers they have advanced their productions to the third week in September. Last week announcement was made that the first Guild play would be "If This Be Treason," which is a plea for peace and should fit in nicely with the war activities engaging Europe directly, and these peaceful states indirectly. "If This Be Treason" is the joint work of John Haynes Holmes, pastor of our most popular community church, and Reginald Lawrence. It has to do, I hear, with the danger of our becoming embroiled in trouble with those who would like to take command of the Pacific. The production of this play has been put forward to Sept. 23.

The Guild also has advanced the showing of the "Taming of the Shrew" to early October. This will bring in Lynn Fontanne and Alfred Lunt from weeding the garden and counting the calves on their Wisconsin farm for a preliminary opening in Philadelphia next week. They are starting rehersals with almost the same company with which they toured briefly last spring.

Lunt, Fontanne, and Coward Are Partners with Guild in Revival.

Lunt, Fontanne, and Noel Coward are partners with the Guild in this revival, being represented by the John C. Wilson who is the Coward spokesman in all negotiations. Their first venture, which was last season's "Point Valaine," did not do so well, and they all are extremely anxious about the reception of "The Shrew."

Coward, meantime, is fussing with a repertory idea in London. He has, by report, written no fewer than six plays of varying lengths and is writing three more. These he plans to produce at the rate of three an evening, with Gertrude Lawrence as his chief assistant. Some of the plays are dramatic, others musical, but they all are exclusively Coward material. They will be tried first in the provinces and later in London. Whether Lunt and Fontanne also are investing in this odd venture of their London pal the gossips have not said.

The Guild's third production will be the musicalized "Porgy," now called "Porgy and Bess," for which they have engaged the Alvin theater and set Oct. 15 as the date. This all-colored opera, with a George Gershwin score, should do its bit to startle the natives. Something interesting, at least, to look forward to.

Gossips Predict No Trouble in Financing the New Plays.

The gossips also are convinced that there is going to be no trouble about the financing of new plays this coming season. Any play of promise, they say, is assured a trial through the aid of "movie money"; even the little fleas of Hollywood, who have bigger fleas to bite 'em and incite 'em, are declared to be more than anxious to risk any sum from a modest $10,000 to $50,000 on any promising play that later may be turned to screen use. This in imitation of their masters, the overlords of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Fox, and Paramount, who already have committed themselves to a series of experimental productions.

This could result in a number of interesting experiments. Many a producing manager frequently comes upon promising plays of unconventional form which he would like to try but feels he cannot afford. With his investment guaranteed he is certain to take more chances. And taking chances with the unconventional drama is preliminary to every advance the drama has made.

Meantime our friends of the cinema continue to keep the town supplied with entertainment. Not the least important of recent arrivals is Greta Garbo. Her Swedish ladyship is again discovered in the throes of an unhappy love affair, eyes widened, nostrils distended, breathing uncertain. This time the story is that of the lightly defiant "Anna Karenina."

It continues to be difficult for me to understand certain reactions to the motion picture drama. Within the last fornight I have seen two of the currently popular screen plays—Katharine Hepburn's "Alice Adams" and Greta Garbo's "Anna Karenina." I give you my word that neither of them, as drama, could live a week in a legitimate theater.

Elaborateness of Productions Not Reason for Preference.

You may answer that neither of them could be produced in the legitimate theater with anything like the elaborateness developed on the screen, and that is true. But I hardly think you will also insist that it is the handsome ballroom scenes or that of the exciting steeplechase that sell "Anna Karenina," or the beauty of the exterior shots that make "Alice Adams."

Basically, these two romances are the simple affairs of women with heart trouble, devoid of either novelty or significance. In the legitimate theater they would be so classified and, despite such unusual gifts as their interpreters might bring to their reading, they would be dismissed as trite and feeble dramas.

Neither Are Audiences the Reason for Wide Acceptance.

In the picture theater huge audiences hang upon their recital with a show of deep interest and marked satisfaction. I used to think it was a difference in the class of audience attracted by pictures. But picture audiences have changed. Take them person for person today, and I venture the picture crowds would equal in character and quality any the legitimate theater attracts. So it cannot be the audiences.

There are two explanations: One that the screen drama is only a part of an evening's program, usually varied, frequently both interesting and exciting, and never costly. An audience is, therefore, privileged to take it seriously or dismiss it as incidental.

Legitimate Stage Reaches Peak Leaving the Majority Cold.

The other explanation is that the theater tastes of a large majority of playgoers always have been simple and emotionally easily satisfied. It was the playwrights, play producers, and play critics who worked to complicate them in the interests of something called higher standards. They finally achieved a style of legitimate entertainment that satisfied them but left the majority cold, particularly at the price it cost.

"Out of the confusion that followed the introduction of talking pictures is at least emerging a fairly clear outline of the theater of the future," writes Prof. Glenn Hughes, director of drama at the University of Washington and one of the saner observers of theater trends, to the editor of the New Leader.

Nothing to Supplant Movies as Entertainment for Masses.

"It seems to me pretty definitly proved that the talking film is the form of mass entertainment and there is nothing on the horizon that is likely to supplant it. Radio has settled into its natural place as the woman's home companion, and television still is feeble. The legitimate theater has shrunk, amid the tears and memoirs of the old-timers, until suddenly it has stopped shrinking. Fifteen years ago there were too many theaters, too many plays. Most of them had no excuse for being. They were inexcusable imitations of previous imitations of legitimate successes. Nowadays, in order to exist at all, a show must have some sort of strength, originality, and character. The average entertainment values all are taken care of by the films."

True talk, and on such a foundation of new values the theater of the future is building. The talking pictures for mass entertainment, the legitimate theater for strength, character, and originality, and school, college, and amateur theaters to fill in vacant spaces the country over until the professional theater can get back to them with something worthy of support.

Gertrude Niesen will be the leading singer with Ben Bernie's band when the old maestro returns to Chicago on Sept. 12 to reopen the Chez Paree. She comes from the cabarets of New York and the radio programs to make her Chicago debut. Advance notices say, as usual, that she is "exotic," glamorous."

Super Shots Depict Famed French Epic

Funds and Talent Lavishly Expended in 'Tale of Two Cities'; Colman Is Star.

By Rosalind Shaffer.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special.]—Some idea of the organization that is necessary in the filming of large spectacle scenes can be gained from the recent shooting of the fall of the Bastille for the historic film, "The Tale of Two Cities." "The Tale of Two Cities" is the current vehicle for Ronald Colman at M. G. M. studio. This scene, a high spot in the Dickens classic, is familiar to every schoolchild and particular pains have to be taken to make it perfect. Neither trouble nor expense was spared. The planning behind the whole project was, of course, all inclusive and painstaking, as any slip-up would be most costly, due to the number of people employed in the scenes.

Five thousand three hundred extras received calls to work. Every source was combed for types that could be used before the cameras. Fifteen were ultimately used to catch all angles of the battle scene. One camera was on a stand erected sixty feet in the air, said to be the highest ever used for such a purpose.

Fifty-five Assistant Directors Aid Conway.

Jack Conway, directing the huge mob, was aided by every assistant director under contract at the studio—fifty-five in all. Some of these wore costumes and makeup and circulated constantly among the enormous mob of extras, seeing that orders planned beforehand, or shouted through the microphones all over the huge outdoor set, were carried out promptly. Sections of the mob pouring into the open square through various streets had to be handled quickly and deftly to make the desired effect. A group of uniformed soldiers, gorgeously colorful in contrast to the drab, dirty, ragged populace, had to make their way quickly into position before the entrance of the huge medieval fortress. This handling of mass movements is the most difficult thing a director faces in making spectacles, for in spite of every precaution a few people get out of place and spoil the effect of the scene.

The costuming of all these extras presented another problem. Thirty-seven wardrobe experts, some borrowed from other studios, forty-three makeup men and women, thirty-two prop men, and more than 100 technical workers in various lines were employed on the scene. Thirty studio policemen kept the crowds of extras in line for the handing out of their wardrobe, their makeup treatment, and other routine matters that had to be handled as quickly as possible to cut down time not used before the camera. Studio cashiers and clerks accomplished the paying off of the mob in eighty minutes at the end of the day.

Mob Scene Holds Hollywood's Record for Extras.

This mob scene holds Hollywood's record for number of extras used in a scene, not barring "Intolerance," "Birth of a Nation," or any other opus of the old days. Only one larger mob was ever used and that was in Mexico during the same director's [Jack Conway] filming of "Viva Villa."

Experienced directors always insist upon the best actors to play even small rôles when such a huge scene is to be made. It would seem to an outsider that almost any actor could be trusted to read a line or two or go through some bit of business, but it is not so. It is real economy in the end to use an experienced, able actor or actress, as extra shots are then seldom needed. A few retakes of a big scene might well run into thousands of dollars. This is the explanation of the group of names on the cast sheet—Blanche Yurka, Mitchell Lewis, Reginald Owen, Henry B. Walthall, Fritz Leiber, Claude Gillingwater, Tully Marshall, Walter Catlett, Donald Woods, Lucille Laverne, and Ralph Bushman. Edna Mae Oliver, not working in it, was present, nevertheless, to see the shooting of the huge scene. Without makeup Edna Mae is a much younger woman than you'd suspect, and much better looking, one of her charms being a mass of soft, light brown curls.

French Peasants Make Terrifying Sight.

The stirring scenes in which the French peasants assaulted what was considered an impregnable fortress, not so much because of the seven prisoners that history tells were the only occupants of the cells, but because the bastille symbolized tyranny to them, were thrillingly enacted. The pitchforks, scythes, rakes—and every sort of implement that could take an edge or point—carried by these peasants made a terrifying sight. One man who had gained a position half way up the stone walls of the bastille and had been wounded, in the story, was doing a slow job of frying to death in the hot California sun that beat down on him on the merciless, shadeless face of the stone and stucco set. When the camera would stop he would relax and pull himself upright for a brief respite, but at the word he would hang the upper part of his body over the edge of the ledge on which he lay, his head hanging limply downward for minutes at a time. Such extras are the unsung heroes of these scenes.

Dick Powell has finally got his back up about this story that he is studying to be an opera singer. On the set of "Thanks a Million" at Twentieth Century-Fox, he said, have no illusions about my voice, I know its possibilities and limitations. The idea that this baritone of mine is suitable for opera is a piece of idiocy that I wouldn't be guilty of. I'm not studying to be another Lawrence Tibbett. I'm just taking lessons trying to improve my voice. I'm a microphone crooner and that's where I plan to stay."

Add Housing Facilities for Fall Students

Grinnell College Expects the Largest Enrollment for Many Years.

IN preparation for the largest enrollment in many years, authorities of Grinnell college, Grinnell, Ia., have caused extensive repairs and additions to be made to the housing facilities of the college. Students arriving for the opening of the fall semester will find the dormitories completely renovated and in addition seven residences close to the campus have been remodeled to house students and college offices.

President John S. Nollen has announced a number of faculty additions. In the department of modern languages Dr. Elbert M. Smith will teach French and Spanish and Dr. Hubert Meesen will teach German and French.

Professor James H. St. John Takes History Department.

Prof. James H. St. John, formerly of Miami university, will take over the department of history in place of Prof. Charles E. Payne, who is on leave.

Miss Evelyn Boyd and William C. Oelke will return from leaves of absence to resume their work in the departments of English and chemistry.

The importance of art classes in the public school system recently was explained by Miss Edith L. Nichols, director of fine arts in the public schools of New York City.

"The major aim in art beginnings in the schools," she said, "is to provide children with a joyful outlook on life. A young child, even the 6 year old, draws as naturally as he speaks. His first art efforts, like those of primitive men, tell a story. Lines and colors in his pictures are crude but they satisfy him; give him a thrill.

Art Helps to Make Other Subjects Easier.

"Through art other subjects are made more interesting to him. Geography, history, reading, observation trips, he visualizes happily by means of this crude picture method. In time, when he discovers other persons are not getting a corresponding thrill out of his illustrations, he begins to respond to suggestions.

"Today the teacher is not a dictator, but a helper. She strives to provide the child with a means of expressing logically his creative impulse. Part of her job is to assist him to a more adult approach, not through dictated or imposed methods, but through his own natural evolution away from crude beginnings."

SINGS WITH HAMP'S ORCHESTRA

Kaye Kernan is the featured singer with Johnny Hamp's band, which is making its debut in the Marine dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel. She comes from Cincinnati, where Hamp discovered her in amateur shows.

Change in Cast

RUTH LEE, who has succeeded Dennie Moore in "Three Men on a Horse," was discovered by Manager Alex Yokel last season on Broadway in "Lost Horizons." A few months ago, when the Pacific coast company of "Three Men on a Horse" was being organized, Yokel cast her as Mabel, better known to the ticket buyers as "Patsy's Moll." From the western company she came to the Chicago cast.

In "Queer People," season before last, Miss Lee shared New York honors with Gladys George, who is now the hit of "Personal Appearances." She appeared here in "Hush Money" and also with two of Sam Harris' hits, "We Americans" and "Sisters." Later she acted the blonde cheater in "June Moon."

Prospects Bright for Repetition of Free Concerts in 1936

Second Grant Park Series Petrillo's Aim

Three-Orchestra Program Under Stock Fitting Climax to 1935 Season.

By Edward Moore.

WEATHER permitting, some 225 musicians, the combined membership of the Chicago Symphony, Chicago Opera, and Woman's Symphony orchestras, will assemble in the band shell of Grant park tonight and play a concert under the baton of Frederick Stock, the conductor of the first named organization.

It is a farewell to one of the most agreeable summers of music Chicago has ever known, and it is only fitting that Mr. Stock, distinguished musician and citizen, should be called upon to provide the climax, just as he did last summer when the Chicago Symphony orchestra was closing its engagement at A Century of Progress. This summer there have been sixty-four concerts—tonight's will be the sixty-fifth—by orchestras and bands of Chicago, all providing first class music and all attended by enormous audiences in a fine spirit of democracy. One is told that the largest audience was something like 70,000 in numbers.

Final Program Has Great Variety.

In answer to Miss Emily Herms and others who have written to this desk and Vox Pop asking whether there will be a similar series next summer, one can answer that the prospects are fairly promising. They will be more than that if James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, has his way. He is greatly enthusiastic over the idea and its results, and he is exerting every energy for a continuation of the series.

Mr. Stock will conduct the following program:

"Rienzi" Overture .............Wagner
Fourth Symphony ........Tschaikowsky
"Merry Wives of Windsor" Overture.........Nicolai
Adagio Pathetique ..............Godard
"Ride of the Valkyries".......Wagner
"Cavalleria Rusticana" Intermezzo.........Mascagni
"Wine, Woman, and Song" Waltzes.........Strauss
THE STAR SPANGLED BANNER.

Lake View Musical Society. Entering Fortieth Year.

In reading the announcement of the Lake View Musical society, one finds the rather striking statement that this organization is entering no less than its fortieth season. It was founded in 1895 by a group of seven women at the home of its first president, Mrs. Emma S. L. Chase. The object was the formation of an association of women to develop the musical talent of its members and to stimulate musical interest in Chicago.

For twenty-five years meetings were held in the homes of members. By that time membership had grown too great to make this practicable. For the next five years meetings were held at the Parkway hotel, and for the following five at the Fortnightly club. Since 1930 they have been at the Blackstone hotel.

The club has had twenty-one presidents, the present incumbent being Mrs. Cora Willis Ware. It was incorporated during the presidency of Mrs. William M. Thompson in 1915.

Has Helped Brilliant Musicians to Fame.

The main project of the club has been the giving of scholarships to young musicians, some $10,000 having been expended for that purpose. For a number of years contests were held at which the winning pianist, violinist, singer, and cellist were given $100 each. Later the plan was changed to give $250 scholarships to the Civic Music association, the recipients selected by Frank Stock and a committee. Among the winners have been Harold Ayers, now concert master of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra, and Alexander Gray, a well known baritone of the stage and radio.

In 1916 a memorial and endowment fund was established, the income being used for extension work to pay members for giving concerts at hospitals, homes for the aged, and other institutions. At the death of Mrs. Beatrice Ives Welles a fund was set apart in her name to be used for sending flowers to members at their debut recitals.

The Lake View Musical society is affiliated with the Illinois Federation of Music clubs and holds membership in the National Federation of Music clubs. Its first meeting of the coming season will be at the Blackstone hotel, Nov. 11, with a program and reception in honor of the president, Mrs. Cora Willis Ware. Succeeding meetings will be held on the second Monday of each month, and active member concerts will be given on the fourth Monday of each month.

News of Interest to Lovers of Music.

Further word from sponsors of the big orchestral concert in Grant park tonight is to the effect that station W-G-N will broadcast it in its entirety and will be the only Chicago station to undertake the whole program. The first half of the concert will be sent to other parts of the country over the Mutual Broadcasting system.

In addition to Goeta Ljungberg and Cyrena Van Gordon, whose names have already been announced as members of Fortune Gallo's San Carlo Opera company during its stay at the Auditorium, word now comes that the little Japanese soprano, Hizi Koyke, has been reëngaged, and that therefore "Mme. Butterfly" will take as an important a part in the répertoire as "Aïda" and "Carmen."

The season will open Monday, Oct. 14, with "Aïda," for which the newly organized auxiliary of the Illinois Masonic Hospital association is selling the boxes and seats in aid of its charity fund. Mrs. Clifton K. Timmons is president, Mrs. Alfred E. Grann is chairman of the ticket committee, and Mrs. Drew Head is co-chairman. The leading rôles in this performance will be sung by Bianca Saroya, Aroldo Lindi, and Miss Van Gordon.

Miss Koyke will appear in "Mme. Butterfly" Tuesday. On Wednesday Goeta Ljungberg will make her Chicago operatic debut as Elsa in "Lohengrin." By the way, Mr. Gallo's herald of publicity announces that the way to pronounce her name in American spelling is "Yoat-uh Yoorgbairg." She will rejoin the Metropolitan in New York for her fourth consecutive season later in the autumn.

Then will come "Carmen," "Rigoletto," "Faust," "Il Trovatore," and the double bill of "Cavalleria Rusticana" to complete the week.

Mr. Lindi and Miss Van Gordon will open the second week in "Samson and Delilah." On the following night, Tuesday, Mme. Ljungberg will make her second appearance and Miss Van Gordon her third as the Elizabeth and Venus of "Tannhäuser." The week will continue with "La Traviata," a repetition of "Mme. Butterfly," "La Bohême," with Miss Saroya, "Martha," and repetitions of "Aïda" and "Carmen."

The third and final week will begin with another opera new to the San Carlo répertoire, "The Jewels of the Madonna," Miss Saroya heading the cast. "Samson and Delilah" and "Faust" are due again, and then the only performance of "Tosca," with Mme. Ljungberg in the name part, a performance that would seem to have stirred up about as much interest as her German rôles. Then will come "Aïda," "Mme. Butterfly," and "Carmen," and the season will come to an end with "Il Trovatore" Sunday, Nov. 3.

Arthur Kraft, tenor, will present Schubert's song cycle, "Die Schoene Muellerin," with Helen Taylor at the piano, in Fullerton hall Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Abbey Theater Acts O'Casey "Silver Tassie"

Irish Players Begin a New Regime with a Drama Rejected Years Ago.

By Andrew E. Malone.
[Author of "The Irish Drama."]

EIGHT years have passed since Dublin was profoundly shocked by the Abbey theater's rejection of Sean O'Casey's "The Silver Tassie," but one of the most distinguished audiences ever gathered into that theater gave the play a most enthusiastic reception as its first production there recently. It is true that there was some hissing from the pit, but that sign of disapproval, however it may grow in volume as the run of the play proceeds, was almost completely eliminated by the prolonged and thunderous applause of a crowded and critical audience. Time after time the curtain rose and fell at the end as the company took its bows, and calls for the author brought the producer, Arthur Shields, to the footlights.

While the production was undoubtedly successful, it nevertheless did a great deal to justify Mr. Yeats' original criticism. Summary rejection it did not justify, but, then, no rejection of an O'Casey play by the Abbey theater could be justified after its directors had accepted such trivialities as the same author's "Nannie's Night Out" and "Kathleen Listens In." Perhaps the change from being a dramatist working in Dublin materials in the technique of the Abbey theater to a dramatist who thought he was taking all the world for his material and molding it into something that would meet with the approval of Huntly Carter and the "expressionists" was too sudden for the directors of the Abbey theater. It may be that O'Casey overlooked the fact that in dealing with the denizens of Dublin tenement slums he dealt with the workers of the world, and that in accepting a novel technique he accepted something that was even in 1927 outmoded. Wherever Sean O'Casey may go, and whatever he may do for drama in the future, he can no more escape from his youth in Dublin than can Bernard Shaw.

Technical Flaws in O'Casey's Work.

Fortunately there is no more reason for accepting "The Silver Tassie" as O'Casey's best play than there is for believing that it should have been rejected eight years ago by the Abbey theater. It is a very uneven play, hanging very loosely together, with two excellent if unrelated acts and two acts that are amazingly amateurish. The first act, in a Dublin tenement, is the O'Casey authenticated by "Juno and the 'Paycock'" and "The Plough and the Stars"—the inconsequence of Tchechov with the vivacity of the Dublin slums.

The impressive second act is a totally different matter. Here the "expressionism" of the Toller school takes command, and the effort to cram the great war into a single act is hardly a success. So long as O'Casey is content to project his own experience he is a master playwright, but when he begins to think, and to offer his thought in play form, he is still in the adolescent age. The transformation from the Dublin tenement to the rest billet behind the lines in France might be more tightly knit if Harry Heegan figured in both with the same conspicuous vitality. But these two acts are really the entire play; the rest is mere aftermath.

In the third and fourth acts events follow each other without cohesion or coherence, interlarded with clowning of third rate variety quality with baths and telephones. Quite inconsequentially people who moved in one social sphere in the first act are moving in another in the third and fourth.

Start of New Regime at Abbey.

But when all has been said, and when the technical faults have been emphasized; when it has been seen how untrue to themselves are the characters, how unconvincing the chants of the second act, and how the other two acts peter out into insignificance, it still remains to be repeated that the play should never have been rejected by the Abbey theater.

The production and the acting of the full Abbey Theater company left nothing to be desired. The two typical O'Casey cronies, Sylvester Heegan and Simon Norton, were delightfully portrayed by Barry Fitzgerald and Michael J. Dolan, while F. J. McCormick made Harry Heegan another of his memorable character studies. The women are shadowy creatures, but Eileen Crowe cleverly conveyed the subtle changes in Susie Monican, and a newcomer to the Abbey theater, Aideen O'Connor, did all that was possible with Jessie Taite. The setting for the second act was designed by Maurice McGonigal, R. H. A., and shows that in him the Abbey has a stage designer of great promise.

This first departure from tradition on the part of the new board of the Abbey theater is distinctly encouraging and promises a great revival in the immediate future.

Three Marx Brothers.

The Marx Brothers [Harpo, Groucho, and Chico] will probably return to the New York stage this season in a musical show. This is a scheme to which they are being urged by the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer firm, which hopes to base a movie on the production.

"THUNDER IN THE EAST"

Barrymore Tour

THIS season Ethel Barrymore will go on a coast to coast tour of "The Constant Wife," a play by Somerset Maugham, and will visit many small cities which have not seen a dramatic production for years. Opening in the McCarter theater at Princeton, N. J., on Oct. 7, she will appear in such cities as Allentown and Newcastle in Pennsylvania; East Liverpool, Marion, and Springfield in Ohio; Evansville and Terre Haute in Indiana; Paducah and Hopkinsville in Kentucky; Shreveport, La., Columbia, S. C., and Savannah, Ga.—to mention a few of them. A Chicago engagement is in prospect for midwinter.

Champion Author.

Frederick Jackson, who staged nine plays of his own authorship during the summer at Scarborough, N. Y., will put four of them into Broadway competition. They are called "The King's Messenger," "Backward," "The Road to Paradise," and "Corrida."

SCHEHERAZADE
Played by Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra
An Orchestral Interpretation Famous the World Over ...Now Available on Victor "Higher Fidelity" Records
NOTHING could better demonstrate the miracle of "Higher Fidelity" than this new recording of Scheherazade. All the resources of the matchless Philadelphia Orchestra are enlisted, almost every instrument lifts its voice, to unfold the exotic and richly varied tales of "The Thousand and One Nights". Victor "Higher Fidelity" recording brings it all to you, bright with life, faithful in every infinitesimal shading of tone and mood.
Rimsky-Korsakow takes you from the cosmic rhythm of the sea to the turbulent sounds and raucous colors of an Oriental market place—from the moon-flooded romance of the young prince and princess to the soul-shattering wreck of the ship. But the special, breathless drama of this performance comes from the skill of Dr. Stokowski.
Only the marvelous sensitivity of "Higher Fidelity" recording could capture it all. Hear it at your dealer's. The glittering purity of the reproduction will sweep over you with all the surging power of the original performance.

GOOD Morning!

KIND: Melodrama.

QUALITY: Fair.

DIRECTION: So so. There are a couple of big movie "boners." See if you can find them.

STORY: Not so believable. A tap dancer—male—is the victim of circumstantial evidence. Sent to the penitentiary for manslaughter he escapes, is befriended by a night club entertainer. Hides his identity under a mask; puts on a successful act with his benefactress; is "turned up" by a jealous former partner—and so—and so. . . . C. H. E. The "C" stands for "comparatively."

BitsaBOUTem.

LILY PONS, grand opera star, who is in Hollywood making her picture debut, will combine grand opera and popular music by singing two of her favorite arias and introducing three popular songs written for her by Jerome Kern and Dorothy Fields in "Love Song." . . . DENNIE MOORE, who left the cast of "Three Men On a Horse" to go to Hollywood to appear in "Sylvia Scarlett," starring KATHARINE HEPBURN, loves to roller skate. One of the first things she did when she arrived in Hollywood was to look up a roller rink. Her brother, Joe, is an ice skating champion. . . . MICHAEL BARTLETT, who has just finished work opposite CLAUDETTE COLBERT in "She Married Her Boss," is having his home redecorated, awaiting the arrival of his mother and father, who will remain with him until after Thanksgiving.

VICTOR McLAGLEN and FREDDIE BARTHOLOMEW are to be co-starred in the screen version of "Professional Soldier," written by Damon Runyon. . . . MARLENE DIETRICH, who is seldom seen in anything except men's clothing, has thirty pairs of white slacks and more than twenty-seven white blouses in her personal wardrobe. . . . Production on "Ramona" has been postponed for at least two months until LORETTA YOUNG is able to return to work. Her physician has forbidden her to go before the camera for that length of time. "Her condition is not serious," her doctor says, "but she should have a complete rest."

BRUCE CABOT has been borrowed by Darryl F. Zanuck to play a featured rôle in "Snatched," a spectacular exposé of the kidnaping racket. Mr. Cabot will have a rôle similar to that which he portrayed in "Let 'Em Have It." HERBERT RAWLINSON has also been given an important rôle in this production. . . . BETTE DAVIS and LESLIE HOWARD will play the leading rôles in the screen version of "The Petrified Forest." . . . JOAN BLONDELL and GLENDA FARRELL, the two blonde comedians, have finished "We're In the Money" and are now ready to start work on another picture. # Shirley Temple Greeted by Her Public

Shirley Temple, home from her rather hectic "vacation" in Honolulu, greeted her home town public at the preview of Nino Martini's new film "Here's to Romance" at the Chinese theater this week. Shirley was surrounded by a mob of anxious autograph hounds and curious sightseers, and twice held so solidly in their midst she was unable to get out for almost an hour.

Shirley was delighted, on visiting the rabbit hutch outside her playroom at the studio, to discover eighteen white bunnies instead of the four she left behind. Ann Ronnell, responsible for the lyric "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Wolf?" is now writing the songs for Shirley's new vehicle, "The Littlest Rebel," and, incidentally, is teaching a class in lyric writing at the University of Southern California.

Rochelle Hudson, who played the romantic lead with Shirley in "Curly Top," is now busy every noon practicing machine gun shooting for her rôle in "Snatched," a G-man story, being made at Twentieth Century-Fox studios. The man in charge of the studio arsenal takes a half hour at lunch time to instruct Rochelle. The pair go down a gully at the back of the studio lot where "What Price Glory" was made and work on machine gun firing. Heavy work for such a dainty girl!

"The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo" set has two Colmans and two Clives on it. Ronald Colman is the star and Charles Colman is a waiter in the cast. Colin Clive is a featured actor and E. E. Clive plays a captain of waiters. The casting director had a bit of confusion at first but now reports the situation well in hand.

Rubinoff, the violinist, and Fred Allen are having a time of it topping each other's gags. Working in Dick Powell's picture, the pair are always at it, ribbing all the time. Rubinoff sneaked into Allen's dressing room and with a makeup stick scrawled on the mirror, "Rubinoff says Fred Allen is the world's worst film actor." Allen called in Rubinoff, whose smirks changed to a frown when he read what Fred had done with two commas: "Rubinoff, says Fred Allen, is the world's worst film actor," the mirror read.

Twentieth Century-Fox Films are dedicating their new $200,000 sound stage to the memory of Will Rogers. Over the portals will be placed a bronze plaque bearing the genial countenance of the beloved star, with a suitable inscription. The structure is one of the largest edifices built for film use.

Among those bearing a real and close grief over the death of Rogers is his old friend, William S. Hart, who many times was host or guest of Rogers. Last Thanksgiving Rogers noted in his daily comment that he was having Bill as his guest for Thanksgiving and probably would again, because Hart brought along his own turkey! Hart told the story of the time several years ago when he was at death's door with a serious operation, and Mrs. Rogers went to the hospital with him and stayed all day till he was out of danger. Will Rogers wanted to go up and see his old cowboy and Broadway pal for a few words, but the doctors wouldn't let him. Nevertheless, Rogers was there, genially chatting when the doctor came into Hart's room some time later. He had crawled into the dumb waiter and gone up with the patient's supper.

Rogers never tired of sitting and yarning with Hart. The two men came from similar backgrounds. They understood and admired each other unreservedly. Hart's dinner parties used to include Rogers, Charley Mack of "Two Black Crows" fame, now dead, who had been in the Follies with Rogers and on the road with him, and George Bancroft, also a graduate of the road shows. Mack used to like to talk about those days. Many were the stories the group spun about Hart's festal board and fireside. Mack used to say that Rogers had it on all of them, "if your line fell flat you could always go into your rope twirling, but with the rest of us if we didn't go over so good, there we stood!"

Our own personal pride is a letter from Rogers written from Chicago, where Rogers had seen in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE a writeup by your correspondent of one of these dinner and yarn festivals. It must have tickled him, for the letter went on for over two typewritten pages full of humorous lines for new films he intended making. One, following the pictures that were the rage that year, he entitled "Mammy's Cockeyed Sonny Boy." He said he, the hero, was to play the rôle of Abie Machree, the Yiddish son of Mammy Machree, and proprietor of a nightgown factory he bought from the Ku Klux Klan.

Charles Bickford has just bought a silver mine over in Nevada and will go to see the property shortly when he has completed "Rose of the Rancho" at Paramount.

Irving Cummings, director, is off on his yearly swordfishing expedition. He has made seventeen of these annual trips and has had extraordinary luck in that he has never caught nor even seen a swordfish on any of them.

Lew Pollack, song writer, says radio and films are killing the song writing business. He claims that their constant repetition of songs kills the sale of sheet music and royalties drop as a consequence. "Isle of Capri" he quotes as selling around 400,000 copies. In another era, he believes, it would have hit a million and a half.

"East Lynne" Again

"East Lynne," famous old time drama, will be revived aboard the showboat Dixiana tomorrow night. Its last performance in Chicago was in 1916 at the Victoria theater, with Harry Minturn playing the leading male rôle.

First produced in New York City in 1863, the play was offered to Chicago the following year, when Lucille Western, an eminent actress of the period, made the part of Lady Isobel one of the strongest rôles in her répertoire. Later Ada Gray, another well known actress, played the same character for many years in "stock." In 1898 at the Great Northern theater the popular Anne Sutherland played the leading rôle.

Eugenie Blair, a favorite among Chicago "stock" actresses, played in "East Lynne" for almost ten years—from 1906 to 1916.

'Tobacco Road' from Viewpoint of Georgia Peasantry

Postscript on Drama of Poor White Trash

New Play at the Selwyn Theater Discussed in Its Own Dialect.

By Charles Collins.

IT appears like I gotta say somethin' about that dad-blamed play called "Tobacco Road," about which all the quality folks is hollerin' and r'arin' with excitement. Thar she is, over at the Selwyn theater, goin' like a house afire at the box office and makin' us poor white folks down in Gawgia look mighty mean and low-down.

I tell you, stranger, you never saw such a ornery lot of trash in all y'r life as these people in "Tobacco Road." I reckon if we're all like that, or anywheres near it, we'd better give Gawgia back to the Indians and be quick about it befo' the Lawd smites us with fire and brimstone. They're the doggondest, sinningest, cussingest mess of no-good-at-alls that ever appeared in a play, an' they prove the old preacher was right when he used to say at the revival meetin's that the theater is the house of the devil. Only I reckon nobody is goin' to get tempted into sin by lookin' at an' listening to Jeeter Lester and his kin. Their measly ways would make any scalawag try to turn over a new leaf.

Getting Square With the Jeeters.

It strikes me somehow that it ain't jest right to make human critters seem so bad in a play—like the varmints of the earth instead of like human beings. It strikes me that somehow the feller that wrote the play, or the feller that wrote the book it came from, or both of 'em, sort of had a grudge agin' us poor Gawgia folks. The play sort of sounds as if he hated our guts, an' couldn't see no good in us nohow.

His name is Caldwell, they say, an' he was raised in Gawgia, so I'm thinkin' that maybe there was a feud ya'rs ago between the Caldwells and the Jeeters and Lesters, and maybe Jeeter's grandpappy plugged old man Caldwell in the back one dark night out in the bresh-woods, an' this young feller Caldwell, who went to college and turned out to be a writer, is tryin' to settle the grudge in his own way—which ain't our way.

They tell me, too, that young Caldwell is a minister's son, so mebbe that figgers in the story of how he bore down on us so hard in his book. Mebbe his paw didn't get enough chicken dinners when he went out visitin' the country folks, and on his death bed he said to his boy: "Erskine, try to get square with all them ornery white trash back in the bresh-woods. They didn't treat your pappy right an' I reckon they ain't got no souls, so if you ever get a chance, let 'em have it, both barr'ls."

Remarks on Public Cussing.

Now take all this cussing by Jeeter and the rest of 'em. I'm a profane man myself and it seems as if cuss words sort of slip natural-like out of my mouth, early and late. But I don't hold by cussing in company, especially when quality folks can hear you; it jest ain't polite. This Jeeter, he stands up befo' all them people in the theater and cusses as if he was trying to break a record. He ain't got no shame at all. His cussing is natural, all right; but it kinda sounds as if he was trying to show off. People laugh at his cuss words and that makes him feel biggity and he lets fly some more. He's a blasphemous old hound, and I'm surprised he don't get arrested for disorderly conduct.

I hear tell that up north you can do about anything you please in the way of cussing and messing around with females in public, if you call it art. Seems to me, then, we are jest as well off by having no art down in Gawgia. I dunno exactly what art is, but if it ain't clean and if it don't make a better man of you instead of a wusser, then you folks up north can have it all to yourselves. And, I reckon, you got it.

Henry Hull As an Actor.

The man who takes the part of Jeeter, Henry Hull by name is a powerful fine actor if what I hear tell of him is true—that he is a spry, youngish lookin' feller, with a smooth face, a kind of dude, when he's being himself. He sure gets himself up as Jeeter so his own maw wouldn't recognize him, and he's the spit and image of many an old cracker along the back roads in my part of the country. He talks faster and more than a cracker, though; they ain't much on talkin' down there, and Jeeter sure is a champion. He gabbles and bladges and blathers as if there was a streak of monkey blood in his family.

I sort of snickered once in a while at Jeeter's talk about how great a cotton farmer he would be if anybody gave him a chance. To hear him tell it, he was just bustin' to get hold of a plow and fix himself up a fine crop. But I never seen him make a move to start farming. He whined about never gettin' enough to eat, but he was too dad-blamed lazy to start a patch of garden truck back of the house. The play says he hadn't farmed that land for seven years, so I reckon all the love of the land and all the achin' to till the soil he talked about was just fancy writing by the author.

It reminded me of a book my gal, Viny, who's a school teacher, told me about—a story about a low-down Chinaman that was named "The Good Earth." He was always talking that way, too, but he meant what he said, and was always scratching away in the rice fields. I guess the "Tobacco Road" writer read that book, but forgot that Jeeter wasn't a Chinaman.

White Trash's Gift to History.

Now I want to ask you folks up north one thing before I stop talkin'. Don't think too hard of the white trash down in Gawgia becaze of this play. They're not all Jeeters, not by a long shot. I'll tell you somethin' about them.

A long time ago there was a woman named Hanks, much like this Ada Lester in "Tobacco Road," I imagine. She come out of Virginia into Kentucky, and there she married a man who might have been something like Jeeter Lester, only not so rotten. They lived in an old log shack with a dirt floor. They had a son who is thought mighty well of up north. You can read a lot about him in the history books.

His name was Abraham Lincoln.

Chez Paree to Open Sept. 12; Cabaret Bills

Ben Bernie Returns as Star of Floor Show in Redecorated Night Club.

● When the Chez Paree opens next Thursday its patrons will find $60,000 worth of new decorations. Ben Bernie and his orchestra will make their first café appearance since 1933 for the opening. Gertrude Niesen, singer of radio repute, will make her first night club appearance in Chicago. Jack Holland and June Hart, dancers; Dixie Dunbar of "Life Begins at 8:40," and Edith Mann, tap-toe dancer, are others who will participate in the opening revue.

● Johnny Hamp, whose orchestra has played the leading hotels of America and Europe, will make his debut tomorrow night in the Marine dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel. The appearance of Hamp's orchestra marks a slight change in policy for the Edgewater Beach. Hereafter the dance music will continue until after midnight and until 2:30 a. m. on Saturdays. Only concert music will prevail, as usual, on Sunday nights, with Eduardo Varzos filling the bill starting today. The Varzos concert ensemble will play dinner music from 6 to 8 p. m. on other nights, with Hamp immediately following for dancing.

● Horace Heidt and his orchestra will continue in the Silver Forest of the Drake hotel and in the New Gold Coast room that is to open next month until Jan. 1 or later. The type of floor show offered by Heidt and his array of thirty musicians and singers has proven popular. He has prepared a new series of floor shows, to be changed weekly, for the fall and winter season. Lysbeth Hughes, singing harpist; Alveno Rey, guitarist; the Radio Ramblers, the Four King Sisters, Jerry Bowne and Art Thorsen, and Bob McCoy and Charlie Goodman, soloists, are featured.

● Bobby McLean, champion professional speed skater, is back in Frankie Masters' Ice Carnival at the Hotel Sherman's College Inn after a two weeks' tour of county fairs in Minnesota and Nebraska. With his return, LeMaire and Reynolds and their "Swiss Flirtation" skating act go into the afternoon ice show. With McLean on the evening bill are Roy Shipstad, Bess Ehrhart, Duke and Noble, Shipstad and Johnson, Le Verne Busher, Norval Baptie, Valerie and Roy Fink, and the Four Nelson Sisters.

● Last Thursday night marked the revival of Al Quodbach's Granada café in a new location at 64th street and Cottage Grove avenue. Jessie Reed, recently seen for a week at the Oriental theater, heads a group of entertainers. Dance music is played by Bob Pacelli and his Venetian band.

● The Veloz and Yolanda orchestra, directed by Shep Fields and playing nightly in the Empire room of the Palmer house, is able to fill out a program with the original music of its sponsor, director, and personnel. Frank Veloz, male member of the dancing team of Veloz and Yolanda, has written three songs since his arrival in Chicago. They are "Mello Melody," which a publisher has already agreed to sponsor; "Thanks for the Dance," and also "Mademoiselle." Yolanda has herself been working on a song on which Frank Veloz, Shep Fields, and Geloe Sal, the band's pianist and chief arranger, are helping her. It is titled "The Kissing Lesson." Shep Fields has just completed "The Veolanda," a foxtrot designed to go with the dance of the same name which Veloz and Yolanda are exhibiting nightly. Geloe Sal has written several songs which the band plays nightly. He is also the originator of the orchestra's theme song.

● The Walnut room of the Bismarck hotel celebrated the sixth month anniversary of George Nelidoff's and Leonard Keller's engagement last Thursday night. This is the longest engagement of any dance orchestra or floor show in the Walnut room. This event also marked the opening of the fall season in the Walnut room.

● Glenn Lee and his orchestra, featuring Kea Rea, vocalist, continue at the Terrace Garden of the Hotel Morrison. The Claude Denny foursome provides music for continuous dancing when Lee's organization is not playing.

● After an absence of a month Herr Louie and his comedians are returning to the Rathskellar of Eitel's Old Heidelberg Inn. They will begin their engagement tomorrow night.

● The Villa Moderne, located on Skokie highway and the County Line road, will remain open during the winter months. This café-restaurant has been popular during the summer months. Frank Hutchins, manager, is building an addition to the lounge. A new orchestra, known as the Villa Modernists, began its engagement last week. Cabaret entertainment is offered as well as dancing. A fine cuisine is featured.

● A new policy at Harry's New York cabaret calls for four shows nightly with an early dinner show at 8 p. m. Trudye Davidson, exotic danseuse, continues as star of the floor show.

● Lydia and Joresco will introduce a modified ballroom version of the "Piccolino," latest dance of Ginger Rogers and Fred Astaire, in the Continental room floor show at the Stevens hotel. The "Piccolino" has an Italian flavor and requires much rapid whirling.

● Enric Madriguera, band leader and composer, has been engaged to open in the Terrace Garden of the Hotel Morrison on Oct. 15.

ACTS IN "TOBACCO ROAD"

Producer's Plans

SAM H. GRISMAN, impresario of "Tobacco Road," outlines an active season for himself.

He has acquired the Sigmund Romberg-Otto Harbach operetta, "The Lady In the Window," and will open it Oct. 22. He has bought the dramatic rights to F. Scott Fitzgerald's novel, "Tender Is the Night," and is looking for an adapter. He still counts on doing Jack Kirkland's "Tell Me, Pretty Maiden." Finally, he will send out two more companies of "Tobacco Road."

Variety Bills in Downtown Movie Houses

THE Palace theater's vaudeville show offers two headliners, Eddie Peabody, banjoist, and Helen Charleston. This is Miss Charleston's first venture as a star in her own right. Hitherto she has been identified with the comedian Ken Murray. Others on the bill are Medley and Duprey in comedy antics, Sylvia Manon and her company of dancers, and Gautier's Toy Shop, a European novelty employing trained dogs.

The Chicago theater's stage show contains Holland and Knight, ballroom dancers; Pops and Louie, comedy team; the Pierrotys; Arthur Boran, impersonator; the Evans dancers in ballet spectacles, and the Saxon Sisters, radio and night club singing team.

The State-Lake theater is giving a stage revue entitled "Hollywood Bound." Its players include Swan Lucille and Marie, dancers; Willie Solar, pantomimic comedian; Sara Ann McCabe, singing girl; Lew and Les Sherr, comedy dancers, and Verne Buck and the State-Lake ballet.

Albert Bouche's Villa Venice revue will close its café season on Sept. 14 and will move into the Chicago theater on Friday, Sept. 20. To its present personnel will be added show girls and dancers to bring the cast up to sixty players.

The Three Stooges, known as Howard, Fine and Howard, and Renee Villon, exotic dancer, headline the stage program at the Oriental theater. The two headliners are supported by variety acts with Mark Fisher and the Hild Ballet.

Play by Guild.

The Theater Guild's first production of its New York season will be "If This Be Treason," which is scheduled for a première on Sept. 23. It deals with a mythical war in the Pacific and is pacifist of purpose.

Mussolini Menaces British Might on Mediterranean

Naval War Possible Result

Mussolini has strengthened the Italian fleet with fast cruisers and submarines. He has also developed the Italian air force and constructed bases in the Mediterranean with the idea of opposing a solid wall of defense running midway across the Mediterranean from Sardinia to the coast of Africa and Sicily. The Italian navy has more than twenty cruisers, more than half of them newly built, and more than sixty submarines, largely new. Also the Italians have, according to recent reports to the league of nations, more than 1,800 usable military planes. They have fortified Sardinia, and there are also air and naval bases all along the Tyrrhenian coast line and around the Gulf of Taranto in the heel of Italy.

Italy's main naval bases are at Spezia and Gaeta on the Tyrrhenian sea side, Gaeta being particularly a submarine base. In the Adriatic, Pola, in the peninsula of Istria, is the main base, while Taranto is the big base in the bay of the same name. There is also a base at Trapani in Sicily and at Cagliari and Maddelena in Sardinia. The fortifications at these points include great air bases.

With these formidable preparations Mussolini now believes he can test the might of the British fleet, which the British themselves admit has not been kept up to scratch because of economy measures. According to reports to the league of nations, England's airplanes of military value are actually outnumbered by Mussolini's. England reported recently to Geneva that its effective military air force was just over 1,400 planes.

Knowledge of this condition in recent months, and especially since the Ethiopian divergence between England and Italy began, has added to the arrogance of the Fascist imperialists. Ottobre, an ultra-Fascist newspaper which circulates in Rome, recently declared that if England opposed Italy the latter would send planes to bomb the British fleet in Malta and would if necessary fight England as well as Ethiopia. And not long after this Lord Strickland, head of the ministry in Malta, hurried back to London and laid before the cabinet a proposal to spend several million pounds in developing the air defenses of Malta.

The threatened clash between Britain and Italy in the Mediterranean is a new departure in naval policies. Formerly the danger of a clash was between the French and Italians there, because of naval rivalry and because of Italy's envious eyes on France's North African colonies. Mussolini's admirals until recently envisaged, perhaps, a struggle with France, and naval development was based on that eventuality. The Italians claimed the right to be supreme in the Mediterranean, and this menaced France's ability to transport colonial troops from Africa to Marseilles in war time.

As the Fascists developed naval and air bases at Trapani, Cagliari, and Maddelena, the French strengthened theirs at Bizerta, Algiers, and Oran in Tunis and Algeria and in Corsica. Only three years ago the French held maneuvers in northern Africa off Cape Bon, the theme of which was to thwart an Italian military landing there. And it seems highly probable that the huge Normandie, which was laid down at that time, was motivated chiefly as a carrier of troops from Casablanca to Bordeaux, over the Atlantic, in case Italy could prevent trans-Mediterranean trafic.

This situation now has changed, at least momentarily, and it is the British who find themselves embroiled with the Italians over the route through the Mediterranean from Gibraltar via Malta, Suez, and the Red sea to Aden, which British naval writers refer to as an indispensable empire link.

10,000 TONS A DAY!

● The United States expeditionary force in the World war required 42 pounds of supplies per man per day to keep it on a war footing in France. It is estimated by military experts on this basis that for the Italian army in its Ethiopian campaign 40 pounds of supplies per man per day would be sufficient. These supplies include food, clothing, bedding, arms and ammunition, and, in fact, everything required for war.

● Mussolini, according to news dispatches, contemplates the employment of 500,000 soldiers in his conquest of Ethiopia. Forty pounds per man per day for half a million soldiers would mean a total of 10,000 tons daily, 300,000 tons monthly, or 3,600,000 tons yearly. Transportation of this astounding volume of supplies would require a great number of ships, the number varying with the type of vessels employed—at any rate, a steady stream of craft going and coming between Italy and the Italian East African ports.

● It is estimated further that the cost of maintaining Mussolini's soldiers in Africa would average $10 a day per man, or $5,000,000 a day for the army as a whole.

For some time before the Ethiopian row the British and Italians had been eyeing each other with mistrust over Malta, England's great naval base in the Mediterranean, where Mussolini's men resent a ban which has been placed by the British on the use of the Italian language. And at the last British naval maneuvers off Malta it was reported in Rome that Italians were eavesdroppers through the periscopes of their submarines.

England still keeps up a military supervision over Egypt, mainly for the purpose of protecting the Suez canal. The canal, unlike Panama, is totally unfortified. This comes about from the international agreement of 1888. The canal is 99 miles long, and passage through it generally takes about 17 hours.

The British now are confronted with the problem of the defense of the canal and Egypt, and, despite denials from the British admiralty, that matter underlies the movement of the fleet recently from Malta to Alexandria and Palestine ports. This is to forestall any Italian attempt to seize the canal, which would be a natural eventuality in case Mussolini should try to keep open communication with his East African forces in the face of British opposition.

There are many natural elements in the defense of the canal and Egypt. The strength of the natural frontiers of Egypt—in the east the mountains of the Arabian desert, the Nubian desert in the south, and the Libyan desert in the west—is such that there are only three practicable entries:

1. By the Mediterranean.
2. By the Red sea and the Gulf of Suez.
3. By land across the Sinai peninsula.

The first two being by water, success would depend on the naval strengths of the various powers which would be attacking and defending Suez. The last is not merely the most feasible method of attack on the canal but also the most effective, in that it might sever the main line of British communication by the Suez canal, says D. H. Cole, a British writer on naval geography. And this also explains why the British are massing part of the fleet up the coast from Alexandria to Palestine to forestall any attempt at a landing. For it was over the land approach that every invading army attacked Egypt in the past.

The Sudan, too, is protected by natural frontiers. The only portion of the Egyptian frontier that presents any problem, says Cole, is the Abyssinian section. The geographical factors in the land defense of Egypt therefore can be narrowed to:

1. The Sinai peninsula; and
2. The Abyssinian frontier.

It was over the first route that the Turks attacked the Suez canal in 1915.

Malta is placed almost midway between Gibraltar and Port Said and is 180 miles from Messina and 220 miles from Cape Bon. In position, therefore, it makes a suitable station for commanding the approaches from the western to the eastern Mediterranean. The harbor of Valletta in Malta is furnished with graving docks, is strongly fortified in its immediate neighborhood, and is the base of Britain's Mediterranean fleet. It is also a cable and wireless station of great importance.

Hitherto the central position of Malta in the Mediterranean has made it even more valuable from a naval standpoint than Gibraltar; it also had a military value as a barracks from which troops could be moved quickly toward any threatened point in the eastern Mediterranean. There is a military and civil airdrome on the island, and it is the base of an air squadron. Britain got Gibraltar just after the Napoleonic wars, recognizing its strategic value.

Curiously, Maddelena, one of Italy's main naval bases, lying off the straits which separate Sardinia and Corsica, was the place where Lord Nelson and his ships in 1805 waited long months for the French fleet to come out of Toulon, and from there he started in pursuit of the French, whom he overtook and defeated in the famous battle of Trafalgar off the coast of Spain. In the little town of Maddelena there is today a street named after Nelson.

This is more or less the setup as the curtain rises on the Italian attack on Ethiopia and Mussolini's challenge to the British control of the Mediterranean. Things now indicate that Britain may accept the challenge and act swiftly when the time comes, as she already has begun gathering her fleets at the danger spots.

It seems probable that the first step in the clash will be an economic boycott of Italy. Time will tell whether the country can long stand a shutting off of her credit and supplies of raw materials from foreign sources.

Mussolini's supreme defense council last spring announced that it had made Italy independent of "foreign slavery in time of war." But many strategists doubt this. They believe Italy could not go to war because the long peninsula could be shut off from all prime materials. She needs cellulose, which is derived from timber, for making explosives. She lacks naphtha, oil, gasoline, lignite, coal, iron, zinc, and aluminum. Reliable statistics show that Italy, even in peace time, depends on foreign sources for 15 per cent of her grain supplies, 15 per cent of her meat, 99 per cent of her cotton, 80 per cent of her wool, 95 per cent of her coal, 99 per cent of her oil, and 53 per cent of her ore.

If more drastic steps than an economic boycott or blockade, engineered possibly by the league council, were required, the action to curb Italy would depend somewhat on the extent to which France backed up England. Should the French decide that Mussolini's adventure also was a menace to their African colonies and join the British, the problem would be simpler, for the French have the utilizable naval and air bases at Bizerta and in Corsica and could counter Mussolini's attacks much more easily than could the British, who have only Malta as a base—and this being probably untenable against Mussolini's air attacks. France might, however, decide not to take any action and remain neutral in a clash between the Italians and British.

In that case the British strategy would necessarily be different. The British then would be reduced to "corking up" the Mediterranean at Gibraltar and Suez and declaring the Mediterranean out of bounds to their shipping despite the loss this would entail to their commerce.

This course of action, in fact, is mentioned by naval writers as a plausibility in event of a Mediterranean naval war. These same writers for some time have been pointing out that development of submarines and aircraft has made it impossible to keep the Mediterranean route reasonably safe for naval or commercial shipping of Great Britain in time of war, and they have been advocating an alternative, even if longer, line of communication around Africa, using as bases Sierra Leone, the Cape, and Mauritius.

With a British fleet at Gibraltar reinforcing the batteries on the rock, Italian shipping could not leave the Mediterranean. The Rex and Conte di Savoia would not get to New York. Another fleet at Suez would block access to the Red sea. The royal air force stationed at the bases in Iraq, Palestine, and Egypt would be able to coöperate with the fleet. And submarines could keep supplies of grain or other materials from reaching Italy through the Black sea from Russia. Thus Italy would be cut off from all except land communications.

It would mean that for the duration of hostilities the Mediterranean would be closed to all marine trafic, and while Mussolini might be master of it, his triumph would be useless, for it would be a traficless sea. And meanwhile the British would have their naval lines of communication around Africa and could maintain their air routes by shifting them overland to Greece instead of passing over Italy via Brindisi, as at present.

Thus Mussolini's expeditionary force in Africa would be shut off from communication with Italy, while at the same time British air squadrons from Khartoum could, if necessary, bomb the Italian forces in Eritrea.

There is another factor in favor of the British position in the Mediterranean and against the Italians. Mussolini's neighbors on either side are not overfriendly to him.

To begin with the closest neighbor, Jugo-Slavia. The country across the Adriatic is closely watching the Italian adventure and remembers that it has not been long since Mussolini was laying claims to the Dalmatian coast. It remembers that Zara is still in the hands of the Italians, as are several hundred thousand Slavs in Istria.

The Albanians, restless under Italian dominance, might not be long in taking advantage of a chance to revolt. In fact, a curiously coincident uprising was smothered there only recently.

Farther along, the Greeks are no great admirers of Mussolini and his method of government. They have never forgotten Italy's seizure of the Dodecanese Islands and Rhodes, all largely Greek. The Greeks in their hearts have never renounced claims to these islands or hope of getting them back.

It is no better with the Turks. In 1927 all Turkey was torn with fear of a threatened Italian invasion of Anatolia, which Italy claimed as its sphere of influence after the World war and which she wanted for its coal. And more recently relations were in a state of tension between Dictator Mustapha Kemal and Dictator Mussolini when the latter in a speech referred to Asia Minor as one of Fascism's military aims. Kemal immediately inquired, "How come?" of the Italian ambassador to Angora.

The Egyptians would like to get rid of British overseeing in their affairs, but they know that as soon as the British moved out the Italians would move in. They would like to exploit the present situation to their own advantage, but in the controversy their sympathies are with the Ethiopians rather than the Italians.

Even in her own colonies in North Africa Italy must proceed with caution, for it is not long since the Arab tribesmen there were conquered, and their sympathies lie with the Ethiopians.

There remains another weapon which England has—an unseen one, but which is none the less effective. It is the one used by Lawrence of Arabia. The Italians have a great fear of the power of Britain in this way. It is perhaps more than a coincidence that a recent revolt stirred in Albania. And such is the dread of Lawrence and his works that Italian papers recently announced that Lawrence was not dead, but had been seen passing through Suez on his way to East Africa.

Military opinion in America is that there could be only one possible outcome of a war on the Mediterranean between Italy and Great Britain. The British would win easily, according to the general views held in military circles in this country.

Britain's immense superiority over the Italians in sea power is cited in America as the main reason for predicting a British victory. The graph on page one of this section points out this superiority clearly, especially in capital ships, cruisers, and destroyers, though in the matter of submarines the Italians seem to have the edge. The graph also shows Italy with many more miscellaneous craft than Britain, but these vessels are of a type that would not count for much in actual warfare. American military opinion holds that Britain's air force is equal to that of Italy.

If Britain should drive Italy's ships out of the Mediterranean, as is the American belief, it would be fatal to Mussolini, because Italy, as pointed out before, is wholly dependent upon its contacts with the outside world for coal, iron, and materials used in manufacturing munitions. Italy, it is held, is more susceptible to blockade than any other nation in Europe. Britain's vulnerable point is the line of communications between Gibraltar and Suez, and naturally it would expend every effort to keep that line open.

The British fleet might be thought to be susceptible to the Italian air force, but no more so, according to general views held in this country, than the vital centers of Italy would be vulnerable to British air attack from Mediterranean bases. In a conflict between Italy and Great Britain, military specialists on this side of the Atlantic hold, almost every advantage would be with the British. In general it appears that Mussolini would be foolhardy to risk a war.

In the four paragraphs above, it should be borne in mind, is given the viewpoint entertained in military circles in the United States, which is separately and distinctly apart from the rest of the article.

West Mixed with East in Odd Hodge-Podge

By KIMPEI SHEBA

Tokio, Japan.

JAPAN today is experiencing a social chaos unparalleled in its history and perhaps in that of all mankind. It is seeing the very roots of its social structure being destroyed. The speed at which Japan is changing today is such that the old-timers, the very ones who set the amazing pace in westernization during the last eighty years and astounded the world, are beginning to take alarm.

In 1854 ten American warships under Commodore Perry anchored in the forbidden waters of Japan. With a guard of 500 men Perry landed at Shimoda, near Tokio, and made proposals for trade and interchange which the Japanese had no power to resist. Up to that time, it must be remembered, Nippon was closed to all foreign trading, and the people, strictly forbidden to leave the shores of the country or to associate in any way whatsoever with westerners and their culture, were medieval, a fantastic caricature of extreme romantic feudalism.

But, having once been forced to emerge from their isolation and quick to realize the superior qualities of the west, particularly in fighting apparatus, the Japanese set about with astonishing energy and intelligence to bring their culture and organization up to the level of the west.

Never in history did a nation make such strides as Japan then did. To quote H. G. Wells' "Outline of History": "Japan today is a completely westernized people, on a level with the most advanced European people. She has completely dispelled the persuasion that Asia was in some irrevocable way hopelessly behind Europe. She has made all European progress seem sluggish and tentative by comparison."

Wells, of course, wrote of conditions up to about 1920. What of the future? Is Japan continuing to keep the pace she set in the nineties? The best answer to that question is Al Jolson's now not so infectious rejoinder, "You ain't seen nothin' yet."

Japan Changes to Ideas of West at a Rapid Rate

For Japan in the year 1935 is progressing, or perhaps it would be better to say changing, at a far more rapid pace than during the first seventy-five years following the opening of the country to foreigners.

But whether the change that is now taking place will be beneficial and wise is another matter. There are many who doubt that it will be. These persons range from reactionaries, ultrapatriots, and the old-timers to well-meaning, sensible visitors from the west.

For today you have such a hodgepodge of the west and east in Japan that the people have fittingly dubbed this the "grotesque era." This phrase, by the way, aptly describes life in Nippon at present. Instead of using the Japanese word for grotesque, the English word has been adopted, but not in its entirety. Only the first syllable has been taken, "gro," and by giving it a Japanese twist this has been transformed into "guro." By combining this with the Japanese word for "era," which is "jidai," you have "guro jidai"—a phrase which is neither English nor Japanese.

Instead of adopting things from the west in whole, as they did in the past, the Japanese are endeavoring to combine the west and the east, which do not mix any more than water mixes with oil.

Into the simple, delicately constructed, and fragile Japanese homes, once bare of practically all furniture, have been dumped a lot of European chairs, divans, tables, and beds, until today if one goes into a Japanese house he is likely to wonder whether the people are in their right minds.

Most Japanese will good-humoredly explain that this is the "guro jidai," the period of transition. That is how the Japanese, in their blind admiration of the west, have taken most things. Out into the once picturesque and lovely countryside the westerner will be dumfounded to find the wonderful scenery desecrated. But the Japanese will good-humoredly explain that what the visitor beholds is the blossoming forth of the "flowers of commerce"—the billboards.

Women Discard Kimono for Occidental Dress

The kimono, the lovely attire of the women of the land, is being discarded by all classes in all parts of the country, and in its place occidental dresses, which ill befit the figures of the women of Japan, are being donned. Again, the traditional school of painting, founded by such masters as Hiroshige and Harunobu, whose works are admired the world over, is going to ruins in the mad rush of the young artists to imitate the art of the west.

Western oil paintings and sculptures are all the rage in Japan today, and works of the traditional school go begging, although any art critic from the west will tell you that Japanese will never amount to anything as imitators of western art.

All of these phenomena and many others have produced effects from which no one here has escaped.

Naturally there has been a reaction against such things. In many of the girls' schools, where the students all nowadays dress in western clothes, an hour or two has been set aside each week for the purpose of teaching the students lessons in proper behavior as practiced in olden Japan. It may astonish the western readers to learn that a good number of high school girls in Japan do not know how properly to dress themselves in kimonos, for most of them never wear kimonos except during the New Year holidays.

Recently a school for brides was established in Tokio. This was principally because the girls of the present day, absorbed, as the girls of most other nations are, in romantic thoughts, motion pictures, and outdoor sports, know little about cooking, proper Japanese deportment, and filial piety. This school has been extremely popular and there are today scores throughout the country similar to it.

Hand in hand, however, with the movement to keep the girls from becoming overwesternized has been the systematic training of these girls in such martial arts as rifle practice. This has been the tendency in other walks of life, with the result that a hodge-podge culture is being developed.

There is, moreover, little doubt that many of the things Japan is doing at present—some in its blind admiration of the west, and others paradoxically, in an effort to rid itself of the advances of occidentalism—are ludicrous and fantastic; if not reckless and bordering on madness.

Instead of being rational, some of the nationalists who are behind the movement to check westernization are sounding a war cry against everything alien. They have set up such mottoes as "Asia for the Asiatics," "Back to Japan," and other similar ultrapatriotic, imperialistic mottoes.

Some of the things these men are attempting seem ridiculous, while others, as already has been noted, are without doubt dangerous.

The minister of education, Genji Matsuda, is an excellent example of the advocate of the "Back to Japan" movement. Although he rides in an expensive American limousine and dresses in European clothes, one of the first things he did on assuming office was to attack the use of the English words "papa" and "mamma" by the children of the land.

"These words," he thundered, "do not convey the feeling of respect for parents that the Japanese words oto-sama and oka-sama do." Perhaps not, but does a one-year-old babe know this? his inquisitors ask.

Opposes Teaching of English in the Schools

Matsuda's "papa and mamma" incident borders on the ridiculous and is harmless, but this is not so with other things he is planning to do. Being the minister of education, he has let it be known that he is opposed to the compulsory teaching of the English language in high schools. Even in universities, he feels, there is no need for English.

True, the motive behind the actions of Matsuda and other followers of the nationalistic banner is understandable. No nation, these men feel, can attain to greatness in the art of either peace or war without definite moral superiority. Behind and above the rise of Japan and the successes gained by her in war and peace is a moral force, a belief in destiny, which these ultrapatriotic fanatics claim is being shaken by the insidious advances of the occident.

Moral force, it is declared, brought the Japanese from obscurity to power; the same impelling power will enable them, should it be necessary, to face unflinchingly sacrifices greater than any in the past. Anything tending to weaken this force must be combated, it is held.

Japan, the patriots agree, has benefited tremendously by the lessons she has learned from the materialistic west. In recent years, however, this has been at the cost of sacrificing her spiritual civilization, which most Japanese believe is superior to that of the west, and something without which a vigorous, growing island empire like Japan cannot exist.

Few take issue with this argument. But why, ask the liberal minded, conduct such ridiculous things as the "papa and mamma" campaign? Such things can only cause Japan to be ridiculed by the rest of the world, it is maintained.

The answer to this may be that Japan is groping for a course. She is afraid to turn about face completely, cast aside the benefits she has derived from the west, and return to the ancient civilization of the east. She is equally afraid that continuation of the policy of blindly following the west may result in ultimate destruction of the nation. The old-timers have seen the people injudiciously take up almost every fad that has swept the west, from such unimportant, trivial, and foolish customs as young men going about without hats, and girls smoking in public, to the more serious fads such as communism, Fascism, and Nazilism. At the moment the tendency is to imitate the New Deal policies of the American government. Brain trusts have sprung up in government circles, in private institutions, and in political parties.

Hand in hand with this, however, has been the growing power of the anti-foreign, ultranationalistic movements. The organizations behind this movement sprang up like mushrooms during the hectic days of the military campaign in Manchuria. Ever since the league of nations acted against Japan these organizations have been making capital of the anti-western sentiment and the belief that the nations of the west are scheming to deprive her of what she regards as her just reward.

There are at present more than 500 patriotic organizations throughout the country. Some of them, true, have fewer than a score of members, but others, like the Black Dragon society, wield considerable power. Many of these patriotic bodies have the backing of the army. Their motive is to turn Japan away from the west and to cultivate the spiritual culture of the east.

Spiritual Culture of Japan Is Inexplicable

To explain what is meant by the spiritual culture of the east is one of the most difficult things. It has probably never been satisfactorily explained. Behind it is the principle of obtaining human satisfaction without the aid of materialistic things. A true Japanese archer is supposed to derive spiritual satisfaction if the ceremony he has conducted, his posture, and the handling of his bow and arrow have been correct. Whether the arrow hits the target or misses it is immaterial.

The old-timers and the militarists are striving to check all western influences which tend to conflict with or demoralize this spiritual culture. By propaganda and war talk they are endeavoring to combat what they term the insidious advances of occidentalism.

While they grudgingly admit the necessity of accepting the scientific achievements of the west, they would rather see the nation move backward than to absorb the free and easy thoughts which prevail particularly in the United States.

The idea of the army, but not necessarily of the numerous patriotic organizations, is to combine the materialistic civilization of the west with the spiritual civilization of the east—a thing which has never been attempted and which many believe to be impossible. Actually the conflict taking place today is between modernism and the old Japan.

Airplanes and Air Transport

Four-motored airplane built to fly over land—Boeing 299 bomber. Passenger transports, similarly powered, will be flying in a year.

Motor Failure Probabilities Calculated

By WAYNE THOMIS

SOME conception of the reliability, and consequently the safety, of flying with the commercial air lines in airplanes with two or more power plants can be gathered from a consideration of the odds against meeting with engine failure which would cause a forced landing as calculated from actual performance figures supplied by half a dozen of the major transcontinental air line operators.

In 25 hours of flying a passenger who rides planes equipped with two motors, and capable of flying on either one of these independent engines, is taking one chance in 230,400 that both motors will quit during his voyage. In a tri-motor airplane the odds for two of the three engines quitting in the same flight interval, thus causing a forced landing, are considerably greater, being one in 76,800.

Riding in a four-motored flying boat, an air liner such as is being developed from the big Boeing 299 four-engined bomber, a passenger is running one chance in 27,648,000 that three of the engines will quit together, causing the pilot to land at once.

And when the day arrives that the 50-ton speed liners now dreamed about by many of the country's best and most conservative designers are powered with six engines the odds against having a forced landing during a 25-hour flight will increase still more. The computations show that they will be one in one hundred million.

But in a single-engine passenger ship the odds are much greater that a landing may become necessary because of motor failure within a 25-hour flying period. The odds for this type of airplane are one in 4,800. None of these odds offer any incentive to gamblers.

The 25-hour interval was chosen because it is the practice of all the air lines in the country to "pull" their engines from their airplanes at the end of each 25 hours and subject them to inspection. Worn parts are replaced and overhauls made.

Thus in effect the engines come out virtually in perfect condition at the end of each 25 hours. Therefore it was felt that it was necessary to assume that the life and the odds against failure of each engine should be considered as starting over every time it comes out of the repair shops.

All the tedious and complicated calculations made for this article were the work of Walter Bartky, associate professor of astronomy at the University of Chicago. He was given the average flying time between motor failures for the first six months of 1935 as shown by the records of the major air lines operating from Chicago.

There was an average of 12,000 hours' flying between failures for each engine owned by these air lines. Many of the engines, of course, went through their entire life in the air—this is 2,500 hours, since at the end of that time the lines scrap their power plants—without failure.

With this premise and the application of various formulæ from the theory of probabilities familiar to students of calculus, Professor Bartky worked out a series of findings of considerable interest. These are shown in graph form in the accompanying drawings.

Professor Bartky did not halt his calculations at the 25-hour interval. He carried them out to the utmost limits of sustained flight based upon the 12,000-hour average. These calculations can best be expressed in the following table, which shows the number of motors on each type of machine for which the calculations were made, the number of failures before landing becomes necessary, and the number of operating hours mathematically probable between each landing, in each case it being assumed the plane can fly on 50 per cent horsepower:

| No. of motors on plane | Motor failures necessary to cause landing | Probable hours between landings |
|---|---|---|
| One | One | 12,000 |
| Two | Two | 18,000 |
| Three | Two | 10,000 |
| Four | Three | 13,000 |
| Six | Four | 11,400 |

The reason why aeronautical engineers have a preference for the twin engine airplane is apparent from a glance at this table. For long-range operations it is by far the most efficient type, with even the four-engined ship well behind.

Probabilities for motor failure in tri-motored airplanes and six-engine airplanes—over long period of flight operations, it is essential to remember—are greater than for the single-engine type.

But even this table does not give the true picture. The actual value of the multiple engines is shown only in accompanying graphs. If the curves marking flying time as related to the probabilities for failure of each type of airplane are followed the real picture becomes visible.

Note that the curve for a single-engine type is sharply downward. That for a twin-motored plane is relatively flat for many hours and then dips, but never crosses the single-motor curve. The curve for the tri-motor type also is flat for some time, although not as flat as the twin-motored type, and then begins its dip even below the single-engine type.

The four-motored plane is flat for a considerable distance farther than the twin-engine type, and the six-engine curve is also flatter than the twin-engine type. These curves prove the value of multiple engines for relatively short flight durations.

The computations by which the results shown here were reached are too involved and voluminous to allow reproduction. Professor Bartky, however, explained that the three, four, and six engine airplane is less efficient than the two-engine type over long flight periods because the large number of their engines allows a large number of possibilities for engine failure combinations.

New Trails Blazed by Chemists

By DR. THOMAS M. BECK

IT WOULD hardly be a betrayal of a state secret to say that the last half dozen years have not been the happiest the business world has known. Yet future historians may regard it, in a certain sense, as a sort of golden age.

After all, historians are only mildly interested in whether a particular rich man loses his fortune or a certain corporation succumbs to its creditors, inasmuch as there usually are quite a few corporations and rich men left. They are interested, however, in the uses which the human race makes of the opportunities it has. And the seven lean years, painful as they have been to us, undoubtedly have contributed more than their share in the way of industrial applications of science.

When the ultimate consumer does not feel able to part with the money necessary to buy the old line of products it is up to industrial research laboratories to invent new ones that will tempt him beyond his powers of resistance.

It is of interest to consider a few of the new products offered by the chemical industry. Those mentioned herewith do not, of course, comprise a complete list, nor do they necessarily include all of the most important advances. There is much in the way of steady and unspectacular improvements being made continually in everyday chemical processes, as well as in those of electricity and in transportation, that does not make a very exciting story when considered in detail.

A few other things are included in this list which are not particularly new in concept but which are little known to the nonspecialists and which are of importance because of their future implications rather than because of their present-day value.

There is one thing to be borne in mind about the things discussed here. Scientists are drawn from the same species of animal as politicians or writers of advertising copy. Naturally they have a tendency to overemphasize the importance and value of their own particular brain children. The true value of these things can be determined only by general usage. If this article states that a certain man's mouse trap is based upon a novel and excellent principle the statement must not be construed as meaning that it represents ultimate perfection in mouse traps or that it is even superior to the ordinary kind for certain phases of mouse catching.

The layman usually thinks of dyes as substances that have color. This concept is not quite correct. It is essential that a dye have two other properties: it must attach itself to the fabric to which it is applied, and it must stay there to a reasonable degree in spite of washing and exposure to weather. It just happens that heretofore the only property that we desired to attach to fabrics was that of color.

There is a certain coal tar dye long known to the textile industry as martius yellow. It had been observed that moths steered clear of woolen goods dyed with this particular dye. Unfortunately, no other worth-while dyes could be found which possessed this property, and it was asking too much of textile customers to clothe themselves only in yellow garments just for the sake of moth protection.

Now, most of the moth killers or repellents in use do not give permanent protection. Low temperatures are useful only for storage. Gases can be used only in a fumigating chamber. Volatile materials, such as moth balls, all too frequently have a pronounced odor. Solid moth poisons are removed in cleaning.

The German dye trust has recently developed a class of moth repellents that actually combine with wool as permanently as any dye. While the exact nature of these compounds has not been made public, presumably they are somewhat akin to martius yellow in chemical structure. They are no less dyes because they are colorless; instead of being yellow, they may be certain shades of infrared or ultraviolet. It is not a fundamental difference, but merely a fortuitous circumstance, if the light absorption of a chemical compound happens to fall within the narrow range which our eyes can detect.

The advantages of such compounds are obvious. They suggest a means by which moth protection can be attached to a fabric as permanently as its color. It is impossible to say at present whether these substances are as perfect as the inventors imply.

The internal combustion engine, because of its lightness in comparison to the power it produces, is best adapted for purposes of supplying the energy for mechanical transportation. Such engines, however, require a gaseous fuel, and the best way known of carrying along a supply of such a material is as a volatile liquid such as gasoline. But the disadvantage of gasoline is that in case of accident it is liable to become ignited. Such a possibility has become of importance with the development of commercial aviation.

Announcement has been made recently by an American university of a possible solution for this trouble in the form of a solid gasoline. The material is a brown crystaline solid which is no more capable of splashing than is damp sand. In this form it is difficult to ignite even with the hottest flame. When used as a fuel it is first vaporized by the hot exhaust of the motor and its vapor then mixed with air and fed into the cylinders.

Several guesses could be made as to the nature of this material, but the inventor is keeping it a secret for the present. It may be some time before the product is put on the market.

The word alcohol has two meanings. It may refer to the volatile, ethereal liquid that is the essential constituent of certain beverages. From the organic chemist's viewpoint it refers to a whole class of compounds which consist of a string of carbon atoms, attached to which are a number of hydrogen atoms, and in addition an OH (oxygen and hydrogen) group.

The simplest of these alcohols is that containing one carbon atom, known as methyl or wood alcohol. That containing two carbon atoms is ethyl or drinking alcohol. A commonly known one, still higher in the series, is amyl alcohol, or fusel oil, which is used as a solvent. The lower of the alcohols are volatile, pungent liquids that are soluble in water. Higher ones are oils, and still higher ones are waxy solids.

Until recently these last have been laboratory curiosities. On the other hand, fatty acids, consisting of similar long chains of carbon atoms, but with a COOH group instead of an OH at the end, are quite common as the chief components of all animal or vegetable fats. During the last few years there has been developed in Germany a commercial method of changing the COOH into a $CH_2OH$ group, thereby converting the fatty acid into a solid alcohol.

These alcohols give promise of being exceedingly important raw materials for the chemical industry. By themselves they may be used for many of the purposes that other waxes are. Although they are insoluble, they possess a greater affinity for water, because of their alcoholic nature, than do most other waxes. For this reason they are readily emulsified with water.

Their most important application is one that was discussed in greater detail in a previous article. Combined with sulphuric acid, these alcohols give compounds resembling the original fatty acids in acidity and which are just as capable of reacting with alkalies to give soaps. Because of the peculiar properties of the alcohol-sulphuric acid compound, these soaps are not thrown out of solution as a curd either by hardness of the water or by the presence of acid.

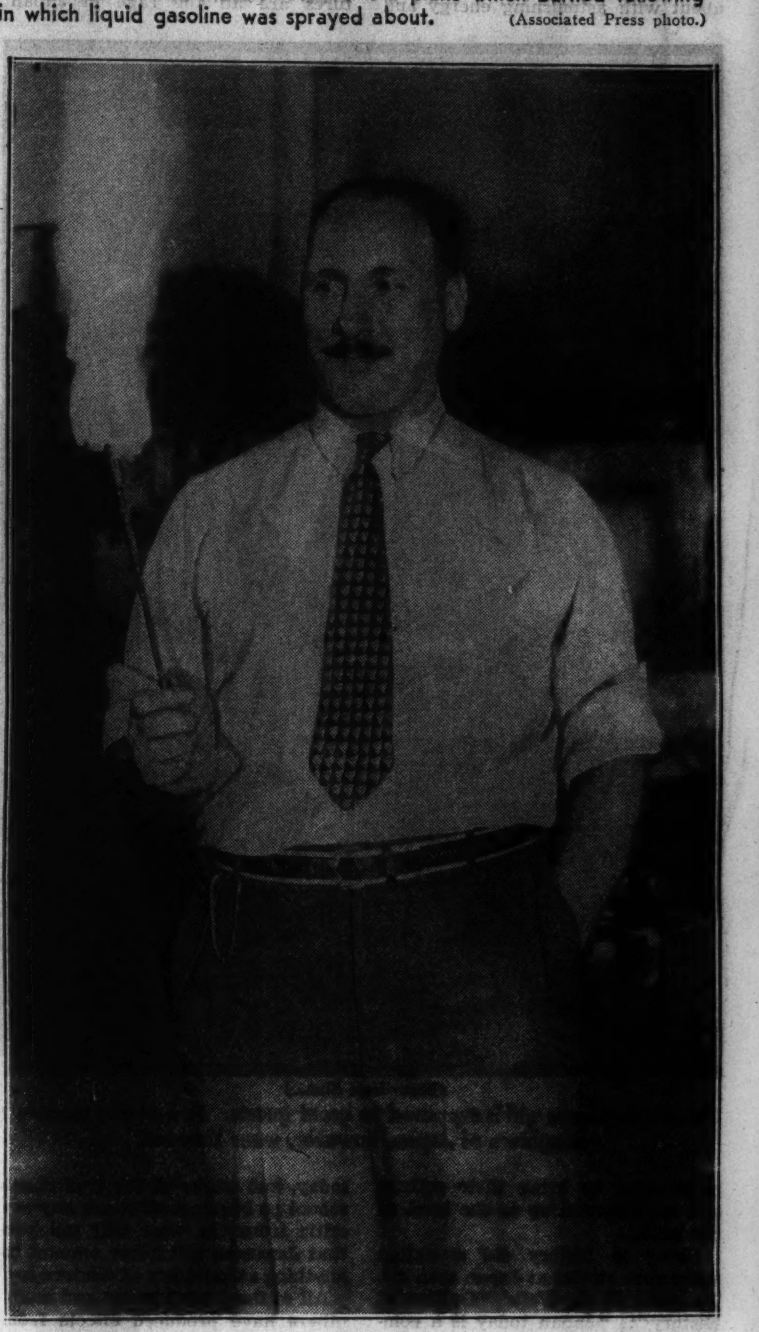
It might be mentioned here that these solid alcohols are not to be confused with the product known as canned heat. The latter is simply denatured alcohol that has been solidified by the presence of small amounts of substances such as soap, just as water can be solidified by the presence of a little gelatin.

Pure rubber is a sticky, plastic material that is useless for most of the purposes for which it is needed. It is a compound of carbon and hydrogen and has the property of being chemically unsaturated—that is, capable of combining with a number of chemical reagents. To make it elastic and heat-stable it is combined with sulphur.

It is only within recent years that successful attempts have been made to combine it with other things. The gas chlorine, for example, combines with it quite readily to give a resinous material that is useful as a base for varnishes. With hydrochloric acid a product is formed that can be molded into elastic, transparent sheets.

The latest development in this line is that of oxygenated rubber. The combination of rubber and oxygen is a soft, plastic mass that can be readily molded but which on heating sets into a tough, hard solid.

One of the perils of aviation, fire, will be removed if a new solid gasoline is found practical for use in airplanes. It is vaporized by the hot exhaust of the motor. Above is a plane which burned following a crash in which liquid gasoline was sprayed about. (Associated Press photo.)



Adolph Prussin, after years of research, has invented a solid gasoline which will not explode and successfully vaporizes only when preheated.

Scientific Queries Answered

Address questions of scientific nature to Dr. Thomas M. Beck, Graphic Section, Chicago Tribune. For personal reply inclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Is there any truth in a theory I have read about which says that the different continents used to be joined together, but have floated away from each other?—W. A. C., Milwaukee, Wis.

This theory, originally advanced by the German geologist Wegener, is not yet generally accepted, but it is not nearly so ridiculous as it might appear. The earth's interior, because of its high temperature, may well be plastic enough to permit large masses of the crust to slide around slowly in an effort to correct unequal distribution.

Here are some of the arguments for the belief; The east coast of South America fits beautifully against the west coast of Africa, and with the use of a little imagination North America can be fitted against Europe. When placed together this way there is considerable geological similarity between adjacent regions.

FAVORITE POEMS

THOMAS MOORE, famous Irish poet, was born in Dublin on May 28, 1779, the son of a well-to-do grocer and wine merchant. He was educated in Trinity college, Dublin, and upon his graduation in 1798 went to England. Appointed registrar of the admiralty prize court of Bermuda in 1803, he went to that island, but remained there less than a year, returning to England and leaving a deputy in his place. The deputy later embezzled a considerable sum of money, and Moore, who was held responsible for the man's actions, was forced to leave England in order to escape debtor's prison. He lived in Italy and France during his exile. In 1822 he returned to England after the Bermudan affair had been compromised. Moore's principal fame was due to his poems, which included "Oft in the Stilly Night," though he also wrote prose, including biography and history. He died Feb. 25, 1852.

OFT IN THE STILLY NIGHT

Oft in the stilly night,
Ere slumber's chain has bound me,
Fond Memory brings the light
Of other days around me.
The smiles, the tears,
Of boyhood's years,
The words of love then spoken;
The eyes that shone,
Now dimmed and gone,
The cheerful hearts now broken.
Thus in the stilly night,
Ere slumber's chain has bound me,
Sad Memory brings the light
Of other days around me.

When I remember all
The friends so linked together
I've seen around me fall,
Like leaves in wintry weather,
I feel like one
Who treads alone
Some banquet hall deserted,
Whose lights are fled,
Whose garlands dead,
And all but he departed.
Thus in the stilly night,
Ere slumber's chain has bound me,
Sad Memory brings the light
Of other days around me.

"Good-bye to that sick feeling—I spared 3 minutes of my time!"

Since I discovered the three-minute way, my troubles with constipation, with harsh "all-at-once" cathartics, are over. I can certainly spare three minutes of my time—three minutes chewing a delicious chewing gum like FEEN-A-MINT—when it makes such a difference. With FEEN-A-MINT there are no unpleasant after-effects, no cramping. I take it—my husband takes it—and how the children love it! FEEN-A-MINT—the three-minute way—is only 15c and 25c a box.

Movie Yacht to Gird Globe

Pictures to Be Shot on the Way

By ROSALIND SHAFFER

Hollywood, Cal.

THE film industry frequently reveals actors, directors, and writers whose adventures surpass the celluloid stories they create. One of these men, Tay Garnett, author and director, recently has announced a plan to go around the world in a 126-foot yawl, filming pictures as he goes.

Garnett, with seven other film persons, will sail Nov. 1. The trip will serve as a delayed honeymoon for him and his bride, Helga Moray, British stage and screen star, who were married at sea Nov. 30 of last year.

During the last six months ten men have been working to prepare the yawl for the long expedition. At completion of the work Garnett immediately began a series of test trips preparatory to the hazardous jaunt. He has spent more than $35,000 upon the overhauling.

Garnett has found little time to rest. His studio work no more than ends when his sailor's work begins. Despite his arduous work at Columbia studio directing George Raft and Joan Bennett in "Rich Man's Daughter," he finds time between 8 p. m. and 8 a. m. every day to visit the shipyard at West basin, Wilmington, to supervise the work.

Others to make the journey and form the production staf include Mrs. Garnett's close friend, Polly Ann Young, screen actress and sister of Loretta Young; Doug Hodges, writer and long-time friend of the director; Regis Toomey, actor; Nancy Moray, actress and sister of the bride; a well known motion picture photographer, and a national press syndicate representative.

With great care exercised in selecting members of the expedition, Garnett announced that each person had been chosen with a view to performing at least three duties. Besides directing the scenes, Garnett, for instance, will also write a series of descriptive articles for a national magazine, and to fill out his day will stand watch along with the crew. The vessel will carry only sixteen persons, including crew, so that it will be necessary for each male passenger to stand two two-hour watches each day.

Polly Ann Young is studying radio transmission so that she will qualify as assistant radio operator along with her work in the film.

The first port of call will be Honolulu, where Garnett's skipper, Capt. C. F. Stancliffe, expects to dock on Nov. 10. The Athene, as the yawl is named, next will call at Hongkong, China, Dec. 7, and will sail for Singapore on Dec. 10.

The most perilous portion of the entire cruise, according to Captain Stancliffe, will be between Hongkong and Singapore. It is in the waters off Formosa that the dreaded typhoons every year carry many big ships to the bottom. With the use of radio it is now possible to keep in touch with United States naval authorities for weather reports that warn of approaching storms.

With Singapore as a base, the seagoing troupe will celebrate Christmas there and then cruise through the tropical islands, first of all working in Borneo for several days obtaining background film for a novel. Later atmospheric scenes will be filmed for a second screen story in Indo-China, Bali, and the Malacca straits.

Late in January the Athene will leave Singapore for Bombay, where the third story will be photographed. Two well equipped studios recently have been completed in Bombay by a British syndicate. Garnett stated that not only will he be able to obtain beautiful Indian locale, but he will engage space in one of the modernly equipped studios for all the interiors in the Indian story. Following six weeks in Bombay, the company will sail for London by way of the Red sea, expecting to be in England not later than April 15.

Perilous as the venture is, Garnett says: "The Athene has been through storms that would founder an ocean liner—she has a fine record and a great character."

Her ship's papers reveal that she was designed and built by Herreshoff, one of the most noted of yacht builders, in Bristol, R. I., in 1899. He designed her as a one-masted sloop to contend as a Yankee ship in the Sir Thomas Lipton races in England. A sister ship built by the same company won the qualifying heat, however, and she remained in America to be sold to the young New York bachelor, Howard Gay, who wanted her for a honeymoon yacht. Known from then on as a honeymoon yacht, she added to her romantic reputation when Earl Miller of Philadelphia purchased her in 1915 for the same purpose.

Miller and his bride sailed the Athene from New York to San Francisco via the Panama canal, and she became the first privately owned vessel to clear the locks. Malcolm MacGregor, screen player, had just been graduated from Yale with Miller and not only served as best man but also made the trip with the newlyweds.

It was the year of the world's fair in San Francisco, and Miller entered her in every race for craft of her class. She was never beaten. Her racing record remained untouched until 1933, when Lazard Lippmann, who had bought her from Miller, entered her in the Honolulu cup races, with a long handicap because of her excellent rigging and unusual size. Sailing well in advance of her nearest competitor, she met with misfortune at the close of the race when a gale tore the head out of the mainsail, immediately putting the vessel out of commission.

Aboard the Athene. Left to right: Helga Moray, Tay Garnett, Polly Ann Young, and Loretta Young. The last named will not be a member of the 'round-the-world cruising party.

But the Athene is no longer a racing-rigged vessel. Immediately after buying the vessel from Lippmann in December, 1934, Garnett set about the task of rerigging that would make her secure for heavy weather. Under the expert guidance of Captain Stancliffe the crew shortened the mainmast from 125 feet to 85 feet and added a 60-foot mizzenmast. A 50-horsepower Diesel engine was installed. With all the work completed, the boat has a displacement of 95 tons and draws 13 feet of water. As a racing craft she had a draught of 21 feet with her centerboard down.

Garnett's venture in the Athene will come as a realization of a boyhood dream. Mrs. Rachel Garnett, his mother, remembers him as a child sailing boats in the surf at Manhattan Beach, Cal. Later in high school he spent entire days at San Pedro watching the deep-sea vessels come and go. The water always has had a great attraction for him and has played an important part in his life. He has always been foremost among Hollywood's ever-growing band of ship owners. Even his professional career shows its influence—his most important smash hits for the screen have been stories with marine settings: "One-Way Passage," "Her Man," "Destination Unknown," "S. O. S. Iceberg," and "China Seas."

Helga Moray, wife of Garnett, is well known in England for her acting and dancing in two Charlot revues and for films made for Gaumont British and British International Pictures. She is Russian, born in British South Africa, hence a British subject before her marriage to Garnett.

Her sister, the beautiful Countess Catherine Valma, known professionally on the continent as Nancy Moray, will play some rôles in the films made on the cruise, as well as sew on buttons, take her turn in the cook's galley, or nurse any ailing member of the crew. Polly Ann Young and the two Moray sisters are the only women in the group of sixteen about to venture on the perilous cruise.

Garnett will be the first director to tackle this pet ambition, to make a film cruise, although actors have tried it. Douglas Fairbanks had a great time on the yacht Invader, which he took to the South Seas when he made "Robinson Crusoe"—and which he also used for his 'round-the-world travel film. Norman Foster and Claudette Colbert took a freighter around the world three years ago and had a wonderful time making a purely private travel film, chartering a boat in Tahiti, and making some very interesting film of pearl divers and deep-sea fishers in the tropical isles.

Preston Foster is champing at the bit to get away from film making long enough to take his yacht, the Minx, on a treasure hunt down the coast of Mexico. He says he has a map and positive information as to the location of the treasure, but wisely enough refuses to give much detail. He had planned the trip as soon as he was to be finished in "The Last Days of Pompeii," but two new assignments have delayed it for the time being. He is sure to go, following these, as he has insisted on it at Radio, where he is under contract. He wouldn't be a film actor if he didn't take some pictures on the cruise.

Mostly About Dogs

By BOB BECKER

When Your Dog Sleeps

ONE of the unusual attributes of the dog is his ability to get rest and absolute relaxation in a series of short naps, and at the same time never sleeping so soundly that he does not hear certain noises. In this respect the dog is far ahead of members of the human race. Not everybody can secure much rest without falling sound asleep, whereas the dog has the faculty of complete muscular relaxation without going to sleep.

There isn't any doubt but that the dog does not sleep as soundly as the human. You and I can check this statement most any day in our homes. In fact, I have done it many times with my dogs just to see if they would hear their names spoken when they were sound asleep, or detect certain noises which brought to their minds a pleasant association of ideas.

For example, consider the "sleep with one ear open" ability of a hunting spaniel that I owned a few years ago. This dog had developed a craving for sweets. He soon learned that the crackling of the wrapper of a candy box was associated with someone taking a piece of candy from that box. Then the hope that he might get some of it. A tiny piece not more than a quarter of an inch square was a tremendous treat. Usually the dog was given not even that small taste. But always there was the hope that he might beg some, so the spaniel was on the job when the crackling of the wrapper of the candy box was heard.

Evenings in the living room we sometimes would play the game of trying to open the box of candy so quietly that the spaniel would not hear us. The dog would be sound asleep on the floor, body extended in utter relaxation, eyes closed. Apparently he was beyond hearing small noises. But let any one of us in the room make even the slightest noise with that candy box and the spaniel would jump to his feet eagerly and come to us pleading for a tidbit.

I cannot tell many times whether my dog is deep asleep or merely resting, the exception being, of course, that after a hunting trip a tired dog really sleeps soundly. But the interesting and valuable trait of your dog and mine is that even when asleep its keen senses are still alert. Therefore it is not surprising to see it bound to its feet and spring into action at the slightest unusual sound, such as a footstep in the driveway, a key turning in the lock, or the near approach of a car. It is this ability of the dog to rest and even sleep, yet be on the alert, that makes it such a valuable friend, guard, and companion in the home. So far as students of dogs can determine, the animal not only sleeps lightly, but its ears and nose are constantly carrying messages to the brain. Here lies the reason for the dog being such a good guardian of the home

One of the amusing experiments that Mrs. Becker and I have tried in the home to test the alertness of a dog's hearing, even when he was relaxed or asleep, involved the use of one sentence containing words that the dog knew. For example, Zipper, the wire-haired terrier, would be stretched out on the rug, apparently deep in sleep. The radio would be going—music, talk, announcers speaking their pieces, comedians carrying on, or what not. Added to this would be our conversation or the rattle of newspapers. The terrier wouldn't move or even open his eyes. Although his subconscious mind (if a dog has a subconscious mind!) must have been receiving signals of these noises, there was no reaction in the sleeping terrier.

Then Mrs. Becker would say very quietly in a conversational tone, "I wonder where Zipper's ball is." The dog liked to play ball, but was not allowed to have a certain one except when somebody played with him. So this ball was a thing denied—something that the dog liked above everything else.

When this sleeping terrier heard that word "ball," although spoken in a very quiet voice, up he jumped and hustled toward the spot where this particular ball was kept. It was a perfect illustration of how your dog and mine can always pick up messages, sounds, and words when apparently asleep.

To this list one must add smells, because your dog even when asleep can be roused by an unusual smell in the house. Hundreds of dogs play hero rôles every year when they have caught the faint smell of smoke in a house and roused their masters. Time after time the aroused sleeper has upon investigation discovered an outbreak of fire.

Thus the dog possesses the envied ability to get rest day or night and yet always have his senses working. This attribute alone is enough to make him a valuable ally in the home—one that more than earns his keep as a guard of those he loves.

DOG NOTES

Fanciers of smooth and wire-haired fox terriers in Chicagoland are invited to attend a puppy match being held today in Glenview, Ill., northwest of the loop. Today's event will he beld at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lowenbach, corner of Willow road and Shermer avenue, in Glenview. All Illinois breeders are eligible to show their puppies in this match. The public is invited and there will be no admission charge.

At this puppy match spectators will see an innovation in the judging. Instead of the judge selecting the winning pup without comment, the breeder may ask the judge to give a full and frank discussion as to the puppy's points, both good and bad.

National dog week in the United States has been set for Sept. 22 to Sept. 28. This movement to focus attention on the value of dogs as companions and guardians of children and as members of the family is eight years old. Indications are that this year's observance of dog week will surpass anything yet held. Dog clubs everywhere are coöperating. The slogan of the week is "Every home needs a dog." Readers who want further information on dog week should write Dog World, 3323 South Michigan avenue, Chicago.

If you want a pleasant drive today, and want to attend a dog show at the same time, consider the Potawatamie dog show at the Granada exposition hall, South Bend, Ind. The show opened yesterday (Saturday) and closes this evening, probably between 10 and 11 o'clock.

Film Problem Solved by Designer

By ELEANOR NANGLE

OMAR KIAM, who was one of New York's smartest couturiers until Samuel Goldwyn lured him to Hollywood to create gowns for stars under the Goldwyn banner, is one designer who does not try to make "movie fashions." Unlike some of the film colony's stylists, his paramount aim is to dress the stars suitably—true to their own type and to the character they portray. If in the doing he creates a new style that will catch on in the marts of trade it's all right with him, but he does not consciously attempt to launch a fashion or achieve the spectacular.

If the truth must be told, the spectacular in garb for a movie star in the average rôle of woman of the modern world is one of Kiam's pet peeves. As a sound designer facing a particular problem Kiam tries to feel beyond the current thing; his creations are conceived far in advance of their reception by the world outside the movie colony and must at the moment of the picture's release be of the mode or a bit ahead of it. The gowns must be beautiful, too, and worthy of his name and position.

The costume picture is a more important influence on fashion in general than the film dealing with the contemporary scene, according to Kiam. In the parade of period gowns the alert stylist finds inspiration for the evolution of those variations of skirt, bodice, and sleeves that constitute a "new" fashion note.

In "The Dark Angel," now in production on the Samuel Goldwyn lot, starring Merle Oberon and Fredric March, Kiam dealt with an interesting fashion problem. The same picture was one of the tremendous hits of the silent days; it is being remade now in sound. It is a picture of World war days. In the silent version Vilma Banky, playing opposite Ronald Colman, wore the brief skirts and high-belted frocks of that time.

Kiam's problem is to make for Miss Oberon clothes that will have the unmistakable flavor of 1914 but will not appear grotesque from the 1935 fashion point of view. With consummate skill he has done that.

In several of the sequences the beautiful Miss Oberon will wear a straight tailored suit of tweed in small checks of green, red, black, and white. It is distinctly reminiscent of the costumes women wore when it was considered chic to wear suits with a strong suggestion of the military and the overseas cap inspired a thousand variations for feminine millinery.

On the other hand, it is a tweed suit that has at the same time all that is essential to the 1935 and 1936 style. The skirt is longer than it would have been in 1914, but so straight that its war-time lines are not lost. The coat preserves the boxiness of that day, but with skilful tailoring has been made suave and entirely acceptable to the contemporary in style theories.

In the dressier gowns worn by Oberon while she rounds out the dramatic romance that is almost but not quite wrecked by the dark angel of death this same skilful treatment, which demands that a designer span two decades, is observed.

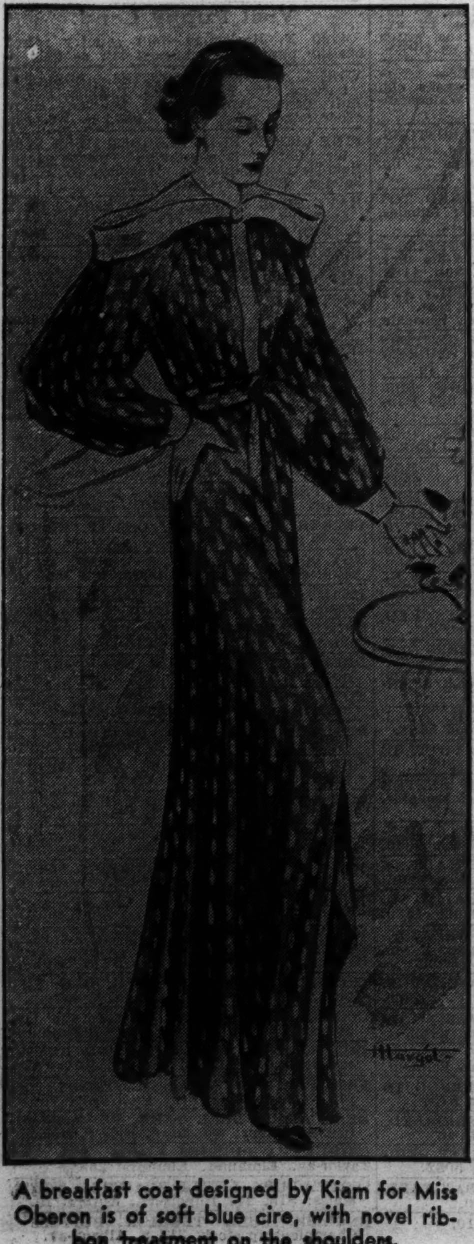
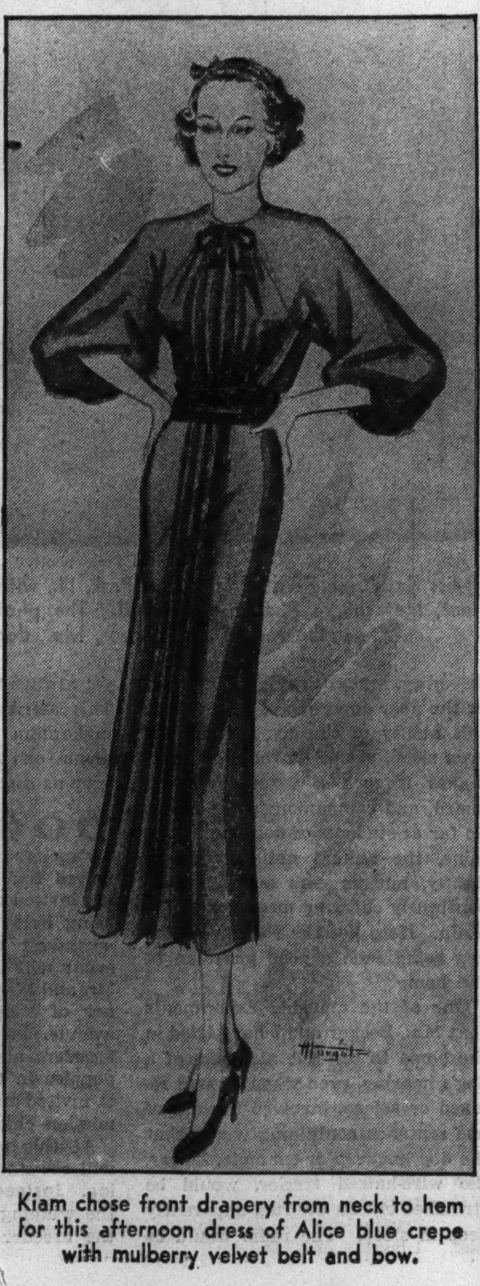
At right: Miss Oberon in the tweed suit designed by Kiam which is appropriate to the time of the action—World war days—but also smart from the 1935 fashion point of view.

Kiam and Miss Oberon, on the set of "The Dark Angel," pause for a moment to discuss a point of style.



A breakfast coat designed by Kiam for Miss Oberon is of soft blue cire, with novel ribbon treatment on the shoulders.

Janet Beecher, also in "The Dark Angel," will wear this dinner dress of mulberry mocaine. The coat has a Grecian sleeve.



Kiam chose front drapery from neck to hem for this afternoon dress of Alice blue crepe with mulberry velvet belt and bow.

Divorce Flourishes in Moscow

"Family Life" Ridiculed in Skit

By DONALD DAY

Riga, Latvia.

MOSCOW'S new aristocrats, the higher officials of the soviet burocracy, are being ridiculed in the Russian humorous weeklies. Moscow is being compared to Hollywood, where marriages and divorces are frequent among the élite. In fact, the soviet press claims that Moscow now holds the world record for divorce, since each adult inhabitant under fifty years of age, according to statistics, has been divorced an average of 1.3 times.

An amusing skit on the family life of the new Moscow bourgeoisie has been written by Miss Valentina Kataiyeva in the Moscow Krokodil. She entitled it "The Perfect Gentleman," and the scene is laid in a Moscow beauty parlor. It follows:

"The door slammed emphatically. 'Hello. I'm in a terrible hurry. I hope you will take me out of turn.'

"'Certainly, Vera Vassilevna, you may always be the next. My, how your hands look! You have not had a manicure in ages. Have you been busy?'

"'Horribly. Not one second of free time. I have been busy settling in my new flat. Of course, it is not what I dreamed of, but one has to be content.'

"'Who arranged it for you?'

"'What a strange question! Nikolai Sergeievitch, of course. You know, I have been separated from him for three years, but we are still on excellent terms. He is exclusively well bred. A real gentleman. When we parted the first time he left without saying a single word, leaving me established in a beautiful apartment.'

"'And what happened to him?'

"'Nu! You should understand that he, as chief director of the shoe polishing trust, could not remain without a place to live. Of course, the trust helped him a great deal. He quickly obtained a new apartment. In fact, it was better than the one he left me. Well, when we became reconciled for the second time I moved to this new flat and gave the old one to my sister Sonia and her husband. They were living in terrible conditions, in a corner of a room occupied by two other couples. And think, when I quarreled again with Nikolai, and we decided to part for good, he still remained the perfect gentleman. He did not say a word. He left and I kept the apartment.'

"'And what happened to him?'

"'Such a question! Do you think that he, in his position, would go and sleep behind a fence? Naturally, the trust was very liberal and helped him to get a new flat.'

"'My! And you hear there are so few kind people in the U. S. S. R.'

"'O, you can find "good uncles" if you look for them. Lela's former husband was a good uncle. Also Vasia has a very kind uncle. Shura Sheltuhina has also a good husband. I do not like to praise my former Nikolai, but you must admit he could not act differently. Although I was his second wife, we lived together with short interruptions for almost eighteen months. . . . Just now, you know, we must take married life more seriously. With the government demanding large families, it is making life more complicated. . . . O, do not make my nails so red. Yes, you may take the red, but not too red. It is no longer fashionable. More of the rose color. That is right. Thank you. O, look, an auto has arrived, from one of the legations. See the flag; what kind is it?'

"'Norwegian, perhaps. Or maybe the Greek, with a slight mixture of Spanish.'

"'And who is the lady?'

"'O, she is a former Russian princess. Once she lived with a former nepman [merchant], then she lived with a former communist official, and now she has almost become a foreigner.'

"'What do you say!'

"'Really. Almost a diplomatic career. She is living with someone connected with one of the legations.'

"'Do you know with whom?'

"'I think it is with the second chauffeur of the first secretary of the American embassy.'

"'You don't say! Well, her outward appearance is nothing special. Skin and bones. And her face just like a lizard.'

"'Ah! But what a lovely perfume she had! Rue de la Paix, Guerlain. When she passes you can smell her for an hour after. One could die.'

"'I beg your pardon. You seem to forget whose wife I am. I do not think it is the right thing to smell the perfume of foreigners.'

"'We were speaking of Nikolai Sergeievitch.'

"'Yes, yes. I beg your pardon, but perhaps you do not like to talk of him, but do you happen to know with whom he is living now?'

"'Why should it be unpleasant? Just the opposite. I honor temperament in a man. Nikolai is now living with Soya Petrovna. Do you know her?'

"'Yes. But I heard he is going with Sonia, the dancer.'

"'That was before Soya Petrovna. With Sonia he had a real romance. They lived together for nearly two years. . . . But finally he tired of her. It was natural. And when he finally realized there was an abyss between them he acted just like a well bred gentleman. He went away and left her the apartment and everything in it.'

"'And what happened to him?'

"'And what do you think? Was it possible for the trust to leave their director without a corner to sleep in? That would be really funny. . . . And you know Lubochka? Well, she really has had a splendid piece of luck.'

"'Which Lubochka do you mean?'

"'Lubochka Alexandrovna. She is now living with Nikolai. She is splendid. A wonderful woman. Well, Lubochka's husband remained in her apartment, and he began to go with Sina Krivdich, and when they got married Nikolai phoned to me and told me that my father and mother could have Sina's flat. . . . But what are you counting on your fingers?'

"'The apartments. It would be interesting to know just how many apartments have passed through the hands of Nikolai Sergeievitch.'"

"With the government demanding larger families, it is making life more complicated." (Young Russian mothers exercising their infants in a government-operated institution.) (Acme photo.)

Britain Adopts Czech Machine Rifle

The Bren, a machine rifle manufactured in Czechoslovakia, which the British war office recently adopted for the British army.

AFTER testing the Bren, a machine rifle manufactured in Czechoslovakia, for several years, the British war office recently adopted it as standard equipment for the British army to replace the Lewis gun.

The new weapon, which can be operated on a bipod or tripod or fired from the shoulder, is lighter than the Lewis gun. The firing speed is 550 rounds a minute, which is about the same as that of the Lewis gun. The Czechoslovakian weapon, however, is considered more reliable.

This same weapon was tested by the United States army ordnance department but was not adopted. The standard machine rifle equipment of our army is the Browning.

The flash and recoil reducer, located at the muzzle, is a device which allows the superheated gas which propels the bullet to escape from a series of holes around the muzzle, thus lessening the force of the sudden release and consequently reducing the gun's recoil. It also reduces the heat at the muzzle considerably.

The front sight, by which the operator, in conjunction with the rear sight, aims the weapon, is similar to those used on all guns of this type.

The grip for handling the removable barrel is an interesting device. Machine rifles used by most European armies are equipped with easily removable barrels. The reason is that in operation the barrel soon becomes extremely hot. It is possible for it to become red-hot, which might mean destruction of the gun by bullets passing through the softened barrel metal. When the barrel of the Bren gun begins to get too hot for safe operation the operator needs no protection for his hands in removing it. He simply turns the grip handle; this unscrews the barrel, which is removed and replaced by a new one.

The magazine of the Bren gun, which contains the cartridges, is curved in shape and is mounted above the breech. In the United States Browning gun the magazine is oblong and mounted below the breech.

The magazine release mechanism is similar in this gun to such devices generally in use.

The rear sight has no unusual feature.

The butt stock is similar to any ordinary rifle butt stock.

The shoulder rest, attached to a metal butt shield, is for the purpose of helping to keep the rear end of the gun steady on the shoulder.

On the under side of the butt stock is a socket for a butt rest, a bar or leg, similar to one of the legs of a tripod or bipod, only shorter.

At the rear of the trigger guard is an ordinary pistol grip for the purpose of supporting and steadying the trigger hand of the operator.

The charging slide is a mechanism which permits manual operation of the breech at any time there is a jam. A bolt on a hinge on the right side of the gun gives the operator leverage. He can either eject a cartridge from or charge a cartridge into the breech by using the slide mechanism.

The gas cylinder and port are parts of the automatic firing system. At this point forward a certain amount of the propellant gas is drawn out of the barrel into the gas chamber. This gas forces back a sliding bar which ejects the empty cartridge case and releases the guard which allows a new cartridge to enter the breech. The gas then escapes, the sliding bar returns to the forward position, and as the new bullet is fired the process is repeated.

The picture shows the forward end of the gun mounted on a bipod, or two legs forming a triangle with the ground. Sometimes a tripod is used to support this end of the gun.

To prevent the bipod from being forced into the ground by the vibration of the gun, the ends of the two legs have metal flanges attached which rest flatly on the ground.

In most types of machine rifles used by European armies power for the automatic action of the guns is furnished by the propellant gas, as it is in this example. In the American Browning rifle the propellant gas is allowed to escape, the automatic action power being furnished by the recoil force against an inert block at the breech.

The Bren gun, as well as the Browning rifle, is air cooled. The Browning gun, however, has a series of heat-radiating rings around the barrel which makes unnecessary the provision for changing the barrel under almost all firing conditions.

A machine rifle is the adaptation of the machine gun mechanism to the shoulder rifle. Military weapons known as machine guns are much shorter and almost all of them have water cooling jackets encircling the barrel. Cartridges are fed into guns such as these by means of a ribbon, or belt, which passes through the gun horizontally at the breech.

THIS BOY JOE

Joe and Madge Quarrel Furiously When He Finds Her Going Out with a Strange Young Man

By Booth Tarkington

THE STORY TO DATE

Joe Hadley is a sentimental high school student of the small town of Aurora, Ind. His mother has recently died. His father is a state senator. While he is at the capital Joe's sister Emma tries to keep watch over Joe, as does his Uncle Milt, his mother's brother, who lives with and on them. Joe meets Madge Alterbeck and her chum, Mabel Benns, at a roadhouse in Columbia City, where he is taken by his sporting friend, Yeastie Marshall. Yeastie is driving a new car which he tells Joe is a gift from his family. Joe falls for the cheap glamor of Madge and desires to convert her to a higher life. Ben Webster, a detective, appears at the roadhouse. Yeastie hustles Joe away, leaving the car behind. Next day he sends Joe back for the car. On the way back to Aurora Joe is followed by a man in a shabby touring car. He leaves the car on a side street for Yeastie to pick up. Too late Joe realizes that the sedan was stolen and that he has become Yeastie's partner in the theft. His father is having trouble, having gone against a crooked bill sponsored by Gus Cooper, the town boss. He returns home a broken man, to die soon after. Joe proposes to Madge. He has just finished high school. She tells him she'll marry him when he finds a job. Joe's sister Emma marries Edgar Morrison, a fine-principled, industrious young man.

"Ended, you cheap little high school squirt!"

INSTALMENT VIII.

IT WAS in our old stable late in the afternoon, getting along toward sundown and twilight. A junk dealer had finally bought that rickety old car of ours, but Edgar had one and when he brought it in all over dust I'd offered to wash it for him. So he'd gone in the house and I'd been cleaning it and had the job done. I hadn't closed the back double door of the carriage house after Edgar drove in from the alley—we didn't have a drive through the yard and the only way to get a car in was from the alley, though there were front double doors to the carriage house, too, and a little gravel space in front of them where my father used to wash the old surrey so as not to rot the board floor of the carriage house, and I'd been washing Edgar's car there now. I was just going to get in and back it into the carriage house when there was a rumble on the old wooden floor and another car rolled into the stable from the alley.

I didn't recognize it, nor right away see that it was Yeastie Marshall in it. It was darker in the carriage house than it was outdoors where I was, and he jumped out so quickly and was so quick getting to the alley doors to close them, with his back toward me, that I couldn't tell who it was. He yanked down the heavy old wooden bar that fastened the doors so nobody could get in from outside; then he hurried back to the machine, a sedan, and took something out of one of the door pockets, I couldn't tell what, but I saw his face. I walked into the carriage house and looked at him.

"You get in that car and back it out in the alley," I told him. Of course my voice was trembling. "You hear me?"

HE TRIED to laugh as if he was surprised, but there was a twitch to his under lip and it seemed to me he was looking white. He offered to shake hands, but I wouldn't. "Why, what's the matter, guy?" he asked me. "There hasn't been anybody trying to make trouble between me and you, has there? If anybody's been spilling it to you that I ever said anything against you in my life, they're a liar. What's wrong, guy?"

"You know what's wrong!"

He laughed again, but it sounded shaky. "I certainly don't! I just thought, here I was in town and you about the only friend I got in this burg from old days, what's the matter I give you a look in? Then here all at once, instead of 'Glad to see you, old-timer!' you act like you want to scrap or something! What's the matter, guy?"

"Get that car out of here!" I told him. "Get it out!"

"Listen——" he began, but I went to the back doors and was going to open them. He came after me and caught hold of my arm to keep me from lifting the bar. "Don't do that, guy," he said.

"Why not?"

He kept hold of my arm and didn't answer right away; he seemed to be listening.

"What you listening to hear?" I asked him.

"Nothing," he said. "Only don't open these doors. Can't you let me talk to you a minute?"

"I'll give you a minute, not more. What have you got to say?"

"Come away from the doors, can't you?" I went back a few steps into the carriage house and he let go of my arm. "You act like you're dippy," he said. "Can't I park my own car in your stable where we always used to play? Last time I saw you we were friends and everything, Joe. I don't get you."

"It's not your own car," I told him. "It's a hot car, Yeastie Marshall. Think I don't know it?"

"What? Why, you're nuts, guy! You think I——"

"Yes, I do!" I told him. "You can't put it over on me again. You got me to drive one hot car in town for you when I didn't know any better."

"Listen, Joe," he said, "I'm not denying I'd be in big trouble if you do me dirt and force me to get out of here in that car right now. I'm not denying it, am I? This car's all right; I don't deny it's a swiped car, but that's all. I just wanted it for this evening, but they picked me up a little too quick. You aren't going back on me, are you, Joe? Are you the kind of guy that would ruin an old schoolmate that never showed you anything but friendship and always liked you—yes, liked you better than anybody else—and always trusted you, too, and thought you was a good guy that'd stick to a friend to the limit—Joe, if anybody'd asked me, I'd have said you were the last guy in the world that'd pass up a friend that trusted you."

"O, you trusted me, did you?" I said, and I laughed. "Yes, to be a sap once more!"

"No!" He took hold of my arm again, but this time only by the sleeve, and his hand was shaking. "Didn't I just prove I trusted you to show you're the kind that won't go back on an old friend? Didn't it prove trust, me running in here with this car? I said to myself, 'There's Joe Hadley. He's not going to see a guy that grew up with him and was always his buddy get his life ruined for just using somebody's car one night.' That's all it was, Joe. I left my own car over in Columbia City; it's in the shop, and I thought I'd just hop over to the old burg here and take in the old sights, just one evening. I'd have had this car back in front of where I got it before morning if somebody hadn't just happened to pick me up wrong. I swear on my soul that's all it is, Joe! It ain't going to hurt you to just let me leave this car here one night, is it? I'll come around before daylight and get it; I swear on my soul I will! You ain't going to——"

He stopped and looked out the door toward the yard. Emma'd sent Uncle Milt around the house to tell me to come in to dinner, and he was calling me. "Joseph! Joseph Hadley! Do you realize that you're keeping our dinner waiting?"

Yeastie knew he had me and in two seconds he was a different person, slick, easy, knowing—all out of trouble and glib as a supersalesman. He stepped forward to meet Uncle Milt. "Well, well, Mr. Bell," he said. "Don't remember me, I'm afraid, but of course I do you. I'm Parks N. Nelson, belong in Uniontown, Pennsylvania, now, but I and my family used to live here in my schooldays, and of course anybody that ever lived in Aurora knew who you were, Mr. Bell—yes, and always will, Mr. Bell."

UNCLE MILT shook hands with him, and I could see he didn't have the slightest remembrance of ever having seen him before. "Very glad indeed to see you, Mr. Nelson." He looked approvingly at Yeastie, who was more fashionable than ever in his dress and nobody on earth could have believed how he'd just been begging me. "Yes," Uncle Milt went on, "I believe former citizens of our city usually do recall something of me. It's always a satisfaction to have the pleasure of greeting them when they return. Are you visiting the old place for any length of time? If so, I'd be glad to have you——"

"No," Yeastie said. "I'm just staying over tonight, thank you. I just stopped in to get my old friend Joe here to do me a favor." He laughed apologetically. "They tried to overcharge me at a public garage; I thought I'd put one over on them, instead, so Joe's going to let me park my car here for the night."

"Very glad, indeed," Uncle Milt said. "Very glad to accommodate you, Mr. Nelson."

"Thanks," Yeastie said, and looked at his wrist watch. "Afraid I've got a date." He gave me a side glance over his shoulder. "So long, Joe."

Uncle Milt went with him, and they walked around the house toward the front, talking cheerfully.

I went out in the front yard, after dinner. I looked back through the darkness at the stable and began to mutter to myself that I'd be nobody's goat; they couldn't do that to me, and so on. I saw everything black. I'd show them, though! I went out on the sidewalk and turned south, walking fast—walking toward Madge Alterbeck's.

Mrs. Mittie Alterbeck came to the door when I rang the bell, and, looking at her, I saw I'd been mistaken in thinking the color of her face was maybe due to swarthiness; it was just not washing. "I want to see Madge," I told her.

She stood in the doorway and didn't answer right away. I went in, though I had to squeeze past Mrs. Alterbeck, and she made objections in a voice that all of a sudden sounded cackling. I didn't pay any attention to her. Madge was at the foot of the stairway now, with her mouth open and staring, and a stoop-shouldered fellow about twenty-five that I'd seen her with once was just coming out of the parlor to go out with her. What I asked her didn't sound ridiculous to me, or ironical, but just hoarse.

"Is that your aunt from Hinesville?"

"I'll handle this," the stooping young man said, and stepped toward me. "I ain't afraid of this bird."

Madge got her voice back, and pushed between us, shoving me back. "You go on home!" she told me. "Haven't you got any sense? You got no date with me tonight, have you? Then what business you got around here anyhow?"

"You say I haven't any?" I asked her. "You say I haven't any right to be here?"

"Right!" she said and she was in a fury that twisted her face into an expression I'd never seen on anybody. "Say, listen, who are you anyhow?"

"Don't you know?" I asked her. "Don't you even know the looks of the man you're going to marry?"

That staggered her friend; seemed to change matters for him. "Marry?" he said, and stepped back. "Look, Madgie; I don't want to bust in on anything like that. Listen, I'll go along." He turned toward the door. "I'm not a man to want to come between——"

She gave kind of a scream and grabbed him by the side of his coat and pulled him back. "No, you don't! Trying to walk out on me? Is that what you want? I'll show you!" Madge told him; then she turned on me. "Scram out o' here! You go home and stay there!"

"That's what you want, is it?" I asked her. "This is the end of it, is it?"

"End of it?" She clenched her fist and hit me on the chest, hard. "You come around here trying to play the gooseberry, do you, Mr. Buttinsky? You expect me to tie up with you, you go out and get a job like a man, and then we'll see!"

"No," I said. "It doesn't depend on that. You go out with this man tonight, and it's ended. I've stood all I'm going to! If you——"

She stopped me. She hit me again and pushed me toward the door, squalling. She began to curse me. I'd never heard her use real profanity before, but she did now, enough to raise your hair, especially from a woman. She was crying, too, with the rage she was in; but that didn't interfere. "Ended, you cheap little high school squirt!" she yelled. "You bet your little forty-cent life it's ended! Get out o' here and stay out! Get out!"

I hurried away.

It had been less than three hours since Yeastie Marshall had driven a stolen sedan into our stable, and every minute since then had been a nightmare, the worst one I'd ever had, and it had been a worse one every minute of it. It kept on, too; my life was blasted and I was at the bottom of the black hole—it lasted all night and until I shivered myself out to the stable before breakfast next morning.

THE sedan was gone. The back doors of the carriage house were pushed to but not barred, so Yeastie'd kept his word for once—only because he wanted the car, of course—and, what was more, I'd have double padlocks on those doors after this; he'd never get another car in that old stable.

It was the day when I'd decided I'd go to see Anita in the evening. It may be ridiculous, but I'd felt I had to get the last echoes of the squabbling in Mrs. Alterbeck's hallway out of my ears before I'd go to see Anita Blythe again, and now I thought I could. Pop called me up from Gerling's for Madge. "Got a message for you," he said. "Miss A. left it for you. Got it written down here. Read it to you, huh? It says, 'Do not pay any attention to what I said that eve. I was mad, but that is nothing. Tell Pop when you will give me a ring and we will have a nice talk again and everything O. K. If you would rather I will give you a ring, so tell Pop when you will be home to get it.'"

"No answer," I said, and I rang off; but I thought she'd probably have him call up again or do it herself. Of course in one way it wouldn't make any difference; I felt as completely through with her as I thought I was with Yeastie Marshall and I'd never see her again. But in another way it put kind of a burden on me—just thinking I'd maybe have to talk to her, even if it was only over the telephone.

I did go to Anita's, anyhow, as I'd planned. It was chilly and drizzling that evening, autumn rains and most of the light in that pleasant room at her home came from the fireplace. I asked her if she'd play Rachmaninoff's Prelude for me again, and she did, and then asked me if I'd like her to keep on playing, or what? It was a curious thing how that question of hers startled me.

Anita seemed to want to do whatever I asked her to, now; but was that Anita herself? What would she be like if she got mad at me? Was there a kind of veil over every girl until something happened and then you knew them? Or did you never know them? Maybe you never knew anybody.

"Well, if you wouldn't mind talking a while——" I said.

She stood up. "No, certainly." We went down the length of the room together and sat in chairs, one on each side of the fire.

"I was thinking about something you said one night out on the porch in the moonlight, the night your father came in while I was here," I went on. "I mean about your being 'modern'—so you said—and admiring a strong man."

"I do," she told me. "What of it?"

"I don't know that I'll ever be one, Anita. I've got an idea I'll certainly never be the strong kind—the kind you like. Looking back over my whole life, I don't see a symptom of it."

"No," she told me. "You and I are both too young to be able to look back over much of our lives, because we haven't had them. You can't say that."

"O, I know," I said. "But I've had some experiences——"

She interrupted me. "Experiences? What nonsense! You haven't had time."

"I've had time for some," I insisted. "They've shown me I haven't got anything strong about me, nothing but weakness. It's been horrible! Could you stand my telling you, Anita?"

She saw I was serious, said "yes"; and I began at the beginning and told her all about Madge. I didn't tell her because I was afraid she'd ever hear about Madge some other way. I told her because I wanted her to know as much of the truth about myself as I could stand showing to her. I didn't tell her anything about Yeastie. I just couldn't let her see I was as big an idiot as I'd been in my dealings with Yeastie.

She didn't look at me while I talked; she looked into the fire steadily, and, when I finally stammered on to the end of it and finished, she didn't say anything. "Well," I asked her, "could there be anything sloppier than that? Could anybody that's behaved as I have ever grow up to be a 'strong man'? You know better!"

SHE got up and walked to the piano, but didn't sit down. She just leaned back against it and looked at me as if she was thinking about me pretty hard.

I got up, too, and came and stood before her. "You see, don't you?" I asked her.

"Yes," she said then, speaking at last. "I think you'll do."

I didn't understand what she meant. "I'll do?"

"What I like," she said, "you went down there to that horrible place and caught her in her lie and charged her with it and threw her over. That's what I like."

"But I didn't, Anita. Not just like that, I mean. It was just a sort of squabble and I hardly knew what I was doing."

"Yes, you did," she said. "You gave her what she deserved. I don't care what else the rest of it was. I told you I'm modern, didn't I? Don't forget that. What counts with me is your treating her at last as she deserved. Was there any other reason?" Anita wasn't speaking coquettishly; she smiled; maybe a little waveringly, but she was looking me in the eye and talking straight out. "Was there any other reason for you doing it?"

"Yes, of course," I said. "All the time—there was you. I——"

An Open Letter to Charles Laughton

Dear Charles: A friend of mine recently came into prominence in New York, landing at the top in one step. He was a furor overnight, with his name in all the papers as a most promising young man. He couldn't take it—referring to prosperity. He is now obscure. The reason I mention this to you is that such also is your temptation, according to your horoscope, although you are not yielding to it, I am glad to note. Watch 1937 for misunderstandings. With best wishes,

WYNN.

"The Crusades" Taken as an Example

By ROSALIND SHAFFER

THERE is a popular misconception regarding how a motion picture is made. The public has the idea that a star, a director, and a cameraman get together and a picture results. Most people do not know of the 68 departments, employing between 2,000 and 3,000 in one studio alone, which are vital in the process.

When a prodigious production such as "The Crusades" is under way the task of its director is to wield the baton like an orchestra conductor over the entire resources of his studios.

From the moment Cecil B. De Mille of Paramount first conceived the idea of making "The Crusades" and started its execution, a complex set of wheels was put in motion. One of his first acts was the signing of Harold Lamb, historian and author and winner of the Guggenheim prize for his two-volume work on the crusades. It was Lamb's job to write the original story from which the picture would be made. When this was finished two other writers, Dudley Nichols and Waldemar Young, were called in to work with Lamb in putting it into screen play form.

At the same time research was in full swing. Volumes on the subject had to be procured and every detail checked and annotated for the numerous departments which would have to use them. All material on interiors and exteriors of the age was turned over to Roland Anderson of the art department, whose business it is to make the set designs and sketches. Costume and armor went to Ralph Jester, who prepared hundreds of costume sketches for submission to De Mille. In many cases he would have to do perhaps twenty or thirty on one costume alone before it was approved. Such costumes must be becoming to the player as well as historically accurate.

Make Everything from Spurs to a Catapult

Material was dished out to the property department for the making of every twelfth century "prop" needed. The range of the department can be judged from the fact that it had to make everything from a pair of spurs to a giant catapult weighing eleven tons, the largest prop yet turned out in a Hollywood studio.

The casting department, under the direction of Fred Datig, submitted hundreds of players for the various rôles, while Datig's assistant, Holly Morse, was assigned the task of procuring thousands of extras and bit players.

The location department combed its files for sites near Hollywood which would approximate in vegetation and general appearance the Holy Land of the time of the crusades.

When the first script was finished one of the most interesting but least known processes was put under way. The business of budgeting the picture for cost of production is a detailed piece of work. Every one of the 68 departments receives a copy of the script, from which they each make their "breakdown."

Each scene is budgeted separately, with each department submitting an estimate on what its work and the materials in it will cost. Thus if the scene is the storming of the walls of Acre by the Christian knights, the casting department will figure the cost of the principal players and the extras. The live stock department will take into account the 500 or more horses needed for the knights and quote what they will cost. The wardrobe department has the difficult task of figuring out the various types of costumes and armor which some 3,000 players will wear in it, taking into account the cost of the designs and the various types of work to be done on them. Insurance is another item to be charged against production.

The transportation department will have to consider the cost of what amounts to moving an army with speed and dispatch.

The makeup department must figure the number of makeup men required and the pounds and gallons of makeup material needed. The studio hospital has to set up a first aid station and supply doctors and nurses in the event of possible accidents. The camera department and camera shop estimate the number of cameras, cameramen, and assistants required and the daily cost of repairing and overhauling cameras.

Every Detail of Cost Is Carefully Estimated

This "breakdown" system goes through the entire studio, and every detail of cost on each scene is estimated in advance. In many cases the total cost of the picture will exceed the amount of money allotted to the production.

When every item is approved, construction of sets and the making of costumes, armor, arms, and properties gets under way. The construction department puts its various subdepartments to work. Almost every department is broken up into various units.

Despite the lack of glamor in the names of the departments, their work is far different from that in ordinary life. The studio has to hire the best craftsmen in every line, for they are called on to use great ingenuity, and no two jobs are ever alike.

The electrical department is not just a matter of wires, bulbs, and men who turn switches on and off. On one large scene alone there can be as many as 400 different lamps, requiring 200 men to operate them.

Of vast importance is the camera shop, tucked away in a corner of the studio lot. Every night cameras are turned in for a careful going over. One grain of dust left lodged in the wrong place is capable of ruining a day's work which could cost $20,000.

Paint Faces as if Working on Canvas

Makeup men must be skilled artists. Their business is to paint on the players' faces with grease paint, pencils, rouges, and hair, as though working on a blank canvas. In "The Crusades" the department, headed by Wally Westmore, must create the head of Richard the Lion Hearted on that of Henry Wilcoxon, of Philip of France on Pedro De Cordoba, and of Berengaria on Loretta Young.

Anne Bauchens, who has been film cutter and editor on all of De Mille's pictures for the last twenty years, is credited by the director with contributing 20 per cent to the value of the film. A cutter must have a fine sense of dramatic values, timing, tempo, and general audience psychology. After the finish of "The Crusades" her work continues for perhaps three months before the picture emerges.

The connecting link between the set and Anne Bauchens' cutting room is Emily Barrye, the script girl, whose business it is to keep a check of every detail on production. The script which she carries is covered with hieroglyphics with which she denotes camera position, minute details of wardrobe, positions of players, and groupings of extras. This marked script is the basis for a daily report which the cutter follows.

Jumping a little farther afield, we find that such a department as the studio commissary has a task which no other restaurant business has to contend with. If De Mille is using 2,000 extras on the lot, the restaurant must be able to feed them all within the hour or three-quarters of an hour allotted to them as their lunch period. If they are away on location for one day, box lunches must be prepared in the morning so that they will be fresh and delivered and distributed on time. If the weather is cold, quantities of hot coffee are provided.

Temporary Kitchens Set Up on Location

In the event of a long period on location, temporary kitchens are set up by the commissary department and maintained with the same efficiency as is the restaurant in the studio.

The purchasing department must know where to buy any article or material on quick notice. In the case of "The Crusades" most of its purchases were of raw materials. There is no place where chain mail, crusaders' shields, helmets, and weapons can be bought. Instead the materials are procured and fashioned from research data.

Fabrics Appear Like Coats of Chain Mail

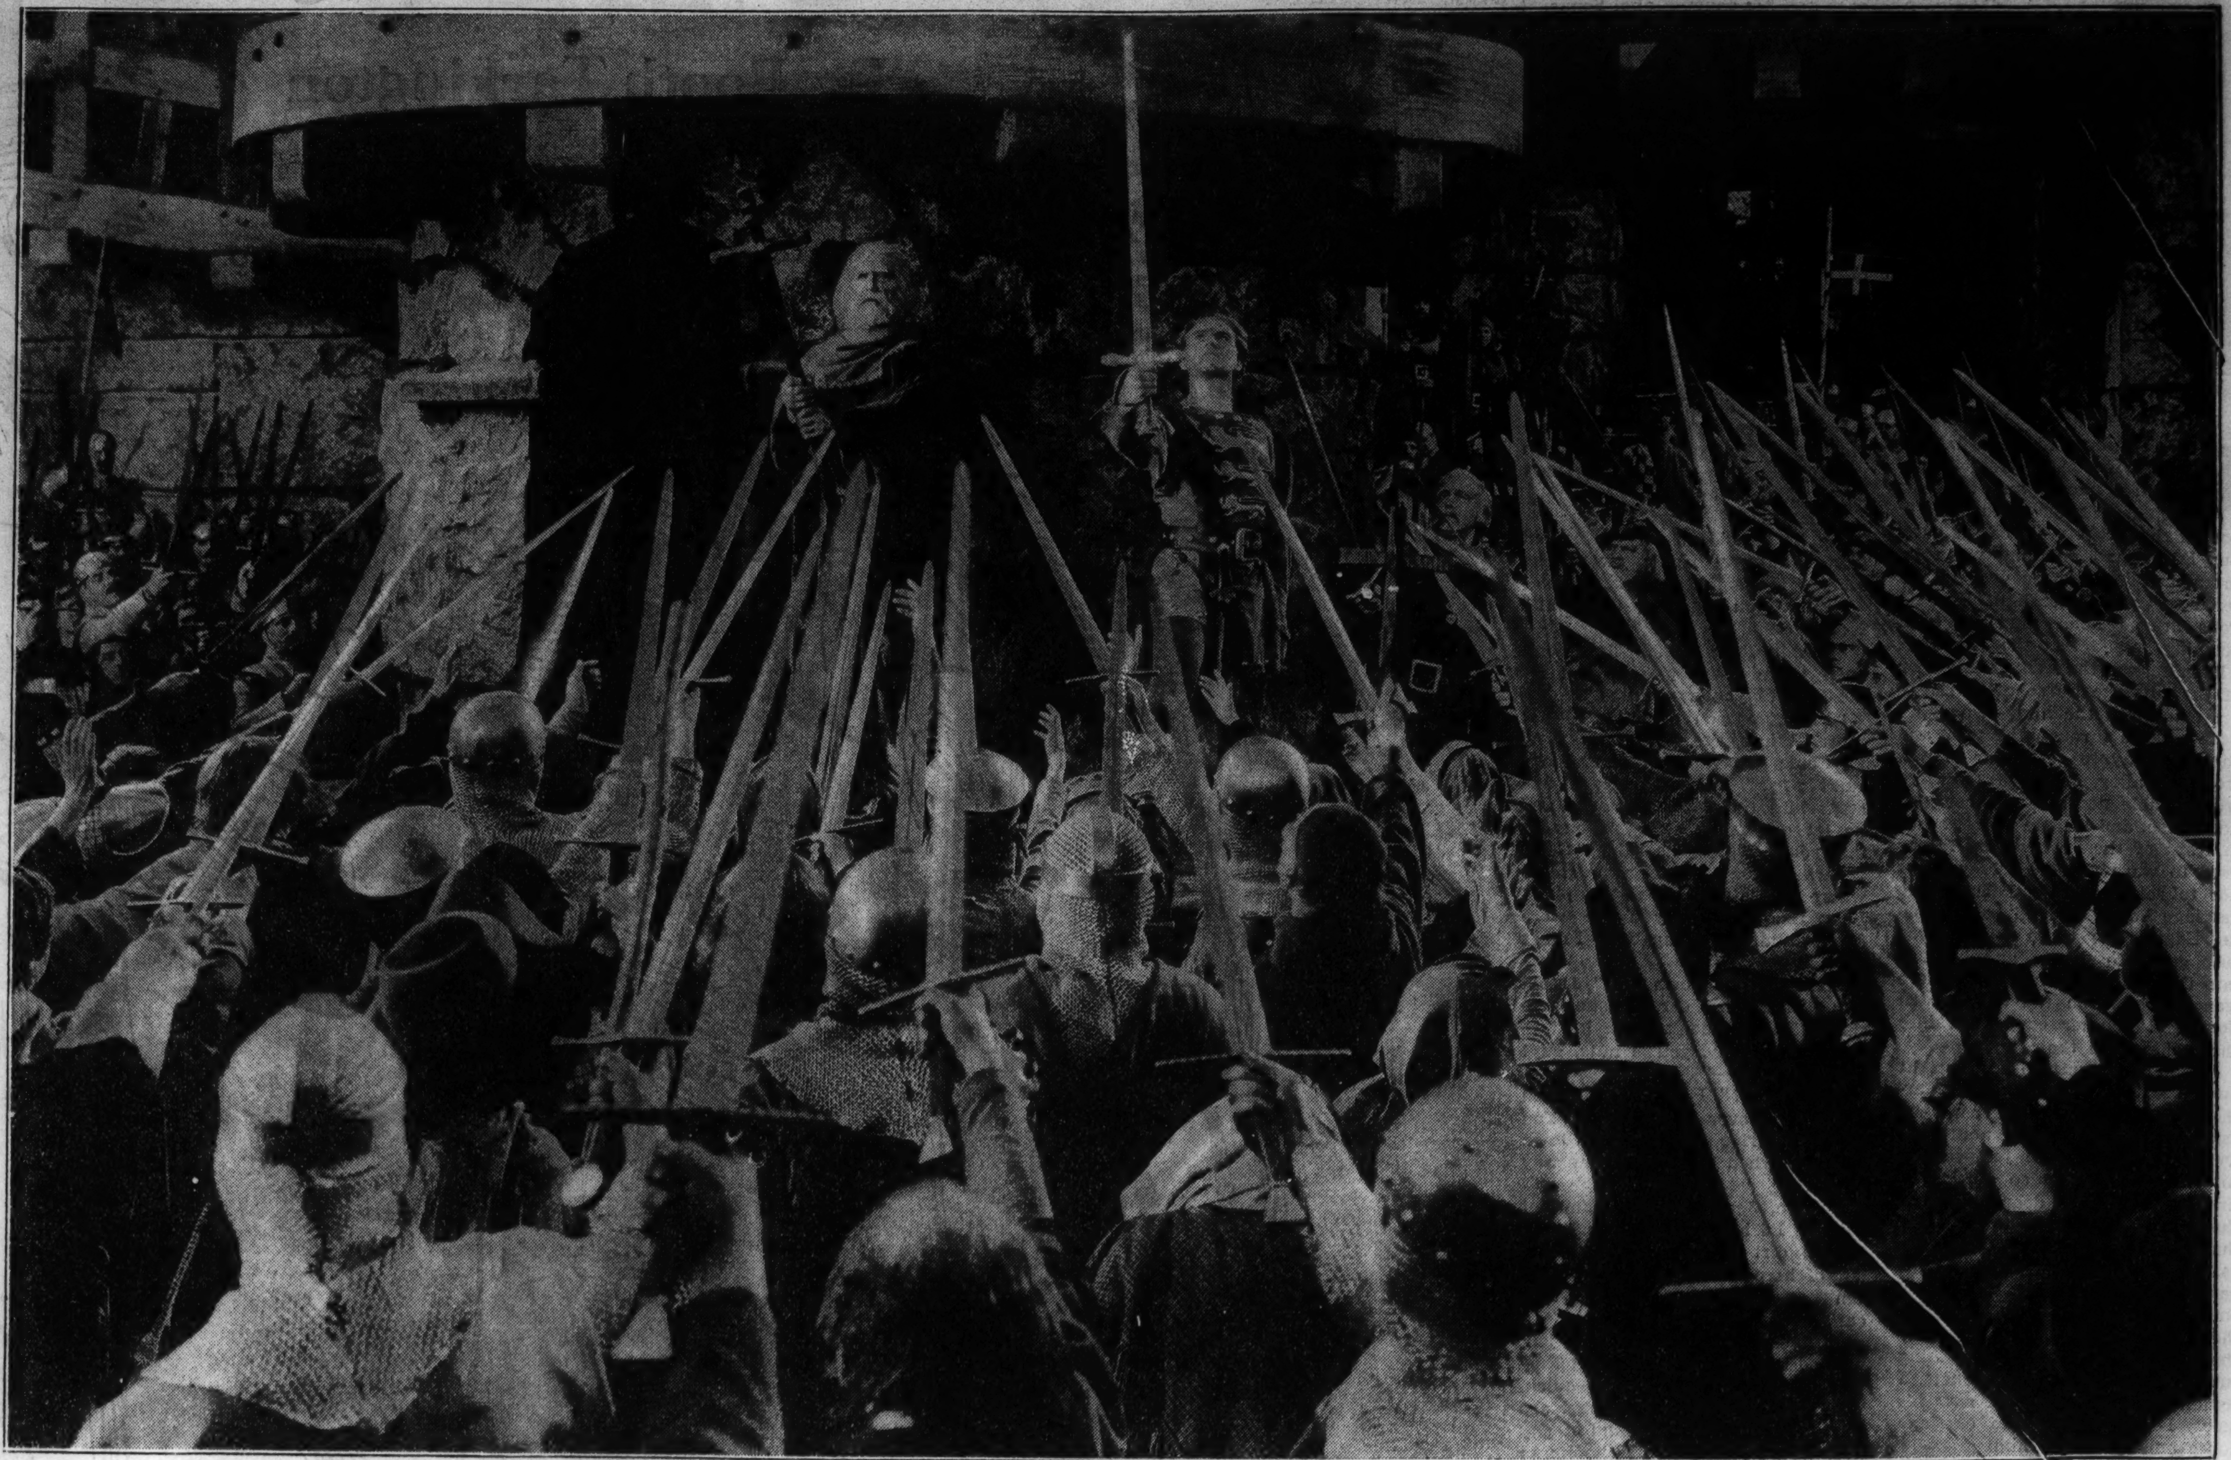
It was found that chain mail of the crusades period was an obsolete commodity. Heavy knitted fabric like a sweater, painted with metal paint, was used, as less heavy and more adaptable. Helmets and swords were copied from museum pieces and made in the studio foundry and metal shop by workers trained in such processes and under the direction of Juliano Arechea, one of the world's few remaining armorers, and who was brought for the purpose from Spain.

When a picture is completed and released, the star, the director, the cameraman, the prop boy, the cutter, the electrician, and in fact everyone asks his friends, "Have you seen my latest picture?"

They all are quite right in claiming credit, for each one is personally responsible for the success of the film. It all amounts to a system of cogwheels guided by the hand of the director. The slip of one little wheel is enough to throw the entire machine out of gear and spell the difference between success and failure.

No wonder, then, that Hollywood demands the best brains the world can supply in every art and craft.



In a spectacular production such as "The Crusades" thousands of extras are required. This is a scene from De Mille's latest superfilm, based on the holy wars of the middle ages.

A big item in a historical film of the nature of "The Crusades" is the costuming of the players. In the scene shown here Katherine De Mille is portraying a dramatic role.

Above: Sculptors modeling a twelfth century figure to be cast in the studio plaster shop as an ornament for a set.

Edwin Carew to Begin New Film Program

Series to Answer Demand of Civic Groups for Clean Motion Pictures.

A NEW program of film production, designed to meet the demands of schools, churches, and clubs for clean pictures, is to be started Sept. 15 by the Edwin Carewe Pictures corporation, with an expenditure of millions of dollars annually. The schedule calls for 10 feature pictures and 60 short subjects each year, to be shown in schools, churches, civic auditoriums, and other meeting places.

Civic Group Country Over to Support New Project.

Support for the programs of international church organizations of all denominations, boards of education, parent-teacher groups, and women's clubs is claimed, and "revolutionary" effects on the present system of making and exhibiting pictures are promised. An international board of nine will be formed from among representative church and educational organizations to pass on all stories before they are filmed.

According to Mr. Carewe, "statistics show that there are millions of people who do not attend film theaters. This is an audience we will reach with our products. We are not bucking the theaters of the country in any respect. In the long run our plan will help the public exhibitors in making people picture minded. This is the biggest development in the history of film entertainment since the application of sound to the screen. It is the outgrowth of the hue and cry for clean pictures."

Backers of Plan Promise to Equip Auditoriums.

The films will be made in the regular and the smaller 16 millimeter size. Backers of the new project promise to equip schools, civic, and other auditoriums with sound reproducing devices, the latest type of screens, and projection machinery to exhibit the new product.

Bing Crosby Is No Heart Throb to Secretaries

GIRLS whose hearts flutter when they see and hear Bing Crosby on the screen will be interested in the comments of his two secretaries, who work with him in the prosaic business of every day life. Miss Gladys Wayne, Bing's senior assistant, says: "He's nice. The perfect boss."

GLADYS WAYNE.

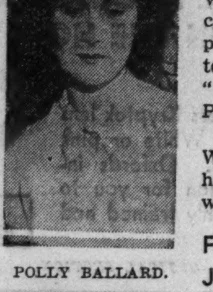
The young women have worked with Bing from the time his office was his dressing room up to the present, which finds his business quarters consisting of a four room suite. In the earlier days the two girls took dictation and attended to the endless details of a screen star's correspondence while sharing the limited space of the little dressing room with a piano, a music rack, a filing cabinet, a wardrobe, and a makeup table.

What's more, Bing rehersed all his songs in their presence, interspersing crooning with dictation which, the girls add, is rapid and concise. "He always seems to know what he wants to say," says Miss Wayne.

Miss Wayne was Bing's first assistant. She came to work for him less than a year ago, from her home in Pueblo, Colo. In a few months her duties became so numerous that Miss Ballard, from Des Moines, Ia., was hired to assist her.



POLLY BALLARD.

Hearing his famous voice in rehersal took all the kick out of his finished screen performances for his secretaries. To them he's a good executive and anything but a romantic Romeo. When Miss Wayne buys a ticket to the movies, she elects a film starring Fred MacMurray. Miss Ballard prefers John Boles' performances to her boss' any day.

Stage Experiment.

"Smile at Me," the new revue at the Fulton theater, New York, will be the first show to make the Sunday performance experiment, recently legalized by state legislature, and allowed under Actors' Equity association's rules. The show will play each Sunday night, eliminating the Monday performance.

New "Chauve-Souris."

Nikita Balieff's new version of the "Chauve-Souris" revue will open about Oct. 3 in New York. It will probably be given as a theater-restaurant revue.

THE VOICE OF THE MOVIE FAN

Letters published in this department should be written on one side of the paper. If you wish a personal reply, please inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Few Comments Anent Showing of "Clean" Movies.

Dear Mae Tinée: In my opinion you are too concerned about the fact that some clean pictures are not supported.

Because a movie is given an "A" rating shouldn't be reason enough to assure it a box office success. Some of those on the approved list are so boring and insipid that producers ought to lose money on them for trying to take advantage of the public. Surely it isn't strange that we prefer those that are not only decent but entertaining, as well.

I also disagree with your remark that "If good pictures are not supported at the box office producers can't be blamed for making those that will be."

Good pictures, excellently produced, that offer real amusement, always will be profitable, as evidenced by the popularity of such hits as "Judge Priest," "One Night of Love," "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," and many others. However, even if all decent pictures were financial "flops" that would not give producers the right to make the indecent kind. Our morals certainly are more important than their profits.

Trusting that our differences are at an end, I am, sincerely,

ARTHUR R. HAGEDORN.

Editor's note: End or no end, please continue a friend!

Alibis This Fan's Pet Peeve; Good Picture Always Is a Hit.

Dear Miss Tinée: The Ring Lardner moniker of "Alibi Ike" is a good one for the movies. I am pretty much fed up with all the rotten stuff they have been feeding us. The producers say that they have to put out tripe because the public demands it, and yet what kind of movies have the best box office records? Good ones. The movies alibi every story by saying that it has a "theme," mother love, "true love never runs smooth," loyalty, etc., and yet when a good theme like Frankenstein comes around the ending is changed so that the theme of a man-made monster that destroys its maker is ruined. [The "Bride of Frankenstein," in which the original ending was changed after a few weeks of its opening run.]

I liked Mr. Arliss as long as he was Mr. Arliss, but when he became George he was, as one critic put it, just in disguise for his historical "names." He was good in "Disraeli" and "The Man Who Played God."

Why doesn't Hollywood give Wendy Barrie a rôle such as she had in "The Prince of Cash"? You will hear from me anon. E. F.

Fan Wishes Revival of Juvenile Amateur Shows.

Dear Mae Tinée: As a constant and appreciative reader of your worthy paper I would like to make known my pet peeve. I love children, especially their amateur acting and until several years ago they were to be seen and heard in the "future star nights" at our local theater, where they were allowed to display their talent and also had the chance of winning a prize, the decision being made by the audience. What I would like to know is, why were these programs discontinued? Was it some political aspirant who thought he could deprive us of this pleasure through reporting same as coming under the child labor act?

Who could imagine a child feeling he was working while doing his little stunts? I am sure every one of them felt thrilled to think they had a chance to show their ability and they certainly gave us older people the thrill of our lives, for, after all, only a child can act naturally, and I feel sure that it would be the decision of the majority of theatergoers that they prefer their acting to many stunts now being put on by older people. Let us have these nights again and the attendance will jump at once.

Moon Reveals a New Holy Land to Cousin Eve

Bathing in Dead Sea Under Lunar Light Popular with Jerusalem Society.

By Cousin Eve.

JERUSALEM — The mountains of Moab by moonlight were a high backdrop of purple for the Dead sea, lying black and strangely still. As for the moon, it was so exuberantly full and bright that it seemed to be bursting out of the sky. Anything might happen. Here was I bathing in the Dead sea by moonlight, with a small party of friends. It is something they do in Jerusalem. An hour by motor, and you have the most extraordinary drive in the world. From the Judean heights of Jerusalem at 2,500 feet, the downward rush is rapid to 1,300 feet below sea level.

Dinner is at 9. We leave after 10, taking the Kedron valley road, which plunges deep into the valley past the hallowed garden of Gethsemane, whose tall, pointed cypresses are massed black against the gray rocky sides of the Mount of Olives. A few miles, and a sleeping village looms in the moonlight, which is bright as day. Bethany. Here two sisters, Martha and Mary, lived with their brother Lazarus.

Inn Christ Referred to in Parable Still Standing.

We dash on. The road is smooth as steel with a thousand curlicues. Not a sign of life, not a single habitation! On the left, suddenly the stone, square lines of an ancient khan. In the moonlight a carved portal, a square court for animals. This is one of the famous inns of the world. Christ referred to it in the parable of the man who went down to Jericho and fell among thieves, the parable of the Good Samaritan. For 2,000 years this has been the only khan between Jerusalem and Jericho. And the Jericho road had holdups every hour until the British came in.

Arrived safely on the west shore of the Dead sea, we find bath houses, a casino with wide terrace. On this yellow tables and chairs, a loud speaker giving dance music. The air is hot, and a strong wind swoops down from the Judean mountains behind us. We change, cross a stony beach, and wade in. The water is warm as if from gigantic faucets, certainly not refreshing, and, I believe, not deep. Just a short distance on the left the river Jordan flows into the Dead sea, which has no outlet.

No fish can live in these salt waters, so no birds are hereabouts.

As I float a bit, it comes to me that the ruins of Sodom and Gomorrah, twin cities of the plain, are supposed by archæologists to be forty feet down on the eastern shore, at the foot of the Moab mountains.

While Swimming, Views Fortress Where Salome Danced.

Opposite on one of their crests lie the remains of that terrible fortress, Machaerus, where Salome danced before her step-father, Herod Antipas, banqueting with his war captains. She is a princess of Judea, but her vivid dancing is so unrestrained that Herod promises her anything. Salome slips through heavy curtains and confers with her mother, Herodias—we all know the story. And the head of John the Baptist, who is imprisoned in a cave down the hill, is the forfeit. Herod and his captains are full of horror at the idea.

This is one of the most somber tragedies of history, and there is no more remote and dreadful spot on earth than this arid peak of the Moab mountains. A shiver froze my blood as I looked up at it.

Matchless Beauty in Valley of Jordan.

Again I went down into this valley of the Jordan of a breezy afternoon. George Adam Smith wrote 100 years ago in his great book "Historical Geography of the Holy Land," that "there may be something on another planet to match Jordan valley; there is nothing on this. Here we have a rift more than one hundred and sixty miles long, from two to 15 miles broad, which falls from sea level to 1,300 feet at the bottom of the Jordan."

Some people find this a terrible gash in the earth's crust. I was appalled at its indescribable beauty. Bare hills fall away in tawny waves, splashed with silver and with pink, simple as the dawn of creation.

Far away and low on the horizon, the bright violet of the Moab range. On the left, the stark, high mountains of Judea. We reach a green, tropical part of the valley. It is Jericho. Banana trees, balsam, corn, dates, highly perfumed flowers. Pretty houses. People live here winters. We get out at the square, deep pool called Elijah's well, where ravens fed the old man. We look hard at the ruins of old Jericho hard by. . . . Jericho, whose walls fell at the blasts of Joshua's trumpets. Jericho was given to Cleopatra by Anthony, who gave her also Greece and Phœnicia. She came to visit Jericho because of the wealth of its perfumes and spices, and Herod, the arch plotter, attempted to have her murdered. Cleopatra, however, escaped, and later, being a good business woman, leased Jericho to Herod for an income of $250,000 a year, when she failed to become queen of Judea.

South on the Jordan, Jesus Was Baptized.

We drove till we came to a narrow, rickety, military bridge. On an iron plate was the legend "Allenby Bridge, 1919." Getting out I walked across, and looked down upon a river perhaps thirty feet wide, of tawny water, with green, flowering banks.

In this river, quite a distance south, Jesus was baptized by John. It is the river Jordan.

For the first time in over 1,900 years, Palestine is being ruled by outsiders. Great Britain, since the war, has the Palestine mandate, and her governor, called high commissioner, is therefore the first to occupy the post of Pontius Pilate since Roman times. Sir Arthur G. Wauchope, who has this interesting job, flew back to England on a three months' leave just before we arrived. Several days later I was asked to a luncheon at government house by the acting high commissioner, a witty, charming man, His Excellency Hon. John Hathorn-Hall.

British Official Residence Overlooks Mount of Olives.

The official residence is several miles out of town on a high hill, a large, white stucco Arab house, flying the British flag. We passed extensive barracks, sentinels, high walls, and on arrival found a marvelous view of the entire country. Jerusalem, spreading over four hills with silvery white plains and deep gorges between. And on the right the Mount of Olives. A long Arab corridor of many arches, interesting black doors painted in beautiful colors, then a high, cross-shaped room, white and brightly lighted by open doors through which a breeze rushed.

The company gathers. Mrs. Hathorn-Hall and her youngsters are unluckily having the measles. The guests are young marrieds of the colony, and the most brilliant Arab man in Palestine is there with his wife, Moussa Bey El-Alami. A graduate of Cambridge, he speaks perfect English, is at present solicitor general and a leader of thought for his party. He is a handsome man and, having just come from a holiday at St. Moritz, was proud of his tan.

Our host arrives followed by two aids and the party goes forward. There is no cocktailing—thank heaven! and we proceed to a long, white dining room with white, vaulted ceilings, where are again the black doors, richly striped, set in round arches. The conversation was gay, also brilliant on the part of the officer conducting-the-government, as the acting commissioner is called. Arabs in native livery served us.

Arabs Now Call Lawrence a Wild Adventurer.

After luncheon my host tactfully arranged two things: That I should talk to Moussa Bey Alami, and get in touch with other Arab leaders; and that I should see some of the top Jews. The clever Arab did not attempt to conceal Moslem hatred of a Palestine for the Jews. His first argument was that the country is far too small for the purpose; therefore, the problem is not solved. The Arabic contention is that Arabs sided with the allies in the great war, and that England, through Lawrence of Arabia, promised them a separate empire here. And they have since been let down.

The Arabic summing up of Lawrence now is that he was a rather wild fellow who played a spectacular war game over the Arabian deserts for the thrills that were in it: Danger and romantic excitement. When these palled upon him Lawrence slipped out leaving the Arabs flat, with great disillusionment.

Waters Famed in Twenty-Third Psalm Flow Into Jerusalem.

The most expensive hotel in the world is here. Many Jews occupy its shining halls; also tall sheiks, with sheets draping their sleek, black heads and broad shoulders. An after dinner coffee costs seventy-five cents American there.

The still waters, famed in the Twenty-Third psalm come into Jerusalem, also the Brook Kerith, and we drink them avidly.

Life has a regular round, rising early and dining late, breakfasting while the day is young in self-defense. Arabs are up yelling in the narrow streets. At dawn, waking from a deep sleep, you hear a cock crow twice, sorrowful reminder of over 1,900 years ago. You look out at this sleeping city; white massive walls, black shadows. The square tower of David—vibrations of coming day.

You are in a perfect hotel. The comfort is remarkable; magnificent oriental rugs cover the stone floors. It is clean, cool. Outside Arabs are clawing up streets and clawing down houses. They are laying water pipes and pounding on stones with a rumpus that would slay you, if you let it. There are shouts, swears, donkey screams, camel groans. Bedlam begins at sunrise and carries on till sunset. Then uncanny quiet and peace blesses the land. Pandemonium is over for the day. The air is cool.

Jews Erecting Modern Houses in Smart Business Quarter.

Houses are coming down because Jews are buying nice pieces of real estate to put up modern houses in this smart business quarter. Arabs are selling for two reasons. They dearly love money. And they sense a coming depression.

We were due for tea at 6 with a charming Chicago man, Edward Blatchford, at present in foreign service after a distinguished career in war relief. We have a loose end of time, so ho! for the Wailing Wall!

One must go afoot and suffer a bit to reach this remote spot. Here Jews of all sizes and ages howl their lamentations for the destruction of Solomon's temple by Titus, 70 A. D. A little late, but old fashioned Jews attribute the present prosperity of Palestine to 1,930 years of wailing.

On King David street, down, down a street that is a bazar. We compete for footway with donkeys. Also with Arabs in sweeping robes, with muffled heads, scornful of women.

Jews in Business Suits, Straw Hats Sob at Wailing Wall.

Street of the Chain, and to the right, down ancient stone steps through a flock of hideous, begging hags. Several short turns and we see high ahead the huge, yellow, stone blocks that were the foundation wall of Solomon's temple, the enormous proportions of which you may read in the Bible. Then a sentry box, with superb specimens of young Britishers on duty in gray uniform. There are apt to be clashes between Arabs and Jews Fridays or Saturdays when wailing is at its best. I found a row of Jews facing the wall, men and women. Busily they were shoving little prayers written on paper into chinks between the great stones.

A row of bearded old Jews was squatted against the opposite wall chanting a sort of litany. Young rabbis, who strode about in velvet mantles and big hats rimmed in long fur.

We sit in solitude and mourn
For the temple that is destroyed.
We sit in solitude and mourn
For walls that are overthrown.
We sit in solitude and mourn
For our majesty that is departed.

The orthodox Jew is known by his curls in Palestine. A long dark curl falls from each temple. Young Jew boys have fluffy, blond curls just starting and timid little pink faces. They wear boxy little black hats, long, black skirted robes. Yet in the mass of Jews wailing and sobbing at the wall, there were well barbered men in gray business suits, with straw hats, or maybe they were felt. One was greatly edified by the Wailing Wall.

Edward Blatchford Has Arabic Bachelor's Quarters.

Edward Blatchford has a delightful little Arab stucco house, quite pink, a garden, and a vista. Several tall cypresses, too. He has furniture à l'Arab, and his bachelor establishment has an individual air. On one wall was a picture of the old Blatchford house, surrounded by trees, his birthplace in La Salle street. Gone long since, it seems. Arab men in long petticoats skipped about to serve, and the chauffeur, too, was an Arab.

Looking outside at the rising moon one saw that we were a little out of town; there were other pink houses and delightful walls draped in bougainvillæa.

Our host is a gay and witty man, and kept us busy telling him how was this and that person among our charming friends. Also there, some recent Princeton graduates. One of them, Johnston Garrett of Baltimore, son of Robert Garrett, had it on his mind to scale the Krak des Chevaliers, an ancient crusader's castle up in the Lebanons. He and Gifford Cochran Jr. had climbed to Machaerus in the Moabs that day and were rather set up over it.

One Drives to Bethlehem on Street Where Judas Lived.

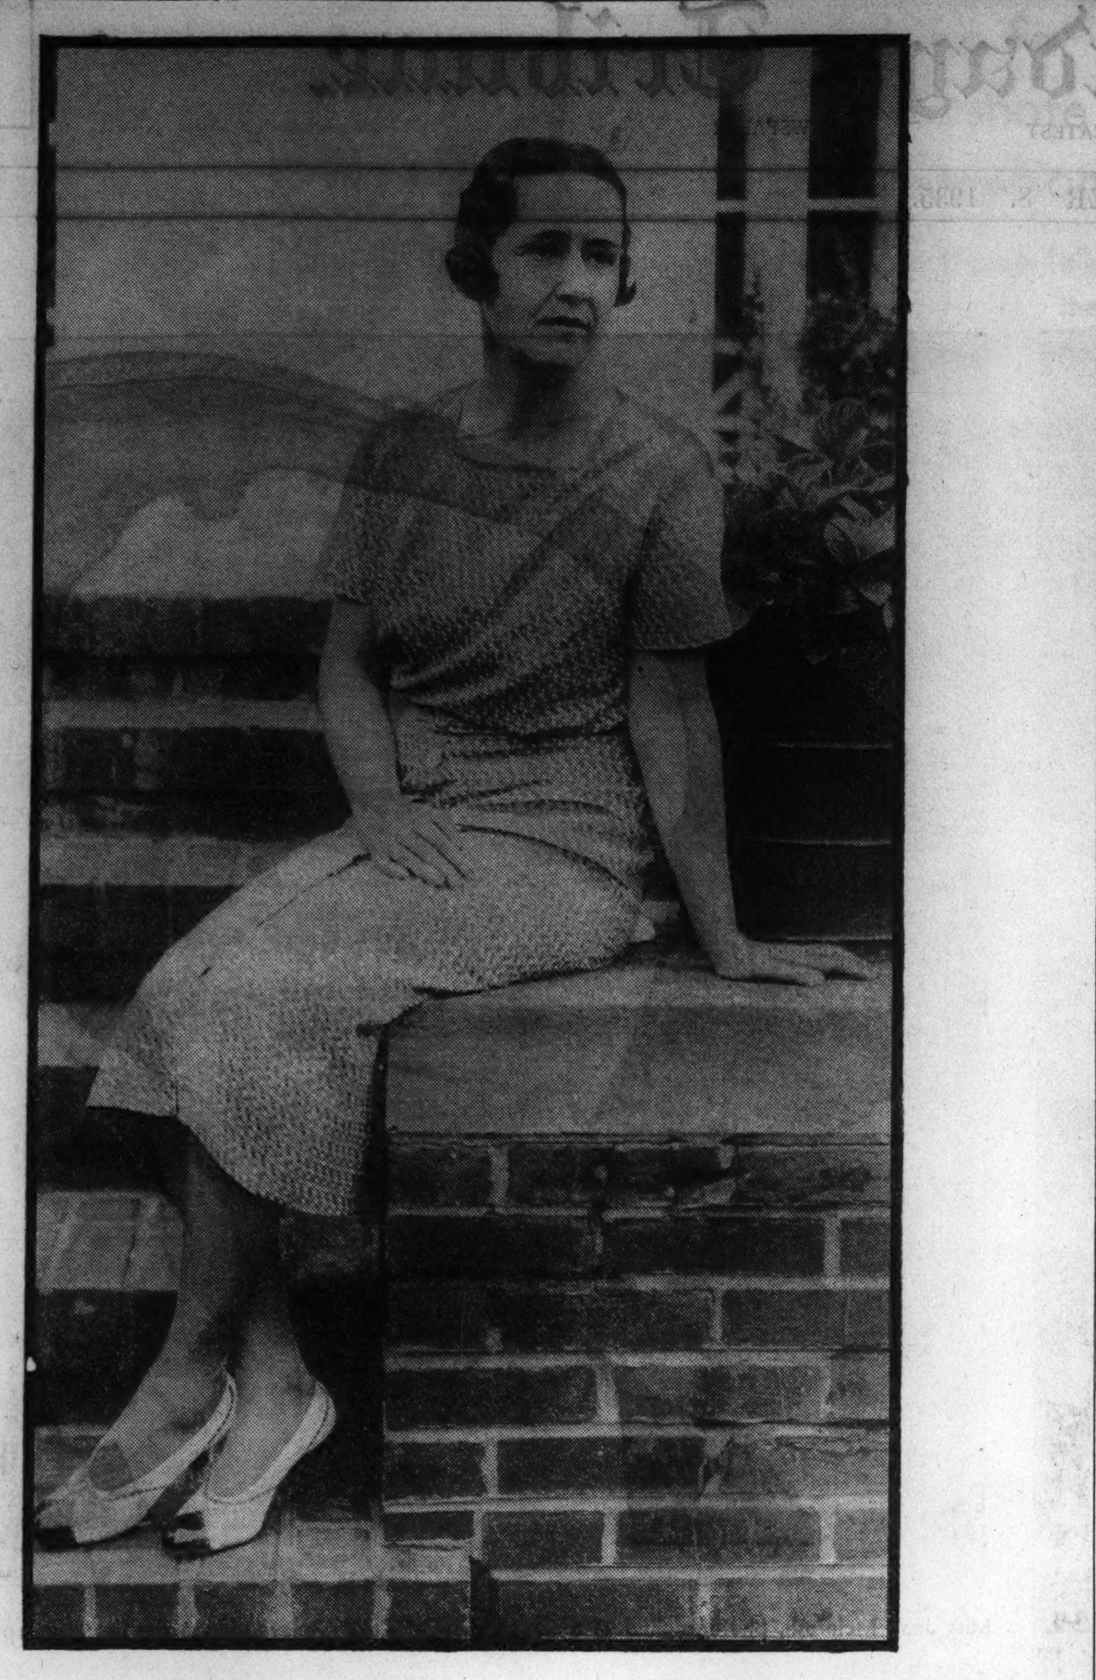
One envied them a little. As we were regretfully leaving, to dine elsewhere, for the moon was 'way up, Mr. Blatchford asked one last thing: "How is that dear fellow, Harold McCormick?"

"Perfectly fine six weeks ago," I replied, realizing only then how very far is the middle east, as they call it, from the middle west.

My favorite drive is south to Bethlehem, about seven miles. The route is along the street where Judas Iscariot lived, or "the Street of Evil Counsel," past the army post, the high commissioner's palace, the Christian quarter, the new rich Jewish quarter. Our Arab chauffeur was quite a chatterbox, predicting imminent pogroms and other dire things.

Stopping the car, we saw on the left the entire land falling away to a blue line which was the Dead sea, seventeen miles away; behind it, the bare mountains of Moab, almost opalescent; 'way down below, rich fields and clumps of fig trees: "The fields of Boaz," said the Arab; "and there Ruth the Moabitess, came to work for Boaz and became his wife."

Some lines of black on far hills were a Bedouin encampment. Ahead of us lay the Christian town of Bethlehem, rarely beautiful, with the most superb view in all the world, over a dreamlike country. The Church of the Nativity, built by Constantine over the stone crèche sacred to the memory of the birth of Jesus, is said to be the oldest Christian church in the world. Of Roman style, it has magnificent red marble pillars and a stubby little door that would force a dwarf to bend double. We descended high rough steps to the stone grotto, once the place for animals of an inn, accompanied by a glib Arab guide and an Arab policeman. No matter how much one would like to be alone with one's impressions in these holy memorials, an Arab is always on hand.



ONE OF LAKE FOREST'S MOST ARDENT RIDERS

Mrs. Samuel J. Walker is more apt to be photographed in riding clothes than in any other sort of garb, for she is one of Lake Forest's most enthusiastic equestriennes. As Elizabeth Ware she was known as one of society's most beautiful girls. Her marriage took place a dozen years ago. Today she is one of the handsomest women in every assemblage.

Chicagoans Attend Indian Ceremonies at Lake Placid

MRS. E. CRANE WILSON, Mrs. Arthur M. Barnhart, Roy O. West, and Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Wolfenden were among the Chicagoans at the Lake Placid club last Monday night when the 33d annual Indian council fire was held. Dr. Wolfenden participated in the colorful pageant, representing the Oneida chief. The ceremony follows closely the first council fire when Hiawatha established the Confederacy of the Long House with the six nations of New York state represented: Mohawk, Seneca, Onondaga, Oneida, Cayuga, and Tuscarora.

Each tribe, with a chief and head woman dressed in white and brown buckskin beaded Indian costumes and elaborate feather headgear, filed through the woods with lighted torches for the ceremony, which is one of the impressive historic celebrations in the east. The great white chief, Tadudaho, was portrayed by Dr. Godfrey Dewey, only son of the founder of the Lake Placid club, the late Melvil Dewey.

It was forty years ago that Mr. Dewey, who had been state librarian and later a member of the New York State Board of Regents, said good-by to his home in Albany and headed into the Adirondacks with his wife and only child, seeking a place that would provide a refuge from hay fever and the fulfillment of a dream that he had had for many years. The dream was "to found a sort of university club in the wilderness."

D. A. R. to Have Constitution Day Ceremony

Mrs. Wm. Becker, National President, to Be Here for Chicago Observance

By Ruth DeYoung.

TRADITION plays an important rôle in the nation-wide observance of Constitution day, planned by the Daughters of the American Revolution for Sept. 17. Every autumn since 1890 the organization has grasped this opportunity to impress upon the American people the need for study and understanding of the nation's most important document.

MRS. JULIAN G. GOODHUE.

The Chicago observance a week from Tuesday will assume especial interest with the participation of Mrs. William A. Becker of Washington, D. C., and Summit, N. J. Mrs. Becker is coming to the midwest for the first time since she took the national presidency of the Daughters of the Revolution.

Mrs. Becker Principal Speaker at Constitution Day Luncheon.

Mrs. Becker is due to arrive early on the 17th and will remain through the following day. At noon on Constitution day she will be the principal speaker at a luncheon at the Chicago Woman's club, planned by the organization chapters in the Fourth division. This division includes all of Chicago and the city's suburbs.

An open forum following Mrs. Becker's address will define the Daughters' emphasis upon the constitution. Speaking yesterday for the organization, Mrs. Julian Gifford Goodhue, new historian general, said: "We regard the constitution as the basic guaranty of government that belongs to all of us. Never in our membership has there been any controversy or discussion about the merits of this document.

Organization Chairman Rues Lack of Knowledge of Document.

"It must not be forgotten that the men who were sent as delegates to the constitutional convention in 1787 were men of distinction, many of them college graduates and a large number of them students of government not only in a theoretical, but a practical way.

"There is a sad neglect today of study and understanding of the constitution. After all, it takes only 20 minutes to read it."

Mrs. Goodhue's elevation to the position of historian general is the reward of 15 years of conscientious work in the organization. She knows the program of the Daughters of the American Revolution as few of the officials know it, and she interprets it according to the organization's nonpartisan, nonpolitical status.

D. A. R. Based on Feeling of Obligation Toward Independence.

"The Daughters of the American Revolution is based on a deep feeling of obligation to those who aided in the cause of independence," Mrs. Goodhue continued yesterday. "In no sense, however, are the members ancestor worshipers.

"They believe in providing for national defense as a peace measure. They do not believe in a militaristic government."

Beyond its patriotic program the "mother element" in the work of the Daughters of the Revolution is significant. It maintains a national revolving fund of $355,000 for student loans. It has founded and maintains two schools in the southern mountains. Tamassee in South Carolina prepares 150 boys and girls for college, while the Kate Duncan Smith school in Alabama provides education for 400 children. At Ellis Island an extensive program of occupational therapy is carried on in behalf of the convalescents in the marine hospital on the island.

Meeting Called to Discuss New Vehicle Regulations.

In line with the manifest interest of women in the new motor vehicle regulations, Mrs. Willis M. Graham, chairman of the women's safety bureau of the Chicago Motor club, has called a meeting for the discussion of these regulations at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the motor club headquarters, 66 East South Water street. J. H. Braun, the club's general counsel, will report the present status of the driver's license bill, the recent changes in the motor vehicle code, and other recent developments in the trafic safety field.

"I have been receiving a large number of inquiries concerning the law," Mrs. Graham explained last week. "Many women are particularly concerned with the new signaling provision which requires the arm to be extended upward for a right turn, lowered for slow or stop, and extended straight out for a left turn."

Several Club Leaders Are to Attend Safety Meeting.

Among those who will attend the meeting are Mrs. Henry Hardy, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations; Mrs. Harrison Cade, president of the Native Daughters of Illinois; Mrs. John F. McKeon, secretary of the Chicago Woman's club, and Mrs. Charles Balch, vice president and safety chairman of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The woman's safety bureau also announces that it will have Amelia Earhart, famous aviatrix, as its guest speaker at a tea on Oct. 12.

Garden Enthusiasts to Gather at Meeting at Lake Geneva.

Garden enthusiasts from all over the midwest are coming to Lake Geneva next Wednesday and Thursday for a meeting of the Central Region of the National Council of State Garden Clubs. The group includes the member clubs in Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Iowa. Mrs. Joseph H. Brewer of Belmont, Mich., is president of the central region.

Miss Janet Fairbank is coming into the city today from her parents' summer home, that of the Kellogg Fairbanks, at Lake Geneva, to sing a program of songs at the breakfast of the Pen and Pencil club. The breakfast will be held at noon at the Sherman hotel. Another part of the program will be given by Wilbert Liebling, W-G-N boy soprano. John Groth, Chicago etcher, will tell of his experiences making a world sketch book, and Rousseau Voorhies will give "An Exposé of Gertrude Stein."

Zonta club is having its first formal meeting of this season at 12:30 Tuesday noon on the mezzanine floor of the Auditorium hotel. Miss Anne Zinser, the president, will present other officers and committee chairmen who will give two minute reports.

The Mount Sinai Hospital Service club will have its opening meeting and tea at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the Edgewater Beach hotel. This club maintains trained social service workers in the dispensary at the hospital, provides eyeglasses, braces, and other necessary appliances for needy patients, and special nursing care for those who are exceedingly ill.

Dinner-Dance on Thanksgiving Eve to Aid in Raising Funds.

To raise funds to carry on this work during the coming year the club is making plans for a dinner-dance to be held Thanksgiving eve at the Stevens hotel. Mrs. Louis Y. Meyers and Mrs. Harry Weiss are cochairmen of the party. Mrs. A. H. Rudolph is the club president.

The first board meeting of the Chicago division of the National Home for Jewish Children will be a tea at 1:30 Wednesday in the penthouse atop the Sherman hotel.

FOND OF THE SADDLE

Petite Mrs. Raymond Otis Mitchell, the former Ann Ashcraft, and her husband spend almost every week-end at the Dunham Woods Riding club in Wayne. Today they are certain to be there, for the club is holding its fourth annual horse show, and all the members, as well as horse loving residents of the Fox river valley, will be out in force for the event. The proceeds again will go to the Wayne fire department.

Education for Living Keynote of Federation

General Club Group Tells Its Program for the New Triennial Term.

EDUCATION for living, not alone education for earning a living, will be the keynote of the General Federation of Women's clubs during this coming triennial term. This was the message relayed yesterday from Washington, D. C., by Mrs. Roberta Campbell Lawson, newly elected federation president.

In explanation Mrs. Lawson said, "I hope to continue the constructive program set up by my predecessor, Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole. Education for living will be the keynote, not education for earning a living alone, but that sort of education that teaches the real value of life and helps to solve current problems with fairness and intelligence."

Nine Able Clubwomen Selected to Head Various Departments.

Nine women well versed in the work of the federation, as well as in current affairs, have been selected as department heads to carry out the new term program. Chairmanship of the department of education has been awarded to Mrs. John L. Whitehurst of Baltimore, former president of the Maryland federation and vice chairman of the general federation's department of legislation. In the latter capacity Mrs. Whitehurst has served as liaison officer between the federation and congress.

Mrs. Elbert W. Shirk of Hollands, Cal., is the new chairman of the department of juniors, the newest federation department. Mrs. Shirk's mother, the late Mrs. J. A. Kimberly, was in no small measure responsible for the beginning of the junior movement.

Mrs. William Dick Sporberg to Head Group on Legislation.

Illinois Legion Auxiliary Head Is Vital Figure

SHE'S good to look at, pleasant to know, intelligent, and vital in conversation. I mean Mrs. William Glenn Suthers, new leader of the Illinois department of the American Legion auxiliary.

Without opposition, Mrs. Suthers was elevated ten days ago from the state vice presidency to the presidency of this large and representative organization. Since then she's been acquainting herself with her new duties and making preparations for the removal of the department offices to the Pure Oil building.

It was family misfortune that drew Mrs. Suthers into the legion auxiliary ten years ago. Before that she had been identified with various club activities, but never in an active way.

Her husband, enrolled in the air service in the world war, was severely injured shortly after his arrival overseas. That was in 1918. He remained in the hospital until 1920. After he was brought back to this country Mrs. Suthers visited him daily in the hospital and she not only saw him but many of his comrades. She also became aware of the splendid work the American Legion auxiliary was doing in administering to these veterans by bringing hope and cheer into their lives.

Soon she became a charter member of the Beverly Hills unit of the auxiliary, in which she still retains her membership. Since 1925 she has held five state chairmanships and served as chairman of the national convention of the auxiliary held in Chicago in 1933.

"I believe it's the service program that appeals first," Mrs. Suthers explained last week during an informal conversation in her office. "Few persons know that the number of disabled veterans is increasing and many of the new cases are mental ones. The hospital at Danville has been opened with 1,800 patients. Dwight soon will have 350. There are 18 hospitals in Illinois administering to ex-service men.

The Illinois department of the auxiliary maintains a chairman in each one of these hospitals and through the chairmen are furnished the comforts and entertainment that frequently mean recovery.

"But service is only half the picture," continued Mrs. Suthers. "Building good American citizenship is just as important. All of the service work will be for naught if we don't educate for Americanism and national defense."

Before her marriage, Mrs. Suthers was graduated from the Chicago Normal college. She taught in the Jenner school on Chicago's west side, went to New York with her husband in an effort to enter the service, was refused, and returned to her teaching for several years. She is the mother of one son, William Blair Suthers, a sophomore in the Morgan Park Military academy.

Society Bids a Regretful Adieu to Castruccio

Italian Consul General Vivid Figure Here; Leaves for Washington Tuesday.

By Judith Cass.

THE departure of Sig. Giuseppe Castruccio, the tall, handsome Italian gentleman who has represented his country in Chicago for seven years, leaves quite a vacancy not only in consular ranks but also in society, for he is a favorite with all who know him. His charming wife, too, made many friends during the times she has been in Chicago, but she did not spend as much time here as did her husband. They found that Italy agreed with their four children better than Illinois so they did not try to establish a family home here except when Sig. Castruccio first came to Chicago.

Italian born Chicagoans were in the spotlight during the first year of the Century of Progress when Gen. Balbo and his ninety-six "eaglets" flew here in July, 1933, in twenty-four seaplanes bringing the new Italy's message of friendship to America. It was a grand occasion and Sig. Castruccio played the part required of him with dignity and competence, thereby increasing the respect and friendly feeling that Chicagoans already felt for him.

Sig. Castruccio leaves Chicago Tuesday to say good-by to the Italian ambassador in Washington and on Saturday he will sail from New York on the Southern Cross for his new post, Sao Paulo, Brazil. He hopes that his wife and all the children, who have spent the summer at Innsbruck, Switzerland, will be able to join him before Christmas. The Italian who will succeed popular Sig. Castruccio in Chicago has not been named, but in the meantime the vice consul, Dr. Antonio Ferme, will be acting consul.

Charles B. Graces to Reside in East.

Their friends regretfully are saying good-by to the young Charles B. Graces, who, during the two years they have lived here have made many friends. With their 16 months' old son they are leaving tomorrow night for the east, where they are to take up a new residence, although they do not yet know in exactly what city. They are going first to Bethlehem, Pa., to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Grace and Col. and Mrs. Robert Starrs Dougherty.

Young Grace and his bride, the former Nancy Brewster Dougherty, had a town apartment when they first came to Chicago, but they soon decided that they would prefer country life, so they took a house out near the Glen View club. Mr. and Mrs. Press Hodgkins, the Winston Rodormers, and the junior Sidney Smith Gorhams are among those who gave farewell parties for the Graces.

Two Brides Share Society's Interest.

Two brides will share society's interest this week, Miss Roslyn Paine and Miss Josephine Templeton. The former, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Garritt Smith of Evanston, will become the bride of Paul Lyon Fentress, son of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Fentress of Hubbard Woods, on Thursday afternoon at half after 4 o'clock in the Fourth Presbyterian church. There will be a reception immediately following the ceremony at the Woman's Athletic club. Young Mr. Fentress will take his bride to Philadelphia to live.

Miss Templeton, daughter of the Kenneth S. Templetons of Lake Forest, will be married to Sidney D. Johnson, son of the Sidney G. Johnsons of Rahway, N. J., on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The service will be read in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, with a reception following in the Templeton home. Mr. Johnson also will take his bride east to live.

Fort Sheridan and Dunham Woods Horse Shows Important.

Horsemen and women from this entire district are interested in the horse show to be held at Fort Sheridan next Friday and Saturday and it is anticipated that there will be large crowds of onlookers as well as many entries for the events of both days. Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy is honorary president of the Fort Sheridan Horse Show association and Brig. Gen. Dana T. Merrill is president.

Today the Dunham Woods horse show is to be given in Wayne, and there is certain to be a huge crowd around the informal ring from the time the show starts at 10 o'clock in the morning until the last class is called, around 5 this afternoon, for this annual show has become one of the recognized good shows in the Chicago area each year. It started as a local country show, which was expected to be good fun for the neighbors, but the ambitious men and women who started it hardly dared hope it would attract such widespread interest as the first, second, and third ones did. They anticipate that this year's show will be better than ever and that a large sum will be realized to give to the Wayne fire department. Joy Morton is chairman of the horse show committee, the other members of which are Raymond O. Mitchell, John L. Dole, Perry Dryden, Jesse F. Burt, Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay Jr., Charles R. Lindsay III., and Mrs. Paul Magnuson Jr.

THEY'RE MAKING THEIR HOME IN GLENCOE

Mrs. John M. Trainer Jr. is the former Barbro Gyllenkrok of Sweden. Her marriage to the son of the J. Milton Trainers of Glencoe took place in Stockholm in June. Young Mr. and Mrs. Trainer are living with his parents until they settle in a house of their own.

Society Bids a Gay Goodby to Watch Hill

Labor day as usual officially wound up the summer season here. The day itself was a dull, misty one, but notwithstanding this the activities went on. # New Book Will Be Memorial to Chicago Artist

Work of John W. Norton to Be Reproduced in Volume Bearing His Name.

By Eleanor Jewett.

JOHN W. NORTON was a Chicago painter with a national reputation. His death, a happening of not so long ago, still leaves him magnificently alive to the many who know and admire his work. The Art institute has added to its permanent collection the water color reproduced today, a painting which ranks him at once with Winslow Homer and John Whorf, two other Americans who bow to none in their mastery of this medium.

Thomas E. Tallmadge, Chicago architect and close friend of John Norton, announces the approaching publication of the John W. Norton book, each volume of the first edition to contain an original drawing or water color of Norton's in addition to a hundred reproductions of his murals, portraits, and so on. The book is being printed by Donnelley, and one is assured that it will be a distinguished affair. Mr. Tallmadge showed the dummy to Rockwell Kent, who was most enthusiastic.

Out of the proposed edition of 100, or possibly 125, copies, eighty-eight have already been subscribed for at $25 each. This is going to be a rare and choice book, a collector's treasure, and those interested should be on the qui vive not to let their chance at a copy slip by.

Art Institute Announces New Gifts and Bequests.

The Art institute has recently announced several gifts and bequests: $2,000 as a bequest from Hagar Kawin, to be known as the Hagar and David Kawin Award fund, the income from which is to be used as a prize to a worthy student selected by the institute; $10,000 received as a gift, the income from which is to be used for a life annuity of $500 a year, and after the death of the annultant, the principal to be added to the John Quincy Adams Foreign Traveling Fellowship fund; the sum of $25,260.50 added to the life membership fund. The institute also announces a net increase of 451 members during the year 1934.

Further announcements are:

Receipt of $1,660 to establish the Helen Leslie Carter fund, unrestricted as to principal and interest;

Receipt of $5,000 from Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett, increasing the fund existing in her name to $20,000;

Receipt of $2,000 from Mrs. Anna Louise Raymond for the extremely significant work carried on under the James Nelson Raymond lecture fund for children of members and public schools;

Receipt of $1,000 from Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson for the purchase of books for the Ryerson library of the Art institute;

Receipt of $100 from Miss Gracia M. F. Barnhart to apply on a scholarship of $150.

News of Interest to Lovers of Art.

The Art institute has discontinued the Sunday afternoon gallery tours until Sept. 15, when Miss Barsaloux will have returned from her vacation. These 3 o'clock tours have proved popular, and the museum is confident that even larger groups of visitors will join them during the coming season.

The print department is continuing its policy of showing one print each month as "the print of the month." The Meditations of Saint Bonaventura, printed in Florence by Miscomini before 1495 has been the recent choice. Suitable descriptive material is shown with it.

The Goodman theater will open on Sept. 20 with the presentation of the first of a series of plays to be acted by students of the Goodman Drama school this winter. The play will be "Mr. Pim Passes By." Other dramas to be given during the season include "The Emperor's New Clothes," to be presented on Saturday afternoons for children; "Othello," "The Circle," "Liliom," "Another Language," "Electra," "Animal Kingdom," and "The Importance of Being Ernest." This reads like a steep program. The wagon is hitched to a glittering star.

Louis Kronberg, whose Carson Pirie Scott one man exhibition will be gladly remembered, sends a card from Paris, where he is busy painting.

From Colorado comes news of an exhibit of paintings by artists west of the Mississippi, and to our great interest we find Dale Nichols included as well as Grant Wood, Douglas Parshall, Millard Sheets, John Steuart Curry, Thomas Benton, Randall Davey, Raymond Jonson, Olive Rush, David McCosh, and Albert Bloch, names so familiar east of the Mississippi that it is something of a shock to place their owners as born west of it. From the cuts in the catalog, modernistic painting prevails in the show. A facetious realism that is drab in its context rules the landscapes.

George Pearse Ennis, well known for his great interest in the development of an American art, announces the removal of his School of Art from 681 Fifth avenue, New York, to 628 West 24th street, in the old Chelsea section of the city. Formerly the studio of a stained glass and decorative art shop, the new quarters have, for the school, a decidedly old world flavor. It is an interesting move and should lead to a stirring of greater creative facility on the part of the students fortunate enough to work under Mr. Ennis.

Charles W. Dahlgreen has been experimenting in color block prints. He is arriving at some entertaining results. The novelty of the process necessarily makes his output small, but each individual print is worth waiting for. They are delightfully different. Mr. Dahlgreen is well known for his magnificent landscapes and his beautiful etchings. His new medium will be welcomed by countless friends.

Inez Stark, the former Inez Cunningham, is the new president of the Renaissance society of the University of Chicago.

The American College Society of Print Collectors, Marques Reitzel, chairman, has issued a dry point by Martin Lewis to its membership. It is a stunning print, entitled "Grandpa Takes a Walk."

Martin Lewis is familiar to most of us for his brilliant etchings of New York City street life, shopping scenes, the avenues, the elevated, etc.

In particular is his name associated with rainy days. Some of the finest rain to be met with in the whole realm of art is the creation of Martin Lewis' etching tools. Shadows, also, are significant of a Martin Lewis print—and legs, slim women's legs, girls' legs, moving in quick file across heavy pavements on their way to work or pleasure. More recently Mr. Lewis has turned from the city to rural subjects. His rendering of the country is remarkable for its subtlety, composure, and grace.

Charles Oglesby Longabaugh is a Chicago painter settled at Grays Lake, Ill., whose work is becoming more sought after each season. He paints exquisite little water colors, landscapes, and still life, that may be seen in the O'Brien gallery and at Marshall Field's. He has a distinct flair for the picturesque, a delicious color sense, and a rare feeling for quality. His little sketches are fascinating.

Arthur Ryder, who paints large, vigorous beach scenes with boats and men and sometimes oxen in hot sunshine against a blue stretch of water, has been a recent visitor in Chicago, coming here from California.

Needlework Is New Hobby of London Society

LONDON

Holiday handicraft is much in the gossip now, and it is interesting to note how quilting has come into vogue. One sees it on clothes, on cushions, on curtains, just as often as on bedspreads.

Cruises on yachts and on luxury liners and evenings in Scotland are providing smart women with the leisure to make themselves quilts and to do quilting instead of the usual knitting.

The duchess of Westminster has nearly completed a spread in black and white Elizabethan stitching. Lady Alexandra Metcalfe, Lady Eyres-Monsell, and Lady Winchelsea all are at work on bedspreads in the traditional Welsh manner.

On a cruise to Istanbul and neighboring ports Lady Smith-Dorrien is taking filet lace to provide occupation on the voyage. She is said to be an expert.

The queen occupies herself with gros point, and evenings at Sandringham and Balmoral are spent finishing chair covers. Her daughter, Princess Mary, and her son-in-law, the earl of Harewood, share her interest and also are completing chair covers. Both the duke and the duchess of York do gros point and petit point, and so does Queen Ena of Spain. The duke and the duchess of York are "covering" all their dining room chairs at Royal lodge, Windsor, and every cover is different, each bearing its maker's initials and the date.

Date of Tuxedo Park Ball Set; Debs Prayerful

Invitation Is Debutante's Golden Talisman to Social Success in N. Y.

By Nancy Randolph.

NEW YORK

Listen up, debutantes! The date for the autumn ball, Tuxedo Park's time honored deb dance, has been set for Oct. 19! This is the automatic signal for society's sprouting juniors to cross their fingers and hope for the best. For a bid to the autumn ball in the 400's haughtiest suburb is the open sesame to all the richest spoils of debutantehood.

Not only is the Tuxedo Park shindig the first big deb party of the fall season, but it annually sets the standard of debutante exclusiveness. So the fortunate few who are chosen by the Park's high and mighties to attend the ball will be dancing with glee when the morning of Oct. 19 rolls around. The others will be crying their eyes out.

The affair takes place earlier than usual this year, thus shattering the age old precedent that the ball be held during the Halloween week-end. No reason for the change was given by the board of directors of the Tuxedo club, but we have a hunch the Harvard-Army football game scheduled at West Point for the afternoon of Oct. 19 had something to do with it. After all, it's only a stone's throw from West Point to Tuxedo and plenty of the Harvard boys will head straight for the park after the game.

Eve Mortimer Only Deb Without Worries.

The dignified Mrs. Charles Frederick Frothingham, pillar of the suburb, will major domo the event. She cabled her acceptance as chairman before she sailed home from Europe last week. Mrs. Frothingham is the mother of the young and affable J. Mortimer Rutherford, who married pretty Marian Dunstan so recently.

The only bud who can rest easy as far as the autumn ball is concerned is Eve Mortimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Mortimer of Tuxedo Park. Eve's on the inside looking out, and no matter who else is invited she'll be the only Park bud and consequently the belle of the ball.

Where to set up housekeeping is no problem for Mr. and Mrs. George Vanderbilt, who were married Friday at the most brilliant wedding of the season.

They'll express their wedding gifts and lares and penates to Sands Point, N. Y., for Mrs. Margret Emerson, George's mother, has bought them a house in that festive community as a wedding gift. The Byron Sloan home on Long Island sound is Mrs. Emerson's gift to her son and the former Lucille Parsons.

Long Island Glad to Have Another Vanderbilt.

Sands Point is familiar ground to George, if not to his bride [one of the Llewellyn Park Parsons from Jersey]. Mrs. Emerson and her three children [George, Alfred Gwynne, and Gloria Baker] have had a country home there for several seasons.

Long Island could do with another Vanderbilt address. Since the death of Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt the only other member of the clan with a Nassau county address is William K. Vanderbilt, whose place is at Centerport. Birdie Vanderbilt willed her French château at Manhasset to her daughter, Mrs. Consuelo Vanderbilt.

Incidentally, William K. Vanderbilt is in the midst of improving his vast Long Island acres. He's building a four-story annex to his famous Marine museum in memory of his son, Willie K. Vanderbilt III., who met his tragic death in an auto accident nearly two years ago.

The new wing will surpass in splendor the present two-story museum which houses one of the most important collections of deep sea denizens in the world.

No child of fortune could have been more adored by his parents than the only son of William Kissam Vanderbilt and the late Mrs. Fair Vanderbilt.

Birdie Vanderbilt died of a broken heart July 7 last, after twenty months of grieving for her handsome, beloved boy, killed in Ridgeland, S. C., as he sped northward at seventy-five miles an hour to join his mother.

When Chicago Was Young

The Elegant Eighties

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, March 10, 1886.

DEAR JULIA: Chicago has been an active place this spring, what with Socialists, who are fomenting a strike at the harvester works, two evangelists who attract crowds to their revival meetings, and Mary Anderson, loveliest of actresses, now at the Columbia theater.

Will says he thinks the evangelists are the most discussed of all the people in the public eye. In every business office, he says, one hears comment on Sam Jones and Sam Small. Sam Jones, in particular, makes quite disconcerting personal remarks from the pulpit, calling to order those who, as he believes, are sitting in the seats of the scornful. And this in no gentle terms! But Will thinks Sam Jones' picturesque language sinks into the minds and consciences of the crowd, when the same thing, put mildly by our settled ministers, passes unheeded. One of his comparisons Will brought home today.

"I want," trumpeted the evangelist, "to see every professing Christian getting his money honestly. I tell you, boys [thumping the desk with a hard fist] leave lotteries and speculation alone. Earn your money by the sweat of your brow, and at the end of the week, the eagles on the dollars in your pants pockets will turn into nightingales and sing you to sleep."

Mary Anderson, a much beloved actress of the 80's, is still living, a resident of England.

Sam Small has been preaching mostly against dancing. The charity ball of ten days ago seems to rankle in his bosom still.

"Why," he asks, "can't a man give money for charity, without dancing till 2 in the morning?" A fair question, of course, but, human nature being what it is, we seem to want to get something for our money, aside from the glow of satisfaction that accompanies a good deed. Will and I didn't attend the charity ball this year. I thought it best not to risk a cold, and Will is always glad of an excuse to stay at home evenings.

But we did attend Mary Anderson's performance of "As You Like It." She is drawing large crowds as usual. This is her first appearance here as Rosalind. I've seen most of our great actresses in the part and have liked them all. There was the divine Fanny Davenport, who won such admiration for her beauty that it rather obscured her artistic merits.

I spent this afternoon playing progressive euchre at Mrs. Charles Counselman's lovely home, 1902 Michigan avenue. I suppose Sam Small would think me in peril of damnation, but it seemed an innocent enough pastime, and the ladies I like best were there. I do think, though, that cards take time we might give to more improving occupations. But now I must close. Do write soon. Your loving,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOTNOTES

The "divine Fanny Davenport" mentioned by Martha was an elder sister of Harry Davenport, who is now playing in Chicago in "Three Men on a Horse."

Mrs. Charles Counselman lives at the Drake hotel.

Old Chicago Harthstones.

1207 Astor Street.

We have been asked about the house at 1207 Astor street. A reader sends this information:

"It is the sole remaining unit of six red brick and brownstone houses, the others having been torn down to make way for the apartment building at 1209 Astor street. In this row lived such people as the Ephraim Otises, the W. O. Greens, the Cadys.

Another house whose story has been requested is the one at the northeast corner of Superior and Rush streets. This was the home for many years of Henry W. Bishop, a Chicago lawyer, prominent in the life of the city. The same reader who is interested in the old Bishop house asks the location of the Perry H. Smith house, famous in its time. This mansion stood on the northwest corner of what is now called North Michigan avenue [then known as Pine street] and Huron street. It was a large white stone house, so built that it was often compared to a big frosted cake with a large slice cut out of it, the "missing slice" portion of the cake representing the front of the house.

Still another question concerns the location of the Ogden house, saved from the great fire of 1871. This frame house stood where the Newberry library now stands.

Are you interested in any old Chicago residence? We are always glad to receive information about any such place, or to try to find out the story of a building which has aroused your curiosity. Address Herma Clark, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

THE TRIBUNE TRAVELERS' GUIDE

TOURS—CRUISES

Hangchow Trip by Rail Rather Sad Experience

But Remembrance of Dirty Cars Is Wiped Out by Beauties of Chinese City.

By Mason Warner.

HANGCHOW, China.—The railroad journey from Shanghai to Hangchow is the usual sorry experience in traveling in China. The cars are old and dirty, and now and then a friendly bedbug makes his appearance on the upholstery. Foreigners are few, and the crowds of natives do not make the most welcome fellow passengers. But the beauties of Hangchow wipe out remembrance of any unpleasant features of the four hour journey on the train.

Marco Polo did the first "travel story" from Hangchow. He was a good press agent. He described this as "the greatest city in all the world." It was a great city in 1280 A. D., when Marco Polo lived here and governed the province for the great Kublai Khan, and its history dates back more than 4,000 years.

The Chinese throughout the centuries have regarded Hangchow as the paradise of China. Today it is one of the famous resorts, and there are hundreds of large native hotels fronting the broad avenues that border West lake, a lovely body of water approximately three miles long and two miles wide.

No Street Cars and Few Autos.

There are only two foreign style hotels in Hangchow, and except on Sundays and holidays one sees few foreigners here. In a two mile walk in the heart of the city I did not see a single European or American, and only two Chinese in foreign dress.

Hangchow's streets are wide and clean. There are no street railways, and only a few automobiles on the roads. There are two or three bus lines, but the service is limited. However, you are not compeled to walk. Rickshaws by hundreds and sedan chairs by scores abound, and here and there is a flat bottomed wheelbarrow with half a dozen passengers.

At short distances there are long lines of rickshaws waiting for fares. All of them do not wait. The pedestrian is followed and importuned to ride so often and so long that he finally becomes unconscious of the constant solicitation.

The edge of the lake is embroidered with embankments and avenues wide enough to be termed parks. The Hangchow hills form a picturesque background for West lake, and the islands and bridges make the combined view of land and water just what an artist dreams should be a typical scene in beautiful old Cathay. Boating is perhaps the most charming attraction.

Cleaner Than Other Chinese Cities.

The city impresses one as being cleaner than others in China. The city market is a lively place in the morning. Cherries and plums come to market in April and May. An unusually large variety of vegetables, together with fish and poultry, was displayed. The vegetables looked crisp and inviting, but later I walked to the canal where the market men and women were washing their stocks of merchandise, and those vegetables lost their attractiveness for me. The water in the canal did not in any way resemble that of a running brook. In fact, it was sewer water.

There are so many temples, tombs, sacred caves, monasteries, shrines, pagodas, and objects of historical interest in and around Hangchow that a month could be spent here to view them.

The Chinese have the knack of applying romantic and at the same time appropriate names to their show places. A boatman paddled me and a companion to the "Island of Three Pools and Moon's Reflection." The pools were large, open tanks of cement construction, and in them were growing lilies of graceful form and pleasing color. The temples on the island were clean—always a noteworthy attribute in China.

Lacking in Ideas of Co-operation.

Other points of interest in the city, on the islands, and in the Hangchow hills are the Needle Pagoda, the Tomb of Yao, the Gem Spring of the Dancing Fish, the Cave of Mourning Mist and Sunset Glow, Tiger Run monastery, Six Harmony pagoda, the Pavilion of Smooth Lake and Autumn Moon, the Cave of the Purple Dragon, the Monastery of Secluded Light, and many more.

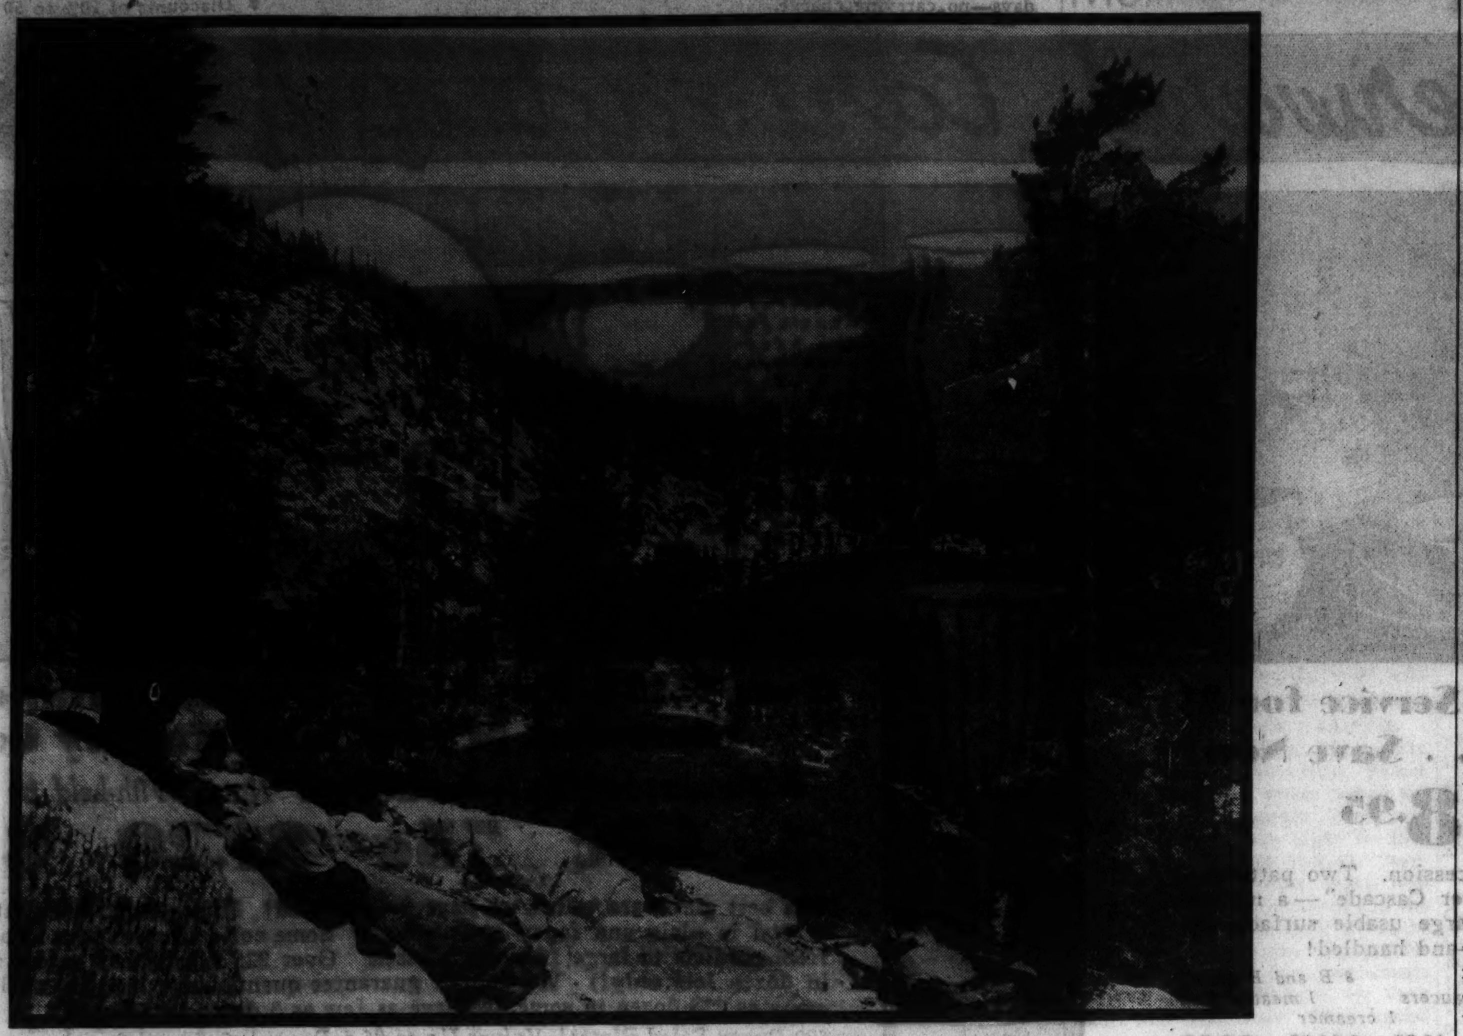
The Chinese are individuals and positively lacking in any idea of cooperation. "Help one another" as a motto is limited in application to one's family only.

I am living at a hotel situated on a hill with a steep approach, climbing upward 200 feet at an angle of more than 45 degrees. A lady guest at the hotel and I were returning from a walk one evening when a sudden shower began to fall. We summoned rickshaws.

The hill climb is so steep that my rickshaw coolie's head, leaning forward for the pull, almost touched the ground, and he was panting and tugging as if his heart or lungs were about to burst. Taking pity on him, I stopped him, alighted, indicated by pantomime that I would walk up the hill and pull his rickshaw, while he could help the other coolie pull my companion to the hotel entrance.

Do you think he would do that? Never! Not without "cumshaw"—pay. The idea of helping a fellow laborer at his task was completely beyond his comprehension.

He did grasp the idea that I was willing to walk to relieve him of a too heavy burden, but he evidently thought my action was that of a silly foreigner. So I dropped the shafts of his rickshaw, and trudged on in the drenching downpour. He recovered his rickshaw with a philosophical air and walked complacently if not cheerfully by my side to the top of the hill. Meanwhile the other coolie had wangled his rickshaw, with my companion, up to the hotel entrance.



LOOKING OUT OVER LAKE TAHOE IN THE MOUNTAINS

The Lake Tahoe country in the Sierras, on the boundary of California and Nevada. The lake is 6,000 feet above sea level, and many of the nearby peaks rise 10,000 feet. Here is Tahoe in the distance, with three smaller bodies of water in the foreground.

Fish and Game Await Visitors to New Mexico

FAR from the cross-country highways traveled each year by tourists through the southwest are the heavily timbered regions of the national forests of New Mexico. They are seldom seen by the hurrying travelers.

Fish and game abound. Recreational and camping areas have been provided by the forest service. Many miles of fish stream improvement have been carried out. Many of the small mountain lakes, situated miles up lonely trails, have been improved or the water raised, allowing almost double the number of fish.

In 1933 a larger percentage of deer hunters got their limit of one buck in New Mexico than in any other state in the west. Hunting prospects for 1935 are as good as they were then. Due to the amount of moisture received so far, mountain ranges are in good shape and feed in general will be heavy.

Mexico Forges Toward Front in Tourist Race

PUBLICATION of the United States department of commerce figures on travel in 1934 revealed the important place Mexico is assuming in world tourism. The department estimated that American tourists spent 41 million dollars in Mexico last year, thereby giving the republic a ranking next to Canada and France at the top of the list.

Chicagoans visiting Mexico this summer have returned with vivid accounts of their trips down there. They say they found scenery, art works, and cathedrals the equal of those in Europe, and a culture and customs in striking contrast with those of the United States. Mexico City, ranking as one of the world's most beautiful cities and with a history dating back to the year 1,200; the floating gardens at Xochimilco, and the buried city and the pyramids at San Juan Teotihuacan are beginning to attract wide attention.

This summer travel to Mexico had an additional impetus in the international conventions of the Rotarians and the Lions at Mexico City. Many of the delegates came back with the impression that when the splendors, both ancient and modern, of that country are fully publicized there will not be enough hotels and railroads to accommodate the rush of visitors.

Steamship Men to Tell of Trip Around World

PHILIP C. ENCK and Walter R. Buerckel, Chicago steamship men, will give an illustrated lecture Monday evening on their recent trip around the world. They have 2,000 feet of motion pictures, taken on the cruise of the Resolute. The lecture will be given before Job's Daughters in the Providence Masonic temple at 5418 Gale avenue. It is announced that the meeting will be open to the public.

Quebec Razes Its Signs So Visitors Can See Scenery

QUEBEC.—The fellow who wants to tell the world about his tavern, his garage service, hot dogs, or lemon pop can do it in the advertising columns of the newspapers or leave the praises of his products unsung in this province this year.

The teeth which the Quebec legislative assembly put into its anti-billboard law, enacted two years ago, are taking their first bites, and unsightly road signs are feeling the official axe. The law gave owners of existing bill-boards until the spring of 1935 to remove them. Thus, Quebec's more than 16,000 miles of improved roads, linking some of the most picturesque resorts on the American continent and penetrating thousands of square miles of primeval woodlands and mountainous countryside, are now carrying the automobilist back to nature.

Aroused by an ever-spreading invasion of its rural French countryside by highway signboards and posters, which had become almost as numerous as those found about metropolitan centers of the United States, the province needed little urging to act when J. E. Perrault, minister of roads, assumed leadership and presented the anti-billboard bill to the legislature.

Under the new law highway signs, when not completely abolished, are so restricted as to be unobjectionable. The minister of roads may prohibit, in such places as he may designate, all billboards and signs which may be seen from public highways. He also may remove any signs which in his opinion disfigure or obscure the scenery.

In the words of Minister Perrault: "Quebec feels it is little short of criminal to invest millions of dollars in scenic highways penetrating a country nine-tenths the size of all Europe and then obliterate the natural beauty and charm of the countryside with hot dog stands and garish billboards."

San Diego Fair Crowds Prefer Midget Colony

Tiny People and Shakespearean Repertoire Draw Better than Nudes.

SAN DIEGO, Cal. [U. P.]—Everything in the midget colony at the California Pacific International exposition is tiny except the "gate." In three months, during which 2,500,000 persons have paid admission to the exposition, 200,000 have visited the little people and their miniature houses, farms, tiny pets, and domesticated animals.

Leading the nudists of Zoro Gardens, the Old Globe theater, and other feature attractions of the fair, the midgets have retained attendance honors since opening May 29. They apparently have built up a sufficient lead to assure them the top spot when the grounds are closed Nov. 11.

This Midget Is 26 Inches Tall.

Trinidad Rodriguez, billed as the "smallest girl in the world," is the tiniest of the midgets. Miss Rodriguez, 18, and 26 inches tall, was discovered in old Mexico by owners of the show. Although her parents are normal she has a midget brother and sister, both of whom are only slightly larger than "the girl who can stand in the palm of your hand."

With a mayor, police chief, fire chief, and other "city officials" the village is self-governing and has a model system of city government.

Latest major task of Charles Ludwig, pint-sized police chief, was bouncing out Edward G. Robinson, "tough guy" of the films and hero of "Little Caesar" and other gangster films. Robinson inadvertently wandered in after hours and was promptly ousted by Ludwig.

Globe Theater Ranks Second.

Trailing in second position a notch ahead of Zorine, daughter of the sun, and her well-browned disciples of ultra-violet rays, the Old Globe theater, presenting Shakespeare in 40 minutes, has attracted 130,000 persons and has ranked as one of the outstanding features of the exposition.

With plays so expertly "cut" that even a person familiar with the lines of the famous bard has difficulty detecting deletions, the Globe Theater company has played three performances a day since opening, and has built up a repertoire of twelve plays. Most popular of the group have been "Macbeth," "Julius Caesar," and "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Hidden away in a corner of the grounds, the playhouse is far from the busy sections of the Midway and exhibit buildings, but has overcome the handicap of an apparently disadvantageous location to become the literary high spot of the fair.

Nudists Race with Shakespeare.

Zorine and her "nudies," denizens of Zoro Gardens, are running Shakespeare a close race for gate receipts and are nearing the 125,000 mark.

On especially imported moss lawns, on polished rocks on the banks of their private little brook [artificial, but which nevertheless babbles along in approved brook style], Zorine and her followers recline in the sunlight and loaf while the cash customers peek down from the little balcony above.

At intervals the sun-worshipers [rumors that some of them were ex-Chicago burlesque girls have been denied vigorously] present a pageant of sacrifice to an angry sun god, with Zorine as the lovely victim.

Sometimes It's Too Warm.

Clothing the nudists is a problem. The police have decreed they must wear both brassieres and "g-strings." They become annoyed with so many garments and occasionally discard the brassieres, but with one notable exception the one other garment has been retained.

The exception was a warm moonlit night when Zorine was in slightly too much of a hurry to be on with the show.

She came out dressed in her usual flimsy black veil for the sacrificial ceremony, but when the dramatic moment came and she tossed the veil aside and stepped bravely before the executioner, she discovered sh had nothing on.

The traveler is not long in Ethiopia before he is aware that the country is a sort of melting pot of Africans and Asiatics of many races. Some of the blood came from ancient Palestine, some from Arabia, and some from the shores of the Caspian. The Ethiopians claim a strong relationship to the Semites.

Canadian Rockies Attract Visitors Throughout Year

ALTHOUGH the principal hotels at Banff and Lake Louise will close Sept. 10, many visitors will linger in the Canadian Rockies for the autumn season. Tom Wall, who looks after the interests of the Canadian Pacific railway around Chicago, announced yesterday that several of the less palatial hotels at Banff, as well as Deer Lodge inn at Lake Louise, would remain open.

"Every year our western business to the Pacific coast shows improvement in fall and winter travel," said Mr. Wall. "The people used to think that summer was the only time to see the mountains at their best. Now they're finding out they were all wrong.

"The trees and shrubs on the lower reaches of the peaks take on fantastic shapes in winter, and when the soft chinook wind blows down the passes, melting the snow on all vegetation, the etchings of the branches against the granite are almost too wonderful to be real. The valleys are so well protected by nature that the arctic cold does not linger long there."

Travelers Sing Their Praises of Italian Lakes

Hillside Villas and Terraced Gardens Among Europe's Greatest Attractions.

WITH the exception of the areas around Rome, Venice, and Florence, the Italian lakes attract more visitors and are better known to travelers than any other section of Italy. Situated in a splendid mountain region and dotted with villas of white or pastel colors, they have had their praises sung ever since ancient times.

Most travelers to Europe include at least Como and Maggiore in their itineraries. Of the three large lakes, Como to Americans has more charm and loveliness, while Garda is grand and majestic, Maggiore beautiful and quiet.

Life has an old world charm along the shores. The carts drawn by white oxen have not changed in 2,000 years. The people usually wear wooden clogs, fastened merely across the toes, and in these they climb the steepest paths. On Sundays, however, when girls wish to dress up for church, they imitate American sisters and wear lether shoes with high heels.

The Charm of Lake Como.

Mulberry trees are grown throughout the region to feed silk worms, which are raised in every village. Como, largest city on Lake Como, is the center of the Italian silk industry and rivals Lyon in France and Paterson in the United States.

The charm of Lake Como is in its colors. Villas, some white, some yellow, some peach color, line its shores; its terraces are alive with flowers, and the green of vineyards and olive groves on its hillsides is thrown into relief against the darker green of cypress trees.

Although Bellagio, with its view along the three branches of the lake, is the most famed of the cities on Lake Como, the western shore is more favored by travelers. There, near Cadenabbia, is Villa Carlotta, with its famous gardens. Thousands of varieties of plants and shrubs, taken from every corner of the world, grow on its terraces.

The Lake of Maggiore lies partly in Switzerland, but its best scenery is in its central part, where it widens out into the Bay of Pallanza. On the western shore is Stresa, international diplomatic meeting place and a gay resort of villas and hotels. As the sunshine plays over its white villas and brilliant flowers, the city gives one an enchanting impression of gayety.

Isola Bella Is Premier Attraction.

In Maggiore are the Borromean islands, their clusters of white houses coming down to the water's edge. Although the terraced gardens of Isola Bella are rather artificial, the islands, seen from the shore, are one of the greatest attractions of all Europe.

Garda is the least visited of the larger lakes, and yet it has some of the most beautiful scenery in that part of Italy. At the north, where it becomes narrow, mountains tower over it as they do over the fjords of Norway. Excellent fruit is grown in this district, but under difficult conditions.

Tourists Jam Ocean Liners Bound for U. S.

Crush of Returning Vacationists Reaches Height in Early September.

THE first week of September saw the homeward bound crush of American travelers reach its height. Nearly every trans-Atlantic liner was jammed, and some of them had to turn down hundreds of applications for bookings.

A survey made by the United States shipping board revealed that more than half the 130,000 tourists who went abroad in May, June, and July were still over there. Another survey showed that there were still 26,000 Americans on the British Isles alone. Many of these were trying to get back in time for the opening of school and other fall activities.

Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany Blake were among the vacationists reaching New York yesterday on the Conte di Savoia. Others on the liner were Mrs. Mary Toffenetti and her son Dario, P. N. Engel, the Rev. and Mrs. Homer W. Carpenter and their daughter Dorothy, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn B. Murdock, Mr. and Mrs. Bennett Farris, Frank N. Tinder, C. N. Barnett, Mrs. Belle B. Head, David Hornblum, Harold W. Watts, Mrs. M. Grisard and her daughter Judith, and the Misses Elizabeth Gilmore, Mary Welsh, Ida Giochini, W. McPartlin, Frances Cassidy, Dorothy Corbridge, Dorothy Rutherford, Laura Fulton, Harriet Messelheiser, Mary Burdahe, and Mary Curtis.

The Hanseatic Express, more generally known as the "Flying Hamburger," claims the distinction of being the world's first streamlined train. It has been in operation since May 15, 1933. It is a Diesel motored, articulated two car train, developing a sustained average speed of 75.8 miles an hour, including all stops. It can make 106 miles an hour, and does not go below a 65 mile rate, even on the sharpest curves. The German National Railroads company asserts its service is the world's fastest.

Mexico to Tell World How It Won Freedom

Independence Day Sept. 15 Is Occasion of a Picturesque Celebration.

By Winifred Lee Wagner.

MEXICO is approaching one of its most festive occasions, the celebration of Independence day.

It was 11 p. m. Sept. 15, 1810, that the Priest Hidalgo rang out the bell of his little church, Mission Dolores, proclaiming the independence.

It was not so long since the United States had won its independence, and the contagion of liberty had filtered south, filling the Mexican heart with a consuming desire for freedom from Spain and the hateful inquisition.

When his well planned plot was discovered by the authorities, Father Hidalgo decided to strike before the appointed time, rather than risk failure. So that very night he gave the cry, "El Grito de Dolores," starting the movement which finally won Mexico its freedom. Prisoners in the jails were released to swell the ranks of his pitiful little army, equipped for the most part with farm implements—and a great enthusiasm for their leader and their cause. They needed that enthusiasm, too, for they were an untrained army, facing real soldiers and great odds.

Independence Won After Many Setbacks.

Victory attended their first attacks, but later defeat followed upon defeat. The ranks numbered in excess of 100,000 in a short time, but lack of equipment was too great an obstacle, and finally Hidalgo and others set out for the United States to obtain arms, but were captured and executed in July, 1811.

Hidalgo's fellow priest and ablest officer, Morelos, took command and proved himself a great general. But he too was captured, and executed in 1815. Leadership was later assumed by Iturbide, who in 1821 signed a treaty with the reigning viceroy, and Mexico was declared independent. Iturbide was proclaimed emperor in 1822, but abdicated in 1823, and in 1824 a constitution was drawn declaring Mexico a republic.

The bell from Mission Dolores, the Liberty bell of Mexico, has long since been removed to the central balcony of the National palace in Mexico City, where at the same hour, on the same day, the president of Mexico reënacts the "Grito de Dolores" each year. It is one of the country's most colorful fiestas, and this year President Cardenas will step on to the brilliantly illuminated balcony of the palacio at 11 o'clock the night of Sept. 15. He will be surrounded by state dignitaries and members of the diplomatic corps.

All Through the Day and Night.

The Zocolo will be thronged with patriotic thousands who will stand, in the rain if necessary, to witness the brief ceremony.

The ringing of the bell is only the beginning of the celebration, which carries on through the following day and night. Crowds in costume will throng the streets after "El Grito," in much the same manner as crowds in the United States celebrate New Year's eve. The noise of drums and horns will be heard far into the night as cars drive up and down the Plaza de la Reforma from the Palacio Nacional to Chapultepec castle, official residence of the president. It will be a happy crowd, playing and singing, shouting, and throwing confetti. Calls will be made where parties are in progress, followed by more riding, more merrymaking, and more calls. Street bazars will be found on the less busy thoroughfares, their booths bulging with native hand craft and goodies. Iturbide's palace will be passed and repassed, under the very balcony on which Mexico's emperor stood when informed of his office.

A Rodeo and a Bull Fight.

The following morning a parade will proceed along the traditional line of march, through Chapultepec park. The army, cavalry, police, firemen, and all branches of public service will be represented. The Charros, a riding society of men of prominence, will stage a rodeo in the afternoon, and of course there will be a bull fight.

The evening will be a repetition of the previous night's festivities, with driving in the park, much music, laughter, confetti, and illumination of the grounds, the lake, and the castle.

It is an experience well worth the trip—as is everything in that fair land—Meh-hic-o!

Fujiyama Exchanges Stones with Rainier

SEATTLE, Wash.—As a means of promoting friendship and good will between America and Japan a large stone has been taken from the Summit of Mount Ranier and is now on its way to Japan on the M. S. Hiye Maru. It will be placed on the summit of Mount Fuji. A similar one will be brought from the summit of Fijiyama and placed on the summit of Rainier. Because of its similarity to the sacred mountain in Japan Ranier has been termed "Tacoma Fiji" by the Japanese people.

Sweden to Celebrate.

STOCKHOLM.—(AP)—Sweden next spring will celebrate the 500th anniversary of the founding of the riksdag, its parliament. Committees already are at work on the program.

DETOURS

By Frederic Babcock.

MICHIGAN'S mightiest industry—automobile manufacturing—may be boasting of one of its best years, but the state's second greatest industry—travel and resorts—already has reached a new all time high. By the time the Labor day holidays were over, the business had brought a flood of $300,000,000 of tourist money into the state, thereby pointing the way to renewed prosperity there.

Hugh Gray, secretary of the West Michigan Tourist and Resort association, told THE TRIBUNE about it last week.

"Inquiries received at our office indicated that there were fully 100 per cent more visitors this year than last," he said. "Reports of the state ferry at the Straits of Mackinac showed the 1935 business to be 65 per cent over that of 1933 and 25 per cent over that of 1934. The increase was not limited to any one section. It was general all the way from the Straits to the Indiana line."

● Mr. Gray related that Petoskey hit its peak when the hay fever victims began arriving. Traverse City and Grand Traverse region ran almost to capacity, with any kind of a cottage at a premium. Many of the resorts there were filled until after Labor day and were turning people away. Holland was out of cottages most of the summer. At Cadillac the residents were giving up their summer homes on the lakes to accommodate the resorters. One lodge there turned away fifty or more persons a night throughout the month of August. Saugatuck had difficulty in taking care of its guests.

South Haven was swamped. On the week-end of Aug. 10 it had so many visitors that it had to sell out the seats on the Greyhound buses to give the overflow a place to sleep. The hotels at St. Joseph and Benton Harbor were ahead of any previous record. The Eastport resorts turned away business almost every night. Charlevoix, Ludington, Manistee, Muskegon, and Grand Haven were all scrambling to find room for their customers.

And a good share of the increase, said Mr. Gray, was traceable to newspaper advertising.

● "To my mind, the gain points to one thing," the association secretary added. "The tourists want cottages. In many cases the supply has been unequal to the demand. The tiger has tasted blood again. I look for a building boom this fall and winter, anticipating an even greater demand next year.

"In one community there already is an active movement on foot to build ten to twenty cottages and have them ready for occupancy in the spring. These will be thoroughly modern, with bath, electric stove, and electric refrigerator, and with landscaped grounds. This will not be done as a real estate development, but the cottages will be scattered at strategic points, with the effect of forcing other owners to fix up their places for next year's golden harvest."

● Meanwhile, the season along "America's Riviera" is far from ended. Early fall and Indian summer there show nature in its finest moods.

J. J. Bachunas, whose Tabor farm, southeast of Benton Harbor, long has been a gathering place for Chicagoans, has let it be known that he, along with many other resort owners, will keep open house until the end of October. He expects that nearly everybody will have absorbed some of the beauty of Michigan by that time.

Pupils Benefit from Travel of Their Teachers

Supt. Bogan Says Students Will Find Their Courses Much More Interesting.

PUPILS in Chicago public schools will find their courses made more interesting this fall when their teachers tell of their summer travels in America and Europe, says William J. Bogan, superintendent of schools. Reports received in his office show that more teachers traveled last summer than any other time since 1929. He attributes the increase to the fact that the board of education has assured the teachers they will continue to receive their pay checks regularly.

"Not only did hundreds of teachers spend their summer months traveling, but we have issued 114 permits for teachers to take their sabbatical leaves this year, and that is a greater number than we have had for several years," Mr. Bogan said yesterday.

Encouraged to See the World.

Teachers on sabbatical leave receive their full salary except for the amount deducted to pay their substitutes. During the year they are on leave they must send monthly reports to the office of the superintendent. On returning from their leave they must make a complete report to the superintendent to prove that they have studied and gained educational value while on leave.

Mr. Bogan said that more than half the teachers taking sabbatical leave this year are going to Europe or on cruises around the world.

"We encourage them to travel, because we feel that the individual teacher is greatly broadened by not only seeing America but by going abroad and studying the people of foreign countries," he pointed out. "This broadening is quite naturally passed on to the children, and colors the studies of the pupils.

Mexico, Europe, and Orient on Itineraries.

Among those who have signified that they will study in a foreign country during the year is Lucie H. Schacht, teacher of social studies at the Chicago Normal college. She will study schools and social conditions in Mexico.

Louise Keefe, history teacher at Lake View High school, will travel in Europe, with an itinerary planned from France, southeast through the continent, to Greece. Ray M. Latimer, history teacher at Carl Schurz High school, will spend a sabbatical year on a cruise around the world, studying at Java, Japan, China, Ceylon, India, and Egypt.

Entry blanks may be had from the association or from THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE public service office.

Blue-Green Fish Puzzles Experts

HONOLULU.—(AP)—A strange fish has forced expert ichthyologists to admit their inability to identify it; so data are being sent to the Academy of Natural Sciences in Philadelphia.

The 44 pound "what-is-it" and a 23 pound companion were caught off the Kona coast, Hawaii, recently. Fishermen declared they have never seen anything like it before.

The forward part was almost completely covered by blue-green lines. Scales had a curved line design. The tail was green-blue with black stripes.

TELL YOU HOW TO KEEP LOVELY "ALL OVER!"

"BECAUSE PALMOLIVE IS MADE WITH OLIVE OIL, IT KEEPS FACE, ARMS, SHOULDERS SOFT AND SMOOTH. AND THAT'S WHY IT IS THE FAVORITE BEAUTY SOAP IN EUROPE."
Marguerite Hoare
15, BRUTON STREET, MAYFAIR, W. 1
FAMOUS BEAUTY SPECIALIST OF LONDON, ENGLAND

WHY are these English beauties ... like other European women ... so attractive to men?

Because they know the allure of "all over" loveliness! They keep face, arms, shoulders ... all their skin ... exquisitely smooth!

So use their simple "all over" beauty treatment ... Use Palmolive for your bath, as well as face.

See how this beauty soap ... because it is made only with olive and palm oils ... actually soothes and beautifies while it cleanses. See how utterly different its lather is. Rich, velvety, deeply penetrating ... but never irritating!

As a matter of fact, it is olive oil, nothing else, which gives Palmolive its soft, olive-green color. This very color assures its purity.

So keep lovely "all over" with Palmolive. Use this wonderful soap made with precious olive oil for your complexion and bath. Learn for yourself why Palmolive is the favorite beauty soap in France, Italy, Germany and seven other European countries.

Hands Remain Soft and Lovely!

How Super Suds, unlike any other soap, could keep Mrs. Smith's hands white and lovely despite 6 years of washing dishes every day.

MRS. SMITH is but one of the millions of women who have washed dishes from 3 to 7 years with Super Suds. These women know how surely Super Suds can protect your hands and keep them young and lovely no matter how often you wash dishes.

For Super Suds is a new form of soap—created specially for dishwashing. Made in tiny hollow beads, it dissolves instantly, completely! Unlike the average, slow-dissolving soap, it leaves no undissolved particles ... no impurities that irritate tender skin and give hands that red, ugly, "dishwashing" look!

And because Super Suds dissolves so quickly, so completely, it makes dishwashing far quicker and easier. It leaves no gummy, undissolved particles to streak or mar dishes or glasses. Just a quick rinse and they come sparkling clean in a jiffy!

"Yes, Folks! Maxwell House always gives you full value in Flavor, Freshness and Real Coffee Goodness!"

"IT'S MARVELOUS!" you'll exclaim over your fragrant cup of Maxwell House. "It's so rich and delicious and so delightfully mellow."

And every cup of Maxwell House Coffee you drink will have this same wonderful flavor and tempting goodness. For this famous blend of choice coffees comes to you always roaster-fresh—because it is packed by the Vita-Fresh process in a can you open with a key.

But Maxwell House—fully protected against air by the Vita-Fresh packing process—comes to you with all its original flavor and freshness.

That is why we say that Maxwell House is one coffee that guarantees you full value. Every cent you pay buys full flavor—the fresh, delicious flavor of the roasting ovens, still in the can! Why not get a tin of Maxwell House Coffee—today? We know you'll love it! A product of General Foods.
